Use Fabrikoid

And Help Uncle Sam Save Leather

Use it for upholstery, book binding, bag making or in any of the thousand places where it efficiently replaces leather and other materials.

Use it because it equals leather in beauty and surpasses it in service—because it is water, grease, stain proof and washable.

DU PONT FABRIKOID

is leather's logical successor—a man-made, standardized material designed to lessen waste, decrease costs and improve quality—a modern economic necessity. Uncle Sam uses it to conserve leather that is indispensable for military requirements.

Du Pont Fabrikoid in one of its many grades is needed somewhere by almost every manufacturer or individual. Our technical staff is at your service.

The National Thrift Collar

Cut collar costs! Save laundry bills! Evade the discomfort of wilting collars! Save starch food for soldiers! Have a clean, stiff collar always, no matter what the day nor how strenuous the work.

Challenge Cleanable Collars

actually save you from $15.00 to $20.00 yearly by eliminating constant collar purchases and continual laundry bills. They never wilt because they are Pyra-lin stiffened instead of starched. When soiled a damp cloth and a little soap will readily remove the stain. Wearable instantly and always. A pronounced improvement upon any collar you have ever seen.

Made in all popular styles and half sizes. Sold by most good dealers. State your style and size and enclose 35 cents for sample.

Why This Paint Lasts Longer

You get two kinds of white lead in Town and Country Paint—Quick Process and Old Dutch Process. Experience has shown that the finer particles of the former are necessary to fill up the gaps left by the coarser particles of the latter. The result is a more complete paint film.

HARRISONS
PAINT

for this reason spreads further—covers more completely and gives greater protection to the surface upon which it is applied. Because we grind and make our own pigments Town and Country Paint lasts longer and maintains its purity of color. The formula is printed on every can. That's proof of its honesty.

Ask your dealer about Town and Country Paint. If he can't supply you, write us.

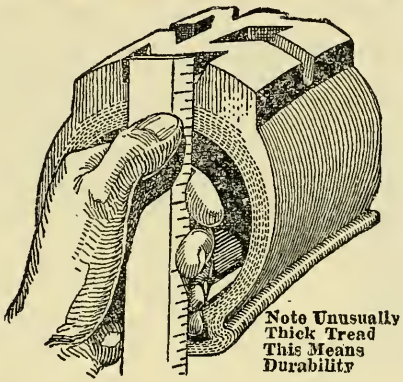
MICHELIN



Extra Mileage You Can See and Measure

Just measure the thickness of a Michelin Universal in comparison with any other tire.

The extra thickness of the Michelin Tread, due to extra rubber and fabric, is bound to mean more mileage.

Remember that every ounce of rubber and fabric, which a Michelin contains, is the toughest that money skill and experience can produce.

Michelins give so much mileage that they'd be economical even if high priced. But they're not high priced

More Than Pleased

Your camera reached me O. K. and I was surprised at the work it does. I have taken several photos and some as good as I have ever seen taken with any camera. Everybody that sees the work of the "Mandel-ette" says it is fine and I am more than pleased with it.
Vernie Boyle. Northome, Minn.

$18 in Two Days

I wish to say that I am well pleased with your camera. I am using my Mandel-ette this week at the Bedford County Fair. I have made about $18 so far with my Mandel-ette and today is only Tuesday. IKE THURMAN, Jr., Shelbyville, Tenn.

Takes Pictures on Dark Day

I am perfectly delighted with the "Mandel-ette." I have had very good success—never before to have handled a camera at all. I can say it will do all you claim. I have taken a picture which shows a Mt. more than 4,000 feet away and on a very dark day.
Jas. H. Hubbard, Penhook, Va.

Anyone Can Use Them

Received the "Mandel-ette" and supplies Saturday evening. Sunday morning we began to take pictures and had very good luck. It is sure simple enough. Anyone can use them. We couldn't get along without ours.
Mrs. R. U. Iddings, Mapleton, Ia.

Amazed At Minute Camera

I am enclosing pictures taken with my "Mandel-ette" to show you gentlemen what I am making. Nobody taught me but your instructions. I am making pictures with great pleasure and my friends are amazed at your very high grade minute camera.

Become a Stenographer

Learn the NEW WAY at Home.

Right in your own home, in half the time, ONE-THIRD THE EXPENSE, you can learn New Way Shorthand and Typewriting. Entirely New Method enables you to write 125 to 150 words a minute in Shorthand, 80 to 100 words a minute in Typewriting. No local business school can offer these amazing new systems.

A WONDERFUL new method of teaching shorthand and typewriting has been discovered which has completely revolutionized all old teaching standards. No longer is it necessary for any one to be anything less than an expert stenographer. Instead of learning slowly, laboriously, imperfectly and expensively, this New Way enables you to learn quickly and perfectly at home at very little cost, and so easily that in a few short weeks you become more competent than many stenographers with years of experience.

Shorthand and Typewriting

The New Way is so amazingly easy to learn, so simple, so fascinating, THAT ANY ONE WHO CAN READ—even boys and girls of 15—can now quickly acquire highest-grade ability. And you learn entirely AT HOME, in half the time and at one-third the expense. Beginners who never could write one word in shorthand are writing 125 to 150 words a minute, and can INSTANTLY read EVERY WORD OF THEIR SHORTHAND NOTES. And instead of typewriting 30 to 40 words a minute with one or two fingers, eyes chained to the keyboard they can typewrite 80 to 100 words a minute blindfolded, using ALL fingers, writing with amazing ease and WITHOUT ERRORS!

The secret of the New Way in Shorthand is borrowed from the methods used in TEACHING CHILDREN TO READ! You learn actual words from the very first lesson, and can use them at once. In TWO WEEKS you can take practice dictation. The METHOD OF TEACHING is so different, so revolutionary, and so thorough that ONCE YOU LEARN A WORD YOU WILL NEVER FORGET IT!

The New Way in Typewriting

Nothing like the NEW WAY in Typewriting has ever been discovered. Special GYMNASTIC Finger Training away from the machine, in connection with just enough machine practice to be interesting, brings results in DAYS that ordinary methods will not produce in MONTHS. So pleasing are its results that thousands of GRADUATES of business colleges and special typewriting courses are constantly enrolling with us and without exception they are doubling and trebling their former best speed in typewriting.

Earn Big Money

You are here given the most complete—the most thorough-going—commercial training available in America to-day. Without one penny of extra charge, right along with your shorthand and typewriting, you will be fully trained in Business English, Letter Writing, Office Methods, Secretarial Work—everything needed to earn big money from the start.

Large Descriptive Book FREE

We cannot attempt here to fully describe the NEW WAY in Shorthand and Typewriting. But we have prepared a book which tells all about these splendid new systems, which is FREE to those interested. Send in the coupon or write a postal to-day. With the book we will send you our special reduced rate offer to new students in each locality.

If you are ambitious to get STARTED RIGHT in Shorthand and Typewriting—if you want to earn big money, and have plenty of money for all the things you want, don't wait a single minute before sending for our new free book.

New Insurance For New Times

BUSINESS is awake. Co-operation between employer and employee is strong. It is necessity that finds expression in that modern form of insurance appealing to employer and employee alike—

Prudential Group Life Insurance

The employer gives rich proof of his interest in his employees by arranging for their insurance as a group. The cost is about 1% of the pay roll. The future is safeguarded for your employees' families. No medical examination is required. The employee repays his employer by his loyalty and by better work for the concern.

We solicit communications on this important subject. Let us send you our booklet, "Prudential Group Life Insurance," that explains it clearly. It is most interesting.

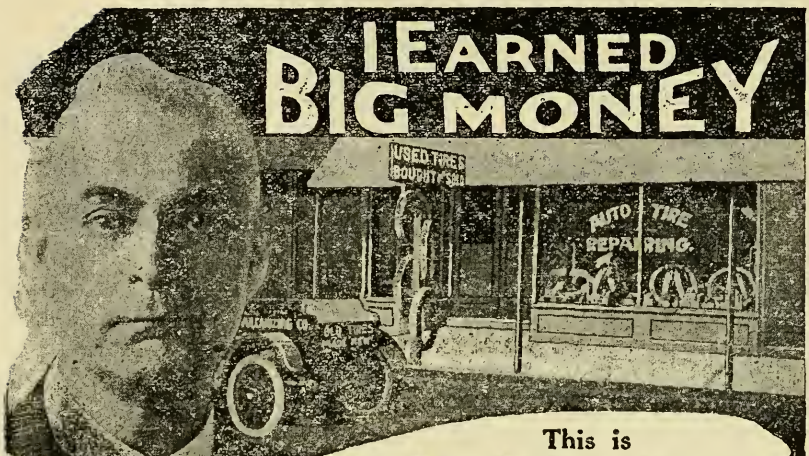
I EARNED BIG MONEY



This is

Richard A. Oldham

Mr. Oldham was telegraph operator for the Illinois Central Railroad for twenty years. He is fifty-eight years old. One day he read one of my advertisements and the possibilities of making money in the Auto Tire Repair Business. In a few weeks he had purchased and installed a Haywood outfit, and was doing business for himself. A short time ago he wrote us that his income in four months was as much as it had been in Two and One-Half years as Telegraph Operator. There are thirty million tires in use every day—punctures and blow-outs are common. Something going wrong all the time. New tires advancing to prohibitive prices. Owners forced to have their old tires fixed. I have 500 other places to be filled now.

I Must Have 500 Men to fill these places within the next 60 days

I have a big interesting book to send you—a book about tires—it tells all about them—how they are repaired by the Haywood method—explains this business—gives inside figures and profit. Gives actual proof of success. What these men have done you can do. $2500 to $4000 a year is conservative. One machine will give you a start. All you do is open a shop, put out a Haywood sign, and auto owners will come to you. There is a big opportunity awaiting you Sign the Coupon and mail it today, or send a post card or letter.

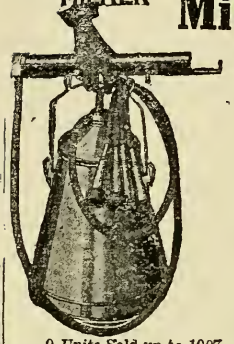
MILKER

The Correct Milking Machine Principle



9 Units Sold up to 1907
36,000 Units Sold up to 1918

The success of the milking machine as a labor-saving and profit-making dairy equipment has been due largely to the correct principle of the HINMAN Milking Machine.

The early prejudice against the milking machine was natural because of the many unsuccessful experiments with complicated mechanisms. The simple operation of the HINMAN, more than anything else, has helped to overcome prejudice against using a machine on a live animal.

The HINMAN principle has never been changed from the original machine. Over 10 years' experience in perfecting details has resulted in absolute justification of the machine.

To work well, a machine must be simple—simple in construction and simple in operation.

HINMAN MILKER

PROVEN BY TEN YEARS' SUCCESS

This single-unit machine milks easier, milks cleaner, permits changing pails without stopping milking, and keeps each cow's milk separate to weigh out the slackers.

Simplicity Means Low Cost

There are no expensive pipe lines, air tank or complicated pulsating mechanism. Simple combination of vacuum pump (pressure of which can not exceed 15 lbs.), valve chamber in pail cover that can not wear out, and natural-action teat cups that soothe the cow.

One man with 3 units can milk 18 to 25 cows in an hour. The outfit costs about $225 installed.

Big Catalog Free

If you milk six cows or more, send for this book. Read about the experience of successful dairymen in the leading dairy sections of the world. It tells why more HINMAN Milkers are in use than all other makes combined. Ask about our free service which guarantees satisfaction.

TYPEWRITER EMPORIUM

Act Quick!

I AM the largest typewriter re-builder in the world. I handle only Underwoods, obtaining all machines and new parts direct from the Underwood Company. Don't confuse me with a second-hand dealer. I put each machine through a process that I have spent twenty-five years perfecting. I have the endorsement of over 200,000 customers. You may safely place absolute confidence in my statements.

You May
RENT APPLYING RENT ON PURCHASE PRICE OR
BUY FOR CASH OR ON EASY PAYMENTS

I Double the Life of an Underwood

Each machine is taken apart, re-built from top to bottom. Frame is re-enameled, bright parts re-nickeled. All parts unfit for further service are discarded and replaced by brand new parts, purchased from the Underwood Company. Each machine is equipped with new type, new platen, new ribbon vibrator, front scale, feed rolls, ribbon, space bar, key rings, key glasses, rubber feet, etc. Expert mechanics re-adjust and re-align each machine. It will stand any mechanical typewriter test.

Our Other Plan Brings Underwood FREE

A new plan—our agency plan. You are not asked to do any canvassing or soliciting for orders. You simply co-operate with us, becoming part of our nation-wide organization. You can easily get your Underwood free in this way. Think what a help, what a convenience a typewriter would be. Use it for business, type manuscripts, stories, scenarios, for yourself and others. Editors demand typewritten copy. Make big money doing work for others. You can earn twice the cost of the machine in a month. Let me tell you how hundreds have earned an Underwood.

ENOUGH MORE HOLE IN SIX MONTHS TO PAY FOR THE DRILL

What One Experienced Well Driller Did With a Cyclone Class C Gasoline Traction Drill.

In Stark County, Ohio, the Deep Well Drilling conditions vary greatly. The holes range from one hundred to one thousand feet in depth, and from three to eighteen inches in diameter. The underground formations are never uniform, changing from loose sand and gravel to shale, sandstone and hard limestone. Moves are frequent and oftentimes long, so that if maximum profits are to be looked for, minimum time spent on the road is a necessity.

George Martin of Canton, probably the largest drill operator in the county, is now running four outfits; two of these drills are of the small gasoline traction type, one is a heavy steam outfit, and the other is a Cyclone Class C Gasoline Traction Rig, like the illustration above. In January, 1916, when Mr. Martin purchased the Cyclone Class "C" Outfit, he needed what he termed a "general-purpose" drill for making holes from three to ten inches in diameter with depths varying from seventy-five to five hundred feet.

After operating the Cyclone Class "C" Outfit for a period of eight months, during which time he used it for drilling holes ranging from three to ten inches in diameter, with depths ranging from fifty to five hundred and seventy feet, under all possible conditions, Mr. Martin made the statement that he could drill enough MORE hole with this Cyclone Class C Outfit over what he could drill with any other rig he had ever operated to enable him to pay for the Machine in six months' time—and still retain his usual drilling profits.

The reasons WHY Mr. Martin was able to accomplish this with the Cyclone Class "C" Outfit are due to the speed of operation and the ease in handling the Machine, brought about by certain features in its construction. Some of these features are:

Complete control of the machine without the use of a Clutch on the Band Wheel Shaft.

A Tool Hoist that combines the flexibility of a friction hoist with the positiveness of a geared hoist.

"Push and Pull" type of levers at the front of Machine for controlling all operations.

Derrick hoisted by Machine Power.

All Spur Gear Type of Transmission—no chains nor sprockets.

Weight evenly balanced on Frame.

Drilling and handling of Tools two separate and independent operations.

"Drilling For Profits" is a booklet further describing Cyclone Drills and the various fields of deep well drilling in which they are being successfully operated. If you are a driller, this booklet will prove valuable—if you are not, it will give you an insight into a very interesting and profitable profession. Write for your copy.

Stop Forgetting

The average mind resembles a scrap pile.

Makes Your Mind a File— NOT A Pile

The Dickson Trained mind is as well ordered as a cross-indexed file.

Is your mind like a scrap pile—heaped up with a lot of unrelated, unclassified, unindexed facts? When you want to remember a name, place or date, must you grope uncertainly in this mixed-up pile seeking in vain to locate the desired information? And finally, in embarrassment, give it up? Summoned on any occasion to give facts and figures—does your mind become a blank? When suddenly called upon to speak—do you seek wildly to collect your thoughts—utter a few commonplace remarks—and sit down—humiliated? Without Memory, all the knowledge in the world becomes worthless. "Stop Forgetting" makes your mind a file—not a pile.

I Can Make Your Mind as Systematic and Forget-Proof as a Card Index File

—master of your mind's infinite ramifications—instead of a victim of its disordered details. My course of Memory Training, perfected by 20 years' experience, is universally recognized as the most thorough, practical and simplest system of its kind now before the public. My system so thoroughly trains the memory that you will be able to classify impressions, ideas, names, facts and arguments and have them ready at a moment's notice. It develops concentration—overcomes self-consciousness, bashfulness, enables you to address an audience intelligently without notes.

Dickson Memory Training Has Helped Thousands

Mail coupon or send postal for statements from students who had exceedingly poor memories and developed them to perfection and men with remarkably good memories, who made them even better. Give me 10 minutes daily, and I will make your mind an infallible classified index, from which you can instantly select facts, figures, names, faces, arguments. Perfect your memory and you can command what salary you will.

177 LaSalle Trained Men With Armour and Company

Big Salaries for Trained Men

"I want men to come to me WITH a decision, not FOR a decision," says Mr. Armour. "If I don't trust a man I don't give him responsibility."

"Every man who enters our employ is an investment. If he fails to grow, to advance, he is a bad investment and we are the losers."

What is true of Armour and Company is true of every business. The demand is for men prepared to assume executive responsibilities. The fat pay envelope, the big checks and dividends go to men who have the knowledge, training and capacity to make quick, reliable decisions.

Today business wants specialists — Business Managers, Expert Accountants, Auditors, Comptrollers, Financial Managers, Cost Accountants, Credit Men, Banking Experts, Law Trained Men, Traffic Directors, Sales and Advertising Managers, Interstate Commerce Experts, Business Correspondents and Office Managers. LaSalle Training and Service will take you step by step until you qualify for one of these responsible, big-salaried positions. All this during only your spare hours without interference with your present duties.

Here are a few convincing statements from thousands who testify to the thoroughness of LaSalle training.

"The most efficient and most rapidly promoted men in our whole organization are LaSalle trained."

"Promoted to General Manager."

"Saved our firm $3,988 on one export shipment."

"Salary increased 250 per cent."

"Have been admitted to the bar in this State."

Simply mark with an "X" below the course and service in which you are interested. We will mail book "Ten Years' Promotion In One," catalog and full particulars. Mark and mail the coupon to-day. Let us prove to you how this step has led thousands of forward looking men and women to real success.

Big Incomes To Law-Trained Men

If you know Law, some great business organization will want you. Every large corporation, every prominent bank, every house of any kind engaged in commerce needs the law-trained man. They must have some one who knows what is legal and what is not when any important policy is under consideration. Men who know Law draw large salaries and occupy important positions in business. They often become executives.

A University Training by Mail

You are offered here a course in law prepared by men of nation-wide reputation as legal authorities. Every principle of law is explained in clear, concise form so that it is easily understood; and you learn how to apply these principles by the study of actual cases and practical legal problems. You get the same character of instruction which you would receive if you could attend a resident university with these eminent men on the faculty. You have text books, "lesson talks," lectures, practice courts, quizzes and examinations; you are constantly under the direction of the ablest professors.

You graduate with the degree of LL.B.—and then you are ready to qualify as a practicing attorney or as a man fitted for a responsible position in the commercial world. All this you can accomplish in your spare time—a few hours a week.

Our graduates pass bar examinations with unusually high standing. They are practicing law in nearly every State in the Union or holding responsible business positions.

Small Tuition—Easy Terms

Our fees put this home-study course in law within the reach of the man of small income. The moderate cost of the course can be paid a little each month if you wish. No matter what your present position and salary may be, this course is available to you—and you can begin any time.

WRITE Mail the coupon and we will send full information—also our valuable book "Ten Years' Promotion In One." All this is free. Write for it now.

LaSalle Students and Graduates can now be found employed in the executive department of practically all the large railroads, business houses and commercial organizations in the United States. Many prominent business concerns can be named in each of which 100 to 900 or more LaSalle students or graduates from our several specialized departments are employed in responsible positions. For instance—

Pennsylvania R. R.	990
American Telegraph & Telephone Company	267
U. S. Steel Corporation	273
Baltimore & Ohio R.R.	591
Armour & Company	177
Chicago & N. W. Ry.	397
Ford Motor Company	134
Swift & Company	201
Standard Oil Company	154

Among the numerous firms and corporations employing 50 to 100 or more LaSalle students or graduates are the following:

Western Electric Company
International Harvester Co.
B. F. Goodrich Company
Wells Fargo Express Company
Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.,
and every important railroad company in the United States.

More than 140,000 men in active business life, including a large number of corporation officials have been enrolled and are reaping the benefits of LaSalle training and service. Over 20,000 new members now enroll annually. The LaSalle organization consists of 800 people including a staff of 300 business experts, professional men, text writers, special lecture writers, instructors and assistants. LaSalle students and graduates occupying responsible positions can be found throughout the entire English speaking world.

Make This Job Yours

The difference between the men on the high stools and the man in the private office is simply training. The men outside stopped when they arrived at the bookkeeping stage. While they reached their limit there, he became a Higher Accountant. Now he has "arrived" as an executive.

Spare time training gave this man a mastery of business analysis and organization. He charts the condition of the business and shows officers and directors where they can save, where they can apply more efficient methods and where every department stands all the time.

Thousands of men like him are wanted by our great corporations. Financiers and business men pay big fees and salaries to have conditions accurately shown. Incomes of Higher Accountants range from $3,000 to $10,000 a year or more. And now the government demands accurate income reports. The Expert Accountant's service here may save embarrassment and heavy expense.

Train by Mail

You can master Higher Accounting in your leisure time, while you hold your present position. The LaSalle method will train you by mail under the direct supervision and guidance of a large staff of C. P. A.'s, including William B. Castenholz, A. M. C., C. P. A., Former Comptroller and Instructor, University of Illinois; Wm. Arthur Chase, LL. M., C. P. A., Ex-Secretary Illinois State Board of Accountancy and other members of the American Institute of Accountants.

Under the thorough coaching of these experts you will be thoroughly drilled in the underlying principles of modern Business Analysis and Organization, Accounting, Auditing, Cost Accounting, Commercial Law and Financial Management. LaSalle accountancy training will qualify you to pass the C. P. A. examinations to hold an executive position, or to enter business as an Expert Consulting Accountant. Membership also includes free use of our Consulting Service, which brings advice whenever needed on special business problems. No large fees; no large amount to pay down. This instruction is offered on a convenient monthly payment plan.

Could You Write a $35,000 Letter?

"What man in our employ wrote this letter?" asked the president. "It has brought us $35,000 worth of new business. It is a masterpiece—a letter that is a credit to our house and shows rare skill on the part of the writer. I wish more of our employees could write letters like this one."

The man who wrote the $35,000 letter is now supervisor of the firm's entire correspondence. His weekly salary is written in three figures. His ability as a letter writer has made him the "letter executive" of the concern.

A New Profession

Business men have recently awakened to the supreme importance of effective letters in business. Another rich field has been opened for the man or woman of specialized training. It is a lamentable fact that the art of successful letter-writing has been so little understood or heeded by the average business man or employee. Many executives openly acknowledge their deficiencies in this respect and are willing to have their letters supervised by an expert correspondent.

Learn by Mail

The LaSalle Course in Business Letter Writing is for you. If you are a business man, employer or employee, you need it. Business houses everywhere are calling for men who can write letters that bring sales at lowest cost—letters that collect money from the stubborn debtor—letters that open new accounts—letters that help the trade—letters that skilfully handle complaints—letters that buy good will or pave the way for the salesmen.

There are a hundred different ways in which you can use forceful letters to build profits and prestige in business.

Train by the "Case" System.

The only way to become a skilled letter-writer is by WRITING letters, comparing your work with master letters and getting criticism by master letter-writers. Under the LaSalle plan you learn to do by DOING. This is the first and only correspondence course in letter-writing which has made a thorough application of the "Case" method. It follows closely the famous method used in noted University Law Schools. The system is analogous to the laboratory method whereby you are given certain things with which to work and told to make something. You deal with actual cases lifted from the experience of master letter-writers. Being enrolled for this training is like being made the letter diplomat of a progressive business institution. You learn to handle important business matters—typical, not theoretical cases.

Whatever your position in business may be, send for information about this remarkable course now. Find out how ambitious men are making themselves expert letter-writers and high salaried business correspondents through the new LaSalle plan.

MARC ANTONY DELIVERING THE ORATION OVER CAESAR.

CAESAR'S name has stood through all the ages as the embodiment of imperial power. His untimely end after reaching the pinnacle of earthly glory is one of the great tragedies of history. The greatest tragedy in all human history is the great European War. All the underlying causes of this conflict, the racial antipathies, the commercial rivalries, the sting of past defeats, the vaulting ambitions for World Empire may be discerned from the pages of history. The one great history of every Empire, Kingdom, Principality and Power, from the beginning of civilization to the present, is the great publication,

Ridpath's History of the World

DR. RIDPATH is universally recognized as America's greatest historian. Other men have written histories of one nation or period: Gibbon of Rome, Macaulay of England, Guizot of France, but it remained for Dr. Ridpath to write a history of the entire World from the earliest civilization down to the present. We offer the latest edition, brand new, down to date, beautifully bound in half morocco.

"Don't tell me you never had a chance!"

"Four years ago you and I worked at the same bench. We were both discontented. Remember the noon we saw the International Correspondence Schools' advertisement? That woke me up. I realized that to get ahead I needed special training, and I decided to let the I.C.S. help me. When I marked the coupon I asked you to sign with me. You said, 'Aw, forget it!'

"I made the most of my opportunity and have been climbing ever since. You had the same chance I had, but you turned it down. No, Jim, you can't expect more money until you've trained yourself to handle bigger work."

There are lots of "Jims" in the world—in stores, factories, offices, everywhere. Are you one of them? Wake up! Every time you see an I.C.S. coupon your chance is staring you in the face. Don't turn it down.

Right now over one hundred thousand men are preparing themselves for bigger jobs and better pay through I.C.S. Courses. You can join them and get in line for promotion.

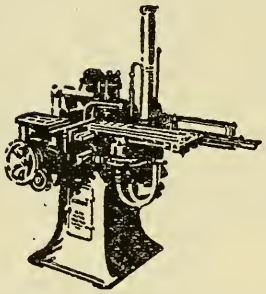
The Efficient Machine

Is the one that produces a maximum of salable output at minimum cost



MONOTYPE

THE MONOTYPE, judged by this standard, is the most efficient machine that ever entered a printing office

THE MONOTYPE reduces the cost of composition by its wonderful adaptability to all classes of work and its great versatility, which make it continuously productive

THE MONOTYPE reduces composing-room costs by eliminating the greatest of them all—the time wasted in distribution

THE MONOTYPE is not only efficient itself, but it makes the whole composing room more efficient by supplying abundance of material for the hand workers, so that they can work continuously

THE MONOTYPE is not only continuously productive, but it also makes the whole composing room continuously productive

THE MONOTYPE is the greatest advance in printing office equipment ever offered the craft, and its invention marks the beginning of the era of true printing office efficiency

THE MONOTYPE benefits extend to the pressroom, where they make big savings in makeready time practically the only system, and the standard used for VERBATIM REPORTING throughout the English Speaking World for nearly 80 years; used by reporters in Houses of Parliament, London; House of Representatives and U. S. Senate (Chief of the Senate Reporters receiving $25,000 yearly; highest salary paid any stenographer in the world); used by every Court Reporter in New York City and by all Court Experts in every State in the Union; the high rate of speed necessary for such positions formerly required many years of practice; with the modern Lusk Method, every stenographer now, in a few months, can take even faster than the swiftest speaker can articulate.

NEW 1919 400 Word-a-Minute LUSK SHORTHAND

Pitmanic now Marvelously and Scientifically Improved by the Lusk Standardized Universal. Called "Standardized Universal" because the Standard Pitman alphabet is used, and the expedients and shortcuts are used by 99% of the reporters of the world.

Greatest Improvement made in 40 years in phrasing and arrangement of text-books. Twice as rapid as the Swiftest Pitmanic; four times as rapid as the Swiftest Non-Pitmanic ever devised.

A Lusk writer can record almost any sentence in the English language twice while a writer of the Swiftest Pitmanic is recording it once. Or FOUR TIMES while the Swiftest Non-Pitman writer is recording it ONCE.

Lusk Stenographers can pass any Civil Service examination held, and, owing to their terrific speed, command twice or thrice the salary of ordinary stenographers.

Ordinary Shorthand Systems enable only two or three out of 10,000 stenographers to take over 100 Words-Minute (simple letters). With the Lusk Method, every stenographer can take over 200 Words-Minute on technical matter.

Beginners' Courses

By the arrangement of these wonderful text books, beginners knowing absolutely nothing about shorthand are required to commence the dictation of letters at 100-words-minute in the briefest reporting style, after five lessons. By the marvelous Simplification of Pitmanic Shorthand, only one-third of the time is now required to obtain double the speed

Post-graduate Courses for Stenographers. Pitman, Graham, Munson and all Pitmanic Writers are trained by the Lusk text-books to take 200 to 300 words-minute; 400 actually possible.

Books for Self-Instruction on sale. Mail and personal courses for both beginners and advanced writers of any Standard System with the Normyl Remedy, which is now prescribed in England by over 2,000 physicians. Endorsed by the clergy and business men everywhere.

Stenographers unaware of the great improvement made in Shorthand the past year send for Demonstration and Specimens gratis.

YOUR HOME TREATMENT

consists of 24 tiny bottles of medicine (guaranteed harmless), one for each day. It is pleasant in taste, easy to take, not in the least severe in effects upon the system and does not occasion any inconvenience or interruption to the patient's usual routine. It relieves the craving in three or four days, but must be taken for twenty-four days to clear the system of the effects of alcohol or drugs.

The Normyl Remedy is a nerve tonic which builds up and restores the energies and will power.

OUR WELFARE HOME TREATMENT is only for extreme cases, where a person's condition is such that he needs careful supervision during every stage in the use of the remedy; this can be administered under the personal direction of his own physician. For further information call or send for our

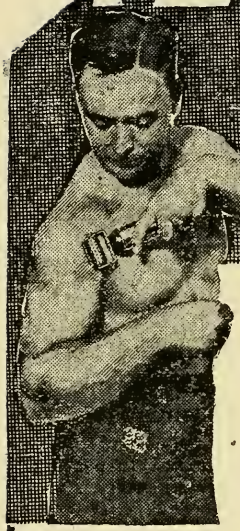
ERE IT IS

Final Solution of the Health Problem

Absolutely Astonishing NEWEST and Greatest Invention



You know that Vibration means new life, power, health, beauty. You know it is Nature's way to banish pain and to give you new energy and vitality. You know all of this, but do you know that the BIG problem of science has been to devise a hand vibrator that would be absolutely satisfactory in every way? That problem has vanished. We have solved it. We have triumphed where science failed. Our new, wonderful Vitapulser is GUARANTEED to effect all the astonishing benefits made possible by this wonderful method of treatment.

From now on the Vitapulser will be pointed to as the correct method to gain good health, new life, strength, vitality and freedom from the numberless disorders—rheumatism, sciatica, sore and stiff muscles, indigestion, neuralgia, lumbago, etc.—that come from faulty circulation. It's a wonderful instrument! It effects quick results. First trial demonstrates its extraordinary powers. Not an experiment but a proved success. Hundreds of doctors and trained nurses use it in daily practice to inject new strength into worn-out and "sickly" persons.

THE VITAPULSER

requires no connection with electric wires. Different from other instruments! It supplies its own power. You can operate it anywhere. It is simple, light, compact, easy to handle and cannot get out of order. Compare it with old fashioned vibrators and massage machines and you'll quickly understand why the Vitapulser is the modern choice of thousands of careful buyers.

Everyone Can Afford This Marvelous Instrument

If you are holding back from buying a vibrator because you think the price is out of your reach, here is your chance to own one at a price you can afford to pay. We have taken care of the price question. Makes no difference what other machines sell for—you can afford the Vitapulser, the Wireless Vibrator.

Sent on Approval The Vitapulser is sold at a rock bottom price that enormous sales make possible. AND—you need not decide to buy until after you have tried one in your own home. This remarkable instrument must first prove itself to you. We will send you one on approval for testing purposes. Coupon below brings Approval Offer.

Remarkable Book Free! "The Vital Impulse" is a remarkably interesting book on the important subject of circulation and its relation to the boundless energy and joy of perfect health. Tells you how many women and men everywhere have literally "made themselves over", and how simply you can. If you are weak, mentally and physically depressed, and are not 100% efficient and getting everything out of life, you should not waste a minute sending for it.

Fishermen!

WHY pay big prices for lines when you can get an "OSPREY" for less money? "OSPREY" lines are named after that wonderful "fisher" sometimes called the "FISH-HAWK." "OSPREY" is the Bird for you. It will hold any "Fish it hooks onto." "OSPREY" lines are made from the finest silk obtainable, are waterproofed by our special process, which absolutely prevents rotting and which makes the lines so smooth that they shoot thru the guides like greased lightning, and with less effort than required with other lines. It will outlast any linen or silk line made, and is the only line with the guaranteed "No fish can break 'em" and to last for an entire season. Put up in 50-yard spools—connected if desired. 15-pound test, $1.00; 20-lb., $1.15; 23-lb., $1.25. For muscallonge and trolling, 26-lb., $1.35; 30-lb., $1.50. Write today.

LEARN AUTOS
Where Autos are Made

DETROIT TRAINED MEN ARE IN DEMAND THE WORLD OVER

Right Now Is Your Opportunity to Get Into the Greatest Industry the World Has Ever Known.

Automobiles, Motor Trucks, Farm Tractors

Learn in Detroit, the centre of the industry, where Autos, Trucks and Tractors are made. Learn at the School which is backed by Detroit's most prominent men and manufacturers. A school built and equipped at a cost of more than a quarter of a million dollars and operated for the sole purpose of affording ambitious men opportunities to better their positions and win greater success.

You can learn easily and at a small expense at the

DETROIT INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY

Practical, common sense methods of instruction—INTENSIFIED by 25 years' experience—over 3,000 enrollments last year.

You don't need any experience! A course in this School will quickly fit you to do well paid work. The need for trained men in the factories and on the farms is acute—AND THE DEMAND IS INCREASING!

The Automobile business will continue to grow, the manufacture of Motor Trucks promises to eclipse all records of auto production. AND THE FARM TRACTOR INDUSTRY IS JUST IN ITS INFANCY. TRAINED MEN to build, to sell, to operate and repair these outputs ARE AND WILL BE NEEDED by the tens of thousands. One Detroit manufacturer alone plans to employ 100,000 men in the building of Farm Tractors—IT IS ESTIMATED THERE'S A DEMAND FOR ONE MILLION FARM TRACTORS RIGHT TODAY!

A Thorough Training in the Care and Repair of Farm Tractors Now Included in Our Auto Course

Can you ask for stronger proof of our School's standing than that MEN WHO KNOW give freely of their products, their money and their time to cooperate with us? Among the contributors to our equipment are: Studebaker, Buick, Hupp, Chalmers, Packard, Hudson, Gray & Davis, Delco, Cutler-Hammer, Zenith, Ford, Port Huron Engine & Thresher, Cleveland Tractor, Ebert Tractor and many others. Our big Club House, adjoining our New Building, is at your disposal. Reading rooms, lounging rooms, gymnasium, swimming pool, billiard and pool tables, bowling alleys, with five floors of dormitories and restaurant at low rates. You are assured of not only thorough and competent instruction, but good companionship and clean living conditions with the comforts of home and club life combined.

Don't Visit Detroit Without Seeing Us. You want to consider everything carefully before you enroll for any course of instruction. Come and look us over, whatever purpose brings you to Detroit. Get all the particulars of this school, get the records of our instructors, hear what auto factories and automobile men have to say about us, see for yourself our comfortable quarters and big equipment. We will be glad to see you and show you around whether you enroll or not. Day and night classes. Start at any time. Write today for full particulars. Address

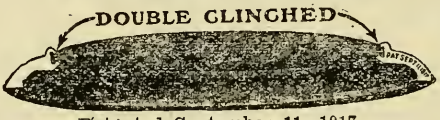
The Double Clinched Bezel
Has Made the Waterproof Watch Possible



Patented September 11, 1917.

The only Bezel that can make a watch waterproof.

THE Double Clinched Bezel is the only positive method of holding Unbreakable Glass in all climates. A rib both above and below bites into the glass around entire circumference, preventing all possibility of loosening, making the watch waterproof and dustproof.

The regular watch bezel commonly used by snapping in the crystal will not permanently hold any kind of Unbreakable Glass, due to its contraction in cold weather. Cementing and using different kinds of glue will hold only for a short time.

The "D-D" Khaki Watch

Prestige Accuracy

Known the World Over

The Double Clinched Bezel which clasps the Non-explosive, Unbreakable Glass so tightly as to be waterproof is used on both the "D-D" Khaki Watch and Depollier Waterproof and Dustproof Watch. These are the only watches equipped with the patented Double Clinch Bezel. The crystals cannot fall out.

The Master Key!!

The Key which unlocks the secret chambers of success, the key with which many are converting loss into gain, fear into joy, hope into fruition, the key with which many are finding health, courage, power, the key which thrills, fascinates, carries conviction, understanding, perception, inspiration, the key which is actually changing the lives of thousands, and may have an almost unbelievable influence upon YOUR life.

"When I first received the Master-Key I was suffering from a complication of troubles that I would not think of burdening you with—suffice to say I am now well and strong. If I can think myself into perfect health I assuredly can think myself into everything else I desire."

"It is the most clear, definite and exhaustive treatise on this subject ever conceived. I wish it were possible that all mankind could benefit from your inspiring message."

"I can hardly grasp the full significance of the facts. The vastness of this subject is so overwhelming it seems a lifetime of effort could never fathom all its possibilities."

"You have given a wonderful analysis of the power that is the creative force by which the master mind controls his destiny."

"It teaches that the forces which make for success are available for all, and the practice of the laws governing the same will lift from poverty to power."

"I am now earning at the rate of $25,000.00 yearly, and previous to my finding the Master-Key I never earned more than $5,000.00 yearly and some years much less. A man in my business is considered a 'top-notcher' when he can make a thousand a month."

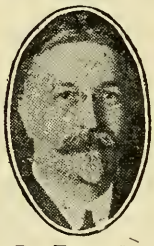
Training for Authorship

How to write, what to write, and where to sell.



Dr. Esenwein

Cultivate your mind. Develop your literary gifts. Master the art of self-expression. Make your spare time profitable. Turn your ideas into dollars.

Courses in Short-Story Writing, Versification, Journalism, Play Writing, Photoplay Writing, etc., taught personally by Dr. J. Berg Esenwein, for many years editor of Lippincott's Magazine and a staff of literary experts. Constructive criticism. Frank, honest, helpful advice. Real Teaching

One pupil has received over $5,000 for stories and articles written mostly in spare time—"play work," he calls it. Another pupil received over $1,000 before completing her first course. Another, a busy wife and mother, is averaging over $75 a week from photoplay writing alone.

There is no other institution or agency doing so much for writers, young or old. The universities recognize this, for over one hundred members of the English faculties of higher institutions are studying in our Literary Department. The editors recognize it, for they are constantly recommending our courses.

We publish The Writer's Library. We also publish The Writer's Monthly, especially valuable for its full reports of the literary market. Besides our teaching service, we offer a manuscript criticism service.

Learn to Size Up Men

Dr. Morrell

Dr. Edwin Morrell was formerly a psychologist in a prominent Eastern college. He devoted years helping employers to select the right men for positions and helping men to select the right positions. Out of this experience he has written a book entitled "THE SCIENCE OF JUDGING MEN." It gives you in simple, everyday language the methods he so successfully used in judging human nature. It teaches you how to determine in an instant the best method of handling a man. It teaches you how to strike the responsive chord in human nature. It gives the outstanding characteristics of blonds and brunettes and explains what is indicated by such features as a pug nose, Roman nose, square chin, pointed chin, blue eye, brown eye, concave and convex shaped faces.

It contains 35 original cuts, also analyses and photographs of world famous people such as President Wilson, Rockefeller and Lloyd George.

Only $1.25 prepaid. Write for it to-day. If after 5 days' examination you are not satisfied, return the book and your money will be refunded.

The New Way In Typewriting

80 to 100 Words a Minute Guaranteed

A wonderful new method of acquiring skill on the typewriter has been discovered. Almost overnight it has revolutionized the whole typewriting situation

Already thousands of stenographers and other typewriter users who never exceeded 30 to 40 words a minute are writing 80 to 100 words with half the effort and with infinitely greater accuracy than ever before. Don't confuse this new way in typewriting with any system of the past. There has never been anything like it before. Special Gymnastic Finger Training Exercises away from the machine, in connection with just enough machine practice to be interesting, bring results in days that ordinary methods will not produce in months. It is the greatest step in typewriting since the typewriter itself was invented—already its success has become nation-wide.

Learn at Home

10 Easy Lessons

Like every great idea, the secret of this new method is so simple that you wonder why it wasn't thought of before. Yet it is simply amazing in its results.

Anyone can learn it at home in a few short weeks. There are only ten lessons. And the work is simply fascinating—it's more like a game than anything.

Doubles and Trebles Stenographers' Salaries!

Why Aren't Stenographers Better Paid?

Why are most stenographers getting only $8 to $15 a week—while others get $25, $30, $35 and even $40? Eight words tell the story. It's nothing in the world but lack of speed and accuracy on the typewriter that is keeping salaries down—that is robbing most stenographers of the pay they ought to get.

Think a minute. What is a stenographer paid for? Isn't it for your finished product—for the quantity and quality of letters or other typewritten matter you can turn out in a day? No matter how good you are at shorthand, you can never expect much increase in pay until you get speed—real speed—and accuracy on the typewriter.

Here are a few examples of how the New Way in Typewriting has already resulted in increased pay. Letters from these students and from scores of others will be found in the free book. What it has done for them it will do for you.

We cannot attempt here to fully describe this new method. But we have prepared a book which tells all about it in complete detail, which is free to those interested. It is a big 32-page book, brimful of eye-opening ideas and valuable information. If you are ambitious to get ahead—if you want to double and treble your salary don't wait a single minute before sending for this book of information and proof. This new method is bringing such marvelous results to others—is proving itself to be so sure a means of quickly increasing salaries—that you will be doing yourself a big injustice if you fail to write for it at once. Tear off the coupon now, before you turn the page. Another Language Makes Another Man!

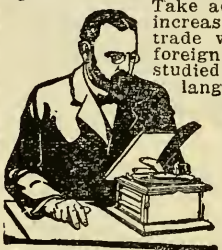
The man who acquires a foreign language doubles his commercial value and opens up new possibilities and new fields of opportunity.



Take advantage of the war situation! Better your position and increase your salary. Extend your business. Establish export trade with South American countries. Equip yourself to read foreign books and papers. Brush up on the language you studied at college and make it of practical use. Acquire a new language, at home, for business and social purposes.

SPANISH—FRENCH—ITALIAN, Etc.

Is Easily and Quickly Mastered by the LANGUAGE-PHONE METHOD

and Rosenthal's Practical Linguistry

(Highest Award Panama-Pacific Exposition, 1915)

This is the natural way to learn a foreign language. The voice of a native professor pronounces each word and phrase, over and over, until you know it. It is a pleasant, fascinating study. Family and friends can use it. You practice at spare moments, and in a surprisingly short time you speak, read and understand a new language.

The Language-Phone Method and F. M. C. French Military Conversation

A short phonetic course that gives just the conversational and military French needed at the front. It covers all departments of the service: Army, Navy, Red Cross, also every branch: Infantry, Artillery, Cavalry, Aviation, Medical, Engineering, Ambulance, Commissary.

YOU CAN'T FOOL THE EMPLOYER!

The fact that a business man sends to us once for a stenographer or bookkeeper is only partial proof of the value of our training. But when the same firm calls upon us again and again—that is sufficient endorsement of our methods.

Some large concerns are employing from two to eight of our graduates. Other offices we have kept supplied with help for several years.

It is not so very hard nowadays to get a position, but high salaries are still given only to the efficiently trained. Let us give you the training that insures success.

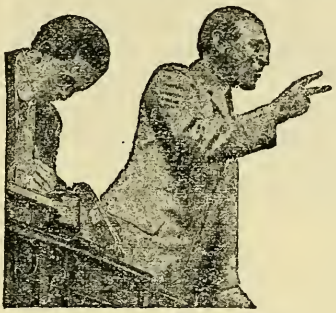
Winning with Gregg Shorthand



Mr. Swem Reporting One of the President's Addresses.

Hundreds of men are rendering war-winning service at home or at the front with Gregg Shorthand. Charles L. Swem, Official Reporter and Assistant Secretary to President Wilson, has just entered the aviation service. For six years the President's messages, state papers and addresses came to us through the medium of Gregg Shorthand. Warren Johnson, Secretary to Secretary Tumulty, another Gregg Stenographer, has also joined the band of fliers. Roscoe Kincaid is private secretary to General Pershing, Joseph Shaffer is assistant secretary to Director General of Railroads McAdoo—and the list could be extended indefinitely. All these men have found opportunity with Gregg Shorthand. You can study Gregg Shorthand in your leisure time, at the camps, at the fighting front, at home, anywhere—thousands are doing it—and prepare for bigger opportunities.

Send for a Sample Lesson No. WA-1; and the address of your nearest school—free.

75% of the Boards of Education Indorse Gregg Shorthand

Seventy-five per cent of the Board of Education whose high schools teach shorthand have adopted Gregg Shorthand exclusively. It is taught in 85 per cent of the private commercial schools, and in 80 per cent of the Y. M. C. A. schools. These adoptions constitute the highest endorsement a shorthand system has ever received. Gregg Shorthand has secured its overwhelming leadership because it is the best system for all purposes—from office to high-speed reporting. It is easy to learn, easy to write, easy to read, and possesses speed equal to all demands. Gregg writers hold speed certificates from the National Shorthand Reporters' Association for speed up to 268 words a minute. Not more than half a dozen writers of any other system have ever equalled this speed in the contests and these had from two to seven times the experience of the Gregg writers.

The opportunities for efficient shorthand writers were never greater than to-day. Get ready for a vocation that possesses unlimited opportunities for advancement. Send for list No. WA-2 of the official court reporters using Gregg Shorthand—free.

Freckles

There is just one way to remove freckles and make the skin clear and beautiful. It is in this way that Kintho Cream gets rid of the old, freckled skin, gradually and harmlessly, and gives a soft, clear, white, youthful and beautiful skin, which, of course, should have no freckles.

Just get a box of Kintho Beauty Cream at any drug store and apply it night and morning as directed, and your freckles should begin to disappear in a day or two. It is well to get a cake of Kintho Soap also, as this helps to keep the freckles away, once Kintho has removed them.

No craving for tobacco in any form when you begin taking Tobacco Redeemer.

Don't try to quit the tobacco habit unaided. It's a losing fight against heavy odds and means a serious shock to the nervous system. Let the tobacco habit quit YOU. It will quit you if you will just take Tobacco Redeemer, according to directions for two or three days. It is a most marvelously quick and thoroughly reliable remedy for the tobacco habit.

NOT A SUBSTITUTE.

Tobacco Redeemer contains no habit forming drugs of any kind It is in no sense a substitute for tobacco After finishing the treatment you have absolutely no desire to use tobacco again or to continue the use of the remedy. It makes not a particle of difference how long you have been using tobacco, how much you use or in what form you use it—whether you smoke cigars cigarettes pipe, chew plug or fine cut or use snuff. Tobacco Redeemer will positively banish every trace of desire in from 48 to 72 hours. This we absolutely guarantee in every case or money refunded.

New Hair Growth After BALDNESS

HAIR GROWN ON MR. BRITTAIN'S BALD HEAD BY INDIANS' MYSTERIOUS HAIR GROWER

My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. The scalp was shiny. An expert said that as he thought the hair roots were extinct, and there was no hope of my ever having a new hair growth.

Yet now, at an age over 66, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong, lustrous hair! No trace of baldness. The pictures shown here are from my photographs.

At a time when I had become discouraged at trying various hair lotions, tonics, specialists' treatments, etc., I came across, in my travels, a Cherokee Indian "medicine man" who had an elixir that he asseverated would grow my hair. Although I had but little faith, I gave it a trial. To my amazement a light fuzz soon appeared. It developed, day by day, into a healthy growth, and ere long my hair was as prolific as in my youthful days.

That I was astonished and happy is expressing my state of mind mildly.

Obviously, the hair roots had not been dead, but were dormant in the scalp, awaiting the fertilizing potency of the mysterious pomade.

I negotiated for and came into possession of the principle for preparing this mysterious elixir, now called Kotalko, and later had the recipe put into practical form by a chemist.

That my own hair growth was permanent has been amply proved. Many men and women, also children, have reported satisfactory results from Kotalko.

How YOU May Grow YOUR Hair

For women's hair.

My honest belief is that hair roots rarely die even when the hair falls out through dandruff, fever, excessive dryness or other disorders. I have been told by experts that often when hair falls out the roots become imbedded within the scalp, covered by hard skin, so that they remain for a time like bulbs or seeds in a bottle which will grow when fertilized. Shampoos (which contain alkalis) and hair lotions which contain alcohol are enemies to the hair, as they dry it, making it brittle. Kotalko contains those elements of nature which give new vitality to the scalp and hair. To prove the GENUINENESS of Kotalko, I will send the recipe FREE on request. Or I will mail a testing box of recipe for 10 cents, silver or stamps. Satisfy yourself. You want to stop falling hair, eliminate dandruff or cover that bald spot with healthy hair. Get the testing box, apply once or twice daily—watch in your mirror! Address:

How We Stopped the Leaks That Kept Us Poor

The Discovery Which Enabled Howard Lindsay and His Wife to Save One-third of Their Income and Later Aided Mr. Lindsay to Become President of a Large Corporation—A Secret That Applies to Any Income

By HARRISON OTIS.

Who should walk into the room but Howard Lindsay! Of all men perhaps the last I had expected to find as the president of this great new company. They had told me that Mr. Lindsay of the Consolidated was looking for a fine country home and was interested in buying the Dollard Place in Englewood; so as executor of the Dollard estate I had come to discuss the terms with him.

But Lindsay! Surely some miracle had happened. For it was the very man who had come to me "dead broke" about four years back and had asked me to help him get a new job. But how he had changed! The man I remembered was down at the heel, and timid and ill-kempt. The man now facing me was keen-eyed, alert, confident and well groomed.

"You are surprised, Mr. Otis, I can see that without your telling me. I was a pretty sorry object the last time we met—and you may be sure I have not forgotten the good turn you did me when I needed it so badly.

"Let that real estate matter rest for a moment while I tell you how the change happened. It won't take five minutes. It all seems simple as A B C as I look back on it now. And, come to think of it, it was simple and perfectly natural.

How It All Began.

"Our new life began when we discovered how to save money. That happened soon after I started in the new job you helped me secure. And it all came about right in my own home. Our family cash account was in terrible shape at that time. Both my wife and I had been used to luxuries at home and 'charge it to Dad' had been our easy way out of any money problem.

"But it was different now and our sole source of supply was my salary of $3,000. We never went to the theatre that we didn't have the uncomfortable feeling that we were using money that ought to go for coal or clothes or food. We seldom bought anything without feeling as though we were cheating ourselves out of something else.

"That year we didn't save one cent. Besides that we woke up on New Year's Day to find a big bunch of unpaid bills to be taken care of somehow or other out of future salary checks.

"When I asked myself the reason for all this I found that I did not know the reason, and no more did my wife, because we hadn't the faintest idea what our money had been spent for.

"Then we looked around among our friends and learned a great lesson.

"The Weeds, I knew, were getting more than $5,000 a year. They lived in a modest apartment, did not wear fine clothes, seldom went to the theatre, did little entertaining, yet we knew they barely had enough money to pay current bills. They found it out of the question to save any money and found themselves, so Weed told me, in the same predicament that we had faced on New Year's Day.

"In the case of the Wells I found a very different story and one that set me thinking hard. Their income was $2,000 a year, yet, to my amazement, they confided to us that they had saved $600 a year ever since they were married. They didn't have any grand opera in their program—except on their little Victrola—but they did go to the theatre regularly, they wore good clothes, entertained their friends at their home and were about the happiest and most contented couple of all our married friends.

Our Great Discovery.

"Then I discovered the magic secret. The Weeds never knew whether they could afford to make a given expenditure or not. Theirs, like others, was a careless, happy-go-lucky existence, with the happiness cut out because they were always worried about money matters. They kept no accounts and just trusted to luck—and so had bad luck all the time.

"The Wells, on the other hand, were getting more real enjoyment out of life than people with double their income—simply because they knew what they could afford to spend.

"The difference between these two families was that in one case the expenditures were made without any plan—while in the other the income was regulated on a weekly budget system.

"Right there we got our Big Idea and our key to success and happiness.

"We sat down that evening and made up a budget of all our expenses for the next fifty-two weeks. We discovered leaks galore. We found a hundred ways where little amounts could be saved.

"And in no time we were engaged in the most fascinating game either of us had ever played—the game of 'Money Saving.'

"In one short month we had a 'strangle hold' on our expenses and knew just where we were going. In one year my wife proudly produced a bank book showing a tidy savings account of $800.

My New Grip on Business.

"In the mean time an extraordinary change had come over me in business, because of my not having to worry about my personal affairs. I was able to give my employer's affairs my full, undivided attention during business hours instead of being harassed and worried as I had always been before.

"I didn't fully realize this until the president called me in one day and said, 'Lindsay, you have been doing exceptionally well. I have been studying your work for the last year and you have saved the company a lot of money. We have decided to give you an interest in the business.' And besides that he doubled my salary. I never told him what had worked the change, but my wife and I know well.

"When you consider what my income is now, all that I have told you seems funny, doesn't it? I can write my check in six figures to-day, and my new salary here is $25,000 a year. But I am still working on the same plan that I used to keep track of that original $3,000. Result, I know just what I can subscribe to Liberty Bonds and the Red Cross and all the other war funds, and I never have to wonder whether I can afford to have a new motor car, because my budget tells me—to a penny.

"It all began when we got a grip on our family expenses.

"So there you are. It is wonderful, isn't it? I often wish I might tell my story to the thousands of young married couples who are having the hardest time of their lives just when they ought to be having the best time.

"If you ever get a chance, do pass this message on, for there are thousands who don't know what the trouble is, who would give everything to know one of 'the secrets of the fat bank balance.'"

So now I have the opportunity, and you are lucky if only you will act on the wonderful message this story contains.

HARRISON OTIS

The Magic Budget Plan.

The Ferrin Money Saving Account Book is built on the experience of Howard Lindsay. It is simplicity in itself. It contains 112 pages, size 8¼x10¾ inches, and is bound in dark blue seal grain imitation leather, semi-flexible, stamped in gold. This book has been prepared by an expert and fits any salary from the smallest to the largest.

This wonderful aid to money-making—this watchdog of your income and expenditures—properly kept will tell you to a penny where your money goes. It will keep absolute track of your expenditures. It will keep you out of debt. It will help put money in the bank. It will provide, as nothing else can, a feeling of security, self-confidence and independence that comes only from the knowledge that you have a tidy and growing bank account.

The Ferrin Money Saving Account is the first and only device of its kind. It is the only account book based on the budget idea. It is the only one that provides for the income as well as the classified items of expense. It contains compact information on Keeping Expense Accounts.

Making an Inventory of Household Goods.
Making Safe Investments.
Making a Budget.

A Few Minutes a Day.

The Ferrin System takes only a few minutes a day. No knowledge of bookkeeping is required. Any grammar school boy or girl can keep the accounts in the Ferrin Book. This method is not a hard task.

Now you need not worry about the money you spend for clothes, food, rent or the theatre. You will spend it freely because you will know how much you can afford to spend.

Read the following letter from Mr. Carleton F. Brown, Treasurer and General Manager of the Corona Typewriter Company:

"I today received the Ferrin Money Saving Account Book, and on showing it to some of my friends they were very much impressed with the idea and requested me to order one for them. I would, therefore, appreciate it if you would send me five more of these Ferrin Saving Account Books. I am sending you herewith my check for $12.00 to cover the cost of these five in addition to the one which I have just received."

Also the following from Mr. D. G. Shephard, Publicity Manager of the Fairmont Gas Engine and Railway Motor Car Company:

"My wife and I have been making entries in the book only a little over one week, and already have discovered many household 'leaks' to an approximate sum of $5.00. We have the Ferrin method to thank for these discoveries.

Send No Money.

See how magically the Ferrin Book works, no matter how much or how little your income. We know what you will think of it when you see it. So we are willing to send you the book without your sending us any money in advance. Just mail the coupon and back will come the book by return mail. When you have seen what big returns the Ferrin System will pay you, send us only $2. If you feel that you can afford not to have it, return the book and owe us nothing. Act now, for the sake of your bank account and your future.

Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With The Othine Prescription

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by druggists under guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee.

Othine can be bought by the ounce from any druggist.

From the forty chapters which comprise the contents, the few following chapter headings will serve as an indication of the scope and extent of scientific research set forth in this remarkable book:

What is Nature Cure? What is Life? The Three Primary Causes of Disease—The Laws of Cure—Suppression Versus Elimination; Suppression the Cause of Chronic Disease—Inflammation—Effects of Suppression on Venereal Diseases; Destructive After Effects of Mercury—"Suppressive" Surgical Treatment of Tonsilitis and Enlarged Adenoids—Cancer—Woman's Suffering—Treatment of Acute Disease by Natural Methods—Dr. Osler on "Medicine"—The Diphtheria Antitoxin—Vaccination—Surgery, Destruction or Cure—Chronic Diseases—Crisis: Disease Crisis; Healing Crisis—Diagnosis from the Eye; The Story of a Great Discovery—Natural Dietetics: Mixing Fruits and Vegetables: Mixing Starches and Acid Fruits—Fasting—Hydrotherapy—Air and Light Baths—Correct Breathing—Exercise. Massage: Osteopathy, Chiropractic—Legitimate Scope of Mental and Metaphysical Healing—Mental Therapeutics—Strengthening of Will Power and Self-Control.

No matter how chronically sick you may be—no matter how healthy you may be—it is your duty to yourself and to humanity to learn that Health is simply the outcome of obedience to Nature's Laws. The functioning of these laws is explained in simple language in Dr. Lindlahr's wonderful book, "The Philosophy and Practice of Nature Cure." You can secure this unusual book on approval by simply filling in this coupon and mailing it to us. Do not hesitate—fill it in now—the pleasure and benefit will be yours.

Every Blemish Removed IN TEN DAYS

Get the Beauty Methods of This Beautiful Woman

Will Tell Every Reader of This Almanac How—

FREE

I only ask that you write me first. Send no money. All confidential. No one else will know. Then to you, and any reader of this Almanac, I'll give full details of my wonderful and astonishing treatment. No obligations. No risk. You be the sole judge. I offer this fairly and truthfully—FREE to you.

My great complexion beauty marvel has instantly produced a sensation. You can try it without risk and prove all I say—all that thousands of others say who know the results. Stubborn cases have been cured that baffled the physicians and beauty specialists for years. You have never in your life used or heard of anything like it. Will make muddy complexions, red spots, pimples, blackheads, eruptions vanish almost like magic.

No cream, lotion, enamel, salve, plaster, bandage, mask, massage, diet or apparatus, nothing to swallow. It doesn't matter whether or not your complexion is a "fright," whether your face is full of muddy spots; peppery blackheads, embarrassing pimples and eruptions, or whether your skin is rough and "porey," and you've tried almost everything under the sun to get rid of the blemishes. This wonderful treatment, in just ten days, positively removes every blemish and beautifies your skin in a marvellous way. You look years younger. It gives the bloom and tint of purity of a freshly blown rose. In ten days you can be the subject of the wild admiration of all your friends, no matter what your age or condition of health.

So, this minute, send me your name and address on the free coupon, or postal or letter, and by return mail I will write you full details in plain sealed envelope free. Decide now and do it for your own greater happiness.

All Methods Now Known are Cast Aside by Pearl La Sage

I WISH I KNEW OF SOME WAY THAT I COULD MAKE MONEY FOR MYSELF

YOUR wish can be gratified. The Marinello School of Beauty Culture offers you the means of making money, BIG money of your very own. The largest college of the kind in the world.

Every factor of the science of beauty culture is taught in the most thoroughly scientific manner. Every girl or woman completing course at the becomes an expert cosmetician.

$12 to $25 a Week

We guarantee you a position as soon as you qualify or you may open a shop of your own. Thousands of Marinello shop owners are now earning from $1,500 to $5,000 a year. If you wish, you may give treatments in your own home in spare minutes and realize a greater income from a few hours of pleasant employment each week than the average woman worker makes in twice the time. Whether you work for yourself or work for others you'll find a final, satisfactory answer to the question of "How can I make some money for myself?"

Write immediately for our handsomely illustrated catalogue and full particulars of what we have done for other women situated just as you are.

Hair Trouble Successfully Treated

CALVACURA STOPS HAIR FALLING

THE CALVACURA METHOD is a scientific, natural method, invariably producing gratifying results.

Mrs. Lina Belperio, whose photograph appears here, sent us a very interesting sworn statement of the remarkable results she and her children obtained from the Calvacura Method. We would like to send you a copy of this statement.

Mrs. John Malouin writes: "The sample box started a growth of new hair and I am so pleased I am sending for a full treatment."

Mr. Frank H. Wright says: "Your Calvacura No. 1 cured me, also my brother-in-law, and I can recommend it to any one."

Do You Suffer from Dandruff, Falling Hair, Prematurely Gray Hair, Stripy, Sticky or Matted Hair, Itching or Eczema of the Scalp? Are you bald headed or nearly so?

Delays Are Dangerous—If you suffer from any of the hair troubles mentioned above, do not neglect it, try to relieve the trouble at once. Let us send you our illustrated book, "The Triumph of Science Over Baldness," and a liberal sample of Calvacura.

From Photograph—Not Retouched.

Successful Scientific Treatment

Simple Test—If you find hairs adhere to your comb, examine them closely. If the root is pale, dry, dead looking, take warning; correct the trouble if you want to save your hair and make it grow.

Let Us Prove to you by sending you a Sample Treatment that the Calvacura Natural Method of Hair Culture stops the falling of hair, driving away dandruff and eczema of the scalp and promotes the growth of new hair. We will send a liberal sample of Calvacura No. 1 and our illustrated book on the care of the hair and scalp, if you will write your name and address plainly on a piece of paper and enclose it with ten cents silver or stamps, as evidence of your good faith, in an envelope addressed Union Laboratory, 212 19th St., Binghamton, N. Y.

YOU HAVE A BEAUTIFUL FACE

BUT YOUR NOSE?

BEFORE AFTER

IN THIS DAY AND AGE attention to your appearance is an absolute necessity if you expect to make the most out of life. Not only should you wish to appear as attractive as possible, for your own self-satisfaction, which is alone well worth your efforts, but you will find the world in general judging you greatly, if not wholly, by your "looks," therefore it pays to "look your best" at all times.

Permit no one to see you looking otherwise; it will injure your welfare! Upon the impression you constantly make rests the failure or success of your life. Which is to be your ultimate destiny? My new Nose-Shaper, "TRADOS" (Model 24), corrects now ill-shaped noses without operation, quickly, safely and permanently. Is pleasant and does not interfere with one's daily occupation, being worn at night.

Write today for free booklet, which tells you how to correct ill-shaped noses without cost if not satisfactory.

Who will write the SONG-HIT OF THE WAR?

With this country entering its second year in the "World War" it is doubtful if the song which will be known as the "Hit of the War" has as yet made its appearance. While it is true that such War Songs as "Over There" and "Liberty Bell" have made some impression, have Our Boys adopted another "It's a Long Way to Tipperary," which has been the great favorite with the "English Tommies"? Inasmuch as several Commanders of our training cantonments have requested boys in the service to write such a song, it appears to be still wanting.

Have you an idea which you think might be used as the subject for a Patriotic or War Song? If so, you may secure some valuable information and assistance by writing for a Free Copy of our new booklet entitled "SONG WRITERS' MANUAL AND GUIDE." We revise song-poems, compose and arrange music, secure copyright and facilitate free publication or outright sale.

For Swollen Veins

Absorbine, Jr.
THE ANTISEPTIC LINIMENT
TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

IT was not known to us that Absorbine, Jr., would relieve swollen veins until a few years ago. Then we did not find this out for ourselves. The discovery was made by an old gentleman who had suffered with swollen veins for nearly fifty years. He had made many unsuccessful efforts to get relief and finally tried Absorbine, Jr., knowing its value in reducing swellings, aches, pains and soreness. Absorbine, Jr., relieved him. He told us that after he had applied Absorbine, Jr., regularly for a few weeks his legs were smooth as when he was a boy and all the pain and soreness had ceased. Thousands have since used this antiseptic liniment for this purpose with remarkably good results. Absorbine, Jr., is made of oils and extracts from pure herbs, and when rubbed upon the skin is quickly taken up (absorbed) by the pores; the blood circulation in surrounding parts is thereby stimulated and healing helped.

Absorbine, Jr., leaves no residue, the odor is pleasing and the immediate effect soothing and cooling. Though absolutely harmless to human tissues, Absorbine, Jr., is a powerful germicide, being very valuable in cleansing cuts, scratches, burns and other skin breaks liable to infection.

Authorized manufacturer for United States Government. Catalogue mailed on request.

Beautify Your Arms

by means of

M. Trilety's Depilatory Powder

HARMLESS, AGREEABLE AND PERFECT

It will positively remove every hair from your Arms, Face, Neck, Underarm and Lower Limbs, leaving the skin in a beautiful condition and its velvety smoothness pleasing to the touch.

Ladies need no longer hesitate to wear their "low neck" and "sleeveless" gowns on account of ugly hair growths on the arm or underarm, for M. T.'s Depilatory will quickly rid you of those mortifying obstacles, without pain or irritation. Actresses, and, in fact, women in all walks of life, are enjoying the beautifying effects, the comforts and cleanliness derived from its use. Doctors and Nurses consider the use of M. T.'s Depilatory Powder a necessity because it is sanitary as well as comforting and often avoids infection.

Men are now using this modern hair destroyer extensively, because, by removing the hair from the arms, underarm or wherever objectionable, there is no possible chance for foreign or unpleasant odors to develop, and affords them also many undreamed-of comforts.

It has, therefore, become unnecessary, and, in fact, a thing of the remote past, for any one to endure the endless embarrassment created by useless growths of superfluous hair; M. T.'s Depilatory is extremely simple to use and will always relieve the situation; at first you apply it about twice a month, then gradually less often, until finally the hair roots become so weakened that M. T.'s Depilatory is no longer necessary. "Never cut or shave the hair, for it will come back, thicker and faster than ever."

To possess luxuriant hair IN ITS PLACE is indeed glorious, but OUT OF PLACE hair is a misery, grievous to be borne.

M. T.'s Depilatory Powder is HARMLESS because it cannot injure the most delicate skin; AGREEABLE, because it has not a repulsive odor, and PERFECT, because it is made of the finest materials and is professionally prepared under modern scientific methods, within sanitary surroundings.

Upon receipt of 50c we will send you, postpaid, direct from our laboratory a 2-oz. jar of M. T.'s Depilatory Powder, and as an inducement to our patrons we will include, free of charge, a liberal quantity of "M. T.'s Nature's Beauty Cream" and our booklet relating to Beauty Culture.

LEONARD
EAR OIL

Restores Hearing, Stops Head Noises

Nine out of ten cases of Deafness and Head Noises are caused by catarrhal mucus (matter) in the Eustachian Tube, which connects the nose and the ears. Leonard Ear Oil Removes the mucus, opens up the tube and the other air passages of the head, and the result is improved Hearing and relief from Head Noises. This is not put in the ears, but is "Rubbed in Back of Ears" and inserted in the nostrils, and "Common Sense Directions for Care of Hearing," which accompanies each bottle, tells you exactly how to take care of your own case. Do not be misled by substitutes or imitations. The only genuine "EAR OIL" is A. O. Leonard Ear Oil. It is the original and has been on the market since 1907, and every year it has relieved hundreds of people of their Ear Troubles.

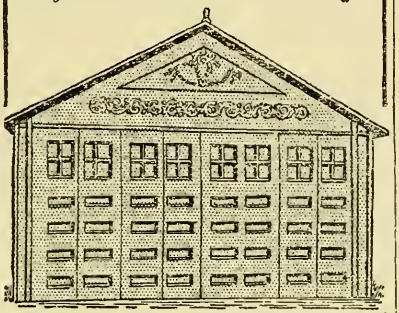
"Standard" Multiple-Stall Garages

Do You Pay Garage Rent?
Why Not Collect It for a Change?



FOR duplex residences, for rental purposes or for communities where it is desirable for neighbors to share garage facilities, either to conserve ground space or to reduce expense, a fireproof garage for two or more cars is a very convenient arrangement. As a rental investment, Metal Shelters are paying, in rentals, from 50 to 75 per cent. of the investment annually. For privacy, the buildings are easily divided by steel partitions and ceilings into completely enclosed separate stalls.

How I Improved My Memory In One Evening

The Amazing Experience of Victor Jones

"Of course I place you! Mr. Addison Sims of Seattle.

"If I remember correctly—and I do remember correctly—Mr. Burroughs, the lumberman, introduced you to me at the luncheon of the Seattle Rotary Club three years ago in May. This is a pleasure indeed! I haven't laid eyes on you since that day. How is the grain business? And how did that amalgamation work out?"

The assurance of the speaker—in the crowded corridor of the Hotel McAlpin—compelled me to turn and look at him, though I must say it is not my usual habit to "listen in," even in a hotel lobby.

"He is David M. Roth, the most famous memory expert in the United States," said my friend Kennedy, answering my question before I could get it out. "He will show you a lot more wonderful things than that before the evening is over."

And he did.

As we went into the banquet room the toastmaster was introducing a long line of guests to Mr. Roth. I got in line and when it came my turn, Mr. Roth asked, "What are your initials, Mr. Jones, and your business connection and telephone number?" Why he asked this I learned later, when he picked out from the crowd the 60 men he had met two hours before and called each by name without a mistake. What is more, he named each man's business and telephone number, for good measure.

I won't tell you all the other amazing things this man did except to tell how he called back, without a minute's hesitation, long lists of numbers, bank clearings, prices, lot numbers, parcel post rates and anything else the guests had given him in rapid order.

* * * *

When I met Mr. Roth again—which you may be sure I did the first chance I got—he rather bowled me over by saying, in his quiet, modest way:

"There is nothing miraculous about my remembering anything I want to remember whether it be names, faces, figures, facts or something I have read in a magazine.

"You can do this just as easily as I do. Anyone with an average mind can learn quickly to do exactly the same things which seem so miraculous when I do them.

"My own memory," continued Mr. Roth, "was originally very faulty. Yes it was—a really poor memory. On meeting a man I would lose his name in thirty seconds, while now there are probably 10,000 men and women in the United States, many of whom I have met but once, whose names I can tell instantly on meeting them."

"That is all right for you, Mr. Roth," I interrupted, "you have given years to it. But how about me?"

"Mr. Jones," he replied, "I can teach you the secret of a good memory in one evening. This is not a guess, because I have done it with thousands of pupils. In the first of seven simple lessons which I have prepared for home study, I show you the basic principle of my whole system and you will find it—not hard work as you might fear—but just like playing a fascinating game. I will prove it to you."

He didn't have to prove it. His Course did; I got it the very next day from his publishers, the Independent Corporation.

When I tackled the first lesson, I suppose I was the most surprised man in forty-eight states to find that I had learned in about one hour—how to remember a list of one hundred words so that I could call them off forward and back without a single mistake.

That first lesson stuck. And so did the other six.

Read this letter from C. Louis Allen, who at 32 years became president of a million dollar corporation, the Pyrene Manufacturing Company of New York, makers of the famous fire extinguisher, and who is now president of the Allen Sales Service, Inc., New York City:

> "Now that the Roth Memory Course is finished, I want to tell you how much I have enjoyed the study of this most fascinating subject. Usually these courses involve a great deal of drudgery, but this has been nothing but pure pleasure all the way through. I have derived much benefit from taking the course of instruction and feel that I shall continue to strengthen my memory. That is the best part of it. I shall be glad of an opportunity to recommend your work to my friends."

Mr. Allen didn't put it a bit too strong. The Roth Course is priceless! I can absolutely count on my memory now. I can call the name of most any man I have met before—and I am getting better all the time. I can remember any figures I wish to remember. Telephone numbers come to mind instantly, once I have filed them by Mr. Roth's easy method. Street addresses are just as easy.

The old fear of forgetting (you know what that is) has vanished. I used to be "scared stiff" on my feet—because I wasn't sure. I couldn't remember what I wanted to say.

Now I am sure of myself, and confident and "easy as an old shoe" when I get on my feet at the club, or at a banquet, or in a business meeting, or in any social gathering.

Perhaps the most enjoyable part of it all is that I have become a good conversationalist—and I used to be as silent as a sphinx when I got into a crowd of people who knew things.

Now I can call up like a flash of lightning most any fact I want right at the instant I need it most. I used to think a "hair trigger" memory belonged only to the prodigy and genius. Now I see that every man of us has that kind of a memory if he only knows how to make it work right.

I tell you it is a wonderful thing, after groping around in the dark for so many years to be able to switch the big searchlight on your mind and see instantly everything you want to remember.

This Roth Course will do wonders in your office.

Since we took it up you never hear anyone in our office say "I guess" or "I think it was about so much" or "I forget that right now" or "I can't remember" or "I must look up his name." Now they are right there with the answer—like a shot.

Have you ever heard of "Multigraph" Smith? Real name H. Q. Smith, Division Manager of the Multigraph Sales Company, Ltd., in Montreal. Here is a bit from a letter of his that I saw this week:

> "Here is the whole thing in a nutshell: Mr. Roth has a most remarkable Memory Course. It is simple, and easy as falling off a log. Yet with one hour a day of practice anyone—I don't care who he is—can improve his Memory 100% in a week and 1,000% in six months."

My advice to you is don't wait another minute. Send to Independent Corporation for Mr. Roth's amazing course and see what a wonderful memory you have got. Your dividends in increased earning power will be enormous.

VICTOR JONES.

Send No Money

So confident is the Independent Corporation, the publishers of the Roth Memory Course, that once you have an opportunity to see in your own home how easy it is to double, yes, triple your memory power in a few short hours, that they are willing to send the course on free examination.

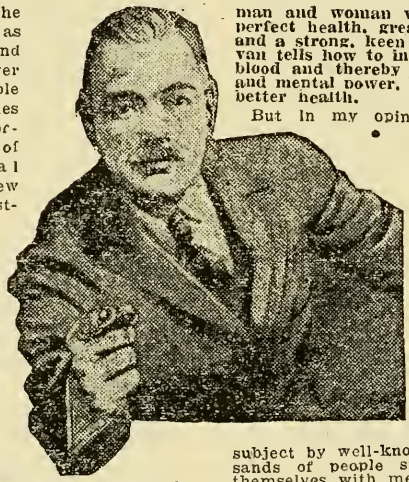
Physician Explains Who Should Take Nuxated Iron

Practical Advice on How to Help Build Up Great Strength, Energy and Endurance



Commenting on the use of Nuxated Iron as a tonic, strength and blood builder by over three million people annually, Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and The Westchester County Hospital, said: "Lack of iron in the blood not only makes a man a physical and mental weakling, nervous, irritable, easily fatigued, but it utterly robs him of that virile force, that stamina and strength of will which are so necessary to success and power in every walk of life.

It may also transform a beautiful, sweet-tempered woman into one who is cross, nervous and irritable. I have strongly emphasized the great necessity of physicians making blood examinations of their weak, anaemic, run-down patients. Thousands of persons go on year after year suffering from physical weakness and a highly nervous condition due to lack of sufficient iron in their red blood corpuscles without ever realizing the real and true cause of their trouble. Without iron in your blood your food merely passes through the body something like corn through an old mill with rollers so wide apart that the mill can't grind.

For want of iron you may be an old man at thirty, dull of intellect, poor in memory, nervous, irritable and all "run down," while at 50 or 60 with plenty of iron in your blood you may still be young in feeling, full of life, your whole being brimming over with vim and energy."

The accompanying article of Dr. Sullivan should be carefully read by every man and woman who wants to possess perfect health, great physical endurance and a strong, keen mentality. Dr. Sullivan tells how to increase the iron in our blood and thereby gain greater physical and mental power, brighter intellects and better health.

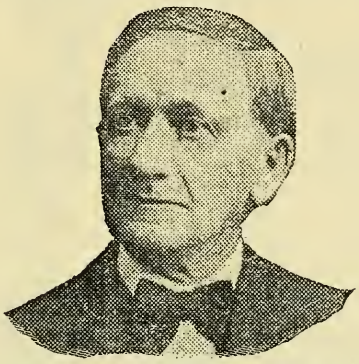
But in my opinion you can't make strong, vigorous, successful, sturdy iron men, and healthy, rosy-cheeked women by feeding them on metallic iron. The old forms of metallic iron must go through a digestic process to transform them into organic iron—Nuxated Iron—before they are ready to be taken up and assimilated by the human system. Notwithstanding all that has been said and written on this subject by well-known physicians, thousands of people still insist on dosing themselves with metallic iron, simply, I suppose, because it costs a few cents less. I strongly advise readers in all cases to get a physician's prescription for organic iron—Nuxated Iron—or if you don't want to go to this trouble then purchase Nuxated Iron in its original packages and see that this particular name (Nuxated Iron) appears on the package. If you have taken preparations such as Nux and Iron and other similar iron products and failed to get results, remember that such products are an entirely different thing from Nuxated Iron.

MANUFACTURERS' NOTE—Nuxated Iron, which is used by Dr. Sullivan and others with such surprising results, and which is prescribed and recommended above by physicians, is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make them black nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed by all good druggists.

A Genuine Rupture Cure Sent on Trial to Prove It

Don't Wear a Truss Any Longer

After Thirty Years' Experience I Have Produced an Appliance for Men, Women and Children That Actually Cures Rupture.



The above is C. E. Brooks, inventor of the Appliance, who cured himself and who has been curing others for over thirty years. If ruptured, write him to-day at Marshall, Mich.

If you have tried most everything else, come to me. Where others fail is where I have my greatest success. Send attached coupon to-day and I will send you free my illustrated book on Rupture and its cure, showing my Appliance and giving you prices and names of many people who have tried it and were cured. It is instant relief when all others fail. Remember, I use no salves, no harness, no lies.

I send on trial to prove what I say is true. You are the judge and once having seen my illustrated book and read it you will be as enthusiastic as my hundreds of patients whose letters you can also read. Fill out free coupon below and mail to-day. It's well worth your time whether you try my Appliance or not.

Confederate Veteran Cured

Commerce, Ga., R. F. D. No. 11.

Mr. C. E. Brooks,

Dear Sir—I am glad to tell you that I am now sound and well and can plough or do any heavy work. I can say your Appliance has effected a permanent cure. Before getting your Appliance I was in a terrible condition and had given up all hope of ever being any better. If it hadn't been for your Appliance I would never have been cured. I am sixty-eight years old and served three years in Eckle's Artillery, Oglethorpe County. I hope God will reward you for the good you are doing for suffering humanity.

Yours sincerely,
H. D. BANKS.

Others Failed but the Appliance Cured

C. E. Brooks, Marshall, Mich.

Dear Sir—Your Appliance did all you claim for the little boy and more, for it cured him sound and well. We let him wear it for about a year in all, although it cured him three months after he had begun to wear it. We had tried several other remedies and got no relief, and I shall certainly recommend it to friends, for we surely owe it to you.

Yours respectfully,
WM. PATTERSON.
No. 717 S. Main St., Akron, O.

Cured at the Age of 76

Mr. C. E. Brooks, Marshall, Mich.

Dear Sir—I began using your Appliance for the cure of rupture (I had a pretty bad case) I think in May, 1905. On Nov. 20, 1905, I quit using it. Since that time I have not needed or used it. I am well of rupture and rank myself among those cured by the Brooks Discovery, which, considering my age, seventy-six years, I regard as remarkable.

Very sincerely yours,
SAM A. HOOVER.
Jamestown, N. C.

Child Cured in Four Months

21 Jansen St., Dubuque, Iowa.

Brooks Rupture Appliance Co.

Gentlemen—The baby's rupture is altogether cured, thanks to your Appliance, and we are so thankful to you. If we could only have known of it sooner our little boy would not have had to suffer near as much as he did. He wore your brace a little over four months and has not worn it now for six weeks.

Yours very truly,
ANDREW EGGENBERGER.

Remember

I send my Appliance on trial to prove what I say is true. You are to be the judge. Fill out free coupon below and mail to-day.

How to Easily

Reduce Fat

This FREE Remedy offer is made to you, reader, and to all other ladies or men alike who are either just commencing to put on too much flesh or are already burdened with unsightly accumulations of unhealthy fat on any or all parts of the body. What we want is to put in your possession an easy, comfortable and safe means of permanently reducing, so you will look and feel your best. In other words, we ask the privilege of sending, without a penny of expense or cost to you, a genuine "health package," a complete testing supply of our wonderful fat reducer, ADIPO, the great home self-treatment for all fleshy people, young, middle-aged or older. It has been used by tens of thousands all over the country, many reporting the loss of one pound a day, and a constant improvement in health and spirits as the fat goes away. In using Adipo you get away from all those quack "obesity doctors," with their ridiculous "symptom blanks" and "personal service" (?) promises. Do you believe them? We hope not. In using Adipo you are your own doctor. Nothing else required. It represents all that is best in the very latest Nature Methods for comfortable reducing. No old-fashioned "anti-fat" poisonous drugs to take, no fasting or ridiculous exercising. As one of our friends says: "You can eat and get slender." Therefore, reader, if you want to vastly improve your appearance and physical attractiveness so no one will again call you "fat"; if you want to be able to run upstairs without heart palpitation, without puffing or perspiring, then let Adipo work for you. It is absolutely tasteless and as safe as drinking pure water. The most delicate person should improve by taking this wonderful remedy.

50c. Box FREE

We are sending out thousands of FREE testing packages of Adipo everywhere, so do not hesitate or delay. Simply write us your address on a postal and receive by return mail, in plain wrapper, a complete 50c. trial box of ADIPO ready for use. We will also enclose a copy of our new book, giving the secrets of self-reducing. After using the FREE testing supply if you need more, we will gladly send it with the distinct understanding that it will cost absolutely nothing unless you are sufficiently reduced: But first get the FREE sample as a test and then decide for yourself.

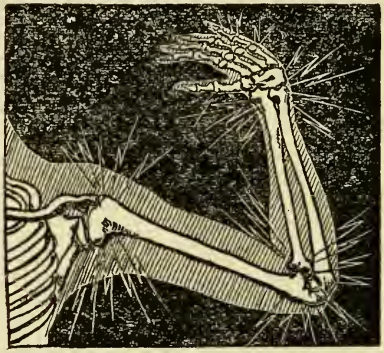
Rheumatism

Remarkable Home Cure Given by One Who Had It—He Wants Every Sufferer to Benefit.

Send No Money—Just Your Address.

Years of awful suffering and misery have taught this man, Mark H. Jackson of Syracuse, New York, how terrible an enemy to human happiness rheumatism is, and have given him sympathy with all unfortunates who are within its grasp. He wants every rheumatic victim to know how he was cured. Read what he says:



"I Had Sharp Pains Like Lightning Flashes Shooting Through My Joints."

"In the spring of 1893 I was attacked by Muscular and Inflammatory Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy, and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally, I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bedridden with rheumatism, and it effected a cure in every case.

"I want every sufferer from every form of rheumatic trouble to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long-looked-for means of curing your rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but, understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer when positive relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today. MARK H. JACKSON, No. 28-E Gurney Bldg., Syracuse, N. Y."

GET RID OF YOUR FAT

Thousands of others have gotten rid of theirs WITHOUT DIETING OR EXERCISING, often at the rate of over a pound a day, and WITHOUT PAYMENT until reduction has taken place.

I am a licensed practicing physician and personally select the treatment for each individual case, thus enabling me to choose remedies that will produce not only a loss of weight harmlessly, but which will also relieve you of all the troublesome symptoms of overstoutness, such as shortness of breath, palpitation, indigestion, rheumatism, gout, asthma, kidney trouble and various other afflictions which often accompany overstoutness.

My treatment will relieve that depressed, tired, sleepy feeling, giving you renewed energy and vigor, a result of the loss of your superfluous fat.

You are not required to change in the slightest from your regular mode of living. There is no dieting or exercising. It is simple, easy and pleasant to take.

If you are overstout do not postpone, but sit down right now and send for my FREE TRIAL TREATMENT and my plan whereby I am to be PAID ONLY AFTER REDUCTION HAS TAKEN PLACE if you so desire.

Want to Feel Just Right?

Take an NR Tonight

JUST TRY IT AND SEE how much better you feel in the morning. That "loggy," headachy, tired, don't-know-what's-the-matter feeling will be gone—you'll feel fine.

TROUBLE IS, your system is clogged with a lot of impurities that your over-worked digestive and eliminative organs can't get rid of. Pills, oil, salts, calomel and ordinary laxatives, cathartics and purges only force the bowels and prod the liver.

Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) acts on the stomach, liver, bowels and even kidneys, not forcing, but toning and strengthening these organs. The result is prompt relief and real, lasting benefit. Make the test.

Nature's Remedy will act promptly, thoroughly, yet so mildly, so gently, that you will think nature herself has come to the rescue and is doing the work.

Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) is sold Guaranteed and recommended by your druggist

And oh, what a relief! You'll be surprised to find how much better you feel—brighter, better every way.

If habitually or stubbornly constipated, take one NR Tablet each night for a week. Then you'll not have to take medicine every day. Just an occasional NR Tablet after that will be sufficient to keep your system in good condition — keep you feeling your best.

Better Your Position

Prepare for a permanent position now and after the war. Railway Traffic Inspectors always in line for advancement. No age limit—only common school education and three months' home study. Mighty good salary—and expenses.

A railway traffic inspector safeguards the lives of the public and protects his company's interests—an important position. He's paid to travel and observe. Works only with railroad officials—that's why he's bound to gain a position of trust..

Hundreds needed right now—thousands later. Study for only three months. We'll arrange for position.

Delay never secured any one a better position—but action will do it—immediate action. Booklet D-20 tells all—write to-day.

9 OUT OF 10 HENS LAYING EVERY DAY

Mr. Boros Had a Run-Down Lot, but Now They're Healthy and Laying.

"My hens were in a very poor condition; had colorless combs, and were not laying. In less than three weeks from the time I started feeding them Don Sung I. began to receive eggs each day and am now receiving, on the average, eggs from nine-tenths of my hens every day."—John Boros, R. F. D. 7, Mt. Pleasant, Mich.

People whose hens are run down and not laying can start them laying and keep them laying. Accept our offer as Mr. Boros did.

Give your hens Don Sung and watch results for one month. If you don't find that Don Sung pays for itself, and a good profit besides, your money will be refunded.

Don Sung (Chinese for egg-laying) works on the egg-laying organs and is also a splendid tonic. It is easily given in the feed, improves the hen's health, makes her stronger and more active in any weather.

Try Don Sung for 30 days and if it doesn't get you the eggs, no matter how cold or wet the weather, your money will be refunded by return mail. Send 50 cents for a package by mail prepaid. Burrell-Dugger Co., 231 Columbia Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

To Relieve Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength) and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and 4 ounces of granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Any one who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

Women's National HONOR MEDAL
For the Mothers, Wives and Sisters of the Men in War Service.

"Into the jaws of death,
Into the mouth of Hell"—

That's where our women are sending their loved ones. Look at the smile on their lips! Think of the ache in their hearts as they watch their "boys" march away! They are doing this for US—for our Country.

We give our soldiers medals for valor in action. How can we honor these brave women who through the sacrifice of their loved ones are making the winning of this war possible? Join the movement and make it a personal duty to see that every Mother, Wife or Sister of a man in War Service wears a WOMEN'S NATIONAL HONOR MEDAL as a tribute to her loyalty and courage. This is one of the noblest movements started since the war began, and has met with instant and general approval.

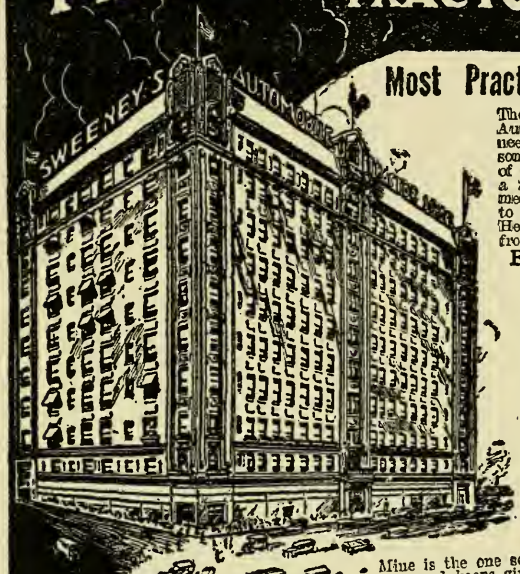
The MILLION DOLLAR AUTOMOBILE and TRACTOR SCHOOL



Most Practical School in the World

The man who graduates from the Sweeney Auto, Tractor and Aviation School doesn't need to worry about making a living as some college graduates do. He comes out of this school after a few weeks' training a full fledged, practical auto and motor mechanic with hundreds of positions open to him at the highest kinds of salaries. He knows this business and is practical from the word "go."

Enormous Demand for Men

There never was such a demand for auto and motor mechanics and probably never will be again. You can step into any kind of a high-salaried position you choose, anywhere and at almost any price. Skilled mechanics are the lucky men to-day. They are making more money than anybody; more than lawyers, bank cashiers or men who have large amounts invested in business.

Learn the Automobile and Tractor Business

The business which was started for you, made to order for men who love machinery. You can succeed. It's your chance. The Sweeney System of teaching this business was originated by me. Mine is the one school which gives you the actual experience and keeps giving it to you. When I say actual experience, I mean it. You get it in my school working on hundreds of machines and cars. You get it every day in my garage, one of the biggest in the West, one run exclusively by students. You get it on my tractor field, and you keep getting it until you say "enough." Your success is my success. I built this wonderful world-wide known school on the success of my graduates. My system did it, it made my graduates successful. The results speak for themselves. My school is one of the largest in the world teaching mechanics. I have students from all over the world, Italy, South America, Philippines, Hawaii, South Africa, Australia, Japan, Russia and Servia. They come to me because of my reputation and success. I teach the automobile and tractor business by teaching you how to teach yourself, doing the actual work, keeping you at it until you know it. That is the reason I have this wonderful school of practical experience.

Sweeney and Success stand for the same thing in the automobile and tractor business. I don't need to tell you what equipment I have. I have absolutely every piece of equipment necessary to teach the automobile, tractor and truck business, and special work on aeroplane motors, nothing overlooked. This is the greatest trade school in the world, both in size and equipment.

SPECIAL FEATURES NO OTHER SCHOOL HAS

Everything for the pleasure and comfort of my students while studying with me in this wonderful building. Indoor Swimming Pool, Shower Baths, Library, Recreation Room, Our Moving Picture Theatre seating 1,000; one of the biggest restaurants in the world, seating 425 at once; rooms for 800 students; every convenience of a big hotel at less price than at a boarding house. Look at the picture of my building. Use your judgment.

WRITE ME TODAY FOR MY FREE CATALOG

HIGH SCHOOL COURSE IN TWO YEARS

YOU ARE BADLY HANDICAPPED if you lack High School training. You cannot attain social or business prominence. You are barred from a successful business career, from the leading professions, from well-paid civil service jobs, from teaching and college entrance. In fact, employers in practically all worthwhile positions demand High School training. That's the way you are handicapped if you lack this vital training. But you can remove this obstacle to your success. The American School Course meets every requirement.

FIT YOURSELF FOR A BIG FUTURE

This Course will broaden your mind, and make you keen, alert and capable. It is complete, simplified, and gives you the same training as a resident school will. Lessons are written specially for home study and competent instructors guide and coach you from start to finish. It absolutely gives you the knowledge that now stands as a barrier between you and desirable positions.

USE IDLE HOURS ONLY Most people idle away fifty hours a week. Probably you do, too. Use only one-fifth of that time for studying and you can easily remove your present handicap within two years. The question of your success hinges on whether or not you will devote a part of your spare time to this home study course of High School training.

TRAINING DECIDES PAY There is only one known way to increase your earning power—only one way to get the position you want and the pay you want. You must train. The difference between $15 and $50 a week is measured only by training—knowing HOW. Let us assist you to acquire the knowledge you need. Our training does not interfere with your present work. Try ten lessons in any Course at our expense. Check and mail the coupon for full particulars and Free Bulletin.

DAWN OF INVENTION

PATENTS

AND

PATENT POSSIBILITIES

EVERY INVENTOR

should have a copy of my booklet, "Patents and Patent Possibilities." It tells how to obtain a patent, and is full of interesting information and valuable advice for inventors. A copy of this booklet will be sent you on request.

COMPETENT PATENT SERVICE

My business is conducted on a strictly professional basis, without any deceptive schemes, certificates or prize offers. Every case receives my personal attention, and every effort is made to make my service efficient and satisfactory.

PROMPTNESS

Undue haste is never advisable, but unreasonable delays are both aggravating and dangerous. If you place your invention in my hands, your interests will not be jeopardized by months of delays in preparing and filing your application in the Patent Office.

COURTESY

Do not hesitate to write if you are interested in an invention. Your letter will receive a prompt and courteous reply, and I shall be very glad to give you any desired information.

DRESSMAKING

LEARN AT HOME NEW, EASY METHOD

BY a new, wonderfully simple and practical easy-lesson method, you can now learn right at home in spare time to make all your own and your children's clothes. You can save half or more of what you are now spending or you can have twice, yes, three times, as many garments for what your clothes now cost you.

Or you can prepare yourself to take up dressmaking as a profession. The demand for dressmakers is greater than the supply. Hundreds are making $25 to $40 a week.

This new opportunity is made possible through the home-study Courses in Sewing, Dressmaking and Tailoring offered by the

WOMAN'S INSTITUTE OF DOMESTIC ARTS & SCIENCES INC.

Read What Students Say

I am so proud of the dresses I have made. My clothing bills are less than half what they were before. Mrs. James Walton, Pocatello, Idaho.

The clothes I have made have an individuality that you do not get from a ready-made garment. Mrs. J. MacLean, Providence, R. I.

Have made four hats from old materials and like them better than any I have ever had and have always paid $8 to $20 for my hats. Have never before made or trimmed a hat. Mrs. E. A. Tombler, San Francisco, Cal.

I have, with knowledge already gained and past experience, made, trimmed and sold hundreds of dollars' worth of hats to satisfied customers. Miss Beulah Johnson, Coats, N. C.

You learn by simple, fascinating methods how to draft perfect fitting patterns from your own or any other woman's measurements; how to use tissue paper patterns; how to plan and make garments of every kind—waists, skirts, dresses, suits, coats, lingerie, children's and infants' clothes; how to buy and use materials; how to renovate and remodel; how to copy dresses and suits you see on the street, in the shops or pictured in fashion magazines; how to do all kinds of embroidery and fancy work; how to dress in style and taste; how to go into business as a dressmaker. You study at home in spare time and apply each lesson immediately in making your own clothes. You have the personal help by mail of expert teachers with years of experience as successful practical dressmakers.

ow I Raised My Earnings From $30 to $1000 a Week

The Story of a Young Man's Remarkable Rise as Told by Himself

THREE YEARS AGO I was earning $30 per week. With a wife and two children to support it was a constant struggle to make both ends meet. We saved very little, and that only by sacrificing things we really needed. To-day my earnings average a thousand dollars weekly. I own two automobiles. My children go to private schools. I have just purchased, for cash, a $25,000 home. I go hunting, fishing, motoring, traveling, whenever I care to, and I do less work than ever before.

What I have done, anyone can do—for I am only an average man. I have never gone to college, my education is limited, and I am not "brilliant" by any means. I personally know at least a hundred men who are better business men than I, who are better educated, who are better informed on hundreds of subjects, and who have much better ideas than I ever had. Yet not one of them approaches my earnings. I mention this merely to show that earning capacity is not governed by the extent of a man's education and to convince my readers that there is only one reason for my success—a reason I will give herein.

One day, a few years ago, I began to "take stock" of myself. I found that, like most other men, I had energy, ambition, determination. Yet, in spite of these assets, for some reason or other I drifted along without getting anywhere. My lack of education bothered me, and I had thought seriously of making further sacrifices in order to better equip myself to earn more. Then I read somewhere that but few millionaires ever went to college, Edison, Rockefeller, Hill, Schwab, Carnegie—not one of them had any more schooling than I had.

One day something happened that woke me up to what was wrong with me. It was necessary for me to make a decision on a matter which was of little consequence. I knew in my heart what was the right thing to do, but something held me back. I said one thing, then another. I couldn't for the life of me make the decision I knew was right.

I lay awake most of the night thinking about the matter—not because it was of any great importance in itself, but because I was beginning to discover myself. Along towards dawn I resolved to try an experiment. I decided to cultivate my will power, believing that if I did this I would not hesitate about making decisions —that when I had an idea I would have sufficient confidence in myself to put it "over"—that I would not be "afraid" of myself or of things or of others.

With this new purpose in mind I applied myself to finding out something more about the will. I was sure that other men must have studied the subject, and the results of their experience would doubtless be of great value to me in understanding the workings of my own will power. So, with a directness of purpose that I had scarcely known before, I began my search.

The results at first were discouraging. While a good deal had been written about the memory and other faculties of the brain, I could find nothing that offered any help to me in acquiring the new power that I had hoped might be possible.

But a little later in my investigation I encountered the works of Prof. Frank Channing Haddock. To my amazement and delight I discovered that this eminent scientist, whose name ranks with James, Bergson and Royce, had just completed the most thorough and constructive study of will power ever made. I was astonished to read his statement, "The will is just as susceptible of development as the muscles of the body!" My question was answered! Eagerly I read further—how Dr. Haddock had devoted twenty years to this study—how he had so completely mastered it that he was actually able to set down the very exercises by which anyone could develop the will, making it a bigger, stronger force each day, simply through an easy, progressive course of training.

It is almost needless to say that I at once began to practice the simple exercises formulated by Dr. Haddock. And I need not recount the extraordinary results that I obtained almost from the first day. I have already indicated the success that my developed power of will has made for me.

I understand that Professor Haddock's lessons, rules, and exercises in will training have recently been compiled and published in book form by the Pelton Publishing Co. of Meriden, Conn., and that any reader who cares to examine the book may do so without sending any money in advance. In other words, if after a week's reading you do not feel that this book is worth $3, the sum as return it and you will owe nothi When you receive your copy for examination I suggest that you first read the articles on: The law of great thinking; how to develop analytic power; how to perfectly concentrate on any subject; how to guard against errors in thought; how to develop fearlessness; how to use the mind in sickness; how to acquire a dominating personality.

Some few doubters will scoff at the idea of will power being the fountainhead of wealth, position and everything we are striving for, and some may say that no mere book can teach the development of the will. But the great mass of intelligent men and women will at least investigate for themselves by sending for the book at the publishers' risk. I am sure that any book that has done for me—and for thousands of others—what "Power of Will" has done—is well worth investigating. It is interesting to note that among the 200,000 owners who have read, used and praised "Power of Will" are such prominent men as Supreme Court Justice Parker; Wu Ting Fang, ex-U. S. Chinese Ambassador; Governor McKelvie of Nebraska; Assistant Postmaster General Britt; General Manager Christeson of Wells-Fargo Express Co.; E. St. Elmo Lewis; Senator Arthur Capper and thousands of others.

As a first step in will training, I would suggest immediate action in this matter before you. It is not even necessary to write a letter. Use the form below if you prefer, addressing it to the Pelton Publishing Company, 60-A Wilcox Block, Meriden, Conn., and the book will come by return mail. This one act may mean the turning point of your life, as it has meant to me and so many others.

I will examine a copy of "Power of Will" at your risk. I agree to remit $3 or remail the book in 5 days.

"You Gave Me Courage to Go Into Business for Myself"

"FOR years I had wanted to," writes a man from the Middle West, "but I did not dare. The first three lessons gave me the courage." That is what one man got from the Emerson Efficiency Course.

So deep in our lives are the foundations of this new Efficiency idea applied to the individual that each man gets what he needs most from it. One man gets courage, one gets health, one gets time, one gets wealth. For Efficiency means the shortest, quickest, easiest way to reach your goal. And Harrington Emerson, who has taught Efficiency to so many corporations, has adapted it to you in 24 powerful, complete, condensed lessons.

The corporation has capital, plant, men; you have brains, time, energy. Through these lessons you will learn to make the most of your brains, time and energy with the least effort. These principles are not casual ideas of Mr. Emerson's. They are the scientific principles he has developed in forty years of study. He has applied them in over 200 factories, railroads and other organizations.

35,000 Students Enrolled.

Efficiency for the individual has swept the nation. 35,000 men have already joined us—35,000 men who are getting more out of life because of Mr. Emerson's lessons. They are doing things—big things—the things you have always wanted to do.

Let the Emerson Course show you how to get bigger results from the work that you are doing—how to earn more—how to get more fun out of life. Stop drifting—start doing. Send the coupon NOW for free information.

Not Enough Men for These $5,000 Positions!

An Important Letter to Readers
From the President of the American Commerce Association

CHICAGO, Ill.—I am writing this letter as a last resort to see if we cannot secure more men willing to qualify for traffic positions paying $2,500 to $10,000 a year.

How important is the trained traffic man's work can be seen by these few cases out of thousands which occur every day. A concern in South Chicago had been shipping about 200 cars of Coke from Connellsville to their smelters. Some time ago a traffic expert succeeded in getting a rate adjustment which resulted in a saving of about $5.00 on each car. Thus on this one item alone a saving of over $300,000 a year was effected.

In St. Louis, through misrouting of freight, errors in reconsigning cars and undercharges on shipments, a railroad lost over $27,000.

A traffic expert discovered that freight rates paid by the Meeker Coal Co. were legal but exorbitant. A ruling secured from the Interstate Commission resulted in a refund of $120,000.

There are about 50,000 large business corporations and about 400,000 smaller shippers which must be protected by competent traffic men. These concerns have freight expenses running from a few thousand dollars to many thousands of dollars monthly. Yet in the entire country there are only a few hundred men actually competent to save the money now being wasted through lack of efficiency in applying the Government Freight Rate System.

Realizing the crying demand for trained traffic experts, and seeking relief, the American Commerce Association—a national organization OF traffic men, FOR traffic men, BY traffic men, offers to give men the training required to make them competent to handle the problems of most economical distribution. The instruction is given by mail and can be studied in spare time, at home. The most complete and thorough training is given, and through the Association costs but a few cents a day.

Through its Advisory Council, every member of the American Commerce Association receives the help of the most prominent traffic men in America.

It is impossible to go into details in this letter, but the Association has published a remarkable book for distribution without cost which explains everything in detail and tells how any one may learn the new profession of traffic manager. If you are at all interested in getting into this highly profitable field, paying good salaries, write for the remarkable book, for which we make no charge. Please state whether you are a beginner or whether you have had previous traffic experience, and give your present age and occupation. Address American Commerce Association, Dept. 121, 206 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill. (American Commerce Building.)

You Can Learn Law in Your Spare Time—

Get this Free Book

ARE you fully awake to the opportunity that law-training offers the man who is seeking greater success—more certain promotion in business?

It has been proven that the trained man's chances for success in business are one hundred times greater than the untrained; also, that the business man with special, intensified training seldom fails to reach the top.

There is No Training That Will Bring Success Quicker to a Man in Business Than the LAW.

In every department of business—in every field of industry—there is a growing need of knowledge of Law.

That is why men with law-trained minds are so rapidly promoted; why the man in business who has had law training is consulted so frequently—called into conference when important matters are discussed.

Find out what other men in the same line of work have accomplished after taking the Modern American Law Course and Service of the Blackstone Institute.

See how you can learn the Law in your spare time without interruption to your present work.

This book will prove most interesting to you. It fully describes the method, personnel, lectures and special instruction in the Blackstone Institute Course—the oldest non-resident Law Course in the country.

Back of the Course are such men as Ex-President Taft, Hon. John B. Winslow, George P. Sutherland, former President of the American Bar Association; Joseph E. Davies and eighty others.

If you would multiply your chances for real success, write and get a free copy of this book. It shows the way to greater success in business. Your request obligates you in no way. Simply fill in the coupon below. BLACKSTONE INSTITUTE, Department 209, 608 S. Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.

LAW AND AMERICAN BUSINESS

A Famous Man's Mistake

"MR. HALL, you have made a serious mistake. Your firm will have to pay for these coats."

The attorney for a large retail store in Chicago was reprimanding the buyer for the Knit goods department.

"What do you mean?" Hall asked with mock surprise.

"Just what I said," answered the lawyer, "the Minneapolis people can collect damages from your company."

"But I canceled the order," Hall insisted. "I notified them not to send the goods."

"That makes no difference," said the lawyer, "return, follow me carefully, for this is what you have done:

"The excess coat were increased your sale of sweater coats. To replenish your stock, you mailed an order to the Manufacturing Knit Goods Company for fifty sports Knit Coats. Company for fifty these coats at $14.50. Then another firm

WILSON'S SECOND SPEECH AT PARIS, DECEMBER 16, 1918.

PRESIDENT WILSON, at the Hotel de Ville, Paris, December 16, 1918, spoke as follows during the ceremony of the presentation to him of the freedom of the city and the gold medal of the municipality:

"Your greeting has raised many emotions within me. It is with no ordinary sympathy that the people of the United States, for whom I have the privilege of speaking, have viewed the sufferings of the people of France. Many of our own people have been themselves witnesses of those sufferings. We were the more deeply moved by the wrongs of the war because we knew the manner in which they were perpetrated.

"I beg that you will not suppose that because a wide ocean separated us in space we were not in effect eyewitnesses of the shameful ruin that was wrought and the cruel and unnecessary sufferings that were brought upon you. These sufferings have filled our hearts with indignation. We know what they were not only, but we know what they signified, and our hearts were touched to the quick by them, our imaginations filled with the whole picture of what France and Belgium in particular had experienced.

"When the United States entered the war, therefore, they entered it not only because they were moved by a conviction that the purposes of the Central Empires must be wrong and must be resisted by men everywhere who loved liberty and the right, but also because the illicit ambitions which they were entertaining and attempting to realize had led to the practices which shocked our hearts as much as they offended our principles.

"Our resolution was formed because we know how profoundly great principles of right were affected, but our hearts moved also with our resolution. You have been exceedingly generous in what you have been gracious enough to say about me, generous far beyond my personal deserts, but you have interpreted with real insight the motives and resolution of the people of the United States. Whatever influence I exercise, whatever authority I speak with, I derive from them. I know what they have thought, I know what they have desired, and when I have spoken what I know was in their minds it has been delightful to see how the consciences and purposes of free men everywhere responded.

"We have merely established our right to the full fellowship of those peoples here and throughout the world who reverence the right of genuine liberty and justice. You have made me feel very much at home here, not merely by the delightful warmth of your welcome but also by the manner in which you have made me realize to the utmost the intimate community of thought and ideal which characterizes your people and the great Nation which I have the honor for the time to represent.

"Your welcome to Paris I shall always remember as one of the unique and inspiring experiences of my life, and while I feel that you are honoring the people of the United States in my person, I shall nevertheless carry away with me a very keen personal gratification in looking back upon these memorable days. Permit me to thank you from a full heart."

NATIONAL CATHOLIC WAR COUNCIL.

The first step toward a National Catholic War Council was taken in April, 1917, at the annual meeting of the Archbishops of the United States at the Catholic University of America, Washington, when the loyalty of the clergy and worshippers of that faith was pledged to the American Government in the following letter from the Archbishops to President Wilson, presented to the latter by Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore:

"Standing firmly upon our solid Catholic tradition and history from the very foundation of this Nation, we reaffirm in this hour of stress and trial our most sacred and sincere loyalty and patriotism toward our country, our Government and our flag. Moved to the very depths of our hearts by the stirring appeal of the President of the United States and by the action of our National Congress, we accept whole-heartedly and unreservedly the decree of that legislative authority proclaiming this country to be in a state of war. We have prayed that we might be spared the dire necessity of entering the conflict. But now that war has been declared, we bow in obedience to the summons to bear our part in it, with fidelity, with courage and with the spirit of sacrifice, which as loyal citizens we are bound to manifest for the defense of the most sacred rights and the welfare of the whole Nation. Acknowledging gladly the gratitude that we have always felt for the protection of our spiritual liberty and the freedom of our Catholic institutions under the flag, we pledge our devotion and our strength in the maintenance of our country's glorious leadership in those possessions and principles which have been America's proudest boast. Inspired neither by hate nor fear, but by the holiest sentiments of truest patriotic fervor and zeal, we stand ready, we and all the flock committed to our keeping, to co-operate in every way possible with our President and our National Government, to the end that the great and holy cause of liberty may triumph, and that our beloved country may emerge from this hour of test stronger and nobler than ever. Our people now, as ever, will rise as one man to serve the Nation.

"Our priests and consecrated women will once again, as in every former trial of our country, win by their bravery, their heroism and their service new admiration and approval. We are all true Americans, ready, as our age, our ability and our condition permit, to do whatever is in us to do for the preservation, the progress and the triumph of our beloved country. May God direct and guide our President and our Government that out of this trying crisis in our national life may at length come a closer union among all the citizens of America, and that an enduring and blessed peace may crown the sacrifices which war inevitably entails."

Cardinals Gibbons of Baltimore, Farley of New York and O'Connell of Boston summoned a convention, which met at the university Aug. 11-12, 1917, and pledged the power and resources of their church. A united central body was agreed on, and in November, 1917, the fourteen American Archbishops organized themselves into the National Catholic War Council, with an administrative committee of four Bishops—P. J. Muldoon, Rockford, Ill.; J. B. Schrambs, Toledo, O.; P. J. Hayes, New York, and W. T. Russell, Charleston, S. C. The first meeting was held at the university, Jan. 16, 1918. An executive committee was appointed consisting of the four Bishops named, six members of the Knights of Columbus War Council and six members at large—Monsigner H. T. Drumgoole, Monsigner M. J. Splaine, Monsignor Edward A. Kelly, the Rev. John J. Burke, John G. Agar, Daniel J. Callahan, W. J. Mulligan, C. I. Denechaud, J. A. Flaherty, W. J. McGinley, J. J. McGraw and J. C. Pelletier. The following prominent Catholic citizens were appointed by the Archbishops as members of the Advisory Finance Committee: Baltimore, James R. Wheeler; Boston, James J. Phelan; Chicago, John V. T. Murphy; Cincinnati, Charles Williams; Dubuque, J. J. Meyers; Milwaukee, Frank G. Smith; New Mexico, O. N. Marron; New Orleans, Charles Theard; New York, Adrian Iselin jr.; Philadelphia, I. J. Dehan; Portland, T. E. Sullivau; San Francisco, Edward J. Tobin; St. Louis, Festus J. Wade; St. Paul, William P. Genny.

The Committee on Special War Activities—Chairman, the Rev. John J. Burke, C. S. P., editor of the Catholic World; Executive Secretary, Walter G. Hoeke of New York directs the work of the standing committees. These committees are Finance, Women's Activities, Men's Activities, Chaplains' Aid and Literature, Catholic Interests, Reconstruction and After-War Activities, Historical Records of Catholic War Activities. The committees have offices at 930-32 14th Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

The Chaplains' Aid Association established a branch office at No. 605 Fifth Avenue, New York, with auxiliary chapters all over the country.

REPUBLIC OF CZECHOSLOVAKIA.

THE Czechoslovak Republic is composed of the former Austrian States of Bohemia, Moravia, part of Silesia, and the District in Hungary known as Slovia. It has a population of about 13 millions, with an area of 52,000 square miles. The territory is divided into sixteen districts, subdivided into counties. The Republic has a democratic form of government. The natural wealth is estimated at fifteen billion dollars. Suffrage is universal, both men and women having the right to elect all officers in all departments of the Government. The Court system established by the Austrian Empire has been taken over by the new Government. Separation of church and state has been decreed The vast majority of the population is Roman Catholic, with a small Protestant and Jewish minority. There is a complete system of popular and secondary education, with about 5,000 primary schools and more than 600 secondary schools. There is a university at Prague, Bohemia, and universities are being established at Moravia and Slovakia. There are no illiterates. The officers of the Republic are: Thomas Garrigue Masaryk, President; Karel Kramer, Premier; Edward Benes, Foreign Affairs; Gustav Haberman, Justice; Francis Stanek, Public Works; Vaclac Klofac, Home Defense; George Stribrny, Posts and Telegraphs; Francis Soukup, Public Instruction; Adolf Stransky, Commerce; Alois Rasin, Finances; Charles Prasek, Agriculture; Moris Hruban, Minister Without Portfolio; Leo Winter, Social Welfare; Isidore Zahradnik, Railroads; Milan Stefanik, War; Vavro Srobar, Public Health; Anton Svehla, Interior.

The Republic was recognized by Great Britain August 3, 1918, United States, September 2, 1918; Japan, September 9, 1918; organization of Czechoslovak army authorized by Premier Clemenceau of France, December 10, 1917; state recognized by Premier Orlando of Italy, April 23, 1918; Declaration of Independence published at Paris, October 18, 1918; local government taken over in Prague, October 28, 1918, and Republic formally proclaimed on the 29th. Draft of Constitution completed at Geneva, Switzerland, November 2, 1918, when present officers were elected. Under this Constitution all men up to 26 years of age throughout the Republic are liable to military service. Republic has maintained three armies, one in France, one in Italy, and a force of approximately 75,000 policing the Trans-Siberian Railroad at the request of the Allied Governments

SICKNESS COSTS $720 000 000 IN UNITED STATES.

Conservative estimates of the cost of sickness insurance (or health insurance, as it is often called), set the total for the country at large at not less than $720,000,000 and perhaps not less than $1,000,000,000 per year. An expenditure of $720,000,000 per year means a per capita outlay of approximately $7. The estimated cost of education in the United States in 1914, public and private, was $754,500,000.

In Germany, out of every 100 insured wage-earners in 1890, 36.7 were listed as sick at one time or another during the year; in 1913 the proportion was 45.6. In Austria, where sickness insurance is general, the corresponding figures were 45.7 in 1890 and 51.8 in 1913. The average number of days lost on account of sickness per sick member has increased: In Germany, from 16.2 days in 1890 to 20.2 in 1913; in Austria, during the same period, from 16.4 to 17.4.

DEATH OF COL. THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

COL. THEODORE ROOSEVELT, twenty-sixth President of the United States, died early in the morning of Monday, January 6, at his home, Sagamore Hill, Oyster Bay, Long Island, N. Y. Inflammatory rheumatism was given as the cause. He had been only a few days out of the hospital, where he suffered from sciatica and a return of his ear trouble. He was the son of Theodore Roosevelt and Martha (Bulloch) Roosevelt, and he was born October 27, 1858, at No. 28 East 20th Street, New York City, and graduated at Harvard University in 1880. He was a member of the New York Legislature, 1882-4; Delegate Republican National Convention, 1884; ranched in North Dakota, 1884-6; defeated for Mayor, New York City, 1886; United States Civil Service Commissioner, 1889-1895; President New York City Police Board, 1895-1897; Assistant Secretary of the Navy, 1897-1898; organized and served in Cuba with First United States Cavalry (Roosevelt's Rough Riders); made Colonel for military services in war with Spain; Governor, New York, 1899-1900; Vice-President, United States, March 4, 1901; elected President, November 8, 1904, by largest popular majority on record; defeated for re-election by Wilson, in November, 1912; awarded Nobel Peace Prize in 1906; Special United States Ambassador to Great Britain at funeral of King Edward VII., in 1910; contributing editor of the Outlook, 1909-1914; made hunting trip in Africa, 1909-1910; made exploring visit to Brazil, 1914; wrote books and magazine articles for many years. One of his sons, Quentin Roosevelt, an aviator, was killed in Europe in the war with Germany. Col. Roosevelt's first wife, whom he married October 27, 1880, was Alice Hathaway Lee, daughter of George Cabot Lee. She died February 14, 1884, at London, leaving one child by the union, Alice, who, in 1906, became the wife of Nicholas Longworth of Cincinnati, a Republican Representative in Congress. The Colonel's second wife was Edith Kermit Carow. He married her in 1886. She survives her husband, as do their children, Theodore Jr., Kermit, Ethel and Archie.

President and Mrs. Wilson and party arrived at London on Dec. 26 and were welcomed by the King and Queen and cheering populace. On Dec. 27 the American Executive and party were the guests at a State banquet at Buckingham Palace, where Mr. Wilson spoke on his plan for a League of Nations. On Dec. 28 he spoke at the Guildhall, on receiving the freedom of London. On Dec. 30 the President and wife visited Manchester and other points; on Dec. 31 they returned to France, and on Jan. 1, 1919, they set out for Italy, where they were the guests, at Rome, of the King and Queen. A visit was paid to the Pope; and on Jan. 4 the President left Rome for Genoa, Milan, and Turin.

On Jan. 1, 1919, the transport Northern Pacific, bound for New York with 2,925 returning troops, many of them wounded and invalided, went ashore in a fog on Fire Island, L. I. The work of taking off the soldiers was begun on Jan. 2.

American losses in the war were estimated on Dec. 16, 1918, at 302,693, including 40,440 unreported casualties in process of verification. See page 722 for earlier data.

Canada's war casualties were reported, Jan. 3, 1919, as totalling 220,182, with 60,383 dead, of whom 1,842 were officers killed in action. See page 710 for British casualties.

American troops in Russia defeated (Dec. 30, 1918-Jan. 4, 1919), Bolshevik forces near Kadish, on the Petrograd road.

Anarchists blew up the homes of three Philadelphia officials, Dec. 30.

French war dead are estimated at 1,400,000, with 800,000 recovered from wounds, it is stated in the Chamber of Deputies.

German war dead are estimated by the Cologne Gazette at 2,000,000. Up to Oct. 25 the total casualties reported were 6,066,769, of whom more than 4,750,000 were Prussians. The total includes the naval casualties, which were about 70,000, comprising more than 25,000 dead, more than 15,000 missing, and nearly 29,000 wounded.

Prussia—1,262,060 dead, 2,882,671 wounded, 616,139 missing; total, 4,760,870.

Bavaria—150,658 dead, 363,823 wounded, 72,115 missing; total, 586,596.

Saxony—108,017 dead, 252,027 wounded, 51,787 missing; total, 411,831.

Wurttemberg—64,507 dead, 155,654 wounded, 16,802 missing; total, 236,963.

Navy—25,862 dead, 28,968 wounded, 15,679 missing; total, 70,509.

The Democratic National Committee reports expending $450,459 and receiving $498,519. The Republican National Committee received $678,815 and distributed $675,605. The Suffragists spent $7,693. The New York County Democratic and Republican County Committees spent, respectively, $140,978 and $50,089.

On Dec. 13 the American Army of Occupation crossed the Rhine. Just before crossing three French divisions were put in to take over the southern part of our sector across the river, and one American division, the Third, composed of Regulars, was sent south to take over part of the French bridgehead at Mainz. The 1st, 2d, and 32d American Divisions comprised the force which went over the river. The First crossed over the old pontoon bridge, the Thirty-second and the French using the big Coblenz bridge. It was raining and just getting light when the troops started over, but the American flag was waving and bands were playing.

On Dec. 13 two robbers killed the Paying Teller and also the Assistant Treasurer at the East Brooklyn Savings Bank, Brooklyn, and escaped with $13,000.

On Dec. 14 general elections for a new Parliament were held throughout Great Britain. About twenty million persons cast their ballots. The women getting their first country-wide opportunity. Lloyd George and his Coalition candidates won the day.

Dr. Sidonio Paes, President of Portugal, was shot and killed by an assassin at about 12 P. M. Dec. 14.

LATE DEATHS.

Elsler, Mrs. Euphemia Emma—"Effie Elsler" (1823) Nutley, N. J., actress, supported Charlotte Cushman, Edwin Forrest, Clara Morris, Dec. 12.

Count George von Hertling, seventy-five years old, former German Chancellor, died Jan. 3, at Ruhpolding, Bavaria.

THE AMERICAN RED CROSS AND THE WAR.

The vast extent of Red Cross operations in France is to some degree indicated by the fact that up to July 1, 1918, the sum of $36,613,682.73 had been expended, of which more than fifteen millions had been used for relief work among soldiers, while the balance went for various forms of civilian relief. For the six months ending Dec. 31, 1918, an appropriation has been made of $25,752,126.

The Red Cross furnished 3,800 hospitals with medical and surgical supplies. It has equipped eight American Red Cross military hospitals of the highest grade, which serve American troops alone; it has equipped similar hospitals for French soldiers and in addition operates hospitals for French civilians, and for children.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS WAR ACTIVITIES.

When the United States troops were being assembled along the Mexican border in 1916 the Knights of Columbus, answering a number of appeals, ventured into a new field of work, namely, the establishment and conduct of buildings as recreation centres for the men in the service. This work received the commendation of the War Department, of officers, privates and the public generally.

Upon the declaration of war on April 6, 1917, by President Wilson, the appeals again commenced for similar work at the camps, cantonments, encampments, naval bases and allied centres, with the result that the Knights tendered their services, which were accepted by the United States Government.

UNITED STATES ARMY PAY.

(By the Department of War.)

Pay of Enlisted Men.

THE pay of enlisted men depends on their grades, ratings, and length of service. From June 1, 1917, and continuing during the term of the war, the pay of enlisted men is as follows: Men receiving $30: All privates, the army entering grade. Men receiving $33: First class privates, men promoted to act in minor non-commissioned officer capacity. Men receiving $36: Corporals, saddlers, mechanics, farriers and wagoners, and musicians of the third class. Men receiving $38: All sergeant grades in the line, which include infantry, field artillery, coast artillery, and cavalry; cooks, horseshoers, band corporals, and musicians of the second class. Men receiving $44: Sergeants of the various corps of the engineers, ordnance, signal corps, quartermaster corps, and medical department; band sergeants and musicians of the first class.

Men receiving $48: Battalion sergeant majors, squadron sergeant majors, sergeant majors (junior grade), sergeant buglers, master gunners, and assistant band leaders of the line. Men receiving $51: Regimental sergeant majors, regimental supply sergeants, sergeant majors (senior grade), quartermaster sergeants of the quartermaster corps, ordnance sergeants, first sergeants, electrician sergeants of the first class, assistant engineers and battalion sergeant majors and battalion supply sergeants of the engineers. Men receiving $56: Sergeants, first class, of the medical department. Men receiving $71: Hospital sergeants, master engineers of the junior grade, and engineers. Men receiving $81: Quartermaster sergeants of the senior grade of the quartermaster corps, band leaders, master signal electricians, master electricians, master engineers of the senior grade, and master hospital sergeants.

Assignment to Special Duties.

(1) Increased pay is allowed for continuous service, computed under what is known as "enlistment period." An enlistment period ordinarily represents a period of three or four years, dependent upon the law in effect at date of enlistment. There are seven such periods, covering a period of service of from one year to more than eighteen years, provided for, and the increases range from $3 to $24 per month, according to the grade and length of service. Men in the grade of private calling for $30 per month are increased $3 per month during the second enlistment period, an additional $3 during the third enlistment period, and $1 per month for each additional enlistment period to include the seventh enlistment period. Men above the $30 grade and up to and including the $38 grade are entitled to $3 per month additional pay for each enlistment period from the second to the seventh for each successive enlistment period. Men above the $38 grade are entitled to $4 per month additional pay for each enlistment period from the second to the seventh.

Some Additional Ratings.

(2) Enlisted men of the coast artillery, below the grade of mess sergeant, are entitled to the following additional ratings, according to established individual qualifications: Casement electricians, observers of the first class, plotters, and coxswains, $9 per month; chief planters, observers of second class, chief loaders, gun commanders, and gun pointers, $7 per month; enlisted men of the field artillery—expert first class gunners, $5 per month; first class gunners, $3 per month; and second class gunners, $2 per month; enlisted men of the cavalry, engineers and infantry—expert riflemen, $5 per month; sharpshooters, $3 per month; and marksmen, $2 per month; enlisted men of the medical department—surgical assistants, $5 per month; nurse (enlisted man), $3 per month; and dispensary assistant, $2 per month.

(3) Enlisted men of the signal corps, while on duties which require them to participate regularly in aero flights, assuming that they have rating of aviation mechanician, receive 50 per cent. increase in their monthly pay.

Housing and Subsistence.

(4) All enlisted men, while on detached duty not in the field where there are no army quarters, receive in addition to their pay $15 per month for housing and an allowance for subsistence, heat and light.

(5) Enlisted men, if serving in a foreign country or beyond the continental limits of the United States (Porto Rico, Hawaii and Panama Canal Zone excepted) receive 20 per cent. increase in pay computed on the base pay and service pay prevailing prior to June 1, 1917.

(6) Enlisted men attached to the United States Military Academy are entitled to the same pay and allowances as other enlisted men of the regular army of the same grade and additional compensation provided for performing certain duties upon detail therefor in orders.

The Pay of Officers.

Officers of the army are paid according to rank held by them. A second lieutenant receives $141.67 initial pay per month; first lieutenants, $166.67; captain, $200; major, $250; lieutenant colonel, $291.67, and a colonel, $333.33, with an increase of 10 per cent. known as longevity pay for each period of five years of service, provided that such increase shall not exceed 40 per cent. The pay of a brigadier general is $6,000 per year, major general, $8,000; lieutenant general, $9,000, and a general, $10,000. These officers receive no increase for continuous service. All officers are entitled to be furnished public quarters, with fuel and light, but if these cannot be provided the officers receive a commuted money value of the same. The allowance for quarters for a second lieutenant is 2 rooms, or $24 per month. All get an allowance for heat and light, dependent upon the locality of their stations and the season. While on foreign service officers receive an increase of 10 per cent. of their base pay and longevity pay.

Aerial "Flight" Increases.

Aviation officers of the signal corps, or officers attached to the signal corps, while on duty which requires them to participate regularly and frequently in aerial flights, are entitled to an increase in the pay of their grade, under their commissions, as follows: Aviation officers, 25 per cent.; junior military aviators, 50 per cent.; military aviators, 75 per cent. Each junior military aviator and each military aviator duly qualified and serving has the rank, pay, and allowances of one grade higher than that held by them under their commissions, provided that the ranks under their commissions are not higher than that of captain. For deeds of valor, recognized by acts of Congress, officers and enlisted men receive certificates of merit which entitle them to an additional compensation of $2 per month.

Allowances at Retirement.

Enlisted men can apply for retirement after 30 years of service. They are retired on 75 per cent. of the monthly pay drawn at the time of retirement, and $15.75 a month additional in lieu of allowances. Officers are retired for disability or after 64 years of age, and receive 75 per cent. of the pay of the grade held at date of retirement. An enlisted man in active service has no necessary personal expenses, except for barber and laundry. Uniforms, underclothing, shoes, hats, quarters, medical attendance, and subsistence are supplied them at Government expense. Such materials as tobacco, postage, confectionery, and incidentals of individual taste may be purchased at the post exchange at cost. Officers, while in hospital, are charged $1 per day for subsistence. They are not entitled to clothing or equipment and are required to subsist themselves, purchasing their supplies either from the quartermaster or through the ordinary channels of trade. The officers and enlisted men of the army are paid at the end of each month, or as soon thereafter as possible, by the disbursing officers of the quartermaster corps, in cash or by check, at their stations or in the field. If on duty in France they are paid in French currency or by United States checks, as officers and men may elect.

UNITED STATES NAVY PAY.

(By the Navy Department.)

Annual Base Pay of Officers.

Admiral (in command of fleet), $10,000; vice admiral (second in command of fleet), $9,000; rear admiral, upper half, $8,000; real admiral, lower half, $6,000; commodore, $6,000; captain, $4,000; commander, $3,500; lieutenant commander, $3,000; lieutenant, $2,400; lieutenant (junior grade), $2,000; ensign, $1,700.

To each commissioned officer below the rank of rear admiral is allowed 10 per cent. of his yearly pay for each five years of service in the army, navy, and marine corps, but not exceeding in all 40 per cent. Additional provision is made by law that the pay of a captain shall not exceed $5,000, a commander $4,500, and a lieutenant commander $4,000 per annum.

Sea and Foreign Shore Duty.

An officer on sea or on shore duty beyond the continental limits of the United States receives while so serving 10 per cent. additional of his pay. An officer on shore duty where no Government quarters are furnished is paid $12 per month for each of the number of rooms to which his rank entitles him, that is:

Rear admiral, upper half, 9 rooms; rear admiral, lower half, 8; captain, 7; commander, 6; lieutenant commander, 5; lieutenant, 4; lieutenant (junior grade), 3; ensign, warrant officer and nurse, 2.

Varying allowances for heat and light, depending upon the month and place of duty, are allowed for the number of rooms actually occupied, but not exceeding the number to which an officer's rank entitles him. Aids to rear admirals of the upper half are each paid $200 per annum and aids to rear admirals of the lower half, $150 each per annum.

Student Naval Aviators.

Officers of the navy appointed student naval aviators and while detailed for duty involving actual flying in aircraft receive the pay and allowances of the rank plus 35 per cent. increase thereof, and those officers who have qualified as naval aviators shall while so detailed receive the pay and allowances of their rank plus 50 per cent. thereof. Boatswains, gunners, pay clerks, machinists, carpenters, sailmakers, and pharmacists are known as warrant officers and are paid as follows:

	At sea.	On shore.	Waiting orders.
First 3 years' service	$1,500	$1,125	$875
Second 3 years' service	1,625	1,250	1,000
Third 3 years' service	1,750	1,625	1,125
Fourth 3 years' service	2,000	1,750	1,250
After 12 years' service	2,250	2,000	1,500

Warrant officers on shore duty receive ensign's allowances for quarters and heat and light.

After six years from date of warrant these officers are, if duly qualified, commissioned chief warrant officers and receive the pay and allowances of ensign. After six years from date of commission each commissioned warrant officer with a creditable record receives the pay and allowances of a lieutenant (junior grade), and after 12 years from date of commission the pay and allowances of a lieutenant. Warrant officers while attached to a seagoing ship are paid a ration allowance of 40 cents per day. All officers in the regular navy are required to provide their own uniforms and to pay for subsistence both ashore and afloat.

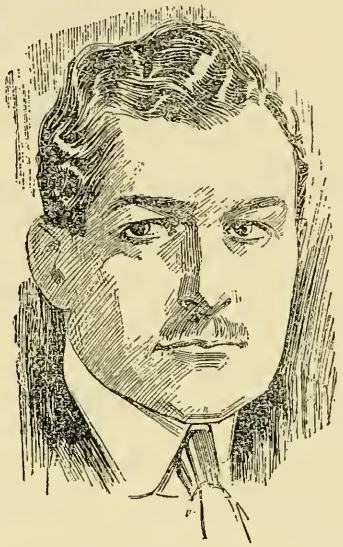
Don't Get Bald!



Here's the kind of a man who makes big money. Every inch of him tells you that. He gets what he goes after.

But supposing his hair was thin, scraggly and dead-looking, or so oily that it lay flat and greasy on his scalp! Or supposing that it was so dry that it shed Dandruff all over his shoulders! His hair would queer his whole appearance, wouldn't it?

Pompeian HAIR Massage

A Liquid for Dandruff

Good-looking hair! Healthy, vigorous hair! Ah, there's the final touch to a good money-making appearance. Neglect of the hair brings on Dandruff. Premature baldness often results. Pompeian HAIR Massage stops Dandruff. Pompeian HAIR Massage keeps the scalp healthy and hence the hair vigorous, clean and good looking.

Not oily, nor gummy, nor smelly. Delightful to use. Made by the reliable and experienced makers of the famous Pompeian MASSAGE Cream and Pompeian NIGHT Cream.

Look your best. Keep your hair healthy. Begin today. 60c and $1.10 bottles at the drug stores. Ask for Pompeian HAIR Massage by name. At your barber's, too.

I Learned to Read Character at Sight

The Strange Adventure of Carlton Steele

"That man is a band leader," said the lady in white, turning casually in her steamer chair. "And his companion is the man who owns the band."

I had overheard a little group on the deck of the Mauretania discussing—as is the pleasant habit of ocean travelers the first day out—who their two rather distinguished-looking fellow travelers might be who had kept themselves so aloof since we sailed from Southampton.

From the looks of blank amazement on the faces of the lady's companions, and from their exclamations. it dawned on me that she was telling what these men were without having the faintest idea who they were.

"You know who she is, don't you?" said my traveling mate, Dr. Allen. "She is the most famous Character Analyst in the United States—Dr. Katherine M. H. Blackford. Let me introduce you," said he, moving over from the rail.

And at that moment began what I consider perhaps the most remarkable —and profitable — experience of my whole life.

"Mr. Steele, I don't know either of them from Adam." said Dr. Blackford with a gleaming, smile and a twinkle of her keen, dark eyes, "but I am sure that my conclusion is correct."

Sure enough. We checked up Dr. Blackford that same evening and found that the two "mysterious strangers" were—who do you think?

Why, no other than the Leader of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and the President of the Corporation owning the orchestra (the "band leader" and the "owner of the band").

When I congratulated Dr. Blackford on her quite unbelievable feat she said, "Mr. Steele, you could do that just as easily as I do, if you would only take the pains. Really you could. There is no trick about it, or second sight, or any such rubbish.

"It is just knowing how to size up people by looking at them, and studying in one swift but careful survey their features and physique and gestures and habit of conversation.

"It all seems so simple that I often wonder why every normal man or woman cannot do the same thing.

"But I have taught thousands of people how to read and analyze character—all the way from office and factory employees to state governors, owners of large newspapers and corporation heads."

Right there I made up my mind that whatever else I did when we landed in New York, I would invest five dollars in Dr. Blackford's popular course In "Reading Character at Sight," which I learned her publishers, the Independent Corporation, were now marketing nationally as a far-reaching educational service.

Five dollars! Why I tell you that Course has been worth five thousand dollars to me already. In seven fascinating lessons I have discovered how to tell what a man is like from what he looks like. In fact I got the real secret of it in the first lesson, right in my own home.

As a result I am getting to be a judge of character to an extent I never dreamed was possible.

Honestly, I never knew people before.

It is a positive revelation to be able to "look right through people," as the old saying goes, and be able by applying Dr. Blackford's simple method to tell what people really are—under the surface.

Knowing now the peculiar qualities of the men or women I meet in business—by observing them closely—I know how to deal with them more successfully; how to say the right thing; how to influence them effectively; how to interest them; how to meet them in a business transaction, or a discussion, and secure every proper advantage.

How many times have you said: "Oh, if I had only known (him or her) then as I do now!" How different it all might have been."

Dr. Blackford's lessons will save you from any such painful experience as this. Her method is simple and accurate and amazingly easy to master—because it is not drudgery but just a fascinating game of "sizing people up."

It is not guesswork, but a sensible and scientific application of physical and psychological laws that govern human character and actions.

Photographing character! Sounds as strange as aviation and wireless did a few years ago, doesn't it? Yet that is precisely what Dr. Blackford's lessons teach you to do.

Men and women of all conditions have come to her for knowledge about themselves. Heads of large corporations, engineers, physicians, bankers, educators have studied her course and profited thereby.

I see now why so many thousands have sought Dr. Blackford's guidance in solving the greatest problems of their business and their every-day lives.

I see why she has been sought as counsellor by such concerns as the Scott Paper Company, Baker-Vawter Company, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company and scores of other great concerns.

Dr. Blackford has a wonderful message, and for the first time it has been put into a popular home-study course of seven lessons at a price within the reach of all,

24-PAGE 4-PLATE WIDE METROPOLITAN TUBULAR PLATE PRESS

60,000 per hour 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12-page papers;
30,000 per hour 14, 16, 18, 20, 22 and 24-page papers.

THE NEW YORK JOURNAL OF COMMERCE has one of these machines (as illustrated), the equivalent of a sextuple, printing its many different editions daily.

THE DETROIT DAILY TIMES (Mich.) also has a 32-page machine, giving them, with great economy and facility, the productive capacity of an octuple of any other type.

THE RICHMOND (VA.) NEWS-LEADER has two 24-page 4-plate wide presses of the above type (each the equivalent in printing capacity of a sextuple of any other style).

THE VANCOUVER (B. C.) DAILY PROVINCE for several years has used two 24-page 2-plate wide Tubulars. They have installed two 32-page 4-plate wide machines of the above type. This second order for a new and much larger equipment by such a publication is sufficient evidence of the success of Tubular Plate principles.

THESE NEWSPAPERS are but a few of the many scores which have adopted the Tubular Plate Press. Recognition by newspaper engineers, operators and publishers of its economy, efficiency, simplicity and flexibility compared to the semi-cylindrical style is conclusive.

MORE TUBULAR PLATE PRESSES NEW of the popular sizes—12 to 20 pages—have been sold by us during the past two years than have been sold NEW of other styles by all our competitors combined TEN TIMES OVER.

Brand New Oliver Typewriters for Almost Half What They Used to Cost. Latest and Best Model. Sold Under a New Money-Saving Plan. Five Days' Free Trial. No Money Down—Over a Year to Pay.

Was $100 OLIVER Now $57

Over 600,000 Sold

This is the offer of The Oliver Typewriter Company itself—a $2,000,000 concern. The Oliver Typewriter Company gives this guarantee: The Oliver Nine we now sell direct is the exact machine—our Model No. 9—which was formerly priced at $100.

We do not offer a second-hand nor rebuilt machine. So do not confuse this new $57 Oliver with other offers.

The $43 you now save is the result of new and efficient sales methods.

Formerly there were thousands of Oliver salesmen and agents. We had to maintain expensive offices in many cities. Other costly and roundabout sales methods kept the price of typewriters around $100.

By ending all these wastes and adopting a new plan we save the American public millions of dollars.

HOW TO SAVE

This is our plan: You may have an Oliver for free trial by answering this advertisement.

Or if you wish further information, check the coupon.

We will send you an Oliver Nine direct to your office or home for five days' free trial; it does not cost you a cent. Nor are you under the slightest obligation to buy.

We give you the opportunity to be your own salesman and save $43. You are the sole judge. There are no salesmen to influence you.

If you decide to keep the Oliver, pay us at the rate of $3 per month. If you do not wish to keep it, we even refund the transportation charges. That is all there is to our plan. It is simplicity itself.

A FAVORITE

This standard keyboard, visible Oliver has long been the world's model. If you remember, Oliver introduced visible writing.

Year after year, Oliver inventors have set the pace. Today's model—the Nine—is their greatest achievement.

Any stenographer may turn to the Oliver and operate it like any other machine. In fact, its simplicity recommends it to people who have never used a typewriter before.

This Oliver Nine is the finest, the costliest, the most successful model we have ever built. If any typewriter is worth $100, it is this handsome machine—the greatest Oliver triumph.

Regardless of price, do not spend one cent upon any typewriter—whether new, second hand or rebuilt—do not even rent a machine until you have investigated thoroughly our proposition.

Used by Big Business

It is the same commercial machine used by U. S. Steel Corporation, National City Bank of New York, Montgomery Ward & Co., Curtis Publishing Co., Pennsylvania Railroad, Hart Schaffner & Marx, Morris & Company, New York "World," Ward Baking Company, Jones & Laughlin Steel Company, Western Clock Company—"Big Ben," Encyclopaedia Britannica and a host of others. Over 600,000 have been sold.

rth $43

The Oliver Typewriter Company, by this great, money-saving, price-reducing plan is entitled to your first consideration.

Note the two-way coupon. Send at once for the free-trial Oliver, or for our startling book entitled "The High Cost of Typewriters—the Reason and the Remedy."

This amazing book exposes the follies of the old selling plans and tells the whole story of the Oliver Rebellion. With it we send a new catalog, picturing and describing the Oliver Nine.

.e Should Bathe Internally

Adds Many Years to Average Life

By R. W. BEAL

MUCH has been said and volumes have been written describing at length the many kinds of baths civilized man has indulged in from time to time. Every possible resource of the human mind has been brought into play to fashion new methods of bathing, but strange as it may seem, the most important as well as the most beneficial of all baths, the "Internal Bath," has been given little thought.

The reason for this is probably due to the fact that few people seem to realize the tremendous part that internal bathing plays in the acquiring and maintaining of health.

If you were to ask a dozen people to define an internal bath, you would have as many different definitions, and the probability is that not one of them would be correct. To avoid any misconception as to what constitutes an internal bath, let it be said that a hot water enema is no more an internal bath than a bill of fare is a dinner.

If it were possible and agreeable to take the great mass of thinking people to witness an average post-mortem, the sights they would see and the things they would learn would prove of such lasting benefit, and impress them so profoundly, that further argument in favor of internal bathing would be unnecessary to convince them. Unfortunately, however, it is not possible to do this, profitable as such an experience would doubtless prove to be. There is, then, only one other way to get this information into their hands, and that is by acquainting them with such knowledge as will enable them to appreciate the value of this long-sought-for health-producing necessity.

Few people realize what a very little thing is necessary sometimes to improve their physical condition. Also, they have almost no conception of how a little carelessness, indifference or neglect can be the fundamental cause of the most virulent disease. For instance, that universal disorder from which almost all humanity is suffering, known as "constipation," "auto-intoxication," "auto-infection," and a multitude of other terms, is not only curable, but preventable, through the consistent practice of internal bathing.

How many people realize that normal functioning of the bowels and a clean intestinal tract make it impossible to become sick? "Man of to-day is only 50 per cent. efficient." Reduced to simple English this means that most men are trying to do a man's portion of work on half a man's power. This applies equally to women.

People don't seem to realize, strange to say, how important it is to keep the body free from accumulated body waste (poisons). Their doing so would prevent the absorption into the blood of the poisonous excretions of the body and health would be the inevitable result.

If you would keep your blood pure, your heart normal, your eyes clear, your complexion clean, your head keen, your blood pressure normal, your nerves relaxed, and be able to enjoy the vigor of youth in your declining years, practice internal bathing and begin to-day.

Now that your attention has been called to the importance of internal bathing, it may be that a number of questions will suggest themselves to your mind. You will probably want to know WHAT an Internal Bath is. WHY people should take them and the WAY to take them. These and countless other questions are answered in a booklet entitled, THE WHAT, THE WHY and THE WAY OF INTERNAL BATHING, written by Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell, the inventor of the "J.B.L. Cascade," whose lifelong study and research along this line made him the pre-eminent authority on this subject. Not only did internal bathing save and prolong Dr. Tyrrell's own life, but the lives of multitudes of individuals have been equally spared and prolonged. No other book has ever been written containing such a vast amount of practical information to the business man, the worker and the housewife.

All that is necessary to secure this book is to write to Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute at 134 West 65th Street, New York, and mention having read this article in the World Almanac, and same will be immediately mailed to you free of all cost or obligation.

Perhaps you realize now, more than ever, the truth of these statements, and if the reading of this article will result in a proper appreciation on your part of the value of internal bathing, it will have served its purposes. What you will want to do now is to avail yourself of the opportunity for learning more about the subject, and your writing for this book will give you that information. Do not put off doing this, but send for the book now, while the matter is fresh in your mind.

The World.

JOSEPH PULITZER.

April 10, 1847 ✣ October 29, 1911.

The year 1918 opened with Columbia, clad in her armor of justice and the unsheathed sword of democracy in her hands, standing on the shores of France, with the stalwart boys of Pershing's first overseas expedition about her, beckoning the uncounted millions of her sons to follow. At home in America armies were training in cantonments or preparing to flock to the colors. The World, inspired by the spirit of its founder, Joseph Pulitzer, who on May 10, 1883, dedicated it as "an institution that should always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues" and always remain devoted to the public welfare, stood shoulder to shoulder with the leaders of the Nation. It demanded that the sword of Columbia be upheld with the might of the country. It fought for every expedient calculated to win the war; battled inch by inch the subtle propaganda of the enemy, and encouraged our fighting men already across with the promise of millions of sturdy young Americans to follow. Jan. 1, James M. Tuohy, The World's London correspondent, cabled hopefully that Britain was still gaining in power and Germany nearing her limit as they entered the New Year. The World published greetings of Secretary of War Newton D. Baker and Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, asking the highest effort of the country to win the war. The World struck the keynote for America's coming most momentous year when it said editorially: "The vast majority of the civilized people of the world have only one wish for the new year—Peace! All of them are war-weary. All of them are looking forward eagerly and hopefully to the day when this ghastly conflict will end and organized murder and calamity will cease. The outcome is now in the hands of the democratic peoples. What remains is to make certain that Prussianism has perished from the earth, and that is the task for resolute democracy for the year just dawning."

THE WORLD'S EUROPEAN STAFF DID VALIANT SERVICE.

The World's columns carried the opinions and declarations of the greatest minds of Europe, contributed because of the known fact that newspapers all over the country watched this paper as an aid in interpreting public opinion for their own constituents. On Jan. 2 Stephen Pichon, Minister of Foreign Affairs of France, sent through The World's Paris representative a greeting to the American people. "On the eve of the New Year," he said, "the democracies who have bound themselves to defeat Prussian imperialism after it has reduced Germany to servitude, in its attempt to subject the world to a new slavery, can regard the future with the certitude given them by the exact consciousness of their forces and the justice of their cause." In a lighter vein of whimsical conjecture it is interesting to look back to the files of Jan. 4 and read The World's special cable from Paris quoting the French seeress, Mme. de Thelme, successor to Mme. de Thebes. She prophesied that "the beginning of next autumn seems to me the most favorable time for the conclusion of peace. Peace negotiations will be carried on in a town in the Rhine valley." In the anxious early days of the year there was a doubt in many minds whether after all America would succeed in getting enough of her troops across to turn the tide. The splendid staff of The World in Europe did valiant service to the public in keeping it informed through their despatches to this paper. They often obtained the news at the risk of their lives on battlefields.

Arno Dosch-Fleurot of The World's European staff cabled on Jan. 19 from Petrograd that Kerensky was accused by the Bolsheviki of being in a plot to upset the Government. On Jan. 20 he sent the momentous news that "The Constitutional Assembly had died in birth," as he had prophesied it would. The Bolsheviki ended the Assembly by armed force. On Feb. 19 he cabled again boldly from Petrograd that "the Bolsheviki revolution would not have taken place, a separate armistice would not have been signed with Germany with the possibility of a separate peace, if it had not been for a whole series of mistakes on the part of the Allied Governments in relation to Russia, including the failure to give their war aims." And on Feb. 25, confirming this, The World's Washington bureau sent the news of Russia's acceptance of the German peace terms to be signed at Brest-Litovsk. The United States was for war, not peace, as the foe threw off the mask in the terms offered Russia, The World editorial columns pointed to Germany's peace offer and Russia's acceptance as an object lesson to the Western Powers. On March 3 Arno Dosch-Fleurot telegraphed The World's London's office saying: "No Associated Press man in Petrograd, so I am filing full and urgent morning and evening stories. Intend to stick to end." So through the year he continued at his post. He cabled from Stockholm May 26 that the Socialists must share with the Bolsheviki the blame for Russia's tragic failure. Early in June he wired that a Russian republic never was intended by the Bolsheviki and that Petrograd workmen constituting that faction did not believe in democracy. Their purpose in upsetting the Czar was to set up an autocracy of the proletariat. The cables bore his discoveries to the outside world bit by bit in impartial and illuminating despatches. Finally, on July 14, this correspondent confirmed what the reading world had begun to suspect from his articles. Lenine and Trotzky had shared in the betrayal of democracy at Brest-Litovsk.

Aug. 18 he began chronicling the Bolshevik reign of terror, the turning of the sobered masses away from the Bolsheviki. To Arno Dosch-Fleurot in the previous year had fallen the great fortune as a newspaper man to be in Petrograd when the revolution came to pass. In concise English he cabled the marvellous story, the vivid pictures, of the quick and almost bloodless victory of the Russian people over the Czar's Government. The Administration and Diplomatic Corps at Washington got more information from the columns of The World than from their own delayed despatches.

This year again fell a great opportunity to him. It was to be the first of American journalists to reach Berlin after the signing of the armistice. On Nov. 24, 1918, he cabled from Berlin via Stockholm: "I arrived in Berlin at the moment when the chief of the unsettled political questions were crying for solution, namely, National Assembly or no National Assembly; democracy or rule by organization of workers; rule by the majority or a dictature of the proletariat according to the methods of Lenine." The next day he cabled that Philipp Scheidemann, leader of the majority group of Socialists and former Minister of Finance and Colonies, had told him that "Our National Assembly will probably be called in February." In Washington officials of the State, Navy and War Departments commended the enterprise of The World in sending Mr. Dosch-Fleurot to Berlin, the first American correspondent to visit the German capital after the signing of the armistice. His pen pictures of conditions in Germany and his analysis of the political situation were the first-hand information to reach Washington.

STAFF MEN WITH THE TROOPS AT THE FRONT.

To Lincoln Eyre, The World's Paris correspondent, fell the privilege of cabling a short sentence on Jan. 27 that sent a sigh of satisfaction, after months of preparation and waiting, sweeping across the homeland. "Pershing's force is a real army now, fit to give battle," it read. This young man's despatches through the year echoed the heart enthusiasm and longing of the folks at home for their boys "over there" to acquit themselves as Americans always have. He told the straightforward tale from day to day. It was told in such a way that American fathers and mothers felt that their sons were fighting nobly and dying, when die they must, as they would have them, like free men. On Feb. 3 he cabled that the American troops were eager to advance and the Germans were getting jumpy. Feb. 4 he told of the artillery duel between the American and German gunners two days before, the Yankees working like veterans and inflicting more harm than the foe. March 11, of the heaviest gun fire yet hurled upon the American lines in the Lorraine sector and how well our boys bore it. On March 12 he wired: "We have taken our revenge," and on March 21 he told how the American boys stormed the trenches near Luneville. On the latter occasion Eyre, following with the troops, found two gassed Frenchmen, gasping and nauseated with gas where the Americans had swept forward. He took them in his car to the American Medical Corps hospital. On April 25 he cabled telling of the valor of the New York men, racked by powerful gun fire for a month in the trenches at Luneville. On the 30th, in the front lines with the American forces, he wrote of the bravery of our men and the fury of their fire on the battle line in Northern France—on the line that barred the road to Paris and Amiens, in the Valleys of the Somme and Luce and near Ypres. His stories caused hearts to beat high all across America. He touched the same chord when on Aug. 8, with the American forces north of the Ourcq, he told how the Old 69th, miles ahead of the procession, led the victorious way across the river. He depicted it in such terms as made every true American wish he had been there.

MARTIN GREEN'S STORIES OF THE WAR AT THE FRONT.

The Evening World sent Martin Green, a staff correspondent of the paper for seventeen years, to the battle front in December, 1917. Mr. Green went from New York by way of England, crossed the channel from Southampton to Havre and was in the trenches with the 1st Division of the old Regular Army in January. Before going to the trenches Mr. Green visited the line of supplies back of the American forces in France and he was the first correspondent to send to a New York newspaper a comprehensive story of the dock, railroad and storage building and operations of the United States Army abroad. This was news of paramount importance, as the American people up to that time had no idea of the vast and expensive preparations for feeding, transporting and equipping our soldiers in France which had been made necessary by our participation in the war.

Mr. Green was in Paris on the night of the great air raid of Jan. 30, 1918, the first attack on Paris in two years. He covered the American battle front from the Swiss border to Picardy and sent to New York the first stories of the activities of the 165th Regiment of the Rainbow Division—the old 69th. He and Lincoln Eyre of The Morning World were the first correspondents to visit the old 15th New York—Col. William Hayward's negro regiment. The Evening World was the first American newspaper to publish the fact that American troops were in the fight at Chateau-Thierry, the news coming in a special cablegram from Mr. Green, who was the only American newspaper correspondent in Chateau-Thierry on May 31 and June 1. Mr. Green also sent to The Evening World an exclusive story of the battle of the Oise, which stopped the German advance on Paris in March.

The good work done by other European correspondents of The World fell not a whit behind that of Dosch-Fleurot, Eyre and Green in importance to the American people. It was work marked by painstaking investigation and lucidity of expression, by the weighing, with the foreknowledge that they were the eyes and ears of a great people for whose understanding of events and destiny making actions they were responsible. Cyril Brown cabled from Stockholm Jan. 13 that Leube, member of the German Reichstag's Foreign Relations Committee, had said: "Germany's only answer to Lloyd George and President Wilson will be given with the sword." March 17 he cabled that Germany had reached her limit in human material, women doing the work of men in keeping the army up, and in a series of articles following he laid bare to our eyes the conditions in Germany, going constantly from bad to worse. He did the military department of the United States a signal service.

James M. Tuohy is head of The World's London staff. He occupies the position of dean of the paper's European correspondents. He has filled for years the difficult and trying position of interpreter, for readers, of British sentiments, purposes and happenings. He has had to handle them for the information and instruction of a large part of the American reading public in such a way that, differences in temperament, political organization and race taken into account, they should not be misleading. His work as a clearing house for much of the mass of Continental news crowding constantly in upon his office, his discrimination as to what was vitally important and not German propaganda, and what was worth while to the American people, was excellently handled. Quick to send cheering news, but never fearing to state boldly the truth so far as he could learn it, of happenings of importance to America, no matter what, his work was uniformly good throughout the year. An instance was his sending on Feb. 3 of the story of how England, unprepared for war in the beginning, had worked wonders in getting men and munitions to France. March 30 he cabled that the French and British Governments had decided to appoint Gen. Foch Generalissimo of the French and British Armies on the Western front; on Aug. 20 that the American War Administration's policy of letting the Germans know what they must expect met with warmest approval in London. A brilliant list of special writers, experts on war and European politics, assisted the London and Paris staffs of the paper. Notable among them was J. C. Segrue, who cabled from Berne Jan. 10 that the food shortage in Germany was a tragedy. Fred S. Ferguson, with the American Army in France, wired March 3 of the killing of five of Pershing's men by the Germans—startling news then, but minimized by the casualty lists that later saddened the home people. Perry Robinson cabled March 26 of the British line still unbroken, firm and continuous while the Germans on a fifty-mile front threw 600,000 men against it in efforts to force it back toward Amiens. All the world held its breath to see if it would hold or break. The London office hinted on March 28 of momentous decisions made at a meeting in Paris of Secretary Baker and Gen. Pershing.

Lieut. Col. Repington, formerly of the British Army, late in March, following the "Kaiser's Battle" from day to day, analyzed it for The World. He pointed out on the 29th that the Germans were still sixteen miles from Amiens and that "it is not possible for them to remain where they are and claim a strategic victory. They have not gained one." This was a prophecy of their having to give up the ground gained in their tremendously expensive westward push. Later it was to be fulfilled when the God of wars began "trampling out the vintage" where the grapes of wrath were stored—the beginning, as it proved, of the end of Germany's world conquest dream. On April 6 Col. Repington cabled that "Get on or get out" was the Kaiser's chance, finding his armies in a big pocket and his "great surprise" no longer such, his legions open to counter attacks, checked everywhere—at Arras, on the Ancre and the Somme. Joseph W. Grigg cabled on May 1 that "America's khaki-clad tide now flows into France in a volume not heretofore approximated. May 15 he wrote of the dread of our gunners in the hearts of the German host of the Picardy front. On the 26th he told how our war machine swept forward like clockwork to the capture of Cantigny. This efficient work was followed on June 14 by the announcement that the British Government had accorded to The World the high privilege of having its own correspondent attached to the headquarters of the British Army in France.

"The World is the first American newspaper to receive this distinction," the notice said. "Up to this time American readers have been served from the British front only by press associations or by the British correspondents of London newspapers. Henceforth The World and its readers will be served at this important post by Joseph W. Grigg, an American, long a member of The World's staff, who has already rendered fine service at other posts in France. Mr. Grigg's first despatch from the British front is printed to-day." The cable told how the enemy was planning to attack the British along the whole line while the French battle raged between Noyon and Montdidier.

WORLD MAN TOLD WHEN GERMANY'S STAR BEGAN TO SET.

Then on July 19, when the Germans began to lose, Grigg told how Foch's quick blow, the splendid success of the French and American attack on a 25-mile front in the Soissons sector early on the 18th spoiled the foe's plan to strike the British. Col. Repington, writing of how the failure of the enemy in the Champagne upset his offensive, prophesied the beginning of the end. In the days immediately following Repington and Grigg detailed how the Allies smashed in from Soissons to embattled Rheims. Big guns flamed up all along the British line. There was a two-mile gain below the Marne by Americans and French; the capture of Soissons; the Germans were in flight in the Aisne-Marne salient;, the Germans burning the villages as they retired, and (on the 23d) the Allies squeezing all sides of the salient. The foe's reserves were swept back three more miles and the Germans were withdrawing in the whole region between the Marne and the Ourcq. So on through the year.

The World maintained a bureau of information which co-operated with the various secret service agencies of the Government in supplying information concerning enemy aliens and organizations and persons suspected of treasonable or unfriendly acts against the United States. In this connection The World's Biographical Department and the files of its Legal Department were found to be of great value and were consulted almost daily by representatives of the Army and Navy Intelligence Bureaus, the United States Secret Service, the Department of Justice and the inspection service of the Postoffice Department.

During the year The World printed special articles by men of unusual importance, including Leon Trotzky's "The Bolsheviki and World Peace." It was the first authentic publication in America of the doctrines and aims of the leader of the Bolsheviki as he himself wrote it. On June 27 The World printed a document smuggled out of Germany by Lieut. Gen. Baron Von Freytag-Loringhoven, the third personage of the German Military Hierarchy. It showed that Germany still glorified war after three years of it. The article was written for military and Junker consumption only. Ex-President Wm. H. Taft on March 9 dictated a telegram to The World from Pittsburgh as to the plans for the proposed League of Nations to Enforce Peace: "The successful working out of the plan of the League of Nations to Enforce Peace depends primarily on winning victory over the Kaiser and his Potsdam gang on the western front. We cannot make progress by further debate with Germany and Austria. Blows are the only arguments now possible to win permanent peace.

On July 1 The World presented the second instalment of Dr. Wilhelm Muehlon's book, "The Devastation of Europe." He was formerly director of the great German munition company, "Krupp's," and his daily notes on events rising out of the war composed the book. In his first instalment he told how the Kaiser personally forced German leaders to swear to support the war after he had given Austria carte blanche in the affair of Serbia and promised to support Austria through thick and thin. In the second he told of events directly following the war declaration and invasion of Belgium.

July 22 the first instalment of the papers by Dr. Arthur Davis, American court dentist in Berlin, was printed in The World. It told of the personality of the Emperor and the views held by him as to men and world events. These articles attracted a great deal of attention. For instance, when he quoted the Kaiser as saying that after the war he "would stand no nonsense from America." Aug. 4, opening another year of the war, Marshal Joffre sent a message to America through The World. "The fifth year of war opens full of hope, thanks to the generous intervention of America," he said. Aug. 25 The World published the first of a series of articles by Andre Cheradame, who for a quarter of a century had devoted his whole time to the study of Germany and her plans. "The snake of German intrigue is still very much alive," he wrote.

One of the most interesting series of cabled articles printed in The World during the year were those by Gen. P. M. G. Malleterre, military critic of the Paris Temps and La France Militaire, who wrote of the progress of the war from the French military standpoint. Gen. Malleterre was seriously wounded in the first Battle of the Marne, having a leg amputated, and had to resign his command.

SIGNAL ACTS OF PUBLIC SERVICE BY THIS NEWSPAPER.

On Feb. 23, following The World's suggestion that the home folks be given a chance to see the new 77th Division of the National Army—afterward to fight so heroically in the conquest of the Argonne Forest, which no army in history had ever tried to take from an enemy who got it first, even Napoleon preferring to go around—10,000 of the Metropolitan Division's boys paraded through the streets of New York and were cheered by their relatives and friends.

Following the campaign of The World advocating "Daylight Saving," and its success in getting the Senate to take it up, the hands of the clocks all across America were put forward one hour on March 31. The World was the only paper in New York State to publish, that day, the report made by the Serbian Socialist Party to the Russo-Hollando-Scandinavian Committee in Stockholm describing the conditions in Serbia imposed upon that country by the Austro-Hungarians and Bulgars who overran and occupied it.

Answering to the desire of Americans whose sons were fighting in Europe that Germany should have no excuse for mistreating American prisoners of war, The World began printing on April 8 a series of articles by Richard Linthicum of The World's staff on the alien interment prison camps in this country, following his investigation of them, to ascertain how the United States was treating interned civilian enemy aliens and its military prisoners of war. His investigations showed that no country had ever set such an example of decency and humanity, and that aliens interned in this country were glad, for the most part, that they were not in Europe.

In announcing his decision to free Charles F. Stielow, the date of whose execution was fixed seven times, and Nelson Green, his brother-in-law, serving a minimum term of twenty years, or life imprisonment, for the murder of Charles B. Phelps, an Orleans County farmer, and his housekeeper, Margaret Walcott, the Governor of the State of New York awarded to The World a full measure of credit for the investigation resulting in his action. He sent the following telegram to Charles M. Lincoln, Managing Editor of The World, from Albany, N. Y., May 9: "It is but simple justice to say that had it not been for the material presented to me by The New York World, obtained after great effort and considerable expense, I should not have felt justified in ordering the investigation which has resulted in the release of Stielow. I appreciate the service which you have rendered and am grateful for it. (Signed) Charles S. Whitman."

On May 10 The World started an investigation to find out whether work on street cars as conductor-ettes, &c., was harmful to women. The result was that the environment and morale of women so employed was greatly improved.

In July The World, with the co-operation of the Committee on Public Information and the Director of Military Aeronautics, told for the first time the story of the amazing development of the Air Service of the United States Army. William P. Beazell of The World's staff was the first civilian to be permitted to visit the camps where our aviators were being trained, and his articles, widely published throughout the country, received the official commendation of Major Gen. William L. Kenly, the Director of Military Aeronautics. They described the work at the ground schools, the primary schools, the pursuit schools, the bombing schools, the schools for aerial observers, the schools of aerial gunnery and the balloon schools. They gave the American people their first understanding of the fine calibre and highly specialized training of the men who have been warring so splendidly in the air against the enemy.

In October Charles S. Hand of The World staff investigated the financial affairs of the New York Telephone Company to ascertain if an increase in tolls proposed by Postmaster General Burleson would be justified. The results of the investigation were set forth in a series of articles prepared by Mr. Hand for The World. They revealed that profits gained by the company during the last three years were more than $14,000,000 above a fair return of 8 per cent. contemplated by the Public Service Commission when it reduced rates in 1915. The World's disclosures of excess profits enjoyed by the company prompted Mr. Burleson to announce that rates would not be increased but reduced where possible.

Under the stimulus of The World's exposures of fraudulent war charities, the District Attorney's office and the Bureau of Advice and Information of the Charities Organization Society made progress during the Winter and Spring of 1918 in driving out grafters and swindlers from the field of war relief. To this work The World gave cordial co-operation. It was The World which first discovered the fact that the Dowling Ordinance designed to regulate war relief entertainments was inadequate for the purpose and that further legislation, both State and National, was needed to meet the problem adequately.

ENCOURAGED BUILDING OF SHIPS IN EMERGENCY.

The drop of Viking blood in the hearts of Americans resulted in the fame of American shipping being known in every port in the world in the glorious days of the old clippers of the Forties. This inherent love of the sea surged triumphantly to the front when The World announced on July 1 that 93 ocean-going vessels flying the American flag were expected to take the water on July 4. A great Independence Day splashing was planned by the Shipping Board. "They will have," The World's story said, "a carrying capacity of 465,186 tons. Forty-one will be steel vessels and fifty-two wooden. How staggering are these figures may be conveyed to the lay mind only by comparison. They exceed by 74,350 tons the launchings for the entire year 1901, the record pre-war year in American shipping. The total tonnage under the American flag two years ago was 2,412,381, and much of it was not in deep sea service. Much of the credit for this great triumph was due to the incentive given the shipyard workers by The World's introduction of the sporting element into shipbuilding. On May 14 in the steel construction shipyards of the New York and Philadelphia district of the U. S. Shipping Board The World started a rivetting contest conducted by James Robbins, The World's ship news reporter, by offering a weekly prize of $100 to be given to the crew that drove into the hull of a ship on the ways in a nine-hour day the greatest number of rivets. The news of the great splash of July 4 was immediately preceded by the story from overseas of how the Americans swept through the enemy lines north of the Marne, and the story from Charles Michelson, head of The World's Washington Bureau, that "the millionth American soldier" had landed in France on June 30 and the Nation was to have an army of 4,000,000 men by Jan. 1, 1919.

Not only did the art staff of The World do good work in illustrating the war and the daily life of the Nation, but the well-known cartoonists of the paper enforced the lessons of The World's news with telling effect through the year. An instance was when, on Feb. 17, Rollin Kirby's cartoon intuitively pointed out what was later shown to be true. It was a picture of Trotzky and Lenine walking arm in arm with Kaiser Wilhelm, and all three smiling. George W. Rehse of The Morning World gave a silver lining to many a cloud of tragedy with his intensely human and funny "Metropolitan Movies," and made hundreds of thousands laugh amid their tears. In January The World arranged for the appearance in its pages of the war-fun pictures of Capt. Bruce Bairnsfather. The World secured the exclusive rights in America to reproduce the pictures of this famous British cartoonist, of whom it has been said that his sketches pointing out humor in the trenches were worth more to the Allied cause than an army division.

MONUMENT TO MITCHEL.

With a view to the creation in New York City of a suitable, worthy memorial to Major John Purroy Mitchel, the former Mayor, who lost his life in a flying accident, The World inaugurated last July a movement to raise a fund by popular subscription, and to this end gave an initial $1,000. More than $30,000, either in cash or pledges—a vast majority of the sum in cash—was obtained by The World in a few weeks. This money was subsequently placed in the hands of a Citizens' Committee, which now has the memorial project in charge.

In January The World printed a series of articles by Louis Seibold of its Staff, on the growth of the Non-Partisan League in the Dakotas and several Middle and Mountain States. The articles showed that the movement which was originally projected as an agricultural one, to ameliorate the condition of farmers believing themselves the victims of the milling and other forms of corporation persecutions, finally developed into a political undertaking. The League obtained a membership of more than 200,000, who paid $8 a year in dues, secured control of the State Government of North Dakota, operated a newspaper, and flooded the country with organizers seeking recruits.

In May Mr. Seibold wrote articles for The World on the coal conditions, showing the effect of the Government activities for increasing production and plans to equitably distribute the limited supply indicated for the winter of 1918-1919; also the effect of the Military Draft Law on the labor supply, wage and social conditions, and prices for coal for commercial and domestic purposes. The articles showed that the Government had eliminated twenty-two States from participation in anthracite supplies, these States being in the South and West, contiguous to sources of other grades of coal and substitutes for coal.

In June Mr. Seibold wrote articles upon his investigation of the liquor traffic, showing that the Prohibition feature of the Food Regulation Bill had increased the value of the holdings of distillers, brokers, wholesalers and retailers more than $800,000,000 in less than a year, giving prices two years ago and current quotations. The articles showed that while the use of liquor was restricted in the United States, immense stores were exported monthly for the use of the troops of other belligerent countries; also that there remained in bond and in the hands of dealers 265,000,000 gallons of distilled spirits, wines, etc., which Food Administrator Hoover predicted would last the country three or four years.

In November and December Mr. Seibold wrote for The World a series of fourteen articles on the cost of the war to the Government and the people and revealing the extent of profiteering at the expense of the people. The articles showed by comparative figures the increase in the cost of several hundred articles entering into domestic consumption, where the greater part of the profit went and how the Government compelled the return of a percentage of these "unusual profits" through a system of war and excess profits tax. The articles also showed that while wages had been increased by war conditions salaries had practically remained stationary during the war period; that retail prices had increased more than 35 per cent. in five years and that the purchasing value of the dollar had steadily decreased from 89 cents in 1915 to 54 cents in 1918, because of war conditions operating to take out of the producing field 20,000,000 men, increasing the volume of supplies of all kinds for the benefit of the military allies of the country, and led to the expansion of the paper money with consequent depreciation in purchasing value. The financial, industrial and economic conditions of other belligerent countries was set forth and compared to that of the United States.

THE CAMPAIGN AGAINST TICKET SPECULATORS.

Acting on information furnished by The Morning World, and on complaint of Louis V. De Foe, its dramatic critic, District Attorney Swann, early in September, began investigation of the nuisance of theatre ticket speculation, an evil in New York which has assumed intolerable proportions and which almost continual attempts through restrictive legislation during the past fifteen years has been unable to prevent. The immediate cause of The World's crusade against the theatre ticket speculators was the extortion practised on the public in the instance of "Yip Yip Yaphank!" at the Lexington Theatre. This entertainment was written, staged and acted for charitable purposes by the enlisted men at Camp Upton, who received no other compensation than their Government pay. Their purpose was to raise funds to build a Community House at the Camp. Investigation by the District Attorney's Office, conducted by Assistant District Attorney Edwin T. Kilroe, revealed that the speculators had been exacting and obtaining from the public bonuses as high as 300 per cent. of the box office price of tickets. Further information secured by the District Attorney's Office through subpoena of the books of theatre ticket speculators, and through the testimony of theatre managers, and speculators, disclosed that the New York theatre-going public is being squeezed for more than $500,000 annually by speculators, that hotels derive a rental exceeding $250,000 annually from ticket broker agencies and that in some instances productions of plays are underwritten by the speculators who buy out all the favorable seats in theatres for periods of eight weeks, compelling the public to pay extortionate prices for seats which cannot be obtained at all through the box offices. The evil long had been known to exist, but the investigation proved it to be even worse than had been supposed. These investigations resulted in the drafting of a new ordinance by Assistant District Attorney Kilroe to put a stop to the abuse. It provides that no seat shall be sold by a theatre producer or manager in excess of the price printed on the ticket and limits the speculator's bonus to 50 cents, plus the war tax. Penalties of fine and imprisonment are provided for violations. The ordinance, which received the approval of the Corporation Counsel and the State Bill Drafting Commission, was introduced in the Board of Aldermen on Nov. 19 by Alderman Thomas A. Williams of the 13th Aldermanic District, Manhattan. It was referred to the Committee on General Welfare, of which Alderman Charles H. Haubert is acting chairman. The World continued its crusade against the ticket speculators while the investigations were being made and the new bill was being framed and due to its determined efforts and the vigorous aid of the District Attorney's office, there was every prospect that the new ordinance would become a law and the long standing line of ticket speculators would be abated.

TAX LIEN EXPOSURE.

Last August The World exposed the nefarious workings of the Tax Lien and Tax Title Laws, whereby thousands of citizens have been deprived of their realty holdings because in many instances they have failed to pay a negligible tax. Thereupon Mayor Hylan asked Nathan Hirsch, wealthy cotton merchant and Chairman of the Mayor's Committee on Taxation and the Investigation of Mortgage Loans, to conduct an inquiry. Mr. Hirsch asked The World for the aid of Van Ness Harwood, a staff man, who had written the articles. This was granted. Samuel S. Breslin volunteered as counsel, and the three began a campaign. With the help of District Attorney Swann, Magistrate Charles W. Appleton, Commissioner of Accounts Hirschfield and Police Commissioner Enright, results were speedily accomplished. Some of these were: The return of thousands of parcels of land to the thrifty poor at cost, the utter disruption of the tax title buying business, the postponement of the Nassau County sale whereby 30,000 lots were to be sold for negligible taxes; the arrest and conviction of several hogus land operators; the deeding by other operators of hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of land to persons who had paid for it and could not obtain deeds, and the preparation of laws which will make such conditions impossible in the future. These laws will be introduced in the Legislature this winter. The crusade is one of the best illustrations in New York in years of what publicity can accomplish.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF THE SPORTING DEPARTMENT.

Sports in The World also played a big part in keeping home activities alive and instituting ways and means to aid in giving wide publicity and in raising money for the Red Cross and the United War Work campaign, as well as encouraging the purchase of Liberty Loan bonds. George Daley, the Sporting Editor of The World, was largely responsible for organizing and conducting the Fourth Liberty Loan drive at the Jamaica and Empire City tracks, through which followers of racing subscribed $2,380,350, and so contributed largely to carrying the loan over the top. The World suggested and was largely responsible for bringing about the special race between Billy Kelly and Eternal, which was decided at the Laurel racetrack in Maryland and from which the Red Cross profited $20,000. The World suggested and arranged the golf match between Walter J. Travis and Findlay S. Douglas over the links of the Garden City Golf Club, which raised $3,000 for the United War Work campaign. Bert Igoe of The World sporting staff, through his writings and cartoons, stimulated the various drives and drew a cartoon which brought $250 at auction for the benefit of the Red Cross. It has been the policy of The World sporting page to make constructive suggestions from time to time in the effort to keep racing, baseball and other sports up to the highest standard.

THE WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Throughout the year The World's able and efficient Washington Bureau chronicled not only the daily happenings in the capital of the Nation, telling, with its fingers on the pulse of the Government machine, of the war and domestic measures, but also interpreting the foreign news that in this critical time flowed through diplomatic channels to the American Government from all corners of the world.

The religious department of The Morning World, on Saturdays, has extended gradually until it now occupies from three columns in the summer to a page on special occasions and is increasingly recognized by the churches as a medium through which activities receive notice. Prominence is given to the development of religious work out of the ordinary and of more than local interest.

THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S BROAD FIELD OF SERVICE.

The Thrice-a-Week edition of The New York World appears every other day except Sunday and is intended chiefly for the country and for towns distant from New York. Its circulation is probably more widely distributed than that of any other American newspaper. It is read largely in every State and Territory in the Union, in remote Alaska and Hawaii, in Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, in fact wherever the English language is spoken. A striking feature of the Thrice-a-Week World is the service it rendered to our soldiers abroad during the war. Thousands of subscriptions were made to it for our troops, and it carried the news of the world right up to the firing line. The Thrice-a-Week World publishes all the important news of both Morning and Evening World in a condensed form, and for that reason it has long been popular in every part of the United States.

The World maintains a Syndicate Department through which the leading newspapers in every section of the country are supplied with original World comic, literary and special features and The World's comprehensive foreign and domestic news service. Regarding the latter, Mr. A. H. Vandenberg, Editor of the Grand Rapids, (Mich.) Herald, voluntarily wrote on July 24, 1918: "I want to congratulate you upon the work you are doing in this connection and to thank you for the assistance you are thus rendering the interior press of the country."

During the year The World continued as part of its bit in carrying on the war work of the country, the printing of the eight page edition of Trench and Camp, the national soldiers' weekly, published by the Y. M. C. A., for Camp Upton, Don C. Seitz, Business Manager of The World, acting as publisher of the Camp Upton edition and George L. Moore of the Y. M. C. A., being its editor at Camp Upton, while J. Otis Swift of The World was its Managing Editor.

BUREAU OF ACCURACY AND FAIR PLAY.

The World's Bureau of Accuracy and Fair Play completed the fifth year of its existence in July. Its primary purpose, as declared at the outset, was to promote accuracy and fair play, to correct carelessness and to stamp out fakes and fakers. All complaints involving these questions, including libel actions, are turned over to the Bureau and carefully inquired into, and if they are found to be well grounded, corrections are made and at the same time the writers responsible for the errors are placed on record. Faking and chronic carelessness are punished by dismissal. In actual practice the idea has worked out very well. Members of The World staff and its correspondents everywhere have worked in harmony with the Bureau which has now become a fixed institution. The World's example has been followed by many other newspapers throughout the country.

Inspired by the true spirit of fair play, the Bureau has created good will and confidence often even when complainants had in the beginning been bitter and resentful. When material damage has resulted from erroneous publications and the person injured has shown a willingness to arbitrate in good faith and upon a reasonable basis, settlements have been made without recourse to the courts. The Rev. Dr. Daniel Bliss characterized the operations of The World's Bureau as "the Golden Rule applied to Journalism."

But the Bureau has sharp claws and knows when and how to use them for defensive purposes. It long ago learned that there are lawyers in New York who make a specialty of stirring up libel litigation and who seemingly are not averse to representing criminals and otherwise disreputable characters who often bring suits on perjured complaints. And whenever attempts have been made to recover damages in these cases The World has spared neither trouble nor expense in fighting to the last ditch. As a result some lawyers have been disbarred or suspended from practice and several notoriously crooked litigants have been sent to prison. The sharp claws of the Bureau are supplemented by an abnormally long reach. It may call upon World correspondents in any or every corner of the civilized world for information. The telegraph, the cable and the wireless are at its disposal. It has sent its own trained investigators throughout the United States from Maine to California, to Canada, Mexico and South America and to Great Britain and all the principal countries of Europe. In one particular instance, to establish the truth of an article complained of, a representative of the Bureau journeyed more than 8,000 miles.

The World prints for its employees a monthly office magazine called The World Forum, which was started January 1, 1913, to give the young artists and writers on The World a chance to develop their talents and at the same time to make interesting reading of the current events in the lives of The World employees. This paper sells for five cents per copy and all money taken is deposited in the Emigrant Savings Bank for the benefit of the employees. All the cost of getting out the paper is paid by The World.

There were during the year over 150 men from The World at the front, six of them being wounded and five killed.

Through The World's Department of Missing People, established ten years ago as an assistance to people who have lost communication with relatives, or whose daughters, sons, husbands, wives or parents have disappeared, hundreds of missing people have been found and communication established between friends and relatives, who have not known of each other's whereabouts, in some instances for many years. In many instances lost dear ones were returned to people who could not afford the cost of advertising for them or conducting expensive searches, and in other cases where all efforts to locate them by advertising and through regular civil authorities had failed. Any one wishing to locate lost relatives or friends had but to write to J. Otis Swift, Editor of Missing People's Department, The World, Park Row, New York, giving description of the missing person, when he disappeared, etc., and asking that information be asked of his whereabouts in the column about missing people in The Sunday World.

SUNDAY WORLD MAGAZINE A GREAT POPULAR WEEKLY.

The Sunday World Magazine in 1918 reached the highest point of its development as a popular illustrated weekly vitalized with the universal timely interest of a great national daily newspaper. The thrilling panorama of the world war, the literature, art, music, fashions, fiction, travel, adventure, sport, science, humors of the day—and above all, picturesque or inspiring personalities as they come into the public eye—all these are summarized in such a way as to make each number "an abstract and brief chronicle of our time." Outstanding World Magazine features of 1918 were: A series of specially detailed war maps and bird's-eye views, including the western front, Verdun, the American Sector, the Queant Switch, Germany's Supreme Defense Line, and Louis Biedermann's unique indexed panoramic views, in colors, of Paris and Metz; the series of six articles under the title of "My Eighteen Months in Sing Sing Death House," being the poignant personal narrative of Charles F. Stielow; the sensational true story of the celebrated Baff case, a serial surpassing fiction, told under the title of "Murder Will Out;" the intimate personal narrative of the notorious Goldsol; "Splinters From a Doughboy's Diary," Training Camp Sketches by Private Hadley of the Marines, the Ground and Lofty Adventures of "Chateau" Joe Stehlin, and Herb Roth's self-illustrated letters of a Sea-Going Artist in the Navy; Bercovici's racy sketches of New York Life at Odd Angles; the big three novels of the season, complete—"A Nest of Spies," "The House of Whispers," and "The Moving Finger."

The Assay Office is a weekly heart-to-heart talk about practical efficiency in all sorts of everyday business, for men and women. Favorite pictures-and-text series, unique in this Magazine, have been: Gordon Ross's "Betty Manhattan," Alfred Frueh's caricatures of stage celebrities: Samuel Cahan's Scenes of Hebrew Life in New York City, and Enrique Hine's Un-Natural History Humoresques. The color reproductions of contemporary art have included works by Blakelock, F. W. Benson, E. H. Blashfield, Mortimer Block, Robert W. Chanler, Mathilde de Cordoba, Jo Davidson, Dines Carlsen, Degas, Warren B. Davis, Van D. Perrine, Helene Perdriat, Percival Rosseau, Albert Herter, Augustus V. Tack, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Wm. Zorach. In music, among many other features, the ten big Broadway song hits of the season were included.

THE WORLD'S GRAVURE SECTION.

Many notable photographs of the war were published exclusively during the year in The Sunday World's Gravure Section. Through it were presented Captain Rodolfo Serrao's wonderful pictures made at the Italian front, the first action pictures showing how a hydro-aeroplane is launched from a battleship and two internationally important photographs of a German U boat in a Spanish port. The biggest photograph ever made, "The Capture of Vimy Ridge," exhibited in Paris, was reproduced as a page-wide picture. The perils of the American patrol in European waters were portrayed in remarkable snapshots sent The World by Herb Roth, one of its artists serving in the navy. Two pages that attracted wide attention showed accidents in aviation, and every phase of military life was adequately pictured, including many photographs taken under fire at the risk of the photographers' lives.

The Editorial Section of The Sunday World has maintained its standing as the recognized forum through which leading thinkers express their views. During the year Ambassadors and Plenipotentiaries, Cabinet Ministers and men identified with industry and commerce, have spoken through this medium. A list of contributors would show such names as Secretary Lane, Stephane Lauzanne, Ambassadors Penfield and Morgenthau.

SUNDAY WORLD FIELD DAYS HELPED WIN THE WAR.

During the past thirteen years The Sunday World has maintained a special bureau through which it has systematically encouraged athletics, nature study, gardening, walking tours and other forms of healthful and useful recreation among the pupils of the public schools of New York City. As a special inducement to children to take part in these games and contests, The Sunday World offered prizes ranging from solid gold and sterling silver medals to bronze pins and banners. In carrying on this work The Sunday World had the close co-operation of the Department of Education, the Public Schools Athletic League, the Vacation Playgrounds Association and the Parks and Playgrounds Association. General George W. Wingate announced on September 22 that 12,876 New York City boys who had won Sunday World prizes in P. S. A. L. athletic contests were fighting in France. "It is impossible," he said, "to conceive all the benefits the young men of to-day have derived from these field days. Our boys have grown up strong, healthy and active, superior by far to boys of other cities where little or no attention was paid to the physical development of the school children. Outside of New York City only one young man in three was able to pass the physical test for enlistment. In New York City the statistics are reversed. There was only one young man out of every three who couldn't pass."

The Sunday World co-operates with the School Garden Association and donates prizes for garden work and nature study at home, in parks and at the schools. Over 30,000 children were engaged in war garden work last summer as a result. The Vacation playground games, under the management of the Department of Education, provided athletic sports for thousands of school children at 120 playgrounds during the summer. The Sunday World supplied the prizes for these contests and also for the contests of the Parks and Playgrounds Association. The Sunday World Walking Club has squads in all parts of the city. All public schools, including high schools and evening schools, are allowed to compete for bronze and silver prizes offered to The Sunday World for walking tours. In addition to the prizes The Sunday World also furnishes tour maps and bulletins.

EVENING WORLD THE CHAMPION OF PROGRESS.

The year was a notable one for The Evening World, which first and foremost is the friend of the family that comes into every home where broad human views of life, the welfare of the State, the protection of the household, the proper uprearing of children and the progress of the race are taken seriously to heart. Always painstaking in selecting the news that should interest all members of the family, if it's of general interest to humanity, one may be sure that "if it happens in Greater New York, it will be found in The Evening World." Its clean, well written, breezy and helpful pages have been, during the year, as always, the enemy of ennui. It has stood for public morality, for right and justice in the world struggle for liberty, and for the protection of the weak against possible encroachments of the strong and selfish. Its unexcelled news illustrations, its campaigns for reform of public evils, its many news beats, its ready word in the defense of those struggling for right against might, its chronicling of the heroism, pathos, tragedy and humor of the daily life of the world's greatest city, have made it a newspaper always welcome in the homes, offices and shops of its many readers. Its strong editorial page, superb sporting page, home and other special departments have made it a power for usefulness and good in the community. Following out its tradition of "an institution that should always fight for progress and reform," The Evening World during the year not only printed the news of the city, State, Nation and the all-absorbing world news of the battle of democracy against autocracy but its ear was constantly open to the appeals of the people for better conditions of labor, living and social life.

The children of The Evening World's Kiddie Klub and their parents, 7,500 strong, swarmed Luna Park, at Coney Island, on July 18, for their summer outing. Rain stopped their parade and kept them from the outdoor show, and kept away the unprecedented crowd expected, but their own Kiddie Klub Theatre had performances all the evening and the covered attractions were run at their best for the children. Kiddie Klub badges admitted to the resort and each child was allowed to bring one grown-up friend. At the Kiddie Klub Theatre the children's admissions went to found the Kiddie Klub war chest for Kiddie Klub war orphans. The members of the club watched and acted in the performances that were staged. Miss Eleanor Schorer is the "Cousin Eleanor" of the Kiddie Klub.

The Evening World carried a campaign demanding the use of the $170,000,000 Barge Canal which had been built by the State. The railroads for years had been the rival carriers of the canal, and as was shown by The Evening World, little or no effort had been put forth to make any use of it in reducing the cost of living. Even the priority order for building barges had been stopped. When The Evening World drew attention to this backward step the priority orders were restored and a fleet of barges are being built. So vital had the issue grown when the election for Governor came up that Alfred E. Smith made this issue one of his platforms—the full development of the Barge Canal throughout New York—and he was elected.

EVENING WORLD WON LONG FIGHT FOR PENNY SCHOOL LUNCHES.

The Evening World's work for a complete system of penny lunches in public schools at last received recognition early in October, when it was announced that the Board of Education was to take over the penny lunches, and it was prophesied that the slogan so long used by The Evening World in its campaign—"No hungry child in a public school—food first for the school children!"—would become a verity.

This measure was long advocated by this newspaper, which carried on the campaign that led to the present installation of penny lunches in the public schools. Up to the action taken by the Board of Education, which asked for $50,000 to be included in the 1919 budget for this purpose, The Evening World had emphasized the importance of penny lunches in the public schools.

EVENING WORLD UNCOVERS COAL SITUATION.

In the latter part of September The Evening World sent Sophie Irene Loeb to the coal regions of Pennsylvania to make an investigation of the coal situation, the consumers being apprehensive with the approach of winter, the known necessity of assisting America's allies in the war and with memories of coal scarcity during the previous winter. In her despatch of Sept. 28 she said: "There is no reason for shortage of coal in New York City; no reason for high prices except the greed of a few coal barons who control both the coal and railroads of the anthracite region. They own thousands of acres of unmined coal, to say nothing of the enormous culm banks which contain millions of tons of coal now lying on the surface of the earth within a half-day's ride from New York This is coal that can be readily separated from the slate and refuse and made ready for the market at a cost of a few cents per ton."

Following investigations and inquiries by The World and Evening World into the entire coal situation and the work of the Fuel Administration, an inquiry into the situation was commenced by the Senate Coal Committee in Washington after the findings of The Evening World had been presented to it.

The Evening World's Sporting Page during 1918 made a feature of service athletics. Special camp stories were used as a standard by the Commission on Training Camps Activities in its endeavors to create an athletic policy for the hundreds of thousands of boys in American cantonments. Robert Edgren and William Abbott, in behalf of the Sporting Page, directed the Army Athletic Fund Show in Madison Square Garden July 13 that netted $23,000 to the fund founded by the Commission on Training Camps Activities to purchase necessary athletic equipment for boys in khaki. This fistic carnival netted the greatest sum of all athletic benefits during the year. During the United War Workers' Campaign in November the Sporting Page donated a handsome set of prizes that were a feature of an athletic meet promoted during the week's drive

EVENING WORLD EDITORIAL RECORD FOR 1918.

A series of editorials in The Evening World last spring on rent profiteering in this city led to a police census of vacant apartments in New York, followed by widespread discussion of rent problems and a marked falling off in the number of profiteering landlords

Following the explosion in the Gillespie shell-loading plant at Morgan, N. J., The Evening World was the only newspaper in New York to insist upon the danger of concentrating explosives in such quantity close to the metropolitan area. At length a Congressional Commission was appointed to investigate the handling and storage of explosives in and about New York with a view to safeguarding the city against this danger.

The Evening World editorial suggestion that the churches offer their Sunday school rooms, social rooms, &c., to help out the overcrowded public schools while the war embargo against new school buildings remained in force was warmly approved and commended by the churches and by the city authorities.

The Evening World was also the first New York newspaper to invite general action on the part of employers to assure immediate jobs for disabled soldiers when discharged.

Since the cessation of hostilities The Evening World has sought editorially to show labor the need of gauging money wages by the purchasing power of the money and to teach those elements of sound economics which are the surest safeguards against Bolshevism

These special features of The Evening World editorial columns have been in addition to a broad and constant Evening World editorial policy reinforcing Evening World campaigns for a more adequate coal supply for New York, for lower milk prices, for the fuller utilization of the State's waterways to bring fuel and food to this city, for curbs on the price-raising activities of gas companies, telephones and retail food profiteers.

Editorially, The Evening World's aim is first and foremost to fight for whatever will show itself in increased practical opportunity, convenience, comfort and saving, and in greater measure of justice and fair play for those who live and work in New York and whose children should grow up under conditions calculated to make them its loyal citizens.

The Daily Magazine pages of The Evening World, to which a large and regular staff of special writers and artists contribute, kept to the high standard of artistic and literary excellence which they have always maintained This entertaining section of The Evening World early in the year was increased in size to four pages, a special feature page being added, which, in illustrations and special articles, kept pace with the most interesting developments of the day's news. Will B. Johnstone, Henry Harmony and a large number of other artists have contributed to it pictorially, while among the writers whose work has been a regular feature of the page are Nixola Greeley-Smith, Marguerite Mooers Marshall, Martin Green, Arthur ("Bugs") Baer, Helen H. Hoffman, Hazel Carter, and others, the scope of whose writings has covered everything from war to war work, from humor to human interest, from interviews to reviews, from adventure to analysis of love and matrimony. On the editorial page Mr. Cassel's cartoons on the war, support of Liberty Loans and other patriotic appeals, and on various national and international developments have been so striking as to make them a byword not only in New York but throughout the Nation. For entertainment and instruction this page has offered a wide variety of subjects and articles, chief among them being the delightfully satirical but always good-natured writings of Helen Rowland, the philosophical, helpful, close-to-human-life articles by Sophie Irene Loeb, the series of tabloid, brief but meaty historical series so entertainingly written by Albert Payson Terhune, and that old but always amusing friend of Evening World readers, "The Jarr Family," by Roy L. McCardell

The Home Page gave to its readers a real feast of fiction through the best novels and serial stories obtainable, of which it has printed one complete every two weeks in daily instalments Pauline Furlong's Health and Beauty articles have interested many thousands in physical appearance and well-being, as attested by voluminous correspondence Mildred Lodewick's fashion designs and dressmaking advice have proved of great value in the home in these days of economy. Rev. Thomas B Gregory's special articles, of an editorial nature, but with intensely human application, are a new feature of this page already popular Maurice Ketten's humorous cartoons, always clever, always human, always timely, have given a lightening touch to this page and many good laughs to its readers

The Comic Page, to which five comic artists have daily contributed—Brinkerhoff, Counihan, Vic. Long and Meek—has distributed a good number of daily laughs among the followers of "Little Mary Mixup," "The Big Little Family," "Joe's Car," "Somewhere in New York" and "Grindstone George." each comic series has had a different point of appeal and a popularity peculiarly its own. On this same page Bide Dudley's humorous, gossipy column, "About Plays and Players," has kept the keen interest of all who follow the stage and its people. In his column "The New Plays," Charles Darnton, The Evening World's dramatic critic, has given the New York theatregoer the clearest possible indication of what to expect of every new play opening in the city.

Postal Information.

(Revised from the United States Official Postal Guide.)

On November 29, 1918, repeal of the increased postage rates was approved by the Senate Finance Committee at Washington. Amendments to the War Revenue Bill were adopted to abolish the zone increase on second-class rates, with a proviso that the rates should be 1½ cents per pound beyond a 200-mile radius. The Committee also voted to repeal the extra cent per ounce postage on letters, and ordered into the bill the so-called child labor amendment, offered by Senator Lodge, providing for a 10 per cent. tax on products of child labor. The change in second-class postage, under the Committee's amendment, would become effective upon enactment of the bill, while that reducing first-class postage rates would be effective July 1, 1919. The amendment reducing second-class rates, offered by Senator Smoot of Utah, Republican, provided that upon enactment of the bill the existing zone system, which many publishers, particularly those of magazines, attacked as unjust, would be abolished, and that thereafter the second-class rate should be at the old scale of one cent per pound within a radius of 200 miles from mailing points and 1½ cents per pound outside of the 200-mile zone. When the Almanac went to press Congress was still debating the Senate Committees recommendations.

FOREIGN MAILS.

Rates on letters to Canada and the other British Colonies, and to Great Britain and Ireland, three cents an ounce, or fraction thereof.

The above rates apply to letters to England, Ireland, Scotland, and Wales; the Bahamas, the Barbadoes, British Guiana, British Honduras, the Dominican Republic, the Dutch West Indies, the Leeward Islands, Newfoundland, Trinidad (including Tobago), and New Zealand.

Rates on letters to all other countries—five cents for the first ounce, and three cents for each additional ounce or fraction.

Rates on postal cards to all countries—two cents each; on return or reply cards, four cents each.

Rates on printed matter of all kinds (including newspapers)—one cent for each two ounces or fraction. (The above do not apply to printed matter to Canada, Cuba, Mexico, or Panama.)

Rates on commercial papers—including legal and insurance, deeds, bills of lading, invoices, manuscript for publication, etc.—five cents for the first ten ounces or less, and one cent for each additional two ounces or fraction.

Rates on samples of merchandise—two cents for the first four ounces or less, and one cent for each additional two ounces or fraction.

Registration fee, in addition to postage, ten cents. Letters and postals may be despatched even if no postage whatever is prepaid.

International Parcel Post rates from the United States—twelve cents a pound or fraction. (The countries in the service are: Argentina, Australia, Bahamas, Barbados, Bermuda, Bolivia, Brazil, British Guiana, China, Colombia, Costa Rica, Curacao, Dominican Republic, Dutch Guiana, Equador, France, French Guiana, Gibraltar, Great Britain and Ireland, Guatemala, Guadaloupe, Haiti, British Honduras, Republic of Honduras, Hongkong, Italy, Jamaica, Japan, Leeward Islands, Martinique, Mexico, Netherlands, East Indies, Newfoundland, New Zealand, Nicaragua, Panama, Peru, Portugal, Salvador, Society Islands, Trinidad, Uruguay, Venezuela, Windward Islands. Service was suspended by the war to Austria, Belgium, Chili, Denmark, Greece, Germany, Hungary, Liberia, Netherlands, Norway, and Sweden.)

Letters and Postal Cards must be despatched to Canada and Mexico if prepaid one full rate of postage and to Cuba and Panama whether prepaid or not. Other articles for Cuba and Panama must be prepaid at least in part and for Canada and Mexico in full.

Packages Must Not Be Sealed—Articles other than letters in their usual and ordinary form are excluded from the mails for Canada, Cuba, Mexico, and Panama, unless they are so wrapped that their contents can be easily examined by postmasters and customs officers. Any article inclosed in an envelope, as the word "envelope" is generally used, without regard to its size, is considered to be "in the usual and ordinary form" of a letter. But unsealed packages may contain, in sealed receptacles, articles which cannot be safely transmitted in unsealed receptacles; provided, the contents of the closed receptacles are plainly visible or are precisely stated on the covers of the closed receptacles and that the package is so wrapped that the outer cover can be easily opened.

DOMESTIC MAIL MATTER.

Includes mail addressed for local delivery, or for transmission from one place to another within the United States, or to or from or between the possessions of the United States, and to that for transmission to or from the United States or its possessions and to officers or members of crews of United States naval vessels, to or from the United States postal agency at Shanghai, China, to or from the United States Expeditionary Forces in Europe and Siberia, and to officers and men of the United States Navy in the United States Naval Hospital at Yokohama, Japan. The domestic rates apply to all these places.

Rates on letters (other than drop letters)—three cents an ounce or fraction thereof. (As noted under foreign mails, the three cent rate includes Canada and Cuba, and to every place where the United States Mail Service is in operation.)

Aeroplane mail in the United States—Six cents for the first ounce or fraction thereof, and six cents for each additional ounce or fraction and ten cents if a special delivery service is asked. Such matter must be of the first class, the sealed parcels being not over thirty inches in length and girth combined. Postage must be fully prepaid, either in ordinary stamps or special aero stamps.

Domestic first-class or letter mail has the same limit of weight as fourth-class or Parcel Post mail.

On drop letters two cents an ounce or fraction thereof when mailed at any Post Office for delivery within its postal district, including rural routes emanating from the office. The New York City postal district embraces Manhattan, the Bronx, Pelham, and the Pelham Bay Naval Cantonment. This rate also applies to offices which have no free delivery service. There is no drop rate on mail other than letters. Letters of a person or concern of one city or place sent for mailing at a Post Office in another city or place for local delivery are not mailable at the drop rate but are subject to postage at three cents an ounce or fraction thereof.

On postal cards, including souvenir picture postals and private mailing cards, two cents each. On return or reply cards, four cents each.

All letters or prints of a seditious character are barred from the mails.

REGULATIONS REGARDING MAILS TO AND FROM U. S. EXPEDITIONARY FORCES AND SIBERIA.

The Post Office Department authorizes the following:

All mail matter originating in the United States or any of its possessions for transmission to soldiers and others, including civilians connected with the United States Expeditionary Forces in Europe and Siberia, and all mail originating with those forces for transmission to the United States or its possessions, is subject to the United States domestic classification, conditions and rates of postage. United States postage stamps only are valid for the prepayment of postage on matter above described, provided that the stamps in use in the Canal Zone and the Philippines are valid for the prepayment of postage on such matter as originates in those possessions.

Mail intended for members of the Expeditionary Forces should bear the name and address of the sender in the upper left corner and be addressed in the following manner: (1) Name of addressee, including his rank, first name in full, and initials, if any; (2) official designation of the unit or organization to which addressee belongs.

In order to prevent delay in despatch and secure prompt delivery of mail addressed to the Expeditionary Forces it is important that the postage be fully prepaid.

Letters of soldiers, sailors and marines may be sent through the mails without prepayment of postage, provided they bear in the upper left corner of the envelope the name of the soldier, sailor or marine, together with the designation of the service to which he belongs.

Any article of mail may be specially delivered on an extra payment of ten cents.

SECOND-CLASS MATTER—NO LIMIT TO WEIGHT. RATES TO THE PUBLIC.

Newspapers and periodicals unsealed, 1 cent, each 4 ounces or fraction. Incomplete copies, 1 cent for each 2 ounces.

Zones applicable to fourth-class matter applicable to second-class matter.

For the purpose of determining the rate of postage publishers are required, with the first mailing of each issue, to file with the Postmaster a copy of such issue together with a statement of such information as may be prescribed by the Postmaster-General.

Where the total weight of any one edition or issue of any publication mailed to any one zone does not exceed one pound the rate of postage shall be one cent.

The zone rates provided by this law relate to the entire bulk mailed to any one zone and not to individually addressed packages.

Where a newspaper or periodical is mailed by other than the publisher or his agent or a news agent or dealer, the rate shall be the same as to the general public.

THIRD-CLASS (PRINTED) MATTER RATES—LIMIT OF WEIGHT, FOUR POUNDS.

On each individually addressed piece or package, 1 cent for each 2 ounces or fraction thereof.

Packages of 4 pounds or less, containing third and fourth-class matter, are chargeable at the higher rate. If the package exceeds 4 pounds and contains parcel post and miscellaneous printed matter, the rate is as fourth-class matter.

FOURTH-CLASS MATTER RATES.

(Domestic Parcel Post.)

Must be fully prepaid—unsealed.

(a) Parcels weighing 4 ounces or less, except books, seeds, plants, etc., 1 cent for each ounce or fraction thereof, any distance.

(b) Parcels weighing 8 ounces or less, containing books, seeds, cuttings, bulbs, roots, scions, and plants, 1 cent for each 2 ounces or fraction thereof, regardless of distance.

(c) Parcels weighing more than 8 ounces, containing books, seeds, plants, etc., parcels of miscellaneous printed matter weighing more than 4 pounds, and all other parcels of fourth-class matter weighing more than 4 ounces are chargeable, according to distance or zone, at the pound rates shown in the table below, except as provided in paragraph (d), a fraction of a pound being computed as a full pound.

(d) Parcels subject to the pound rates, mailed for delivery within the first or second zone, are, when the distance by the shortest regular mail route from the office of origin to the office of delivery is 300 miles or more, 6 cents for the first pound and 2 cents for each additional pound, a fraction of a pound being computed as a full pound.

(e) Alaska, Hawaiian and Philippine Islands, etc.—The eighth zone rate of 12 cents for each pound or fraction thereof on all parcels weighing more than 4 ounces (except books, seeds, cuttings, bulbs, roots, scions, and plants, weighing 8 ounces or less) applies (1) between the United States and the Hawaiian Islands; (2) between the United States and its postal agency at Shanghai, China; (3) between any two points in Alaska and between any point in Alaska and any other point in the United States; (4) between the United States and the Canal Zone; (5) between the United States and the Philippine Islands; (6) to from, or between Guam, Tutuila, and Manua and other islands of the Samoan group east of longitude 171° west of Greenwich, and the United States and its other possessions; (7) between the United States and its naval vessels stationed in foreign waters; (8) between the United States and its Expeditionary Forces in Europe and Siberia.

(f) Canada, Cuba, Mexico, and Republic of Panama—Twelve cents for each pound or fraction thereof also applies to fourth-class matter, including seeds, cuttings, bulbs, roots, scions, and plants (but excepting books and other printed matter on which the rate is 1 cent for each 2 ounces or fraction thereof in all cases), weighing more than 4 ounces and not exceeding 4 pounds 6 ounces, when mailed to Canada, Mexico, Cuba, and the Republic of Panama. (Parcels weighing up to 20 pounds may be sent to Mexico and the Republic of Panama as foreign parcel post mail under the parcel post conventions with those countries.)

The special delivery fee is 10 cents in addition to the regular postage.

The limit of weight of fourth-class matter is 70 pounds for parcels mailed for delivery within the first, second, and third zones, and 50 pounds for all other zones.

Limit of size—Parcel post matter may not exceed 84 inches in length and girth combined. In measuring a parcel the greatest distance in a straight line between the ends (but not around the parcel) is taken as its length, while the distance around the parcel at its thickest part is taken as its girth. For example, a parcel 35 inches long, 10 inches wide, and 5 inches high measures 65 inches in length and girth combined.

Rate of postage on gold coin, gold bullion, and gold dust offered for mailing between any two points in Alaska, or between any point in Alaska, and any point in the United States or its possessions, 2 cents ao ounce or fraction thereof, regardless of distance. Such gold coin, gold bullion, or gold dust must be in sealed package not over 11 pounds in weight and must be sent by registered mail.

Packages of merchandise that weigh over 4 ounces and not over 4 pounds 6 ounces, may be sent to Canada, Cuba, Mexico, and the Republic of Panama, at the eighth zone rate of postage (12 cents for each pound or fraction thereof). Parcels for Cuba, Mexico, and the Republic of Panama must be accompanied by customs declarations regardless of their weight. Packages of merchandise weighing not more than 4 ounces may be mailed, at the postage rate of 1 cent for each ounce or fraction of an ounce, to Canada, Cuba, Mexico, and the Republic of Panama. Customs declarations are required on such parcels of merchandise of 4 ounces or less to Mexico and the Republic of Panama. Packages of merchandise cannot be insured or sent C. O. D., but may be registered for Canada, Cuba, Mexico and the Republic of Panama. Mailable merchandise for Mexico and the Republic of Panama, at the option of the sender, may also be sent by international parcel post if it conforms to the requirements.

A war stamp tax of 1 cent for each postage charge of 25 cents, or fractional part of 25 cents, must be paid on parcel post or fourth-class matter on which the postage amounts to not less than 25 cents. Special Internal Revenue stamps must be used. They are for sale by Postmasters.

NOTE—The war-stamp tax does not apply to parcels sent to (1) United States Expeditionary Forces abroad, (2) Porto Rico, (3) Philippine Islands, (4) Canal Zone, (5) Virgin Islands of the United States, (6) Guam, Tutuila and Manua and other islands of the Samoan group belonging to the United States, (7) United States Naval vessels, (8) Parcels addressed to foreign countries, (9) Parcels sent by officers or employees of the United States, or of any State, Territory, or the District of Columbia or political subdivision thereof, in the discharge of Governmental functions, provided they bear in the upper left corner of the address side of the wrapper or label the official designation or name, together with the address of the department, office, or officer by whom sent, as evidence of their being transmitted in the discharge of the Governmental functions of the United States, or of a State or political subdivision thereof, and consequently exempt from the war-stamp tax, and (10) parcels of merchandise mailed by the American Red Cross to be used exclusively in connection with war work for the benefit of the United States.

Consular Invoices for Cuba—Regardless of the fact that it is necessary to attach a customs declaration to each package of merchandise for Cuba, the customs regulations of that country require that the senders of merchandise must present at the proper Cuban consular office for certification a consular invoice covering the merchandise, if the merchandise represents a value of $5 or more. Invoices mailed at United States Post Offices, where no Cuban consular office is located, are excepted from this requirement. The consular invoice may either accompany the package or be sent under separate cover.

Return postage—Packages of merchandise originally prepaid at the rate of 12 cents a pound and returned as undeliverable from Mexico and Panama are subject to a return charge equal to the amount of postage originally prepaid. This charge does not apply to packages of merchandise weighing 4 ounces or less and originally prepaid at the rate of 1 cent an ounce or fraction of an ounce.

Registered mail—The fee is 10 cents over the regular postage. Articles admissible—Any mailable article, except unsealed fourth-class matter (parcel post) for domestic destinations, may be registered if the article is not too cumbersome. Domestic parcels containing fourth-class matter may also be registered if sealed and the usual fee and postage at the first-class rate are paid. Mailable articles addressed to foreign countries may be registered in the same way as domestic matter. International parcel post articles for Argentina, Australia, Barbadoes, Curacoa, Dutch Guiana, France, French Guiana, Gibraltar, Great Britain and Ireland, Guadaloupe, Italy, Martinique, Mexico, Holland, Society Islands and Uruguay cannot be registered. Parcels for foreign countries to which domestic rates apply, as Canada, Cuba, Mexico and the Republic of Panama, may be registered, but not insured.

Insured and C. O. D. Mail—Parcel post mail, except bees and one-day chicks, may be insured. The fees are: On $5 or less, 3 cents; $5 to $25, 5 cents; $25 to $50, 10 cents; $50 to $100, 25 cents. C. O. D. charges on parcel post mail will be collected for the following fees: Up to $50, 10 cents in stamps; $50 to $100, 25 cents in stamps; such parcels are automatically insured.

Money Orders—The maximum is $100, but there is no limit to the number that can be issued in one day to the same remitter. The fees for domestic orders are: $2.50 or less, 3 cents; $2.51 to $5.00, 5 cents; $5.01 to $10.00, 8 cents; $10.01 to $20.00, 10 cents; $20.01 to $30.00, 12 cents; $30.01 to $40.00, 15 cents; $40.01 to $50.00, 18 cents; $50.01 to $60.00, 20 cents; $60.01 to $75.00, 25 cents; $75.01 to $100.00, 30 cents. International money orders cost 10 cents for $10.00 or less, and 10 cents extra on each additional $10.00, up to $1.00 for $100.00. Domestic money orders are payable within 30 days at any United States Post Office (continental); after that, only at the office designated. In the United States colonies, etc., the orders are payable only at the office drawn upon.

UNITED STATES ARMY POSTAL SERVICE—REMITTANCES BY DOMESTIC MONEY ORDERS.

An order may be issued at any money order office in the United States on the domestic form, and at the domestic rate of fees for payment at any branch Post Office or station established by this Department for the benefit and convenience of our expeditionary forces. The coupon of a money order intended for any one connected with our military activities should bear the designation of the division, regiment, company or organization in the branch of the service to which the addressee or payee belongs. Money orders should be drawn on the "United States Army Postal Service" without attempting to designate the particular station or locality where payment is to be made.

Unmailable Matter—Includes not only all legitimate matter not conforming to the rules as to legibility of address, size of package or certificates of inspection, but also game, etc., killed out of season; poisons, explosive or inflammable articles, or bad smelling; all spirituous and malt liquors; all liquor advertisements to or from prohibition localities; indecent matter, written or otherwise; dunning postals and lottery, endless chain and fraud matter. In addition, sealed mail to a foreign country, except it be obviously letters, cannot be sent, nor can publications in violation of the copyright laws of the country of destination.

Preparation and Wrapping of mail matter—All except first-class must be done up in such a way as to be subject to postal inspection. There must be strong crates or covers for heavy matter, and greases, powders, pastes, jagged edges, etc., must be kept from getting outside their covers. All bottles must be incased, and "fragile," "right side up," "perishable," etc., must be marked on the covers of glass, eggs, etc., according to the necessities of each case.

Postal Savings—The limit of an individual deposit has been increased from $1,000 to $2,500. No sum of less than $1 will be accepted for a deposit. Interest is allowed at the rate of 2 per cent. Deposits are tax-free. An account may be opened and deposits made by any person of the age of 10 years or over, in his or her own name, and by a married woman in her own name and free from any control or interference by her husband. Deposits will be accepted only from individuals. No account will be opened in the name of any corporation, association, society, firm, or partnership, in the name of any person as an officer of a corporation, association, or society, in the name of any person as a member of a firm or partnership, or in the name of two or more persons jointly. No account will be opened in the name of one person in trust for or on behalf of another person or persons. A person may open a postal savings account at any depository post office, but no person may at the same time have more than one postal savings account either at the same office or at different offices. Amounts less than $1 may be saved by purchasing 10-cent postal savings cards and 10-cent postal savings stamps. A postal savings card with 9 postal savings stamps affixed will be accepted as a deposit of $1 either in opening an account or in adding to an existing account, or it may be redeemed in cash. Postal savings cards and stamps are not valid for postage, and postmasters will not give them in exchange for postage stamps, nor give postage stamps in exchange for postal savings cards and stamps. Deposits are evidenced by postal savings certificates issued in fixed denominations of $1, $2, $5, $10, $20, $50, $100, $200, and $500, each bearing the name of the depositor, the number of his account, the date of issue, the name of the depository office, and the date on which interest begins. Postal savings certificates are not transferable or negotiable. A depositor may exchange the whole or any part of his deposits for registered or coupon United States postal savings bonds, issued in denominations of $20, $100, and $500, bearing interest at the rate of 2½ per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually, redeemable at the pleasure of the United States after one year from date of issue, and payable 20 years from such date. Both principal and interest is payable in United States gold coin. The exchange may be made as of January 1 and July 1 of each year.

Pension Checks—Letters bearing a printed indorsement referring to the Act of August 17, 1912, must not be delivered to any one in case the addressee has died or has re-enlisted, is under guardianship or is away permanently from the delivery of the post office addressed, or, if a widow, has remarried.

Prisoner's Mail—A letter addressed to a person imprisoned to await trial, upon indictment, or pending indictment, should be delivered in accordance with the order of the person addressed. In the absence of an order the mail may be delivered to the sheriff or officer having charge of the prisoner.

Husband or Wife—Neither husband nor wife can control the delivery of mail addressed to the other, against the wishes of the one to whom it is addressed. In the absence of instructions to the contrary the wife's letters will be delivered with the husband's mail unless they be known to live separately.

Minors—The delivery of mail addressed to a minor is subject to the orders of the parent or guardian.

Officials—Mail addressed to a public official, or to an officer of a corporation, by his title, will be delivered to the person actually holding the office designated in the address.

Advertised Mail—The addressee is required to identify it and pay a fee of 1 cent.

Wrong Delivery—A person receiving mail not intended for him should return it promptly to the post office for proper disposition. If such mail has been opened by mistake it should be indorsed, "Opened by mistake," with the signature of the person receiving it.

Delivery to Sender—When the sender of a letter desires to recall it his application must be submitted to the postmaster at the office of mailing.

Registered and fourth-class matter are not mailable at mail cars.

Prepayment of Postage on domestic matter at time of mailing, by stamps affixed, is required. By special permission, however, postage may be paid in money on matter of the second, third, and fourth classes when mailed in quantities. Postmasters are not required to affix stamps to mail. When stamps are so affixed to mail that one overlies another, concealing part of its surface, the stamp thus covered is not taken into account in prepayment.

Two Classes of Matter in One Parcel—Matter of a higher class inclosed with matter of a lower class subjects the whole to the higher rate. Persons knowingly concealing or inclosing matter of a higher class in that of a lower class, for the purpose of evading payment of the proper postage, are liable to a fine of not more than $100.

The President's Christmas with the American Army in France.

LEAVING Paris at midnight, December 24, 1918, on a military train, President Wilson and his party arrived at 9 A. M., December 25, at Chaumont, the headquarters of Gen. Pershing, at the capital of the Department of the Haute-Marne, 134 miles east-southeast of Paris. Gen. Pershing, Gen. Wirbel, the French officer commanding the zone; M. Fossien, Prefect of the Department of Marne, and M. Levy-Alphandery, Mayor of Chaumont, were on the platform to receive the President and Mrs. Wilson, who, after responding to the cordial greetings, passed through a salon, hung with red tapestries and flags, to the courtyard, where a company of the 109th French Infantry and a company of the 102d American Infantry were drawn up to render honors. The exterior of the station and the courtyard had been decorated for the occasion by American soldiers with the French and American colors. After passing the guard of honor in review, the President took his place in a motor car and the party proceeded to the City Hall. Dense crowds massed behind the lines of guards in khaki, the streets were brilliantly decorated and hung with banners bearing inscriptions of welcome.

As the party passed through, the people of Chaumont joined in a continuous acclamation of the President. All this part of France lay under a gray cloud and a drizzling cold rain when the President's train pulled into the station. The troops declared the weather was exceptionally fine as compared with the usual brand of weather, and every one had a broad smile beaming above his mud-bespattered khaki uniform. Things were in motion early for the review. When the President raised the curtain of a window in his car the first person he saw was a strapping American doughboy on guard, who gravely came to salute the President smilingly gave him a "Merry Christmas" and made him the happiest soldier in France. A French troop train passing gave a "Vive Wilson!"

As his train moved in, the President saw on every hand monuments of America's participation in the war. There were great piles of supplies everywhere, and American soldiers swarmed on locomotives, box cars, tree tops and every point of vantage to get a glimpse of the President and shout a "Merry Christmas." The folks back home would have called it the dreariest Christmas Day in history, but it was the greatest one for these American troops, and evidently a very happy one for the President. He was ready for the "big day" and looking forward to every feature. He remarked that the rolling hills and wooded ridges looked not unlike the Virginia hills where he was accustomed to ride and play golf when at home. After alighting from his train at 9 o'clock the President went to the Hotel de Ville, held a reception and delivered a complimentary speech. Immediately afterward, with Gen. Pershing and party he motored to Humes, where he reviewed a detachment of the 1st Army of the American Expeditionary Forces.

Addressing the troops, Gen. Pershing said:

PERSHING PRAISES GALLANTRY OF HIS MEN.

"Mr. President and Fellow Soldiers: We are gathered here to-day to do honor to the commander of our armies and navies. For the first time an American President will review an American Army on foreign soil—the soil of a sister republic beside whose gallant troops we have fought to restore peace to the world. Speaking for you and your comrades, I am proud to declare to the President that no army has ever more loyally or more effectively served its country, and none has ever fought in a nobler cause. You, Mr. President, by your confidence and your support have made the success of our army, and to you, as our Commander in Chief, may I now present the Nation's victorious army?"

In replying, President Wilson said:

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS TO THE TROOPS.

"General Pershing and Fellow Comrades: I wish that I could give to each one of you the message that I know you are longing to receive from those at home who love you. I cannot do that, but I can tell you how every one has put his heart into it. So you have done your duty, and something more. You have done your duty, and you have done it with a spirit which gave it distinction and glory. And now we are to hail the fruits of everything. You conquered, when you came over, what you came over for, and you have done what it was appointed for you to do. I know what you expected of me. Some time ago a gentleman from one of the countries with which we are associated was discussing with me the moral aspects of this war, and I said that if we did not insist upon the high purpose which we have accomplished the end would not be justified.

"Everybody at home is proud of you, and has followed every movement of this great army with confidence and affection. The whole people of the United States are now waiting to welcome you home with an acclaim which probably has never greeted any other army, because our country is like this country. We have been so proud of the stand taken, of the purpose for which this war was entered by the United States. You knew what we expected of you, and you did it. I know what you and the people at home expected of me, and I am happy to say, my fellow countrymen, that I do not find in the hearts of the great leaders with whom it is my privilege now to co-operate any difference of principle or of fundamental purpose.

"It happened that it was the privilege of America to present the chart for peace, and now the process of settlement has been rendered comparatively simple by the fact that all the nations concerned have accepted that chart, and the application of these principles laid down there will be their application.

"The world will now know that the nations that fought this war, as well as the soldiers who represented them, are ready to make good, make good not only in the assertion of their own interests but make good in the establishment of peace upon the permanent foundation of right and of justice.

MUST BE A PEOPLE'S PEACE.

"Because this is not a war in which the soldiers of the free nations have obeyed masters. You have commanders but you have no masters. Your very commanders represent you in representing the Nation, of which you constitute so distinguished a part.

"And everybody concerned in the settlement knows that it must be a people's peace and that nothing must be done in the settlement of the issues of the war which is not as handsome as the great achievements of the armies of the United States and the Allies.

"It is difficult, very difficult, men, in any normal speech like this, to show you my real heart. You men probably do not realize with what anxious attention and care we have followed every step you have advanced and how proud we are that every step was in advance and not in retreat; that every time you set your face in any direction you kept your face in that direction.

"A thrill has gone through my heart as it has gone through the heart of every American, with almost every gun that was fired and every stroke that was struck in the gallant fighting that you have done, and there has been only one regret in America, and that was the regret that every man there felt that he was not there in France, too.

"It has been a hard thing to perform the tasks in the United States. It has been a hard thing to take part in directing what you did without coming over and helping you to do it. It has taken a lot of moral courage to stay at home. But we are proud to back you up everywhere that it was possible to back you up, and now I am happy to find what splendid names you have made for yourselves among the civilian population of France as well as among your comrades in the armies of the French, and it is a fine testimony to you men that these people like you and love you and trust you, and the finest part of it all is that you deserve their trust.

"I feel a comradeship with you to-day which is delightful, as I look down upon these undisturbed fields and think of the terrible scenes through which you have gone and realize how the quiet of peace, the tranquility of settled hopes, has descended upon us, and while it is hard far away from home confidently to bid you a Merry Christmas, I can, I think, confidently promise you a Happy New Year, and I can from the bottom of my heart say God bless you."

After the review President Wilson and party went to Montigne-le-Roi, where he and Mrs. Wilson took their Christmas dinner. In the afternoon the President visited the troops in their billets. He returned to Chaumont in time to leave at 6 o'clock for London, where he arrived on December 26, 1918.

THE PRESIDENT'S CHRISTMAS GREETING FROM PARIS.

PRESIDENT WILSON, in Paris sent to the American people, December 24, 1918, the following Christmas message: "I hope that it will cheer the people at home to know that I find their boys over here in fine form and in fine spirits, esteemed by all those with whom they have been associated in the war and trusted wherever they go, and they will also, I am sure, be cheered by the knowledge of the fact that throughout the great nations with which we have been associated in this war public opinion strongly sustains all proposals for a just and lasting peace and a close co-operation of the self-governing peoples of the world in making that peace secure after its present settlements are formulated. Nothing could constitute a more acceptable Christmas reassurance than the sentiments which I find everywhere prevalent."

THIRTY-SIX STATES MAKE WHOLE COUNTRY "DRY."

Up to January 16, 1919, the Legislatures of thirty-six States—the required three-fourths—had ratified the Prohibition Constitutional Amendment, Nebraska being the thirty-six, on the date named.

Ratification was completed January 15 by the Legislatures of five States—Iowa, Colorado, Oregon, New Hampshire, and Utah—making a total of twelve in two days. Of the thirty-six States that have taken action, fourteen have certified their action to the Federal State Department. They are Virginia, Kentucky, North Dakota, South Carolina, Maryland, South Dakota, Texas, Montana, Delaware, Massachusetts, Arizona, Georgia, Louisiana, and Michigan.

The amendment, under its provisions, becomes effective one year from the date of its final ratification. Additional legislation by Congress is necessary to make it operative, and ground work for this already has been laid. This legislation will prescribe penalties for violations of the amendment and determine how and by what agencies the law shall be enforced.

Court action to prevent the amendment becoming operative already has been started in California, where an order temporarily restraining Gov. Stephens from signing ratification of the amendment has been obtained. It has been intimated that similar action may be taken in other States in which, it is said, State laws require that Federal Constitutional Amendments must be submitted to a referendum.

The Prohibition Amendment resolution passed by Congress provides that ratification shall be by "the Legislatures of the several States as provided by the Constitution." The resolution reads:

"Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled (two-thirds of each House concurring therein), That the following amendment to the Constitution be, and hereby is, proposed to the States, to become valid as a part of the Constitution when ratified by the Legislatures of the several States as provided by the Constitution.

"Article—Section 1. After one year from the ratification of this article the manufacture, sale, or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into or the exportation thereof from, the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes is hereby prohibited.

"Section 2. The Congress and the several States shall have concurrent power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

"Section 3. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by the Legislatures of the several States, as provided in the Constitution, within seven years from the date of the submission hereof to the States by Congress."

The resolution was passed by the Senate, 65 to 20, on August 1, 1917, and by the House, 282 to 128, on December 17, 1917. Mississippi was the first State to ratify the amendment, its Legislature acting on January 8, 1918.

The States which have voted on the amendment and the dates on which action was taken follow:

1—Alabama, thirtieth, Jan. 14, 1919. 2—Arizona, twelfth, May 24, 1918. 3—Arkansas, twenty-fifth, Jan. 14, 1919. 4—California, twenty-third, Jan. 13, 1919. 5—Colorado, thirty-first, Jan. 15, 1919. 6—Delaware, ninth, March 18, 1918. 7—Florida, fifteenth. 8—Georgia, thirteenth, June 26, 1918. 9—Idaho, nineteenth, Jan. 8, 1919. 10—Illinois, twenty-sixth, Jan. 14, 1919. 11—Indiana, twenty-seventh, Jan. 14, 1919. 12—Iowa, thirty-second, Jan. 15, 1919. 13—Kansas, twenty-eighth, Jan. 14, 1919. 14—Kentucky, third, Jan. 14, 1918. 15—Louisiana, fourteenth, Aug. 8, 1918. 16—Maine, twenty-first, Jan. 8, 1919. 17—Maryland, sixth, Feb. 13, 1918. 18—Massachusetts, eleventh, April 2, 1918. 19—Michigan, sixteenth, Jan. 2, 1919. 20—Mississippi, first, Jan. 8, 1918. 21—Montana, seventh, Feb. 13, 1918. 22—New Hampshire, thirty-fourth, Jan. 15, 1919. 23—North Carolina, twenty-ninth, Jan. 14, 1919. 24—North Dakota, fifth, Jan. 25, 1918. 25—Ohio, seventeenth, Jan. 7, 1919. 26—Oklahoma, eighteenth, Jan. 7, 1919. 27—Oregon, thirty-third, Jan. 15, 1919. 28—South Carolina, fourth, Jan. 23, 1918. 29—South Dakota, tenth, March 20, 1918. 30—Tennessee, twentieth, Jan. 8, 1919. 31—Texas, eighth, March 4, 1918. 32—Utah, thirty-fifth, Jan. 15, 1919. 33—Virginia, second, Jan. 11, 1918. 34—Washington, twenty-fourth, Jan. 13, 1919. 35—West Virginia, twenty-second, Jan. 9, 1919. 36—Nebraska, thirty-sixth, Jan. 16, 1919. Missouri was thirty-seventh at 11.25 A. M., Jan. 16, 1919. Wyoming was thirty-eighth at 11.45 A. M., Jan. 16, 1919, twenty minutes after Missouri. The ten States yet to act (Jan. 16) are Minnesota, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, and Wisconsin.

The United States Senate and House of Representatives have adopted the amendment to the agricultural bill to establish Wartime Prohibition, and until the armies are demobilized, for the whole country and its territories. Effective July 1, 1919. The President has prohibited the manufacture of beer after December 1, 1918. Dry zones have been established around coal mines and munition plants.

CHURCH FASTS.

THE Roman Catholic Days of fasting are the forty days of Lent, the Ember Days, the Fridays of the four weeks in Advent, and certain vigils or evenings prior to the greater feasts, while all Fridays of the year are days of abstinence from fleah meat. In the American Episcopal Church the days or fasting or abstinence to be observed, according to the Book of Common Prayer, are the forty days of Lent, the Ember Days, the three Rogation Days, and all the Fridays of the year except Christmas Day. In the Greek Church the four principal fasts are those in Lent, the week succeeding Whitsuntide, the fortnight before the Assumption, and forty days before Christmas.

EMBER AND ROGATION DAYS.

EMBER and Rogation Days are certain periods of the year devoted to prayer and fasting. Ember Days (twelve annually) about the beginning of the four seasons, are the Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday after the first Sunday in Lent, in Spring; after the feast of Pentecost (Whit Sunday), Summer; after the festival of the Holy Cross Autumn, and after the festival of St. Lucia, Winter. Ember Weeks are the weeks in which the Ember Days appear.

Rogation Days occur on the Feast of St. Mark, April 25, and on the three days immediately preceding Ascension Day.

DIVISIONS OF TIME.

THE interval between two consecutive meridian transits of a fixed star having no proper motion, or the interval during which the earth makes one absolute revolution on its axis, is invariable. Very slightly differing from this is a Sidereal Day, which is the interval between two consecutive transits of the Vernal Equinox over any meridian. Vernal Equinox is employed in two senses: it may mean either the date when Spring commences, or else, as here, the point in the heavens occupied by the sun's centre when Spring commences. The interval between two consecutive transits of the Sun over any meridian is called an Apparent Solar Day, and its length varies from day to day by reason of the variable motion of the earth in its orbit and the inclination of this orbit to the equator on which time is measured.

A Mean Solar Day is the average or mean of all the apparent solar days in a year; it is equal to 1 day 3 minutes and 56.555 seconds, when measured in units of the Sidereal Day. Mean Solar Time is that shown by a well-regulated clock or watch, while Apparent Solar Time is that shown by a well-constructed sun-dial; the difference between the two at any time is the Equation of Time, and may amount to 16 minutes and 22 seconds. The Astronomical Day begins at noon and the Civil Day at the preceding midnight.

The interval during which the earth makes one absolute revolution round the Sun is called a Sidereal Year, and consists of 365 days 6 hours 9 minutes and 9.6 seconds, which is invariable.

The Tropical Year is the interval between two consecutive returns of the Sun to the Vernal Equinox. If this were a fixed point, the Sidereal and Tropical Years would be identical; but in consequence of the disturbing influence of the Moon and planets due to the spheroidal figure of the earth, the Equinox has a slow, retrograde mean motion of 50".26 annually, so that the Sun returns to the Equinox sooner every year than he otherwise would by 20 minutes 23.6 seconds; the Tropical Year, therefore, consists of 365 days 5 hours 48 minutes and 46 seconds. The Tropical Year is not of uniform length: it is now slowly decreasing at the rate of .530 second per century, but this variation will not always continue.

Julius Cæsar, in B. C. 45, was the first to reform the calendar by ordering that every year whose date number is exactly divisible by 4 contain 366 days, and all the other years 365 days. The intercalary day was introduced by counting the sixth day before the Kalends of March twice, hence the name bissextile, from bis, twice, and sex, six. He also changed the beginning of the year from the first of March to the first of January, and also changed the name of the fifth month (Quintilis) to July, after himself. The average length of the Julian year is therefore 365¼ days, which, however, is too long by 11 minutes and 14 seconds, and this would accumulate in 400 years to about three days. The Julian Calendar continued in use until A. D. 1582, when the Gregorian Calendar was introduced by Pope Gregory XIII. with the view of keeping the Equinox to the same day of the month. Of the centurial years only those which are exactly divisible by 400 thenceforward contained 366 days. The length of the mean Gregorian Year may therefore be set down at 365 days 5 hours 49 minutes 12 seconds, and the error will amount to one day in 3,000 years. The Gregorian Calendar was introduced into England and her colonies in 1752, at which time the Equinox had retrograded 11 days since the Council of Nice in A. D. 325, when the rule for Easter Day was established and the Equinox occurred on March 21; hence September 3, 1752, was called September 14, and at the same time the commencement of the legal year was changed from March 25 to January 1, so that the year 1751 lost the months of January and February and the first 24 days of March. The difference between the Julian and Gregorian Calendars is now 13 days. Russia and the Greek Church still employ the Julian Calendar for civil and ecclesiastical purposes.

In the Orient, the Gregorian Calendar was adopted by Japan in 1873, by the Chinese Republic in 1912, and by the Turkish Parliament in January, 1917.

STANDARD TIME.

(From a statement prepared by the United States Naval Observatory, Washington, D. C.)

THE United States adopted standard time in 1883, on the initiative of the American Railway Association, and at noon of November 18, 1883, the telegraphic time signals sent out daily from the Naval Observatory at Washington were changed to the new system, according to which the meridians of 75°, 90°, 105° and 120° west from Greenwich became the time meridians of Eastern, Central, Mountain, and Pacific standard time respectively.

Theoretically, the divisions should be half way between the above meridians, but for general convenience the railroads change their time at the ends of railroad divisions, so that Eastern standard time is used from the Atlantic Coast to an irregular line through Buffalo, Salamanca, Pittsburgh, Wheeling, W. Va.; Holloway, Ohio; Huntington, W. Va.; Bristol, Tenn.; Norton, Va.; Asheville, N. C.; Atlanta, Augusta, Ga.; Columbia, S. C.; Central Junction, Ga. Some of these cities use Eastern and some Central time, while the railroads use one time in one direction and the other time in the other direction.

The same applies to the cities on the dividing lines between the Central and Mountain divisions, the line running through Bismarck, N. Dak., South Dakota, Nebraska, Colorado, Kansas, New Mexico, and Texas to El Paso; also to the cities on the dividing line between the Mountain and Pacific division, the line running through Montana, Idaho, Oregon, Utah, Nevada, and Arizona.

By the Daylight Saving Act of 1918, standard time is made the legal time throughout the United States; in addition to the four time meridians already mentioned, the meridian 150° west from Greenwich is established the time meridian of standard Alaska time; authority to readjust the boundary lines between the time zones is lodged with the Interstate Commerce Commission. By the same act, the time in each of the five zones is advanced one hour from March to October.

For Time Difference table see Index.

Almost all countries throughout the world use standard time based on the meridians 15° apart from Greenwich, while some use standard time based on the longitude of their national observatories.

THE ANCIENT AND MODERN YEAR.

THE Athenians began the year in June, the Macedonians in September, the Romans first in March and afterward in January, the Persians on August 11, the ancient Mexicans on February 23, the Mohammedans in July. The Chinese year, which begins late in January or early in February, is similar to the Mohammedan in having 12 months of 29 and 30 days alternately; but in every nineteen years there are seven years which have 13 months. This is not quite correct, and the Chinese have therefore formed a cycle of 60 years, in which period 22 intercalary months occur.

Ritualistic Calendar.

COLORS FOR THE ALTAR IN USE IN RITUALISTIC EPISCOPAL CHURCHES IN THE UNITED STATES.

White—From the First Service (First Vespers) of Christmas Day to the Octave of Epiphany, inclusive (except on the Feasts of Martyrs); on Maundy Thursday (for the celebration); from the First Service of Easter Day to the Vigil of Pentecost (except on Feasts of Martyrs and Rogation Days); on Trinity Sunday, Conversion of St. Paul, Purification, Annunciation, St. John Baptist, St. Michael, St. Luke, All Saints, Saints who are not Martyrs, and Patron Saints (Transfiguration and Dedication of Church).

Red—From First Vespers of Pentecost to the First Vespers of Trinity Sunday (which includes Ember Days); Holy Innocents (if on a Sunday), and Feasts of all Martyrs.

Violet—From Septuagesima to Maundy Thursday (Easter Eve); Advent Sunday to Christmas Eve; Vigils, Ember Days (except in Whitsun Week), and Rogation Days; Holy Innocents (unless on Sunday).

Black—Good Friday and at funerals. Green—All other days.

These regulations as to colors are general. A more minute code changing with each year is published in the church almanacs.

For cities situated in countries where "SUMMER" time has not been adopted, one hour must be subtracted from the time given in the above table, during the Spring and Summer months. (See statement below).

"EASTERN" time includes: New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Richmond, Norfolk, Charleston, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Montreal, Quebec, Ottawa, Toronto, etc.

"CENTRAL," which is one hour slower than Eastern time, includes: Cleveland, Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Milwaukee, Kansas City, Omaha, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Detroit, New Orleans, Memphis, Savannah, Pensacola, Winnipeg, etc.

"MOUNTAIN," which is two hours slower than Eastern time, includes: Denver, Leadville, Colorado Springs, Helena, Regina (N. W. T.), etc.

"PACIFIC," which is three hours slower than Eastern time, includes: San Francisco, Portland (Oregon), Victoria, Vancouver, Tacoma, Seattle, etc.

By the law of the State of Ohio, which the Legislature recently refused to change, Central time is the legal time in all of that State. The trunk line railways at Cleveland, with the exception of the Erie, use Central time. There is a city ordinance which names Eastern time as the city time, but as above stated, it is at variance with the State law. Detroit has likewise adopted Eastern time.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

THE movement known by this name proposed "to set the clock ahead" one hour in the Summer months, or to be more exact, from May 1 to October 1; the idea being to substitute an hour of sunlight at one end of the day for an hour of artificial light at the other.

The father of the movement was an Englishman, William Willett, who in 1907 published a booklet on the "Waste of Daylight." In 1908 a Daylight Saving bill was introduced in the House of Commons but failed of passage. The measure was opposed on the ground of being needless, deceptive and confusing.

On April 6, 1916, the German Federal Council passed a measure providing that on May 1, 1916, all clocks should be set ahead one hour. The measure was adopted for hygienic and economic reasons. Within three months twelve European countries had followed the lead of Germany and "Summer Time" was in use in Germany, Holland, Austria, Turkey, England, France, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Italy, Switzerland, Spain and Portugal. Nova Scotia had the honor of introducing the new order in the New World.

Practically no confusion resulted; everything went on as before, people doing exactly the same things at the same hour o'clock, but in reality the whole routine of life had been brought one hour nearer sunrise. The scheme had brought about in the simplest way a vital change affecting millions. A simple "twist of the wrist" had given these nations their place in the sun.

So gratifying was the experience of 1916, that the scheme was again put in operation in the Spring of 1917, but at a much earlier date; in France the change was made on Saturday midnight, March 24.

The world-wide interest felt in the matter was further shown in 1917, when Australia and Iceland adopted daylight saving.

In England, where the change was avowedly a war measure and not designed to outlast the war, a prime consideration was the conserving of the coal supply for naval and military uses. Also, it is estimated that the British people are saving $12,000,000 on gas and electric light bills in a single season. The American friends of the measure have contended that the annual conservation of coal in the United States would amount to no less a sum than $40,000,000.

On March 16, 1918, the Congress of the United States passed and on March 19, 1918, President Wilson approved the Daylight Saving Act, under the terms of which standard time throughout the United States and Alaska is advanced one hour for the period in each year beginning at 2 A. M. on the last Sunday of March and ending at 2 A. M. on the last Sunday of October.

OLD ENGLISH HOLIDAYS.

THESE holidays, with their names, had their origin in mediæval England when the state religion was that of the Church of Rome, and they are still observed generally or in some parts of Britain.

JANUARY 6. TWELFTH DAY, or Twelfth-tide, sometimes called Old Christmas Day, the same as Epiphany. The previous evening is Twelfth Night, with which many social rites have long been connected.

*FEBRUARY 2. CANDLEMAS: Festival of the Purification of the Virgin. Consecration of the lighted candles to be used in the church during the year.

FEBRUARY 14. OLD CANDLEMAS: St. Valentine's Day.

MARCH 25. LADY DAY: Annunciation of the Virgin. April 6 is old Lady Day.

JUNE 24. MIDSUMMER DAY: Feast of the Nativity of John the Baptist. July 7 is old Midsummer Day.

JULY 15. ST. SWITHIN'S DAY. There was an old superstition that if rain fell on this day it would continue forty days.

AUGUST 1. LAMMAS DAY. Originally in England the festival of the wheat harvest. In the Church the festival of St. Peter's miraculous deliverance from prison. Old Lammas Day is August 13.

SEPTEMBER 29. MICHAELMAS: Feast of St. Michael, the Archangel. Old Michaelmas is October 11.

NOVEMBER 1. ALL-HALLOWMAS: All-hallows, or All Saints' Day. The previous evening is All-hallow-e'en, observed by home gatherings and old-time festive rites.

NOVEMBER 2. ALL SOULS' DAY: Day of prayer for the souls of the dead.

NOVEMBER 11. MARTINMAS: Feast of St. Martin. Old Martinmas is November 23.

DECEMBER 28. CHILDERMAS: Holy Innocents' Day

Lady Day, Midsummer Day, Michaelmas and Christmas are quarter (rent) days in England, and Whitsunday, Martinmas, Candlemas and Lammas Day in Scotland.

Shrove Tuesday, the day before Ash Wednesday, and Maundy Thursday, the day before Good Friday, are observed by the Church. Mothering Sunday is Mid-Lent Sunday, in which the old rural custom obtains of visiting one's parents and making them presents.

* Also known as "Groundhog Day."

The above table applies to ordinary years only. For leap year, one day must be added to each number of days after February 28.

EXAMPLE.—To find the number of days between June 3, 1900, and February 16, 1901: The figures opposite the third day in the first June column are 154; those opposite the sixteenth day in the second February column are 412. Subtract the first from the second product—i. e., 154 from 412, and the result is 258, the number of days between the two dates.

NOTE.—To ascertain any day of the week, first look in the table for the year required, and under the months are figures which refer to the corresponding figures at the head of the columns of days below. For Example:—To know on what day of the week July 4, 1918, will fall, look in the table of years for 1918, and in a parallel line under July is figure 1, which directs to column 1, in which it will be seen that July 4 falls on Thursday.

* 1752 same as 1772 from January 1 to September 2. From September 14 to December 31 same as 1780 (September 3–13 were omitted). (Whitaker's Almanack).

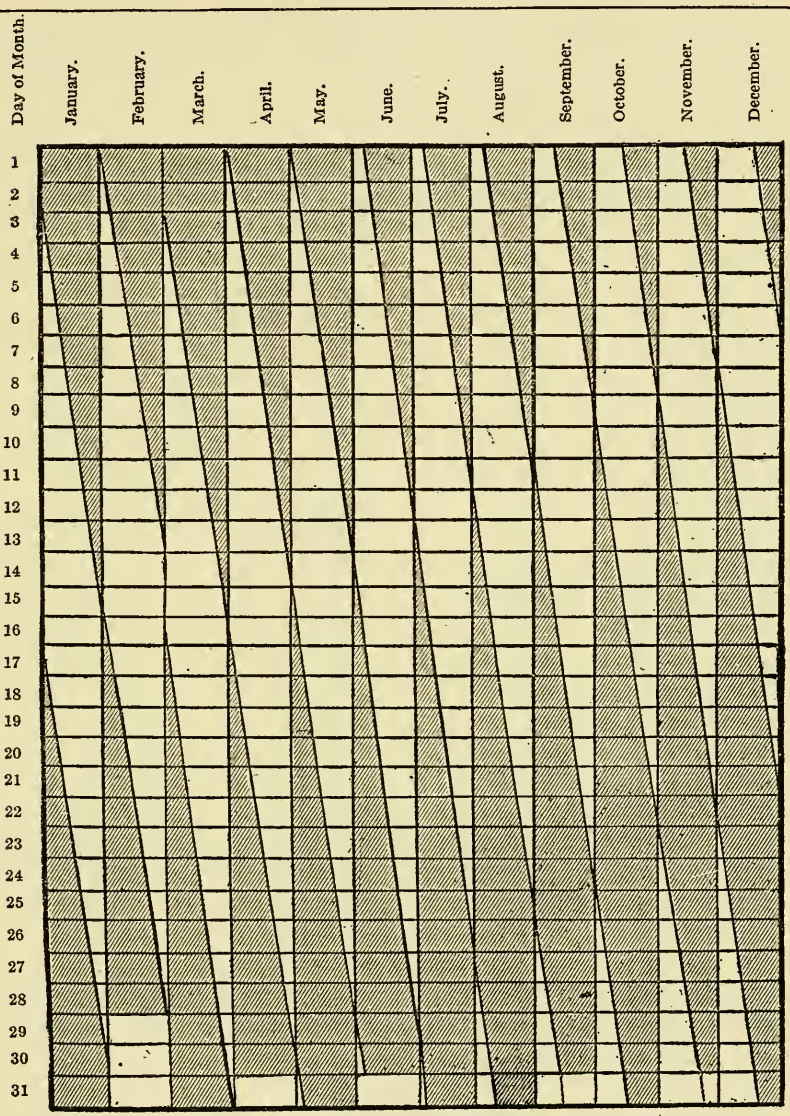
MOONLIGHT CHART, 1919.



EXPLANATION.—The white spaces show the amount of moonlight each night. January 2, January 31, etc., the time of new moon, there is no moonlight for two or three nights; January 9, February 7, etc the moon sets at or near midnight, when the first half of the night has moonlight; January 16, February 14, etc., full moon, when moonlight lasts the whole night; January 23, February 22, etc., the moon rises at or near midnight, when the latter half of the night has moonlight.

THE MOON.

Of all the secondary planets the earth's satellite is by far the most interesting and important. The moon completes her circuit around the earth in a period whose mean or average length is 27 days 7 hours 43.2 minutes; but in consequence of her motion in common with the earth around the sun, the mean duration of the lunar month, that is, the time from new moon to new moon, is 29 days 12 hours 44.05 minutes, which is called the moon's synodical period. If the earth were motionless in space the moon's orbit would be nearly an ellipse, having the earth in one of the foci; hence her distance from the earth varies during the course of a lunar month. Her mean distance from the earth is 238,862 miles. Her maximum distance, however, may reach 252,830 miles, and the least distance to which she can approach the earth is 221,520 miles. Her diameter is 2,160 miles, and if we deduct from her distance from the earth the sum of the two radii of the earth and moon, viz., 3,963 and 1,080 miles, respectively, we shall have for the nearest approach of the surfaces of the two bodies 216,477 miles. Her orbit is a very intricate one, because the earth in moving around the sun carries the moon along with it; hence the latter is sometimes within and sometimes without the earth's orbit. Its form is that of a serpentine curve, always concave toward the sun, and its plane is inclined to the plane of the earth's orbit at an angle of 5° 9′, in consequence of which our satellite appears sometimes above and sometimes below the plane of the earth's orbit, through which she passes twice in a revolution. These points of intersection with the ecliptic are called nodes, and it is only at or near them that eclipses can occur. The nodes have a retrograde motion, which causes them to make an entire revolution in 18 years 218 days 21 hours 22 minutes and 46 seconds. Both sun and moon return to a node after 18 years and 11 days, so that an eclipse is followed by another of the same general character at the end of this period, which was well known to the ancients, who called it the Saros, and which was made use of by them in roughly predicting eclipses.

The moon always presents the same face to us, as is evident from the permanency of the various markings on her surface. This circumstance proves that she revolves on an axis, and the time of rotation is exactly equal to the time of revolution around the earth, viz., 27.32166 days. The moon's axis is not perpendicular to the plane of her orbit, but deviates therefrom by an angle of about 6° 41′. In consequence of this fact the poles of the moon lean alternately to and from the earth. When the north pole leans toward the earth we see somewhat more of the region surrounding it, and somewhat less when it leans the contrary way. This displacement is known by the name of libration in latitude.

The moon's motion on her axis is uniform, but her angular velocity in her orbit is subject to slight variations by reason of the form of her orbit; hence it happens that we sometimes see a little more of the eastern or western edge at one time than at another. This phenomenon is known as libration in longitude.

The moon's surface contains about 14,657,000 square miles, or nearly four times the area of Europe. Her volume is 1-49 and her mass 1-81 that of the earth, and hence her density is about 3-5 that of the earth, or about 3 2-5 that of water. At the lunar surface gravity is only 1-6 of what it is at the earth, and therefore a body which weighs 6 pounds here would weigh only 1 pound there.

The centre of gravity of the earth and moon, or the point about which they both actually revolve in their course around the sun, lies within the earth; it is 1,063 miles below the surface.

The attractive force of the moon acting on the water of our oceans is mainly instrumental in raising them into protuberances or tides in such a manner as to give the total mass a spheroidal figure whose principal axis would continually coincide with the line joining the centres of the earth and moon, but in consequence of the resistance which this movement of the water encounters from continents and islands, as well as from the liquid molecules themselves, the tidal wave can never arrive at any place until about one hour after the moon has crossed the meridian of the place.

The moon has no atmosphere and no water. The suddenness with which the stars are occulted by the moon is regarded as a conclusive proof that a lunar atmosphere does not exist, and the spectroscope furnishes negative evidence of the same character.

In remote ages the lunar surface was the theatre of violent volcanic action, being elevated into cones and ridges exceeding 20,000 feet high, and at other places rent into furrows or depressions of corresponding depth. The lunar volcanoes are now extinct. A profound silence reigns over the desolate and rugged surface. It is a dead world, utterly unfit to support animal or vegetable life.

THE EARTH'S ATMOSPHERE.

The earth's sensible atmosphere is generally supposed to extend some forty miles in height, probably further, but becoming at only a few miles from the surface of too great a tenuity to support life. The condition and motions of this aerial ocean play a most important part in the determination of climate, modifying, by absorbing, the otherwise intense heat of the sun, and, when laden with clouds, hindering the earth from radiating its acquired heat into space.

HALLEY'S COMET.

Of the great number of comets which have temporarily visited our solar system or have become permanent members of it none has surpassed Halley's in historical associations. It has a record dating back to B. C. 240; its visitations spread alarm and consternation throughout Europe during the Middle Ages; was the first whose return was predicted by an Astronomer Royal of England, and will therefore, for these reasons, be an object of great scientific interest for all time. Its periodic time is 76.8 years, and in April, 1910, it made the perihelion passage for the twenty-ninth time.

ENCKE'S COMET.

The second of the periodic comets to be discovered was Encke's, as Halley's was the first. Encke's Comet has the shortest period known, namely, about forty months. The observed visitations, from January, 1819, to March, 1918, form an uninterrupted series, thirty-one in number.

Encke's is unique among comets in that its motion is constantly accelerating and its period is decreasing in proportion, being now 1,203 days as compared with 1,205 days in 1819. At first this was ascribed to a resisting medium; but it is more probably due to repeated passage of the comet through a cloud of meteors.

MAGNETIC DECLINATIONS.

OR VARIATION OF COMPASS FOR JANUARY, 1919—WITH THE ANNUAL CHANGE BETWEEN 1910 AND 1915, FOR SELECTED PLACES IN THE UNITED STATES.

A plus (+) sign to the annual change denotes that the declination is increasing, and a minus (—) sign the reverse.

ASTRONOMICAL PHENOMENA FOR THE YEAR 1919.

ASTRONOMICAL SIGNS AND SYMBOLS.

☉	The Sun.	♂	Mars.	☌	Conjunction.
☾	The Moon.	♃	Jupiter.	□	Quadrature.
☿	Mercury.	♄	Saturn.	☍	Opposition.
♀	Venus.	♅	Uranus.	☊	Ascending Node.
⊕	The Earth.	♆	Neptune.	☋	Descending Node.

Two heavenly bodies are in "conjunction" (☌) when they have the same Right Ascension, or are on the same meridian, i. e., when one is due north or south of the other; if the bodies are near each other as seen from the earth, they will rise and set at the same time; they are in "opposition" (☍) when in opposite quarters of the heavens, or when one rises just as the other is setting. "Quadrature" (□) is half way between conjunction and opposition. By "greatest elongation" is meant the greatest apparent angular distance from the sun; the planet is then generally most favorably situated for observation. Mercury can be seen with the naked eye only at this time. When a planet is in its "ascending" (☊) or "descending" (☋) node it is crossing the plane of the earth's orbit. The term "Perihelion" means nearest to the sun, and "Aphelion" farthest from the sun. An "occultation" of a planet or star is an eclipse of it by some other body, usually the moon.

II.—ECLIPSES.

The year 1919 is notable for an annular eclipse of the sun, the first since 1908 to be visible in the United States and the last until 1930. The path of annular phase has the unusual width of 230 miles, and the duration of eight to twelve minutes is the greatest possible for an annular eclipse. Only the States of Texas and Louisiana will witness the annular phase.

In the year 1919 there will be three eclipses in all, two of the sun and one of the moon.

1. A total eclipse of the sun, May 29, invisible in the United States. Visible generally as a partial eclipse in South America and Africa. The path of totality begins off the west coast of South America, passes through Chile, Peru, Bolivia, and Brazil, thence across the Atlantic Ocean near the equator, into Liberia, through the Gulf of Guinea, across the Congo region, over the south end of Lake Tanganyika and the north end of Lake Nyassa, and ends off the coast of Africa in the Channel of Mozambique.

2. A small partial eclipse of the moon, November 7-8, visible in the United States on November 7, beginning at 5h. 58m. P. M. and ending at 7h. 30m. P. M., eastern standard time. Visible generally in western Asia, in Europe, Africa, and the eastern parts of North and South America.

Magnitude 0.184 (Moon's diameter = 1.0). First contact with the shadow is 143° from the north point of the moon toward the east. Last contact is 166° from the north point toward the west.

3. As already noted, an annular eclipse of the sun, November 22; visible generally as a partial eclipse in the United States, Mexico, Central America, the northern two-thirds of South America, in northwestern Africa, in Great Britain, France and Spain. The annular phase begins at sunrise in western Texas, passes through that State and across the southwestern corner of Louisiana, thence across the Gulf of Mexico, includes the island of Cuba, thence through the Caribbean Sea and by a wide curve sweeps over the Atlantic Ocean and ends in the French Sudan near Timbuctoo.

THE MAGNETIC POLES.

THE geographical poles of the earth are the extremities of the imaginary line passing through its centre of gravity and about which it revolves, and are therefore symmetrically located with regard to the equator. The magnetic poles however, are not coincident with the geographical poles, nor are they diametrically opposite to each other. Prior to the recent attempt of Amundsen to determine the north magnetic pole, the only other was by Capt. James Ross in June, 1831, who found the dip of the magnetic needle to be 89° 59′.5, in latitude 70° 5′.2 N. and longitude 96° 45′.8 W., which is in King William Land, Canada. The result of Amundsen's observations has not yet been published by the Norwegian authorities.

For the south magnetic pole, from a consideration of all the results available, according to the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, the position latitude 72° .7 S. and longitude 156° E. has been tentatively adopted. These values are only roughly approximate, and for that reason are given only in degrees and tenths.

By reason of the annual variation of the magnetic needle, it is believed that the magnetic poles are not stationary, but have a slow motion around the geographical poles. The subject is shrouded in mystery and constitutes one of the many as yet unsolved problems in terrestrial physics.

HOW THE YOSEMITE GORGE WAS FORMED.

(By the United States Department of the Interior.)

GEOLOGISTS have determined, by unerring fact, that the river did by far the most of the work, and that the great glacier which followed the water ages afterwards did little more than square its corners and steepen its cliffs. It may have increased the depth from seven hundred to a thousand feet, not more. During the uncountable years since the glaciers vanished, erosion has again marvelously used its wonder chisel. With the lessening of the Merced's volume, the effect was no longer to deepen the channel but to amazingly carve and decorate the walls.

From June 16 to August 1 both the upper and lower transits take place during daylight. The azimuth at the time of greatest Eastern or Western elongation can be easily computed from the formula:

$$\sin A = \frac{\sin p}{\cos l}$$

where A denotes the azimuth, p the polar distance, and l the latitude of the place.

DATE OF GREATEST ELONGATION.

To find the time of greatest Eastern or Western elongation, let H denote the hour angle, and l and p as before, then we shall have

$$\cos H = \tan p \tan l.$$

And the hour angle in mean time is

$$Hm = H° \times 0.0664846.$$

This quantity, Hm, added to or subtracted from the time of transit given above, according to the elongation required, will give the mean time of the greatest elongation at any place whose north latitude is l.

The determination of stellar parallax is one of the most difficult and refined problems in practical or observational astronomy. It is to find the angle which the semi-diameter of the earth's orbit subtends at the star—an angle always very small, as seen from the above table, and which cannot be measured directly but by various processes too complicated to be explained here.

ASTRONOMICAL CONSTANTS.

MEAN solar parallax, 8″.80. Nutation constant, 9″.21.
Aberration constant, 20″.47. Annual precession, 50″.2564+0″.000222 (t—1900).
Obliquity of the ecliptic, 23° 27′ 8″.26—0″.4684 (t—1900).
Annual diminution of obliquity, 0″.4684.
Moon's equatorial horizontal parallax, 57′ 2″.63.
Moon's mean distance from the earth (centre to centre), 238,862 miles.
Sun's mean distance from the earth (astronomical unit), 92,897,400 miles.
Velocity of light, 186,324 miles per second.
Light travels unit of distance—viz. 92,897,400 miles in 498.580 seconds.
Length of the Year—Tropical (equinox to equinox), 365.2421988 days.
Sidereal or absolute revolution, 365.256360[4] days.
Anomalistic (from perihelion to perihelion), 365.2596413 days.

Length of Day—Sidereal, 23 hours 56 minutes 4.091 seconds (mean solar time). Mean solar, 24 hours 3 minutes 56.555 seconds (sidereal time).

Length of the Month—Synodical (from new moon to new moon), 29 days 12 hours 44 minutes 2.8 seconds. Tropical, 27 days 7 hours 43 minutes 4.7 seconds. Sidereal (absolute revolution), 27 days 7 hours 43 minutes 11.5 seconds. Anomalistic (from perigee to perigee), 27 days 13 hours 18 minutes 33.1 seconds.

Dimensions of the Earth—Equatorial radius, 3963.34 miles. Polar radius, 3949.99 miles. Eccentricity of the oblate spheroid, 0.0819981.

THE ZODIAC.

The sun's apparent yearly path among the stars is known as the ecliptic. The zone 16° wide, 8° on each side of the ecliptic, is known as the zodiac. Beginning at the point on the ecliptic which marks the position of the sun at the vernal equinox, and thence proceeding eastward, the zodiac is divided into twelve signs of 30° each, which are as follows:

SIGNS OF THE ZODIAC.

Spring Signs.	1. ♈ Aries. The Ram.	Autumn Signs.	7. ♎ Libra. The Balance.
	2. ♉ Taurus. The Bull.		8. ♏ Scorpius. The Scorpion.
	3. ♊ Gemini. The Twins.		9. ♐ Sagittarius. The Archer.
Summer Signs.	4. ♋ Cancer. The Crab.	Winter Signs.	10. ♑ Capricornus. The Goat.
	5. ♌ Leo. The Lion.		11. ♒ Aquarius. The Water-Bearer.
	6. ♍ Virgo. The Virgin.		12. ♓ Pisces. The Fishes.

These signs are named from the twelve constellations of the zodiac; with which the signs coincided in the time of the astronomer Hipparchus, about two thousand years ago. Owing to the precession of the equinoxes, that is to say, to the retrograde motion of the equinoxes along the ecliptic, each sign in the zodiac has, in the course of two thousand years, moved backward 30° into the constellation west of it; so that the sign Aries is now in the constellation Pisces, and so on.

The zodiac, with its constellations and with the symbols that represent them, is of the greatest antiquity; and is traceable in part, at least, to an Egyptian origin. The zodiac may be called the great highway of the heavens, its width being such as to include all the journeyings of the sun, moon, and seven major planets.

Latitude of a place is its angular distance from the equator and is measured by an arc of the meridian between the zenith and the equator. Longitude of a place is measured by the arc of the equator, intercepted between the prime meridian and the meridian passing through the place, or by the angle at the pole between those two meridians.

FACTS ABOUT THE EARTH.

(Revised by the National Geographic Society of Washington, D. C., from the latest available figures and estimates.)

THE superficial area of the earth is 196,940,000 square miles—140,295,000 square miles of water and 56,255,000 square miles of land. The three great oceans comprise the Atlantic, 41,321,000 square miles; Pacific, 68,634,000 square miles, and Indian, 29,430,000 square miles. There are about 1,000,000 square miles of lake and river surface on the land, and 1,910,000 square miles of islands in the seas. The diameter of the earth at the equator is 7,926 miles, and through the poles 7,899.6 miles. The average elevation of the land above sea level is 2,300 feet. The average depth of the ocean below sea level is 12,600 feet. The deepest place in the ocean yet found is off Mindanao, Philippine Islands, 32,088 feet. The highest mountain is Mount Everest, in the Himalayas, 29,002 feet. This gives a range of 61,090 feet or more, 11½ miles, between the bottom of the oceans and the top of the land.

The best estimates of the earth's area place the fertile regions at 29,000,000 square miles; steppes at 14,000,000 square miles; deserts at 4,861,000 square miles; and polar regions at 6,970,000 square miles.

The population of the earth at the death of Emperor Augustus, estimated by Bodio, was 54,000,000. The population of Europe hardly exceeded 50,000,000 before the fifteenth century.—Mulhall. The population of the earth, at its present ratio of gain, will be about 4,000,000,000 in 2014.

The proportion of females to each 1,000 males in 1910 was: United States 934; England, 1,068; Germany, 1,026. In France (1901), 1,033.

The human family is subject to more than 60 governments, including Poland, Finland, the Ukraine and other fragments of the war-broken Russian Empire. The British Empire is the largest, while Monaco with its 8 square miles and San Marino with its 38 square miles of territory are the smallest. The absolute monarchies are Abyssinia, Afghanistan, Morocco, Siam, and Oman; the limited monarchies are Albania, Austria-Hungary, Belgium, Bhutan, British Empire, Bulgaria, Denmark, German Empire, Greece, Italy Japan, Liechtenstein, Luxemburg, Monaco, Montenegro, Nepal, Netherlands, Norway, Persia, Roumania, Serbia, Spain, Sweden, and Turkey; the republics include: Andorra, Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, China, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Ecuador, France, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Liberia, Mexico, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Portugal, Russia, Salvador, San Marino, Santo Domingo, Switzerland, United States, Uruguay, Venezuela.

EARTHQUAKE AREAS OF THE EARTH.

FROM Major de Montessus de Balore's catalogue of 130,000 shocks, indicating with some scientific accuracy how the symptoms of seismic activity are manifested over the earth's surface. The observation covers a recent period of fifty years; but there is no reason to suppose that a longer time would materially affect the proportionate numbers.

The most shaken countries of the world are Italy, Japan, Greece, South America (the Pacific Coast), Java, Sicily, and Asia Minor. The lands most free from these convulsions are Africa, Australia, Russia, Siberia, Scandinavia, and Canada. As a rule, where earthquakes are most frequent they are most severe, But to this general statement there are exceptions—Indian shocks, though less numerous, being often very disastrous. Loss of life in many cases depends, however, on density of population rather than on the intensity of the earth movement.

CLASSIFICATION OF ROCKS AND PRINCIPAL DIVISIONS OF GEOLOGIC TIME

(Prepared by the U. S. Geologic Survey.)

THE rocks composing the earth's crust are grouped by geologists into three great classes, igneous, sedimentary, and metamorphic. The igneous rocks have solidified from a molten state. Those that have solidified beneath the surface are known as intrusive rocks. Those that have flowed out over the surface are known as effusive rocks, extrusive rocks, or lavas. The term volcanic rock includes not only lavas but bombs, pumice, tuff, volcanic ash and other fragmental materials thrown out from volcanoes. Sedimentary rocks are formed by the accumulation of sediment in water (aqueous deposits or eolian deposits). The sediment may consist of rock fragments or particles of various sizes (conglomerate sandstone, shale); of the remains or products of animals or plants (certain limestones and coal); of the product of chemical action or of evaporation (salt, gypsum, etc.); or of mixtures of these materials. A characteristic feature of sedimentary deposits is a layered structure known as bedding or stratification. Metamorphic rocks are derivatives of igneous or sedimentary rocks produced through mechanical or chemical activities in the earth's crust. The unaltered sedimentary rocks are commonly stratified, and it is from their order of succession and that of their contained fossils that the fundamental data of historical geology have been deduced.

THE NEW STAR.

(By H. W. Wilson, in the London Daily Mail, June, 1918.)

THE apparition of a new star of the first magnitude (which means a star of extraordinary brightness) is a singular event. On Saturday night five independent observers in this country observed the sudden blazing forth of such a star in the Constellation of Aquila, and their discovery has now been verified by the Royal Observatory at Greenwich. The cause of such outbursts must be some catastrophe in the cosmic world, of which we can only form the dimmest conception on our relatively stable and regularly ordered earth. From time to time stars which are invisible or all but invisible blaze up, assume for a shorter or longer period an intense brilliance, and then again fade into night. The annals of ancient astronomy record ten such instances between 134 B. C. and 1500 A. D. Since 1500 there have been ten more new stars, visible to the naked eye, so that the average occurrence is now about two per century.

There are two explanations of these strange apparitions in the sky. The first is that the sudden rise in brilliance is the result of a collision in space between two stars or between a star and a mass of meteoric matter or a nebula. In the first case there would be something far more violent than the most tremendous explosion which we can imagine; the heat of the two bodies meeting—projectiles moving at a speed of at least 100,000 feet per second each—in the intense cold of the outer abysses would rise to such a degree as is not even approached in the sun's terrific furnaces. There would be an emanation of brilliance visible across the infinite and almost unimaginable gulfs that part us from these far-off mysterious objects, and then gradually the brilliance would die down.

Nova Persei, such a new star discovered by T. D. Anderson in February, 1901, two days after it had been glimpsed, became the brightest star on the northern heavens, but in less than three weeks sank to the fourth magnitude, and in 1903 had fallen to the twelfth magnitude, at which level of light it has remained ever since. Stupendous physical changes must have passed in those two brief years. The second explanation is that there is no collision, but some outburst of electrical or chemical activity in the star itself due to forces similar to those which act so strangely on the sun producing sun-spots—forces which may even lie outside the law of gravitation. Other explanations have been offered but have not as yet been generally accepted by astronomers. One of the most plausible of these views the new star as the result of a sudden condensation by gravitation of a vast nebula about a star centre (or a point on which stars are supposed to be moving).

TELESCOPES.

THERE are two kinds of telescopes, viz., refracting and reflecting. In the former the rays of light are made to converge to a focus by lenses, while in the latter they are made to converge by being reflected from the surface of a slightly concaved, highly polished mirror. The chief disadvantages of refracting telescopes are the chromatic and spherical aberrations of the lenses. In reflecting telescopes these aberrations can be done away with by using parabolic mirrors. These have, however, a smaller field of good definition than refractors. Owing to the travelling of the earth in its orbit and revolving about its axis, stars if viewed by a fixed telescope would soon disappear. It is thus necessary that a telescope be mounted so a star will always be in its field. This is accomplished by using an equatorial mounting in which there are two axes, one called the "polar," that is parallel to the axis of the earth, and the other the "declination," at right angles to it. Hence, when a star is to be followed, the telescope is clamped in position and by means of clockwork follows the star so it always remains in view.

The magnifying power of telescopes is generally expressed in diameters, the practical limit of power being 100 diameters per inch of diameter of the telescope. Thus the 36-inch telescope at the Lick Observatory may give a magnifying power of 3,600 diameters. But such high power can only be used in a very clear atmosphere, and consequently most astronomical observations are made at 1,000 diameters.

The largest refracting telescopes in the world are in the United States. The one at Yerkes Observatory, Geneva Lake, Wis., has an object lens 40 inches in diameter, with a focal length of 64 feet. The movable part of the instrument turning on the polar axis weighs about 12 tons, and the clock 1½ tons. Other large telescopes are the 36-inch at Lick Observatory, Mt. Hamilton, Cal., where many important astronomical discoveries have been made; the 26-inch at the U. S. Observatory, Washington, D. C., and the 24-inch (photographic objective) belonging to Harvard University. There is a 30-inch refracting telescope at the Allegheny Observatory, Riverview Park, Pa.

Abroad is the 30-inch at the Imperial Observatory, Pulkova (near Petrograd), Russia. This telescope has a platform at the lower end of the polar axis, from which observers can readily operate the instrument. The Meudon Observatory (near Paris, France) has a 32-inch, the Potsdam, Prussia, a 31-inch, and the Royal Observatory, at Greenwich, England, a 28-inch. There is a 32-inch at the Nikolaieff Observatory of Russia.

Two of the most perfect reflecting telescope instruments ever built are at Mt. Wilson Observatory, Pasadena, Cal. One mirror is silver on glass, 60 inches in diameter, and weighs nearly a ton. The telescope is moved by electric motors in right ascension and declination. An important feature in this instrument is the different focal lengths that can be obtained. The 60-inch mirror has a 25-foot focus, but by a suitable arrangement of mirrors it is possible to get focal lengths of 80, 100 and 150 feet. At the same observatory is a 100-inch reflector; the tube with the mirror at the bottom is 43 feet long, and with the mountings weighs nearly 20 tons. There is a 36-inch reflector at Lick Observatory, Harvard University has a 28-inch and a 60-inch, and at the Yerkes Observatory is a 24-inch. Other notable reflectors are the Lord Rosse, at Birr Castle, Ireland, which has a mirror 72 inches in diameter of speculum metal and a focal length of 54 feet; a 48-inch at Melbourne, Australia; a 60-inch at Ealing, England; a 48-inch at Paris, France, and a 39-inch at Meudon, France. The new 61-inch reflecting telescope at the National Astronomic Observatory, Cordoba, Argentina, is claimed to be the most powerful reflector in the Southern Hemisphere and the third most powerful in the world. The Dominion Astronomical Observatory, Victoria, B. C., Canada, has a 72-inch reflector.

Nov. 4...Election Day (1st Tuesday after the 1st Monday in November. All over Union, except Dist. of Col.)
Nov. 23...Repudiation Day (Stamp Act), in Frederick County, Md.
Nov. 27...National Thanksgiving Day (usually the last Thursday in November. In every State and Dist. of Col.).
Dec. 3...Arbor Day (in Ga.).
Dec. 25...Christmas Day (all over Union).

Under the Negotiable Instruments Law adopted by every State in the Union except Cal., Ga., Me., Miss., S. Car., and Tex., every negotiable instrument is payable at the time fixed therein without grace. When the day of maturity falls upon Sunday or a holiday, the instrument is payable on the next succeeding business day. In the United States legal holidays are fixed by State and Territorial legislation. It is customary for the President to proclaim the last Thursday in November as a day of Thanksgiving. This makes it a legal holiday in the Dist. of Col. and in the territories, and it is customary for State Governors to fix the same date.

ORIGIN OF 'BROTHER JONATHAN."

(From Dwight's American Magazine in 1847.)

THE origin of this term, applied to the United States, is given in a recent number of the Norwich Courier. The editor says it was communicated by an intelligent gentleman, now upward of eighty years of age, who was an active participator in the scenes of the Revolution. The story is as follows: "When Gen. Washington, after being appointed Commander of the Army of the Revolution, came to Massachusetts to organize it and make preparations for the defense of the country, he found a great destitution of ammunition and other means necessary to meet the powerful foe he had to contend with, and great difficulty to obtain them. If attacked in such a condition the cause at once might be hopeless. On one occasion, at that anxious period, a consultation of the officers and others was had when it seemed no way could be devised to make such preparation as was necessary. His Excellency Jonathan Trumbull the elder, who was then Governor of the State of Connecticut, on whose judgment and aid the General placed the greatest reliance, remarked, we must consult "Brother Jonathan" on the subject. The General did so, and the Governor was successful in supplying many of the wants of the army. When difficulties later arose, and the army was spread over the country, it became a by-word, "we must consult 'Brother Jonathan.'" The term Yankee is still applied to a portion, but "Brother Jonathan" has now become a designation of the whole country, as John Bull has for England.

THE FRENCH REVOLUTIONARY ERA.

In September, 1793, the convention decreed that the common era should be abolished in all civil affairs, and that the new French era should begin on September 22, 1792, the day of the true autumnal equinox, and that each succeeding year should begin at the midnight of the day on which the true autumnal equinox falls. The year was divided into twelve months of thirty days each. In ordinary years there were five extra days, from the 17th to the 21st of our September, and at the end of every fourth year was a sixth complimentary day. This reckoning was first used on November 22, 1793, and was continued until December 31, 1805, when it was discontinued, and the Gregorian calendar, used throughout the rest of Europe, was resumed. The following were the dates for the year 1804, the last complete year of this style of reckoning:

Vendemiaire	(Vintage),	Sept. 23 to Oct. 22.	Germinal	(Budding),	Mar. 22 to Apr. 21.
Brumaire	(Foggy),	Oct. 23 to Nov. 22.	Floreal	(Flowery),	Apr. 21 to May 20.
Frimaire	(Sleety),	Nov. 22 to Dec. 21.	Prairial	(Pasture),	May 21 to June 20.
Nivose	(Snowy),	Dec. 22 to Jan. 21.	Messidor	(Harvest),	June 20 to July 19.
Pluviose	(Rainy),	Jan. 21 to Feb. 20.	Thermidor	(Hot),	July 20 to Aug. 19.
Ventose	(Windy),	Feb. 20 to Mar. 19.	Fructidor	(Fruit),	Aug. 19 to Sept. 18.

The months were divided into three decades of ten days each, but to make up the 365 five were added at the end of September: Primidi, dedicated to Virtue; Duodi, to Genius; Tridi, to Labor; Quartidi, to Opinion, and Quintidi, to Rewards. To Leap Year, called Olympic, a sixth day, September 22 or 23, Sextidi, "the day of the Revolution," was added.

To each tenth day, thirty-six in all, were assigned thirty-six "Fetes Decadaires," decreed by the National Convention on the eighteenth Prairial, in honor of the Supreme Being and Nature, the Human Race, the French People, Benefactors of Humanity, Martyrs for Liberty, Liberty and Equality, the Republic, Liberty of the World, Love of Country, Hatred of Tyrants and Traitors, Truth, Justice, Modesty, Glory and Immortality, Friendship, Frugality, Courage, Good Faith, Heroism, Disinterestedness, Stoicism, Love, Conjugal Fidelity, Paternal Love, Maternal Tenderness, Filial Piety, Infancy, Childhood, Manhood, Old Age, Sickness, Agriculture, Industry, Our Ancestors, Our Posterity, Goodness.

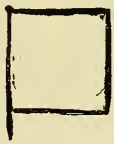
WEATHER FLAGS

OF THE WEATHER BUREAU, U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

THE Weather Bureau furnishes, when practicable, for the benefit of all interests dependent upon weather conditions, the "Forecasts" which are prepared daily at the Central Office in Washington, D. C., and certain designated stations. These forecasts are telegraphed to stations of the Weather Bureau, railway officials, postmasters, and many others, to be communicated to the public by telegraph, telephone, "wireless" and mail or by means of flags or steam whistles. The flags adopted for this purpose are five in number, and of the forms and colors indicated below:

EXPLANATION OF WEATHER FLAGS.

No. 1. White Flag.	No. 2. Blue Flag.	No. 3. White and Blue Flag.	No. 4. Black Triangular Flag.	No. 5. White Flag with black square in Centre.



Fair weather.	Rain or snow.	Local rain or snow.	Temperature.	Cold wave.

When number 4 is placed above number 1,2 or 3, it indicates warmer; when below, colder; when not displayed, the temperature is expected to remain about stationary.

WHISTLE SIGNALS.

A warning blast of from fifteen to twenty seconds' duration is sounded to attract attention. After this warning the longer blasts (of from four to six seconds' duration) refer to weather, and shorter blasts (of from one to three seconds' duration) refer to temperature; those for weather are sounded first.

Blasts.	Indicate.	Blasts.	Indicate.
One long	Fair weather.	One short	Lower temperature.
Two long	Rain or snow.	Two short	Higher temperature.
Three long	Local rain or snow.	Three short	Cold wave.

By repeating each combination a few times, with intervals of ten seconds, liability to error in reading the signals may be avoided.

As far as practicable, the forecast messages are telegraphed at the expense of the Weather Bureau; but if this is impracticable they are furnished at the regular commercial rates and sent "collect." In no case are the forecasts sent to a second address in any place, except at the expense of the applicant.

Persons desiring to display the flags or sound the whistle signals for the benefit of the public should communicate with the Weather Bureau officials in charge of the central stations of their respective States, which are as follows:

Alabama, Montgomery.
Alaska, Juneau.
Arizona, Phœnix.
Arkansas, Little Rock.

Tidal Shore Line, Unit Measure 3 Statute Miles.—The figures under this heading give the length in statute miles of the shore line on tidal waters to points where such waters narrow to a width of 3 statute miles. Tidal Shore Line, Unit Measure 1 Statute Mile.—The figures under this heading give the length in statute miles of the shore line on tidal waters to points where such waters narrow to a width of one statute mile, and include the shore line of those bodies of tidal waters more than 1 mile wide which lie close to the main waters, even though the entrance width is less than the unit measure.

Alaska, the Philippine Islands, and United States Samoan Islands were not measured with a unit measure of 1 statute mile, as large areas are unsurveyed, and such a measuremeut would be very approximate, if not misleading.

SMALL CRAFT, STORM AND HURRICANE WARNINGS

OF THE WEATHER BUREAU, U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

AS DISPLAYED ON THE ATLANTIC, PACIFIC, AND GULF COASTS.

All square flags shown here are red with black centre when displayed as warnings.

Small craft. Storm. Hurricane.

NW. winds. SW. winds. NE. winds. SE. winds.

Small Craft Warning—A red pennant indicates that moderately strong winds are expected. Storm Warning—A red flag with a black centre indicates that a storm of marked violence is expected. The pennants displayed with the flags indicate the direction of the wind: white, westerly; red, easterly. The pennant above the flag indicates that the wind is expected to blow from the northerly quadrants; below, from the southerly quadrants. By night a red light indicates easterly winds, and a white light below a red light westerly winds. Hurricane Warning—Two red flags with black centres, displayed one above the other, indicate the expected approach of a tropical hurricane, and also one of those extremely severe and dangerous storms which occasionally move across the Lakes and Northern Atlantic Coast. Neither small craft nor hurricane warnings described above are displayed at night.

The following new system of night storm-warning displays on the Great Lakes only became effective October 15, 1916:

Small Craft Warning—A red pennant indicates that moderately strong winds that will interfere with the safe operation of small craft are expected. No night display of small craft warnings is made. Northeast Storm Warning—A red pennant above a square red flag with black centre displayed by day, or two red lanterns, one above the other, displayed by night, indicate the approach of a storm of marked violence with winds beginning from the northeast. Southeast Storm Warning—A red pennant below a square red flag with black centre displayed by day, or one red lantern displayed by night, indicates the approach of a storm of marked violence with winds beginning from the southeast. Southwest Storm Warning—A white pennant below a square red flag with black centre displayed by day, or a white lantern below a red lantern displayed by night, indicates the approach of a storm of marked violence with winds beginning from the southwest. Northwest Storm Warning—A white pennant above a square red flag with black centre displayed by day, or a white lantern above a red lantern displayed by night, indicates the approach of a storm of marked violence with winds beginning from the northwest. Hurricane, or Whole Gale Warning—Two square flags, red with black centres, one above the other, displayed by day, or two red lanterns, with a white lantern between, displayed by night, indicate the approach of a tropical hurricane, or of one of the extremely severe and dangerous storms which occasionally move across the Great Lakes.

Cherrapongee, in Southwestern Assam, is the wettest place in the world. In 1861 the rainfall there reached 905 inches. Mean annual temperature of the globe is about 59° Fahr. The average annual rainfall in the world has been estimated at 30 to 60 inches. The highest temperatures occur in Northern Africa, in the interior of Australia, in Southwestern Asia, and in Southwestern North America. The lowest temperature recorded in the Antarctic by Shackleton was 57° on August 14, 1908 (U. S. Weather Bureau).

RULES FOR FORETELLING THE WEATHER.

ADAPTED FOR USE WITH ANEROID BAROMETERS.

A RISING BAROMETER.

A rapid rise indicates unsettled weather.

A gradual rise indicates settled weather.

A rise with dry air and cold increasing in Summer indicates wind from the northward; and if rain has fallen, better weather may be expected.

A rise with moist air and a low temperature indicates wind and rain from the northward.

A rise with southerly winds indicates fine weather.

A STEADY BAROMETER.

With dry air and seasonable temperature indicates a continuance of very fine weather.

A FALLING BAROMETER.

A rapid fall indicates stormy weather.

A rapid fall with westerly wind indicates stormy weather from the northward.

A fall with a northerly wind indicates storm, with rain and hail in Summer, and snow in Winter.

A fall with increased moisture in the air, and heat increasing, indicates wind and rain from the southward.

A fall with dry air and cold increasing in Winter indicates snow.

A fall after very calm and warm weather indicates rain with squally weather.

The barometer rises for northerly winds, including from northwest by north to the eastward for dry, or less wet weather, for less wind, or for more than one of these changes, except on a few occasions, when rain, hail, or snow comes from the northward with strong wind.

The barometer falls for southerly wind, including from southeast by south to the westward, for wet weather, for stronger wind or for more than one of these changes, except on a few occasions, when moderate wind, with rain or snow, comes from the northward.

East to Northeast	20	17.6	31	20.6

WEATHER WISDOM.

A gray, lowering sunset, or one where the sky is green or yellowish-green, indicates rain. A red sunrise, with clouds lowering later in the morning, also indicates rain. A halo occurring after fine weather indicates a storm. A corona growing smaller indicates rain; growing larger, fair weather. A morning rainbow is regarded as a sign of rain; an evening rainbow of fair weather. A deep-blue color of the sky, even when seen through clouds, indicates fair weather, a growing whiteness, an approaching storm. Fogs indicate settled weather. A morning fog usually breaks away before noon. Unusual clearness of the atmosphere, unusual brightness or twinkling of the stars, indicate rain. The first frost and last frost are usually preceded by a temperature very much above the mean.

MEDICAL ASPECTS OF THE TOBACCO HABIT.

IN a paper read before the Association of Health Officers of Nova Scotia, D. Fraser Harris, Professor of Physiology in Dalhousie University, gives a resumé of the medical aspects of the tobacco habit. 1. The substances in tobacco smoke which are injurious are probably oxidation products of nicotine and other alkaloids. 2. The smoking of tobacco is the more injurious the younger the person, hence young recruits suffer more readily from "tobacco heart" than older men. 3. The chewing of tobacco is much more injurious than the smoking of it, and ought to be discouraged. 4. Since what is injurious in tobacco smoke is absorbed more readily by inhaling than by smoking without inhaling, inhaling ought to be discouraged. 5. There is a marked idiosyncrasy toward tobacco in respect of the substances which raise the blood-pressure, cause irregularity of the heart and give rise to gastric acidity. 6. Those who have this idiosyncrasy ought not to use tobacco at all. 7. Those who do not have this idiosyncrasy may use tobacco in moderation with impunity.

The Metric System.

(Prepared for the U. S. Government by the Bureau of Standards, Department of Commerce.)

UNITS OF WEIGHT AND MEASURE.

THE fundamental unit of the metric system is the meter, the unit of length. From this the units of capacity (liter) and of weight (gram) were derived. All other units are the decimal subdivisions or multiples of these. These three units are simply related, e. g., for all practical purposes 1 cubic decimeter equals 1 liter and 1 liter of weight weighs 1 kilogram. The metric tables are formed by combining the words "meter," "gram," and "liter" with the six numerical prefixes, as in the following tables:

PREFIXES. Meaning.		Units.	PREFIXES. Meaning.		Units.
milli- = one-thousandth	.001		deka- = ten	10
centi- = one hundredth	.01	"meter" for length	hecto- = one hundred	100	"liter" for capacity.
deci- = one-tenth	.1	"gram" for weight	kilo- = one thousand	1000
Unit = one	1	or mass.

All lengths, areas, and cubic measures in the following tables are derived from the international meter, the legal equivalent being 1 meter = 39.37 inches (law of July 28, 1866). In 1893 the United States Office of Standard Weights and Measures was authorized to derive the yard from the meter, using for the purpose the relation legalized in 1866, 1 yard = 3600-3937 meter. The customary weights are likewise referred to the kilogram (Executive order approved April 5, 1893). This action fixed the values, inasmuch as the reference standards are as perfect and unalterable as it is possible for human skill to make them at this time. All capacities are based on the equivalent 1 liter equals 1.000027 cubic decimeters. The decimeter is equal to 3.937 inches in accordance with the legal equivalent of the meter given above. The gallon referred to in the tables is the United States gallon of 231 cubic inches. The bushel is the United States bushel of 2,150.42 cubic inches. These units must not be confused with the British units of the same name, which differ from those used in the United States. The British gallon is approximately 20 per cent larger and the British bushel 3 per cent larger than the corresponding units used in this country. The customary weights derived from the international kilogram are based on the value 1 avoirdupois pound = 453.5924277 grams. The value of the troy pound is based upon the relation just mentioned and also the equivalent 5760-7000 avoirdupois pounds equals 1 troy pound.

DEFINITIONS OF UNITS.

LENGTH.

Fundamental Units—A meter (m) is a unit of length equivalent to the distance between the defining lines on the international prototype meter at the International Bureau of Weights and Measures when this standard is at the temperature of melting ice (0° C).

A yard (yd.) is a unit of length equivalent to 3600-3937 of a meter.

Multiples and submultiples:

1 kilometer = 1000 meters.
1 hectometer = 100 meters.
1 dekameter = 10 meters.
1 decimeter = 0.1 meter.
1 centimeter = 0.01 meter.
1 millimeter = 0.001 meter = 0.1 centimeter.
1 microη = 0.000001 meter = 0.001 millimeter.
1 millimicron = 0.000 000 001 meter = 0.001 micron
1 foot = 1-3 yard = 1200-3937 meter.
1 inch = 1-36 yard = 1-12 foot = 100-3937 meter.
1 link = 0.22 yard = 7.92 inches.

1 rod = 5½ yards = 16½ feet.
1 chain = 22 yards = 100 links = 66 feet = 4 rods.
1 furlong = 220 yards = 40 rods = 10 chains.
1 statute mile = 1760 yards = 5280 feet = 320 rods.
1 hand = 4 inches.
1 point = 1-72 inch.
1 mil = 0.001 inch.
1 fathom = 6 feet.
1 span = 9 inches = 1-8 fathom.
1 nautical mile = United States = 6080.20 feet = 1.151 553 statute miles
1 sea mile
1 geographical mile = 1853.249 meters.

AREA.

Fundamental Units:

A square meter is a unit of area equivalent to the area of a square the sides of which are 1 meter.

A square yard is a unit of area equivalent to the area of a square the sides of which are 1 yard.

Multiples and Submultiples:

1 square kilometer = 1,000,000 square meters.
1 hectare or square hectometer = 10,000 square meters.
1 are or square dekameter = 100 square meters.
1 centare = 1 square meter.
1 square decimeter = 0.01 square meter.
1 square centimeter = 0.0001 square meter.

1 square millimeter = 0.000 001 square meter = 0.01 square centimeter.
1 square foot = 1-9 square yard.
1 square inch = 1-1296 square yard = 1-144 square foot.
1 square link = 0.0484 square yard = 62.7264 square inches.
1 square rod = 30.25 square yards = 272.25 square feet = 625 square links.
1 square chain = 484 square yards = 16 square rods = 100,000 square links.
1 acre = 4840 square yards = 160 square rods = 10 square chains.
1 square mile = 3,097,600 square yards = 640 acres.

VOLUME.

Fundamental Units:

A cubic meter is a unit of volume equivalent to a cube the edges of which are 1 meter.

A cubic yard is a unit of volume equivalent to a cube the edges of which are 1 yard.

Multiples and Submultiples:

1 cubic kilometer = 1,000,000,000 cubic meters.
1 cubic hectometer = 1,000,000 cubic meters.
1 cubic dekameter = 1000 cubic meters.
1 stere = 1 cubic meter.

1 cubic decimeter = 0.001 cubic meter.
1 cubic centimeter = 0.000001 cubic meter = 0.001 cubic decimeter.
1 cubic millimeter = 0.000000001 cubic meter = 0.001 cubic centimeter.
1 cubic foot = 1-27 cubic yard.
1 cubic inch = 1-46656 cubic yard = 1-1728 cubic foot.
1 board foot = 144 cubic inches = 1-12 cubic foot.
1 cord = 128 cubic feet.

CAPACITY.

Fundamental Units:

A liter is a unit of capacity equivalent to the volume occupied by the mass of 1 kilogram of pure water at its maximum density (at a temperature of 4° C, practically) and under the standard atmospheric pressure (of 760 mm). It is equivalent in volume to 1.000027 cubic decimeters.

A gallon is a unit of capacity equivalent to the volume of 231 cubic inches. It is used for the measurement of liquid commodities only.

A bushel is a unit of capacity equivalent to the volume of 2150.42 cubic inches. It is used in the measurement of dry commodities only.

CAPACITY.

Fundamental Units.

bushel, which is generally specified in the State laws to be the usual stricken bushel measure "duly heaped in the form of a cone as high as the article will admit" or "heaped as high as may be without special effort or design." The heaped bushel was originally intended to be 25 per cent greater than the stricken bushel.

Multiples and Submultiples:

1 hectoliter = 100 liters.
1 dekaliter—10 liters.
1 deciliter = 0.1 liter.
1 centiliter = 0.01 liter.
1 milliliter = 0.001 liter = 1.000027 cubic centimeters.
1 liquid quart = 1-4 gallon = 57.75 cubic inches.
1 liquid pint = 1-8 gallon = 1-2 liquid quart = 28.875 cubic inches.
1 gill = 1-32 gallon = 1-4 liquid pint = 7.21875 cubic inches.
1 fluid ounce = 1-128 gallon = 1-16 liquid pint.
1 fluid dram = 1-8 fluid ounce = 1-128 liquid pint.
1 minim = 1-60 fluid dram = 1-480 fluid ounce.
1 firkin = 9 gallons.
1 peck = 1-4 bushel = 537.605 cubic inches.
1 dry quart = 1-32 bushel = 1-8 peck = 67.200625 cubic inches.
1 dry pint = 1-64 bushel = 1-2 dry quart = 33.600-3125 cubic inches.
1 barrel (for fruit, vegetables and other dry commodities) = 7056 cubic inches = 105 dry quarts.

The barrel capacity was fixed by United States statute, approved March 4, 1915.

MASS.

Fundamental Units:

A kilogram is a unit of mass equivalent to the mass of the International prototype kilogram at the International Bureau of Weights and Measures.

An avoirdupois pound is a unit of mass equivalent to 0.4535924277 kilogram.

A gram is a unit of mass equivalent to one-thousandth of the mass of the international prototype kilogram at the International Bureau of Weights and Measures.

A troy pound is a unit of mass equivalent to 5760-7000 of that of the avoirdupois pound.

Multiples and Submultiples.

1 metric ton = 1000 kilograms.
1 hectogram = 100 grams = 0.1 kilogram.
1 dekagram = 10 grams = 0.01 kilogram.
1 decigram = 0.1 gram.
1 centigram = 0.01 gram.
1 milligram = 0.001 gram.
1 avoirdupois ounce = 1-16 avoirdupois pound.
1 avoirdupois dram = 1-256 avoirdupois pound = 1-16 avoirdupois ounce.
1 gram = 1-700 avoirdupois pound = 10-4375 avoirdupois ounce = 1-5760 troy pound.
1 apothecaries' pound = 1 troy pound = 5760-7000 avoirdupois pound.
1 apothecaries' or troy ounce = 1-12 troy pound = 480-7000 avoirdupois pound = 480 grains.
1 apothecaries' dram = 1-96 apothecaries' pound = 1-8 apothecaries' ounce = 60 grains.
1 pennyweight = 1-20 troy ounce = 24 grains.
1 apothecaries' scruple = 1-3 apothecaries' dram = 20 grains.
1 metric carat = 200 milligrams = 0.2 gram.
1 short hundredweight = 100 avoirdupois pounds.
1 long hundredweight = 112 avoirdupois pounds.
1 short ton = 2000 avoirdupois pounds.
1 long ton = 2240 avoirdupois pounds.

STANDARDS FOR MEASUREMENT.

Units of measurement should be distinguished from standards for measurement, particularly in the case of length and capacity. Units of length are fixed distances, independent of any other consideration, while length standards are affected by the expansion and contraction with changes of temperature of the material of which the standard may be composed. It is therefore necessary to fix upon some temperature at which the distance between the defining lines or end surfaces of the standards shall be equal to the unit. The same is true of standards of capacity, which at some definite temperature contain a given number of units of volume. The temperature at which metric length standards are customarily made correct is 0° C, although 20° C is also used for steel tapes and some other standards intended for use at room or average outdoor temperatures. The temperature at which standards of length of the customary system are made correct is 62° F.

For measurements of high precision it is also necessary to specify the manner of support of the standards, whether at certain points only or throughout their entire length, and in the case of tapes it is also necessary to give the tension applied to the tape when in use. In the United States the capacity standards, both metric and customary, are made to hold the specified volumes at 4° C. Standards of capacity are usually made of brass so the capacity at any other temperature may be computed by the use of the coefficient of cubical expansion, usually assumed to be 0.000054 per degree centigrade. In the purchase and sale of liquids a more important consideration than the temperature of the measures is the temperature of the liquid when measured, for the reason that the large coefficient of expansion of many liquids makes the actual mass of a given volume delivered vary considerably with temperature. For this reason, the custom of buying and selling liquids by weight instead of by measure is recommended. It is further recommended that, when liquids are sold by volume, 68° F or 20° C be adopted as the standard temperature of the liquid.

While the temperature of a weight does not affect its mass, it is nevertheless important that when two weights are compared in air they both be at the same temperature as the air. If there is a difference between the temperature of the air and the weights, convection currents will be set up and the readings of the balance will be thereby affected. Also, since weights are buoyed up by the surrounding air by amounts dependent upon their volumes, it is desirable that the weights of any set be of the same material. If two weights of the same density balance in air of a certain density they will balance in vacuo or in air of a different density. Brass is the material most widely used for standard weights, although platinum is quite commonly used for weights of 1 gram or less. In the absence of any knowledge as to the actual density of weights, those made of brass are assumed to have a density of 8.4 at 0° C, while those of platinum are assumed to have a density of 21.5 at 0° C.

SPELLING AND ABBREVIATION OF UNITS.

The spelling of the names of units adopted by the National Bureau of Standards is that given in the list below. The spelling of the metric units is in accordance with that given in the law of July 28, 1866, legalizing the metric system in the United States. Following the names of each unit in the list below is given the abbreviation which the Bureau has adopted. Attention is called to the following principles: 1. The period is omitted after the abbreviations of the metric units, while it is used after those of the customary system. 2. The exponents, "2" and "3," are used to signify area and volume, respectively, in the case of the metric units instead of the longer prefixes "sq." or "cu." In conformity with this principle the abbreviation for cubic centimeter is "cm3," instead of "c. c." or "c. cm." The term "cubic centimeter" as used in chemical work is, in fact, a misnomer, since the unit actually used is the "milliliter," which has a slightly larger volume. 3. The use of the same abbreviation for both singular and plural is recommended. This practice is already established in expressing metric units and is in accordance with the spirit and chief purpose of abbreviations. 4. It is also suggested that, unless all the text is printed in capital letters, only small letters be used for abbreviations except in the case of A. for acre, where the use of the capital letter is general.

Hoosac—Through Hoosac Mountains, Mass., 4¾ miles; opened 1873.

Khojak Pass—India, from Quetta to Kandahar, 2 miles.

Loetschberg—Through the Alps, in Oberland, Switzerland, 9¼ miles; opened June 20, 1913, costing nearly $10,000,000.

Mt. Roberts—From the shore of Gastineau Channel at Juneau, Alaska, into Silver Bow Basin, 1 1-3 miles.

Mont d'Or—Between France and Switzerland, was bored through October 2, 1913. The tunnel pierces the Jura Mountains from Fresne to Vallorbe, and is 3¾ miles long.

Mont Cenis—Italy to France, under the Col de Frejus, 8 miles; opened 1871.

New Croton—Supplies water to New York City, 33 1-8 miles; opened 1888.

Otira—In New Zealand, 5 1-3 miles.

Rove—Northwest from l'Estaque, France, part of canal connecting Marseilles with Rhone River; 4 1-2 miles long, 72 feet wide, 47 feet high; opened in 1916.

Rothschonberg—Drains the Felberg mines. Saxony, 3¼ miles; opened 1877.

St. Clair—Under St. Clair River from Sarnia, Ont., to Port Huron, Mich., 2 miles; opened 1891.

St. Gothard—Through the Alps, connects Goschenen with Airolo, in Switzerland, 9 1-3 miles; opened 1881.

Severn—From Monmouthshire to Gloucestershire, England, 4½ miles; opened 1886.

Simplon—Through the Alps, 12½ miles; opened 1905.

Strawberry—Through the Wasatch Mountains.

Sutro—Drains the Comstock Lode in Nevada, 4½ miles; opened 1879.

Trans-Andine Ry. Tunnel—2 miles long, 10,486 feet above sea level and affords direct communication between Valparaiso and Buenos Ayres; opened April 5, 1910.

Wasserfluh—In the Alps, between Bunnadern and Lichtensteig, Switzerland, 2 miles; opened 1909.

Woodhead—Between Manchester and Sheffield, England, 3 miles.

THE PHYSIOLOGY OF SLEEP.

(By R. Legendre of Paris.)

IF the need of sleep is due to an accumulation of toxic waste products in the organism, one ought to be able, by injecting these substances into a normal animal, to communicate the necessity for sleep. Our first experiments in that direction were unsuccessful. By injecting into a vein of a normal dog some blood or serum taken from a dog exhausted by loss of sleep, we had no very definite results, although in some cases we brought on some modifications of the cells of the frontal lobe, and by injecting these same substances directly into the brain we were no more successful. Could it, therefore, be concluded that wakefulness is not accompanied by the accumulation of toxic substances, and is caused only by the impoverishment of the nerve cells? This conclusion was possible, but it might equally be the case that the blood of the normal animal destroyed the substances injected in small doses, or that their quantity was too small. To remove this last doubt we made our injections by another method. There exists, in the interior and around the nerve centers, a liquid called the cerebro-spinal fluid, which completely envelops them. You can get this fluid either at the lower end of the spine, and is there reached by lumbar puncture, and in spinal anesthesia, or between the occipital bone and the first vertebra, at the level of the fourth ventricle of the brain, and it is there that we operated.

The serum, or, better yet, the cerebro-spinal fluid, of an animal exhausted by loss of sleep, if injected under these conditions into a normal animal, produces in the latter in about half an hour an imperative need of sleep. The animal so injected is benumbed little by little, its eyelids clink, its limbs relax, its eyes close, it loses all attention, and it responds but feebly to strong stimulation. Its brain presents the characteristic lesions of insomnia. The injections, under the same conditions, of liquids from a normal animal have no effect at all. You, therefore, may conclude from these experiments that it is possible to transmit the absolute need of sleep from an exhausted animal to a normal one, and also that the liquids of exhausted animals have a property or contain a substance capable of producing sleep.

KNOTS AND MILES.

The Statute Mile is 5,280 feet. The British Admiralty Knot or Nautical Mile is 6,080 feet The Statute Knot is 6,082.66 feet, and is generally considered the standard. The number of feet in a statute knot is arrived at thus: The circumference of the earth is divided into 360 degrees, each degree containing 60 knots or (360x60), 21,600 knots to the circumference. 21,600 divided into 131,385,456—the number of feet in the earth's circumference—gives 6,082.66 feet—the length of a standard mile.

ANCIENT GREEK AND ROMAN WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

WITH AMERICAN EQUIVALENTS.

WEIGHTS.

The Roman libra or pound = 10 oz. 18 pwt. 13 5-7 gr., Troy.
The Attica mina or pound = 11 oz. 7 pwt. 16 2-7 gr., Troy.
The Attica talent (60 minæ) = 56 lbs. 11 oz. 0 pwt. 17 1-7 gr., Troy.

DRY MEASURE.

The Roman modus = 1 pk. 2-9 pint.
The Attic chœnix = nearly 1½ pints.
The Attic medimnus = 4 pk. 6 1-10 pints.

LIQUID MEASURE.

The cotyle = a little over ½ pint.
The cyathus = a little over 1½ pints.
The chus = a little over 6⅔ pints.

LONG MEASURE.

The Roman foot = 11 3-5 inches.
The Roman cubit = 1 ft. 5⅗ inches.
The Roman pace = 4 ft. 10 inches.
The Roman furlong = 604 ft. 10 inches.
The Roman mile = 4,835 feet.
The Grecian cubit = 1 ft. 6 ⅛ inches.
The Grecian furlong = 504 ft. 4 1-5 inches.
The Grecian mile = 4,030 feet.

MONEY.

The quadrans = 1 1-10 mills.
The as = 1 3-10 mills.
The sestertius = 3.58 + cents.
The sestertium (1,000 sestertii) = $35.80.
The denarius = 14.35 + cents.
The Attic obolus = 2.39 + cents.
The drachma = 14.35 + cents.*
The mina (100 drachmæ) = $14.35 +.
The talent (60 minæ) = $861.00.
The Greek stater was worth $4; the Persian, $5.35. Each coin was of silver, composed of 20 drachma, each drachma equal in value to 19½ cents, American money.

The modern drachma equals 19.3 cents. The Greek stater weighed 134.75 grains avoirdupois. The Roman aureus was worth $4.50.

ELECTRICAL UNITS AND THEIR POPULAR DEFINITIONS.

THE watt is the unit expressing electrical energy as horsepower (hp) represents energy in mechanics. It is the sum of the volt (pressure) times ampere (rate of flow). Thus 2 volts times 2 amperes would give you 4 watts. Electrical energy is sold at so much per watt hour or more generally at a given amount per kilowatt hour—which means 1,000 watt hours. This may represent 1 watt for 1,000 hours or say 1,000 watts for 1 hour. 746 watts are equal to one horsepower or inversely 1 kilowatt (kw) is equal to 1⅓ horsepower.

The horsepower represents the energy required to lift a weight of 33,000 pounds—1 foot in 1 minute or 550 lbs. 1 foot in 1 second.

The ohm is the unit of electrical resistance and represents the physical property of a material which offers a resistance to the flow of electricity permitting just 1 ampere to flow at 1 volt of pressure. For example, 1,000 feet of copper wire of 10 gauge has just 1 ohm of resistance and allows the flow of 1 ampere at 1 volt.

A dry battery is made by placing in a hollow receptacle of zinc a piece of carbon, the intervening space being filled with a mixture containing certain chemicals, such as manganese dioxide, powdered carbon and some absorbent material such as sawdust, which is then saturated with sal ammoniac and the receptacle sealed. The chemical action set up produces a flow of electricity when the two electrodes, the carbon and the zinc, are connected by a conductor of electricity such as a wire, a lamp or a motor.

THEODORE DWIGHT.

FOREIGN MONEY UNITS OF VALUE.

English Money: 4 farthings—1 penny (d); 12 pence—1 shilling (s); 20 shillings—1 pound (£). 21 shillings—one guinea; 5 shillings—one crown. French Money: 100 centimes—1 franc. German Money: 100 pfennig—1 mark. Russian Money: 100 copecks—1 ruble. Austro-Hungarian Money: 100 heller—1 krone (crown).

For United States equivalents, see table of "Value of Foreign Coins in U. S. Money."

BRITISH MEASURES AND WEIGHTS.

THE measures of length and the weights are nearly, practically, the same as those in use in the United States. The English ton is 2,240 lbs. avoirdupois, the same as the long ton, or shipping ton, of the United States. The English hundredweight is 112 lbs. avoirdupois, the same as the long hundredweight of the United States. The English stone is usually equal to one-eighth hundredweight of 112 lbs., or 14 lbs. avoirdupois. The meter has been legalized at 39.37079 inches, but the length of 39.370432 inches, as adopted by France, Germany, Belgium and Russia, is frequently used.

The Imperial gallon, the basis of the system of capacity, involves an error of about 1 part in 1,836: 10 lbs. of water = 277.123 cubic inches. (A late authority gives the weight of the Imperial gallon as 10.017 pounds and of the United States gallon as 8.345 pounds.)

The English statute mile is 1,760 yards, or 5,280 feet. The following are measures of capacity:

AREAS OF CIRCLES.

To find the circumference of a circle multiply the diameter by 3.14159265 (commonly expressed as 3.1416). To find the area of a circle multiply the square of the diameter by .785398 (usually expressed as .7854). To find the cubic contents of a cylinder or pipe, multiply the area by the heighth or depth. Thus, a pipe 1 foot in diameter and 1 foot in length, contains .7854 cubic feet. To find how many gallons are contained in a pipe or cylinder, divide the cubic contents by 231, which is the number of cubic inches in a United States gallon.

The weight of a cubic foot of distilled water at a temperature of 60° F. is 1,000 ounces Avoirdupois, very nearly, therefore the weight (in ounces, Avoirdupois) of a cubic foot of any of the substances in the above table is found by multiplying the specific gravities by 10, thus:—one cubic foot of oak weighs 1,170 ounces; one cubic foot of marble 2,700 ounces, and so on.

STANDARD NEWSPAPER MEASURES.

THE Standard Newspaper Measure as recognized and now in general use is 13 ems pica. The standard of measurement of all sizes of type is the "em quad," not the letter "m." The basis of measurement adopted by the International Typographical Union is the lower-case alphabet, from "a" to "z" inclusive, and the ems used are the same body as the type measured.

THE CEREAL QUARTER IN THE UNITED KINGDOM.

(Compiled for the Chicago Board of Trade by G. J. S. Broomhall of the British Royal Statistical Society.)

In the United Kingdom the quarter comprises among others the following conventional weights:

	Lbs.		Lbs.		Lbs.
Wheat and corn from the Atlantic and Gulf ports of America, from Argentina, Australia, and New Zealand	480	Russian barley from Black Sea and Azoff	400	Chilian barley	448
American and Canadian oats	320	Russian oats	304 / 320	Chilian wheat	500
Wheat from Pacific Coast of U. S. A	500	Russian rye	320	New Zealand oats cif. 320 lbs.; on Mark Lane	320 / 336
Californian and Oregon barley	448	Danubian wheat	480	Argentine oats	304
Russian wheat from Black Sea and Azoff, always	492	Danubian corn—large berry	480	Linseed, American	424
Russian wheat from Baltic	496	Danubian corn—small berry	480	Linseed, Russian	424
*Russian corn from Black Sea	492	Danubian barley	492	Linseed, Argentine	416
		Danubian rye	400	Linseed, Bombay	416
		German wheat—from Dantzig, 500 lbs.; all others	480	Linseed, Calcutta	410
			504

* If shipped from Potl, 480 pounds.

INTEREST TABLES FOR FARMERS WHO BORROW.

(By the Federal Farm Loan Board.)

Below is a table showing the comparative cost on a $1,000 basis of a loan made on the thirty-six-year amortization plan, 5 per cent. interest, semi-annual payment, and a loan on the simple-interest plan at 5, 5½, 6, 6½, or 7 per cent., for any number of years from five to thirty-six, inclusive. In order to find the difference in cost of a loan in any sum on the above amortization plan and a loan of like sum on the simple-interest plan, (1) using the accompanying table, subtract the cost of a $1,000 Federal land bank loan for the time the desired loan will run from the cost of a $1,000 simple-interest loan at the specified rate for the same number of years; (2) multiply this difference by the number of times 1,000 is contained in the face of the desired loan.

BIRD COUNT IN THE UNITED STATES.

(By. E. W. Nelson, Chief of the Bureau of Biological Survey, United States Department of Agriculture.)

EARLY in the summer of 1914 the Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture took initial steps toward a count of the birds of the United States for the purpose of ascertaining approximately the number and relative abundance of the different species. This preliminary count proved to be so satisfactory that the Survey repeated it on a larger scale in 1915 and extended it over a still greater area in 1916 and 1917. The results obtained in 1914 have been surprisingly corroborated by those of succeeding years, and the work gives promise of producing, after a series of years, results that, in view of the recognized value of birds to agriculture, cannot fail to be of great value. It has been ascertained through these counts that birds in the agricultural districts in the Northeastern United States average slightly more than a pair to the acre, though in parts of the arid West and on the treeless plains this number dwindles to an average of half a pair, or even less, to the acre.

By far the most abundant birds in the United States are the robin and the English sparrow, but several others are common enough to make their total numbers run well into the millions. The counts so far show that the most abundant bird on farms in the Northeastern States is the robin; next to this is the English sparrow, and following these are the catbird, brown thrasher, house wren, kingbird, and bluebird, in the order named. The densest bird population anywhere recorded is near Washington, D. C., where a careful count showed, in 1915, one hundred and thirty-five pairs of forty species on five acres. Two city blocks, well furnished with trees, in the city of Aiken, S. C., harbored sixty-five pairs on ten acres. These high figures show the important results which will follow from careful protection and encouragement of birds.

WATER DRAWN FROM GATUN LAKE BY EVAPORATION.

(From the Canal Record.)

EVAPORATION from the surface of Gatun Lake in March, 1918, was the highest recorded since the filling of the lake—8.475 inches, over an area of 165 square miles. The aggregate evaporated water amounted to 3,248,000,000 cubic feet, equivalent to 1,213 cubic feet for every second, day and night, in the month. The water drawn from the lake by evaporation in March exceeded slightly that used in operating the hydroelectric station at Gatun Spillway. The draft through the penstocks for the hydroelectric station was at the rate of 1,212 cubic feet per second. Had the water which the sun drew off been available for power it could have produced as much electricity as the hydroelectric station, the net output for which in March was 4,681,000 kilowatt-hours. Approximately 740 cubic feet of water are used for each kilowatt at the hydroelectric station, where the effective head is approximately 75 feet. Under average conditions about 2¼ times as much water is used by the hydroelectric station as is used in lockages. The water lost by evaporation in March would have served for 22 complete lockages each day. During March the elevation of the lake's surface was lowered from 86.26 to 85.20 feet above sea level, or 1 foot and 7-10 of an inch. It has been calculated that had there been no useful losses of water, as for lockages, production of electricity, municipal uses, &c., the surface would have remained practically stationary; that is, the inflow was just sufficient to equal the evaporation. During March 1.62 times as much water was lost by evaporation as flowed in through the Chagres River, as measured at Alhajuela. During the dry season the Chagres furnishes about 60 per cent of the lake inflow; for the year around it supplies about 40 per cent. Evaporation at the height of the dry season is much higher than in the rainy season. For the entire year the evaporation averages around 740 cubic feet per second. Hydroelectric consumption averaged 1,284 cubic feet per second in the calendar year 1917. The total evaporation in 1917 was 61 inches.

The current velocity of an average creek or small river in hilly or rolling country is normally two or three feet a second. At 2½ feet per second, 740 cubic feet per second would be the discharge of a stream as wide as lower Broadway in New York City (approximately 80 feet, including the sidewalks) and 3.7 feet in depth, assuming an even, flume-like channel. Evaporation was considered in calculations for the formation of the lake, and although the loss of water through this process seems enormous there is yet an ample supply for the needs of the Canal.

It has been suggested that the creation of an inland body of water the size of Gatun Lake might result in a slight increase in precipitation, especially in the dry season, at stations on the leeward side of the lake. From a study of the records at present available, the conclusion is reached that the creation of Gatun Lake has had no appreciable effect on Isthmian rainfall, or that it has had such a slight effect that it will require a much longer period of records than is at present available to disclose even slight local increases in precipitation resulting from the increase in atmospheric humidity, due to evaporation from the lake surface.

Some wild animals are so fretful that captivity in zoological gardens shorten their lives materially. This is true of foxes and monkeys. The latter are liable to diseases of the respiratory organs. Turtles, elephants, and snakes do not seem to suffer from captivity, perhaps because they are so wonderfully inclined to long lives. There are great differences in the longevity of various kinds of fishes. Change of climatic conditions is chiefly responsible in many cases.

(UNANIMOUSLY ADOPTED IN CONGRESS, JULY 4, 1776, AT PHILADELPHIA.)

WHEN, in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitles them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his Assent to Laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his Governors to pass Laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his Assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other Laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of Representation in the Legislature, a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public Records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the Legislative powers, incapable of Annihilation, have returned to the People at large for their exercise; the State remaining in the meantime exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the Laws for Naturalization of Foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migrations hither, and raising the conditions of new Appropriations of Lands.

He has obstructed the Administration of Justice, by refusing his Assent to Laws for establishing Judiciary Powers.

He has made Judges dependent on his Will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of New Offices, and sent hither swarms of Officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, Standing Armies without the Consent of our Legislature.

He has affected to render the Military independent of and superior to the Civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his Assent to their Acts of pretended Legislation:

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

For protecting them, by a mock Trial, from punishment for any Murders which they should commit on the Inhabitants of these States:

For cutting off our Trade with all parts of the world:

For imposing Taxes on us without our Consent:

For depriving us in many cases, of the benefits of Trial by jury:

For transporting us beyond Seas to be tried for pretended offences:

For abolishing the free System of English Laws in a neighboring Province, establishing therein an Arbitrary government, and enlarging its Boundaries so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these Colonies:

For taking away our Charters, abolishing our most valuable Laws, and altering fundamentally the Forms of our Governments:

For suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated Government here, by declaring us out of his Protection and waging War against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our Coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is at this time transporting large Armies of foreign Mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of Cruelty & perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the Head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow-Citizens taken captive on the high Seas to bear Arms against their Country, to become the executioners of their friends and Brethren, or to fall themselves by their Hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian Savages, whose known rule of warfare, is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these Oppressions We have Petitioned for Redress in the most humble terms: Our repeated Petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A Prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a Tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our Separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, Enemies in War, in Peace Friends.

WE THEREFORE, the REPRESENTATIVES of the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, IN GENERAL CONGRESS, Assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the Name, and by authority of the good People of these Colonies, solemnly PUBLISH and DECLARE, That these United Colonies are, and of Right ought to be FREE AND INDEPENDENT States; that they are Absolved from all Allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that as FREE AND INDEPENDENT STATES, they have full Power to levy War, conclude Peace, contract Alliances, establish Commerce, and to do all other Acts and Things which INDEPENDENT STATES may of right do. And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes, and our sacred Honor.

SIGNERS OF THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE. (REVISED BY SIMON NEWTON, U. S. A.)

EXTRACTS FROM HIS ADDRESS COUNSELLING THE MAINTENANCE OF THE UNION.—CONFINEMENT OF THE GENERAL GOVERNMENT TO ITS CONSTITUTIONAL LIMITATIONS, AND AVOIDANCE OF RELATIONS WITH FOREIGN POLITICAL AFFAIRS.

(To the People of the United States on His Approaching Retirement from the Presidency.)

Interwoven as is the love of liberty with every ligament of your hearts, no recommendation of mine is necessary to fortify or confirm the attachment.

The unity of government which constitutes you one people, is also now dear to you. It is justly so; for it is a main pillar in the edifice of your real independence—the support of your tranquillity at home, your peace abroad, of your safety, of your prosperity, of that very liberty which you so highly prize. But as it is easy to foresee that, from different causes and from different quarters, much pains will be taken, many artifices employed, to weaken in your minds the conviction of this truth; as this is the point in your political fortress against which the batteries of internal and external enemies will be most constantly and actively (though often covertly and insidiously) directed—it is of infinite moment that you should properly estimate the immense value of your national union to your collective and individual happiness; that you should cherish a cordial, habitual and immovable attachment to it; accustoming yourselves to think and speak of it as of the palladium of your political safety and prosperity; watching for its preservation with jealous anxiety; discountenancing whatever may suggest even a suspicion that it can in any event be abandoned; and indignantly frowning upon the first dawning of every attempt to alienate any portion of our country from the rest, or to enfeeble the sacred ties which now link together the various parts.

For this you have every inducement of sympathy and interest. Citizens by birth or choice of a common country, that country has a right to concentrate your affections. The name of American, which belongs to you, in your national capacity, must always exalt the just pride of patriotism, more than any appellation derived from local discriminations. With slight shades of difference, you have the same religion, manners, habits, and political principles. You have, in a common cause, fought and triumphed together; the independence and liberty you possess are the work of joint counsels and joint efforts—of common dangers, sufferings, and successes.

It is important, likewise, that the habits of thinking in a free country should inspire caution in those intrusted with its administration to confine themselves within their respective constitutional spheres, avoiding, in the exercise of the powers of one department, to encroach upon another. The spirit of encroachment tends to consolidate the powers of all the departments in one, and thus to create, whatever the form of government, a real despotism. A just estimate of that love of power, and proneness to abuse it which predominates in the human heart, is sufficient to satisfy us of the truth of this position. The necessity of reciprocal checks in the exercise of political power, by dividing and distributing it into different depositories, and constituting each the guardian of the public weal, against invasions by the others, has been evinced by experiments, ancient and modern; some of them in our country and under our own eyes. To preserve them must be as necessary as to institute them. If, in the opinion of the people, the distribution or modification of the constitutional powers be, in any particular, wrong, let it be corrected by an amendment in the way which the Constitution designates. But let there be no change by usurpation; for though this, in one instance, may be the instrument of good, it is the customary weapon by which free governments are destroyed. The precedent must always greatly overbalance, in permanent evil, any partial or transient benefit which the use can, at any time, yield.

Observe good faith and justice towards all nations; cultivate peace and harmony with all. Religion and morality enjoin this conduct; and can it be that good policy does not equally enjoin it? It will be worthy of a free, enlightened, and, at no distant period, a great nation, to give to mankind the magnanimous and too novel example of a people always guided by an exalted justice and benevolence. Who can doubt that, in the course of time and things, the fruits of such a plan would richly repay any temporary advantages which might be lost by a steady adherence to it? Can it be that Providence has not connected the permanent felicity of a nation with its virtue? The experiment, at least, is recommended by every sentiment which ennobles human nature. Alas! is it rendered impossible by its vices?

ENTANGLEMENTS WITH FOREIGN POWERS.

Against the insidious wiles of foreign influence, I conjure you to believe me, fellow-citizens, the jealousy of a free people ought to constantly awake; since history and experience prove that foreign influence is one of the most baneful foes of republican government. But that jealousy to be useful, must be impartial; else it becomes the instrument of the very influence to be avoided, instead of a defence against it. Excessive partiality for one foreign nation, and excessive dislike of another, cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil, and even second, the arts of influence on the other. Real patriots, who may resist the intrigues of the favorite, are liable to become suspected and odious, while its tools and dupes usurp the applause and confidence of the people, to surrender their interests.

The great rule of conduct for us, in regard to foreign nations, is, in extending our commercial relations, to have with them as little political connection as possible. So far as we have already formed engagements, let them be fulfilled with perfect good faith. Here let us stop.

Europe has a set of primary interests, which to us have none, or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves, by artificial ties, in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics, or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities.

Our detached and distant situation invites and enables us to pursue a different course. If we remain one people under an efficient government, the period is not far off when we may defy material injury from external annoyance; when we may take such an attitude as will cause the neutrality we may at any time resolve upon, to be scrupulously respected; when belligerent nations, under the impossibility of making acquisitions upon us, will not lightly hazard the giving us provocation; when we may choose peace or war, as our interest, guided by justice, shall counsel.

Why forego the advantages of so peculiar a situation? Why quit our own to stand upon foreign ground? Why, by interweaving our destiny with that of any part of Europe, entangle our peace and prosperity in the toils of European ambition, rivalship, interest, humor, or caprice?

'Tis our true policy to steer clear of permanent alliances with any portion of the foreign world; so far, I mean, as we are now at liberty to do it; for let me not be understood as capable of patronizing infidelity to existing engagements. I hold the maxim no less applicable to public than to private affairs, that honesty is always the best policy. I repeat it, therefore, let those engagements be observed in their genuine sense. But, in my opinion, it is unnecessary and would be unwise to extend them.

Taking care always to keep ourselves, by suitable establishments, on a respectably defensive posture, we may safely trust to temporary alliances for extraordinary emergencies.

In offering to you, my countrymen, these counsels of an old and affectionate friend, I dare not hope that they will make the strong and lasting impression I could wish; that they will control the usual current of the passions, or prevent our nation from running the course which hitherto has marked the destiny of nations; but if I may even flatter myself that they may be productive of some partial benefit, some occasional good; that they may now and then recur to moderate the fury of party spirit, to warn against the mischiefs of foreign intrigues, to guard against the impostures of pretended patriotism, this hope will be full recompense for the solicitude for your welfare by which they have been dictated.

United States, September 17, 1796. GEORGE WASHINGTON.

THE CAPITOL AT WASHINGTON.

THE Capitol is situated in latitude 38° 53′ 20″.4 north and longitude 77° 00′ 35″.7 west from Greenwich. It fronts east, and stands on a plateau eighty-eight feet above the level of the Potomac. The entire length of the building from north to south is seven hundred and fifty-one feet four inches, and its greatest dimension from east to west three hundred and fifty feet. The area covered by the building is 153,112 square feet. The dome of the original central building was constructed of wood, covered with copper. This was replaced in 1856 by the present structure of cast iron. It was completed in 1865. The entire weight of iron used is 8,909,200 pounds. The dome is crowned by a bronze statue of Freedom, which is nineteen feet six inches high and weighs 14,985 pounds. It was modelled by Crawford. The height of the dome above the base line of the east front is two hundred and eighty-seven feet five inches. The height from the top of the balustrade of the building is two hundred and seventeen feet eleven inches. The greatest diameter at the base is one hundred and thirty-five feet five inches.

The rotunda is ninety-seven feet six inches in diameter, and its height from the floor to the top of the canopy is one hundred and eighty feet three inches. The Senate Chamber is one hundred and thirteen feet three inches in length, by eighty feet three inches in width, and thirty-six feet in height. The galleries will accommodate one thousand persons. The Representatives' Hall is one hundred and thirty-nine feet in length, by ninety-three feet in width, and thirty-six feet in height. The southeast cornerstone of the original building was laid September 18, 1793, by President Washington with Masonic ceremonies. The corner-stone of the extensions was laid July 4, 1851, by President Fillmore. The room now occupied by the Supreme Court was, until 1859, occupied as the Senate Chamber. Previous to that time the court occupied the room immediately beneath, now used as a law library.

LINCOLN'S GETTYSBURG SPEECH.

(Address at the Dedication of the National Cemetery, November 19, 1863.)

FOURSCORE and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent, a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field, as a final resting-place of those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

But, in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate—we cannot consecrate—we cannot hallow—this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it, far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom—and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth. [An accurate version of the Gettysburg Address as revised by Mr. Lincoln and printed in "Autographs of Our Country's Authors," Baltimore, 1864.]

THE CONSTITUTION.

PREAMBLE.

WE, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquillity, provide for the common defence, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this CONSTITUTION for the United States of America.

ARTICLE I.

Section 1—(Legislative powers; in whom vested.)

All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives.

Section 2—(House of Representatives, how and by whom chosen. Qualifications of a Representative. Representatives and direct taxes, how apportioned. Enumeration. Vacancies to be filled. Power of choosing officers, and of Impeachment.)

1. The House of Representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several States, and the electors in each State shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the State Legislature.

2. No person shall be a Representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years, and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that State in which he shall be chosen.

3. Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several States which may be included within this Union according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons. The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the Congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of Representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty thousand, but each State shall have at least one Representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the State of New Hampshire shall be entitled to choose 3; Massachusetts, 8; Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, 1; Connecticut, 5; New York, 6; New Jersey, 4; Pennsylvania, 8; Delaware, 1; Maryland, 6; Virginia, 10; North Carolina, 5; South Carolina, 5, and Georgia, 3.*

4. When vacancies happen in the representation from any State, the Executive Authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies.

5. The House of Representatives shall choose their Speaker and other officers, and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

Section 3—(Senators, how and by whom chosen. How classified. State Executive, when to make temporary appointments, in case, etc. Qualifications of a Senator. President of the Senate, his right to vote. President pro tem., and other officers of the Senate, how chosen. Power to try impeachments. When President is tried, Chief Justice to preside. Sentence.)

1. The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each State, chosen by the Legislature thereof, for six years; and each Senator shall have one vote.

2. Immediately after they shall be assembled in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the Senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year, of the second class at the expiration of the fourth year, and of the third class at the expiration of the sixth year, so that one-third may be chosen every second year; and if vacancies happen by resignation, or otherwise, during the recess of the Legislature of any State, the Executive thereof may make temporary appointment until the next meeting of the Legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies.

3. No person shall be a Senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that State for which he shall be chosen.

4. The Vice-President of the United States shall be President of the Senate, but shall have no vote unless they be equally divided.

5. The Senate shall choose their other officers, and also a President pro tempore, in the absence of the Vice-President, or when he shall exercise the office of President of the United States.

6. The Senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments. When sitting for that purpose, they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the President of the United States is tried, the Chief Justice shall preside; and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

* See Article XIV., Amendments.

7. Judgment of cases of impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust, or profit under the United States; but the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment, and punishment, according to law.

Section 4—(Times, etc., of holding elections, how prescribed. One Session in each year.)

1. The times, places, and manner of holding elections for Senators and Representatives shall be prescribed in each State by the Legislature thereof; but the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to places of choosing Senators.

2. The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

Section 5—(Membership. Quorum. Adjournments. Rules. Power to punish or expel. Journal. Time of adjournments, how limited, etc.)

1. Each House shall be the judge of the elections, returns, and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members in such manner and under such penalties as each House may provide.

2. Each House may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and with the concurrence of two-thirds expel a member.

3. Each House shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such parts as may in their judgment require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the members of either House on any question shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

4. Neither House, during the session of Congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two Houses shall be sitting.

Section 6—(Compensation. Privileges. Disqualification in certain cases.)

1. The Senators and Representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the Treasury of the United States. They shall in all cases, except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective Houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either House they shall not be questioned in any other place.

2. No Senator or Representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time; and no person holding any office under the United States shall be a member of either House during his continuance in office.

Section 7—(House to originate all revenue bills. Veto. Bill may be passed by two-thirds of each house, notwithstanding, etc. Bill, not returned in ten days, to become a law. Provisions as to orders, concurrent resolutions, etc.)

1. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives, but the Senate may propose or concur with amendments, as on other bills.

2. Every bill which shall have passed the House of Representatives and the Senate shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the President of the United States; if he approve, he shall sign it, but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to that House in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If after such reconsideration two-thirds of that House shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other House, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered; and if approved by two-thirds of that House it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both Houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each House respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the President within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Congress by their adjournment prevent its return; in which case it shall not be a law.

3. Every order, resolution, or vote to which the concurrence of the Senate and House of Representatives may be necessary (except on a question of adjournment) shall be presented to the President of the United States; and before the same shall take effect shall be approved by him, or being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the Senate and the House of Representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

Section 8—(Powers of Congress.)

1. The Congress shall have power:

To lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts, and excises, to pay the debts and provide for the common defence and general welfare of the United States; but all duties, imposts, and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States.

2. To borrow money on the credit of the United States.

3. To regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian tribes.

4. To establish an uniform rule of naturalization and uniform laws on the subject of bankruptcies throughout the United States.

5. To coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coin, and fix the standard of weights and measures.

6. To provide for the punishment of counterfeiting the securities and current coin of the United States.

7. To establish post-offices and post-roads.

8. To promote the progress of science and useful arts by securing for limited times to authors and inventors the exclusive rights to their respective writings and discoveries.

9. To constitute tribunals inferior to the Supreme Court.

10. To define and punish piracies and felonies committed on the high seas, and offences against the law of nations.

11. To declare war, grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water.

12. To raise and support armies, but no appropriation of money to that use shall be for a longer term than two years.

13. To provide and maintain a navy.

14. To make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces.

15. To provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections, and repel invasions.

16. To provide for organizing, arming, and disciplining the militia, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the service of the United States, reserving to the States respectively the appointment of the officers, and the authority of training the militia according to the discipline prescribed by Congress.

17. To exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever over such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by cession of particular States and the acceptance of Congress, become the seat of Government of the United States, and to exercise like authority over all places purchased by the consent of the Legislature of the State in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dry-docks, and other needful buildings.

18. To make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers, and all other powers vested by this Constitution in the Government of the United States, or in any department or officer thereof.

Section 9—(Provision as to migration or importation of certain persons. Habeas Corpus. Bills of attainder, etc. Taxes, how apportioned. No export duty. No commercial preference. Money, how drawn from treasury, etc. No titular nobility. Officers not to receive presents, etc.)

1. The migration or importation of such persons as any of the States now existing shall think proper to admit shall not be prohibited by the Congress prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight, but a tax or duty may be imposed on such importation, not exceeding ten dollars for each person.

2. The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless when in cases of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require it.

3. No bill of attainder or ex post facto law shall be passed.

4. No capitation or other direct tax shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census or enumeration hereinbefore directed to be taken.

5. No tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any State.

6. No preference shall be given by any regulation of commerce or revenue to the ports of one State over those of another, nor shall vessels bound to or from one State be obliged to enter, clear, or pay duties in another.

7. No money shall be drawn from the Treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time.

8. No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States. And no person holding any office of profit or trust under them shall, without the consent of the Congress, accept of any present, emolument, office, or title of any kind whatever from any king, prince, or foreign state.

Section 10—(States prohibited from the exercise of certain powers.)

1. No State shall enter into any treaty, alliance, or confederation, grant letters of marque and reprisal, coin money, emit bills of credit, make anything but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts, pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, or grant any title of nobility.

2. No State shall, without the consent of the Congress, lay any impost or duties on imports or exports, except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws, and the net produce of all duties and imposts, laid by any State on imports or exports, shall be for the use of the Treasury of the United States; and all such laws shall be subject to the revision and control of the Congress.

3. No State shall, without the consent of Congress, lay any duty of tonnage, keep troops or ships of war in time of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another State, or with a foreign power, or engage in war, unless actually invaded, or in such imminent danger as will not admit of delay.

ARTICLE II.

Section 1—(President; his term of office. Electors of President; number and how appointed. Electors to vote on same day. Qualification of President. On whom his duties devolve in case of his removal, death, etc. President's compensation. His oath of office.)

1. The Executive power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and, together with the Vice-President, chosen for the same term, be elected as follows:

2. Each State shall appoint, in such manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors, equal to the whole number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress; but no Senator or Representative or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States shall be appointed an elector.

3. The electors shall meet in their respective States and vote by ballot for two persons, of whom one at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same State with themselves. And they shall make a list of all the persons voted for, and of the number of votes for each, which list they shall sign and certify and transmit, sealed, to the seat of the Government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate. The President of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be the President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed, and if there be more than one who have such majority, and have an equal number of votes, then the House of Representatives shall immediately choose by ballot one of them for President; and if no person have a majority, then from the five highest on the list the said House shall in like manner choose the President. But in choosing the President, the vote shall be taken by States, the representation from each State having one vote. A quorum, for this purpose, shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the States, and a majority of all the States shall be necessary to a choice. In every case, after the choice of the President, the person having the greatest number of votes of the electors shall be the Vice-President. But if there should remain two or more who have equal votes, the Senate shall choose from them by ballot the Vice-President.*

4. The Congress may determine the time of choosing the electors and the day on which they shall give their votes, which day shall be the same throughout the United States.

5. No person except a natural born citizen, or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this Constitution, shall be eligible to the office of President; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years and been fourteen years a resident within the United States.

6. In case of the removal of the President from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the Vice-President, and the Congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation, or inability, both of the President and Vice-President, declaring what officer shall then act as President, and such officer shall act accordingly until the disability be removed or a President shall be elected.

7. The President shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected, and he shall not receive within that period any other emolument from the United States, or any of them.

8. Before he enter on the execution of his office he shall take the following oath or affirmation:

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States."

* This clause is superseded by Article XII., Amendments.

Section 2—(President to be Commander-in-Chief. He may require opinions of Cabinet Officers, etc., may pardon. Treaty-making power. Nomination of certain officers. When President may fill vacancies.)

1. The President shall be Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several States when called into the actual service of the United States; he may require the opinion, in writing, of the principal officer in each of the executive departments upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices, and he shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offences against the United States except in cases of impeachment.

2. He shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the Senators present concur; and he shall nominate and by and with the advice and consent of the Senate shall appoint ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, judges of the Supreme Court, and all other officers of the United States whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by law; but the Congress may by law vest the appointment of such inferior officers as they think proper in the President alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of departments.

3. The President shall have power to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the Senate by granting commissions, which shall expire at the end of their next session.

Section 3—(President shall communicate to Congress. He may convene and adjourn Congress, in case of disagreement, etc. Shall receive ambassadors, execute laws, and commission officers.)

He shall from time to time give to the Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient; he may, on extraordinary occasions, convene both Houses, or either of them, and in case of disagreement between them with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper; he shall receive ambassadors and other public ministers; he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and shall commission all the officers of the United States.

Section 4—(All civil offices forfeited for certain crimes.)

The President, Vice-President, and all civil officers of the United States shall be removed from office on impeachment for and conviction of treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors.

ARTICLE III.

Section 1—(Judicial powers. Tenure. Compensation.)

The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one Supreme Court, and in such inferior courts as the Congress may from time to time ordain and establish. The judges, both of the Supreme and inferior courts, shall hold their offices during good behavior, and shall at stated times receive for their services a compensation which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office.

Section 2—(Judicial power; to what cases it extends. Original jurisdiction of Supreme Court. Appellate. Trial by jury, etc. Trial, where.)

1. The judicial power shall extend to all cases in law and equity arising under this Constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties made, or which shall be made, under their authority; to all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers, and consuls; to all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction; to controversies to which the United States shall be a party; to controversies between two or more States, between a State and citizens of another State, between citizens of different States, between citizens of the same State claiming lands under grants of different States, and between a State, or the citizens thereof, and foreign states, citizens, or subjects.

2. In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers, and consuls, and those in which a State shall be party, the Supreme Court shall have original jurisdiction. In all the other cases before mentioned the Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction both as to law and fact, with such exceptions and under such regulations as the Congress shall make.

3. The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury, and such trial shall be held in the State where the said crimes shall have been committed; but when not committed within any State the trial shall be at such place or places as the Congress may by law have directed.

Section 3—(Treason defined. Proof of. Punishment of.)

1. Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

2. The Congress shall have power to declare the punishment of treason, but no attainder of treason shall work corruption of blood or forfeiture except during the life of the person attained.

ARTICLE IV.

Section 1—(Each State to give credit to the public acts, etc., of every other State.)

Full faith and credit shall be given in each State to the public acts, records, and judicial proceedings of every other State. And the Congress may by general laws prescribe the manner in which such acts, records, and proceedings shall be proved, and the effect thereof.

Section 2—(Privileges of citizens of each State. Fugitives from justice to be delivered up. Persons held to service having escaped, to be delivered up.)

1. The citizens of each State shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States.

2. A person charged in any State with treason, felony, or other crime, who shall flee from justice, and be found in another State, shall, on demand of the Executive authority of the State from which he fled, be delivered up, to be removed to the State having jurisdiction of the crime.

3. No person held to service or labor in one State, under the laws thereof, escaping into another shall, in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service or labor, but shall be delivered up on claim of the party to whom such service or labor may be due.

Section 3—(Admission of new States. Power of Congress over territory and other property.)

1. New States may be admitted by the Congress into this Union. but no new State shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other State, nor any State be formed by the junction of two or more States, or parts of States, without the consent of the Legislatures of the States concerned, as well as of the Congress.

2. The Congress shall have power to dispose of and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this Constitution shall be so construed as to prejudice any claims of the United States, or of any particular State.

Section 4—(Republican form of government guaranteed. Each State to be protected.)

The United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion, and, on application of the Legislature, or of the Executive (when the Legislature cannot be convened), against domestic violence.

ARTICLE V.

(Constitution; how amended. Proviso.)

The Congress, whenever two-thirds of both Houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this Constitution, or, on the application of the Legislatures of two-thirds of the several States, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which, in either case, shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this Constitution, when ratified by the Legislatures of three-fourths of the several States, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the Congress; provided that no amendment which may be made prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight shall in any manner affect the first and fourth clauses in the Ninth Section of the First Article; and that no State, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the Senate.

ARTICLE VI.

(Certain debts, etc., declared valid. Supremacy of Constitution, treaties, and laws of the United States. Oath to support Constitution, by whom taken. No religious test.)

1. All debts contracted and engagements entered into before the adoption of this Constitution shall be as valid against the United States under this Constitution as under the Confederation.

2. This Constitution and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land, and the judges in every State shall be bound thereby, anything in the Constitution or laws of any State to the contrary notwithstanding.

3. The Senators and Representatives before mentioned, and the members of the several State Legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several States, shall be bound by oath or affirmation to support this Constitution; but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States.

ARTICLE VII.

(What ratification shall establish Constitution.)

The ratification of the Conventions of nine States shall be sufficient for the establishment of this Constitution between the States so ratifying the same.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES.

THE following amendments to the Constitution, Articles I. to X. inclusive, were proposed at the First Session of the First Congress, begun and held at the City of New York, on Wednesday, March 4, 1789, and were adopted by the necessary number of States. The original proposal of the ten amendments was preceded by this preamble and resolution:

"The conventions of a number of the States having, at the time of their adopting the Constitution, expressed a desire, in order to prevent misconstruction or abuse of its powers, that further declaratory and restrictive clauses should be added, and as extending the ground of public confidence in the Government will best insure the beneficent ends of its institution:

"Resolved, By the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in congress assembled, two-thirds of both Houses concurring, that the following articles be proposed to the Legislatures of the several States, as amendments to the Constitution of the United States; all or any of which articles, when ratified by three-fourths of the said Legislatures, to be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of the said Constitution, namely:"

THE TEN ORIGINAL AMENDMENTS.

(They were declared in force December 15, 1791.)

ARTICLE I.

Religious Establishment Prohibited. Freedom of Speech, of the Press, and Right to Petition.

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

ARTICLE II.

Right to Keep and Bear Arms.

A well-regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.

ARTICLE III.

No Soldier to Be Quartered in Any House, Unless, Etc.

No soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner, nor in time of war but in a manner to be prescribed by law.

ARTICLE IV.

Right of Search and Seizure Regulated.

The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrants shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized.

ARTICLE V.

Provisions Concerning Prosecution, Trial and Punishment.—Private Property Not to Be Taken for Public Use, Without Compensation.

No person shall be held to answer for a capital or other infamous crime unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service, in time of war or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offence to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation.

ARTICLE VI.

Right to Speedy Trial, Witnesses, Etc.

In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which districts shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel for his defence.

ARTICLE VII.

Right of Trial By Jury.

In suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved, and no fact tried by a jury shall be otherwise re-examined in any court of the United States than according to the rules of the common law.

ARTICLE VIII.

Excessive Bail or Fines and Cruel Punishments Prohibited.

Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.

ARTICLE IX.

Rule of Construction of Constitution.

The enumeration in the Constitution of certain rights shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people.

ARTICLE X.

Rights of States Under Constitution.

The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.

The following amendment was proposed to the Legislatures of the several States by the Third Congress on the 5th of March, 1794, and was declared to have been ratified in a message from the President to Congress, dated Jan. 8, 1798.

ARTICLE XI.

Judicial Powers Construed.

The judicial power of the United States shall not be construed to extend to any suit in law or equity, commenced or prosecuted against one of the United States, by citizens of another State, or by citizens or subjects of any foreign state.

The following amendment was proposed to the Legislatures of the several States by the Eighth Congress on the 12th of December, 1803, and was declared to have been ratified in a proclamation by the Secretary of State, dated September 25, 1804. It was ratified by all the States except Connecticut, Delaware, Massachusetts, and New Hampshire.

ARTICLE XII.

Manner of Choosing President and Vice-President.

The electors shall meet in their respective States, and vote by ballot for President and Vice-President, one of whom at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same State with themselves; they shall name in their ballots the person voted for as President, and in distinct ballots the person voted for as Vice-President; and they shall make distinct lists of all persons voted for as President, and of all persons voted for as Vice-President, and of the number of votes for each, which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit, sealed, to the seat of the Government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate; the President of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted; the person having the greatest number of votes for President shall be the President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if no person have such majority, then from the persons having the highest numbers, not exceeding three, on the list of those voted for as President, the House of Representatives shall choose immediately, by ballot, the President. But in choosing the President, the votes shall be taken by States, the representation from each State having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the States, and a majority of all the States shall be necessary to a choice. And if the House of Representatives shall not choose a President, whenever the right of choice shall devolve upon them, before the fourth day of March next following, then the Vice-President shall act as President, as in the case of the death or other constitutional disability of the President. The person having the greatest number of votes as Vice-President shall be the Vice-President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed, and if no person have a majority, then from the two highest numbers on the list the Senate shall choose the Vice-President; a quorum for the purpose shall consist of two-thirds of the whole number of Senators, and a majority of the whole number shall be necessary to a choice. But no person constitutionally ineligible to the office of President shall be eligible to that of Vice-President of the United States.

The following amendment was proposed to the Legislatures of the several States by the Thirty-eighth Congress on the 1st of February, 1865, and was declared to have been ratified in a proclamation by the Secretary of State, dated December 18, 1865. It was rejected by Delaware and Kentucky; was conditionally ratified by Alabama and Mississippi; and Texas took no action.

ARTICLE XIII.

Slavery Abolished.

1. Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction.
2. Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

The following, popularly known as the Reconstruction Amendment, was proposed to the Legislatures of the several States by the Thirty-ninth Congress on the 16th of June, 1866, and was declared to have been ratified in a proclamation by the Secretary of State, dated July 28, 1868. The amendment got the support of 23 Northern States; it was rejected by Delaware, Kentucky, Maryland, and 10 Southern States. California took no action. Subsequently it was ratified by the 10 Southern States.

ARTICLE XIV.

Citizenship Rights Not to Be Abridged.

1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

Apportionment of Representatives in Congress.

2. Representatives shall be apportioned among the several States according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each State, excluding Indians not taxed. But when the right to vote at any election for the choice of electors for President and Vice-President of the United States, Representatives in Congress, the executive and judicial officers of a State, or the members of the Legislature thereof, is denied to any of the male members of such State, being of twenty-one years of age, and citizens of the United States, or in any way abridged, except for participation in rebellion or other crime, the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens twenty-one years of age in such State.

Power of Congress to Remove Disabilities of United States Officials for Rebellion.

3. No person shall be a Senator or Representative in Congress, or elector of President and Vice-President, or holding any office, civil or military, under the United States, or under any State, who, having previously taken an oath, as a member of Congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any State Legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any State, to support the Constitution of the United States, shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same, or given aid and comfort to the enemies thereof. But Congress may, by a vote of two-thirds of each House, remove such disability.

What Public Debts Are Valid.

4. The validity of the public debt of the United States, authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection and rebellion, shall not be questioned. But neither the United States nor any State shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave; but all such debts, obligations, and claims shall be held illegal and void.

5. The Congress shall have power to enforce by appropriate legislation the provisions of this article.

The following amendment was proposed to the Legislatures of the several States by the Fortieth Congress on the 27th of February, 1869, and was declared to have been ratified in a proclamation by the Secretary of State, dated March 30, 1870. It was not acted on by Tennessee; it was rejected by California, Delaware, Kentucky, Maryland, New Jersey, and Oregon; ratified by the remaining 30 States. New York rescinded its ratification January 5, 1870.

ARTICLE XV.

Equal Rights for White and Colored Citizens.

1. The right of the citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

2. The Congress shall have power to enforce the provisions of this article by appropriate legislation.

The following amendment was proposed to the Legislatures of the several States by the Sixty-first Congress on the 12th day of July, 1909, and was declared to have been ratified in a proclamation by the Secretary of State, dated February 25, 1913. The income tax amendment was ratified by all the States except Connecticut, Florida, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Utah, and Virginia.

ARTICLE XVI.

Income Taxes Authorized.

The Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever sources derived, without apportionment among the several States, and without regard to any census or enumeration.

The following amendment was proposed to the Legislatures of the several States by the Sixty-second Congress on the 16th day of May, 1912, and was declared to have been ratified in a proclamation by the Secretary of State, dated May 31, 1913. It got the vote of all the States except Alabama, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Utah, and Virginia.

ARTICLE XVII.

United States Senators to Be Elected By Direct Popular Vote.

1. The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each State, elected by the people thereof, for six years; and each Senator shall have one vote. The electors in each State shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the State Legislatures.

Vacancies in Senatorships, When Governor May Fill by Appointment.

2. When vacancies happen in the representation of any State in the Senate, the executive authority of such State shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies: Provided, That the Legislature of any State may empower the Executive thereof to make temporary appointment until the people fill the vacancies by election as the Legislature may direct.

3. This amendment shall not be so construed as to affect the election or term of any Senator chosen before it becomes valid as part of the Constitution.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTIONS.

THERE is, properly speaking, no popular vote for President and Vice-President; the people vote for electors, and those chosen in each State meet therein and vote for the candidates for President and Vice-President. The record of any popular vote for electors prior to 1828 is so meagre and imperfect that a compilation would be useless. In most of the States, for more than a quarter century following the establishment of the Government, the State Legislatures "appointed" the Presidential electors, and the people therefore voted only indirectly for them, their choice being expressed by their votes for members of the Legislature.

SALARY OF THE PRESIDENT.

THE salary of the President of the United States was the cause of discussion in the First Congress, in view of the fact that the Constitution declared that the President should receive compensation for his services. Washington had notified his fellow citizens that he desired no salary. The limits suggested in Congress ranged from $15,000 to $70,000. The salary was finally placed at $25,000, and this remained the compensation until President Grant's second term (March 3, 1873), when it was increased to $50,000. Chapter 2918 of the Laws of the Second Session of the Fifty-ninth Congress, approved March 4, 1907, appropriated "for travelling expenses of the President of the United States, to be expended at his discretion and accounted for by his certificate solely, $25,000." In the Second Session of the Sixtieth Congress the President's salary was fixed at $75,000 a year.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

THE Monroe Doctrine dates from a declaration of December 2, 1823, by James Monroe, President of the United States, in his seventh annual message to Congress. Brazil had declared its independence of Portugal the year before. Troubles in the latter country had caused a modification of the Constitution. In Spain a revolution had occurred, and the dominion of Peru was lost. The Holy Alliance, formed in 1815 by Russia, Austria and Prussia, was threatening, so it was alleged, to help Spain recover its control in South America. Russia and the United States were in controversy over their Pacific Coast boundaries. Mr. Monroe in his message took up the Russian matter first, saying:

"In the discussions to which this interest has given rise, and in the arrangements by which they may terminate, the occasion has been judged proper for asserting, as a principle in which the rights and interests of the United States are involved, that the American continents, by the free and independent condition which they have assumed and maintain, are henceforth not to be considered as subjects for future colonization by any European powers."

The President then spoke of Spain and Portugal in this wise:

"Of events in that quarter of the globe with which we have so much intercourse and from which we derive our origin we have always been anxious and interested spectators. The citizens of the United States cherish sentiments the most friendly in favor of the liberty and happiness of their fellowmen on that side of the Atlantic. In the wars of the European powers, in matters relating to themselves, we have never taken any part, nor does it comport with our policy so to do. It is only when our rights are invaded or seriously menaced that we resent injuries or make preparation for our defence. With the movements in this hemisphere we are of necessity more immediately connected, and by causes which must be obvious to all enlightened and impartial observers. The political syatem of the allied powers is essentially different in this respect from that of America. This difference proceeds from that which exists in their respective Governments. And to the defence of our own, which has been achieved by the loss of so much blood and treasure, and matured by the wisdom of their most enlightened citizens, and under which we have enjoyed unexampled felicity, this whole nation is devoted. We owe it, therefore, to candor and to the amicable relations existing between the United States and those powers to declare that we should consider any attempt on their part to extend their system to any portion of this hemisphere as dangerous to our peace and safety.

"With the existing colonies or dependencies of any European power we have not interfered and shall not interfere. But with the Governments who have declared their independence and maintained it, and whose independence we have, on great consideration and on just principles, acknowledged, we could not view any interposition for the purpose of oppressing them, or controlling, in any other manner, their destiny, by any European power, in any other light than as the manifestation of an unfriendly disposition towards the United States. In the war between these new Governments and Spain we declared our neutrality at the time of their recognition, and to this we have adhered, and shall continue to adhere, provided no change shall occur, which, in the judgment of the competent authorities of this Government, shall make a corresponding change on the part of the United States indispensable to their security."

CLEVELAND'S DECLARATION IN 1895.

When President Grover Cleveland, in 1895, urged Great Britain to arbitrate her dispute over the boundary between Venezuela and British Guiana, he said (December 17) in a message to Congress:

"The doctrine "(Monroe) "upon which we stand is strong and sound because its enforcement is important to our peace and safety as a nation, and is essential to the integrity of our free institutions and the tranquil maintenance of our distinctive form of government. It was intended to apply to every stage of our national life, and cannot become obsolete while our Republic endures. If the balance of power is justly a cause for jealous anxiety among the Governments of the Old World and a subject for our absolute non-interference, none the less is an observance of the Monroe Doctrine of vital concern to our people and their Government. * * * If a European power, by an extension of its boundaries, takes possession of the territory of one of our neighboring republics against its will and in derogation of its rights, it is difficult to see why to that extent such European power does not thereby attempt to extend its system of government to that portion of this continent which is thus taken. This is the precise action which President Monroe declared to be 'dangerous to our peace and safety,' and it can make no difference whether the European system is extended by an advance of frontier or otherwise. * * * The Monroe Doctrine finds its recognition in those principles of international law which are based upon the theory that every nation shall have its rights protected and its just claims enforced."

OLNEY TO GREAT BRITAIN.

Mr. Cleveland's Secretary of State, Richard Olney, had said (July 20, 1895) in a despatch to the American Ambassador at London, Thomas F. Bayard, regarding the Monroe Doctrine: "That America is in no part open to colonization, though the proposition was not universally admitted at the time of its first enunciation, has long been universally conceded. We are now concerned, therefore, only with that other practical application of the Monroe Doctrine the disregard of which by an European power is to be deemed an act of unfriendliness towards the United States. The precise scope and limitations of this rule cannot be too clearly apprehended. It does not estabilish any general protectorate by the United States over other American states. It does not relieve any American state from its obligations as fixed by international law nor prevent any European power directly interested from enforcing such obligations or from inflicting merited punishment for the breach of them."

PRESIDENT WILSON'S WORDS IN 1915.

President Wilson said of the Monroe Doctrine (December 7, 1915) in an address to a joint session of Congress: "There was a time in the early days of our own great nation and of the republics fighting their way to independence in Central and South America when the Government of the United States looked upon itself as in some sort the guardian of the republics to the south of her as against any encroachments or efforts at political control from the other side of the water; felt it its duty to play the part even without invitation from them; and I think that we can claim that the task was undertaken with a true and disinterested enthusiasm for the freedom of the Americas and the unmolested self-government of her independent peoples. But it was always difficult to maintain such a rôle without offence to the pride of the peoples whose freedom of action we sought to protect and without provoking serious misconceptions of our motives, and every thoughtful man of affairs must welcome the altered circumstances of the new day in whose light we now stand, when there is no claim of guardianship or thought of wards but, instead, a full and honorable association as of partners between ourselves and our neighbors, in the interest of all America, north and south.

"Our concern for the independence and prosperity of the states of Central and South America is not altered. We retain unabated the spirit that has inspired us throughout the whole life of our Government and which was so frankly put into words by President Monroe. We still mean always to make a common cause of national independence and of political liberty in America. But that purpose is now better understood so far as it concerns ourselves. It is known not to be a selfish purpose. It is known to have in it no thought of taking advantage of any Government in this hemisphere or playing its political fortunes for our own benefit. All the Governments of America stand, so far as we are concerned, upon a footing of genuine equality and unquestioned independence."

NOTES TO THE TABLES OF THE PRESIDENTS,

* Monroe abandoned the profession of law when a young man, and was afterward, and until his election, always holding public office. † Jackson called himself a South Carolinian, and his biographer, Kendall, recorded his birthplace in Lancaster Co., S. C.; but Parton has published documentary evidence to show that Jackson was born in Union Co., N. C., less than a quarter mile from the South Carolina line. ‡ Or of departure from college.

§ Widows. Their maiden names are in parentheses. ¶ She was the divorced wife of Captain Robards. (a) The Democratic party of to-day claims lineal descent from the first Republican party, and President Jefferson as its founder. (b) Political parties were disorganized at the time of the election of John Quincy Adams. He claimed to be a Republican, but his doctrines were decidedly Federalistic. The opposition to his administration took the name of Democrats, and elected Jackson President.

(c) Randall, the biographer of Jefferson, declares that he was a believer in Christianity, although not a sectarian. (d) While President Johnson was not a church-member, he was a Christian believer. His wife was a Methodist.

Washington's first inauguration was in New York, and his second in Philadelphia. Adams was inaugurated in Philadelphia, and Jefferson and the Presidents following elected by the people, in the city of Washington. Arthur took the Presidential oath of office first in New York City. John Adams and Jefferson died on the same day, the Fourth of July, 1826, and Monroe died on the Fourth of July five years later. John Quincy Adams was a Representative and Andrew Johnson a Senator in Congress after the expiration of their Presidential terms, and both died while holding those offices. Tyler was a Representative in the Confederate Congress from Virginia, and died in office.

Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley were assassinated while in office. Lincoln at Ford's Theatre, Washington, D. C., April 14, 1865, from a pistol shot fired by John Wilkes Booth, who was killed near Fredericksburg, Va., April 26, 1865, by Sergeant Boston Corbett. Garfield was shot in the Pennsylvania Railroad Depot, Washington, D. C., July 2, 1881, and died at Elberon, Long Branch, N. J., September 19, 1881. The assassin was Charles Jules Guiteau, who was hanged at Washington, D. C., June 30, 1882. McKinley was shot twice September 6, 1901, while in the Temple of Music of the Pan-American Exposition, Buffalo, N. Y., and died from his wounds at the home of John G. Milburn, Buffalo, September 14, 1901. The assassin was Louis Czolgosz, who was electrocuted at Auburn State Prison, New York, October 29, 1901.

Jackson was shot at in the Capitol at Washington, D. C., January 29, 1835, by a house painter named Richard Lawrence, escaping because the pistol of the assassin missed fire. Ex-President Roosevelt was shot and wounded by John Schrank, an insane man, at Milwaukee, Wis., October 14, 1912.

Cleveland after taking the oath as President, kissed the open Bible, his lips touching Psalm cxii., verses 5-10, inclusive. Garfield's first act after taking the oath was to kiss his mother.

The sixth President was the son of the second President, and the twenty-third President was the grandson of the ninth President. William Henry Harrison was the eighth and Benjamin Harrison the tenth in descent from Pocahontas and John Rolfe. Lincoln was the first President wearing a full beard. Grant the first wearing a mustache. Buchanan and Cleveland were bachelors when they entered the White House as Presidents, but Cleveland surrendered during his first term. Washington, Monroe, Pierce and Hayes were born on Friday. J. Q. Adams, Pierce and Garfield were inaugurated on Friday. Tyler, Polk and Pierce died on Friday. Lincoln was assassinated on Friday.

There were remarkable coincidences in the lives of Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis. Both were born in Kentucky; Lincoln in 1809, Davis in 1808. Both removed from their native state in childhood, Lincoln to the Northwest, Davis to the Southwest. Lincoln was a Captain of Volunteers and Davis a Second Lieutenant of Regulars in the Black Hawk war of 1832. They began their political careers the same year, 1844, Lincoln being a Presidential Elector for Clay, and Davis for Polk. They were elected to Congress about the same time, 1845 and 1846. They were called to preside over their respective governments the same year and within a few days; Davis, February 8, 1861; Lincoln, March 4, 1861.

Washington, Monroe, and Jackson were soldiers in the Revolutionary war; Jackson, W. H. Harrison, Tyler, Taylor, and Buchanan in the war of 1812-15; Lincoln in the Black Hawk war; Taylor, Pierce, and Grant in the Mexican war; Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Arthur, B. Harrison, and McKinley in the Civil War, and Roosevelt was in the war with Spain. Adams and Jefferson were signers of the Declaration of Independence, and Washington and Madison of the Constitution.

Grant was christened Hiram Ulysses and Cleveland, Stephen Grover. W. H. Harrison was the oldest man elected to the Presidency, and Roosevelt the youngest, Grant being the next youngest by six months. Cleveland was the only President married in the White House, and his second daughter the only President's child born therein. Monroe's daughter (Mrs. Gouverneur), Tyler's daughter (Mrs. Waller), Grant's daughter (Mrs. Sartoris), Roosevelt's daughter (Mrs. Longworth) and Wilson's daughters, Jessie (Mrs. Sayre) and Eleanor (Mrs. McAdoo) were the only children of Presidents married therein. Wives of Tyler, Benjamin Harrison, and Wilson died in the White House. W. H. Harrison was father of the largest family, six sons and four daughters. Eight Presidents: Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, W. H. Harrison, Tyler, Taylor, and Wilson were Virginians by birth. Six Presidents: Grant, Hayes, Garfield, B. Harrison, McKinley, and Taft, were Ohioans by birth.

NOTES—Twelve amendments were proposed in 1789, of which New York ratified 11, but only 10 were adopted by three-fourths of the States. An attempt was made to have the amendments ratified by resolution, but the motion failed, 49 to 2.

On February 4, 1818, the President reported to Congress that 12 States had ratified the amendment, forbidding titles, while 3 had rejected it and 2 were undecided.

A resolution to ratify the amendment of 1865 passed the Senate on February 2, and the Assembly on February 3, 1865, in the Senate, 18 to 8, and in the Assembly, 72 to 40.

The fourteenth amendment was the first ratified in New York by resolution. Others were ratified by statute.

Arizona became a State February 14, 1912. New Mexico was admitted January 6, 1912.
The electoral vote for Vice President in 1896 was: Republican, 271; Democratic, 149; Populist, 27.

APPORTIONMENT OF CONGRESSIONAL REPRESENTATION,

THE ratio under the Constitution was one Representative in Congress for each 30,000 of population. Thereafter, the ratios, as determined by the decennial censuses, were as follows: 1790 and 1800, one to each 33,000; 1810, one in each 35,000; 1820, one in each 40,000; 1830, one in each 47,700; 1840, one in each 70,680; 1850, one in each 93,423; 1860, one in each 127,381; 1870, one in each 131,425; 1880, one in each 151,911; 1890, one in each 173,901; 1900, one in each 194,182; 1910, one in each 211,877.

In 1910, and lasting until the new apportionment under the 1920 Census, each State's quota of Representatives was and is as follows: Alabama, 10; Arizona, 1; Arkansas, 7; California, 11; Colorado, 4; Connecticut, 5; Delaware, 1; Florida, 4; Georgia, 12; Idaho, 2; Illinois, 27; Indiana, 13; Iowa, 11; Kansas, 8; Kentucky, 11; Louisiana, 8; Maine, 4; Maryland, 6; Massachusetts, 16; Michigan, 13; Minnesota, 10; Mississippi, 8; Missouri, 16; Montana, 2; Nebraska, 6; Nevada, 1; New Hampshire, 2; New Jersey, 12; New Mexico, 1; New York, 43; North Carolina, 10; North Dakota, 3; Ohio, 22; Oklahoma, 8; Oregon, 3; Pennsylvania, 36; Rhode Island, 3; South Carolina, 7; South Dakota, 3; Tennessee, 10; Texas, 18; Utah, 2; Vermont, 2; Virginia, 10; Washington, 5; West Virginia, 6; Wisconsin, 11; Wyoming, 1; total, 435.

Of the thirteen Original States the present quotas are the same as under the Constitution in Connecticut, Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia. The original quotas in the other Original States were as follows: Georgia, 3; Massachusetts, 8; New Hampshire, 3; New Jersey, 4; New York, 6; North Carolina, 5; Pennsylvania, 8; Rhode Island, 1; and South Carolina, 5.

INDIANA SUPREME COURT'S DECISION AGAINST WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

Article 2 of Section 2 of the Constitution of Indiana provides as follows: "In all elections, not otherwise provided for by this Constitution, every male citizen of the United States, of the age of twenty-one years and upward, who shall have resided in the State during the six months, and in the township sixty days, and in the ward or precinct thirty days, immediately preceding such election, and every male of foreign birth, of the age of twenty-one years and upwards, who shall have resided in the United States one year, and shall have resided in the State during the six months and in the township sixty days, and in the ward or precinct thirty days, immediately preceding such election and shall have declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States, conformably to the laws of the United States, on the subject of naturalization, shall be entitled to vote in the township or precinct where he may reside, if he shall have been duly registered according to law."

The Legislature had passed in 1917 an act granting partial suffrage to women, including the right to vote at municipal elections, but not specifically including elections for national officials, such as presidential electors, and members of Congress. The constitutionality of the law was attacked in Marion County, where the Superior Court held that the "male citizen provision of the Indiana Constitution permitted only male inhabitants to vote and therefore this statutory enactment of the Legislature providing for partial suffrage was unconstitutional. From this decision an appeal was taken to the Supreme Court of the State of Indiana and the decision of the Superior Court of Marion County was affirmed.

The Indiana Supreme Court in its opinion said: "The question is primarily one for the consideration of the people in the capacity as creators of the Constitution and is never one for the consideration of the Legislature, except in so far as that instrument clearly sanctions an extension of the elective franchise or permits a regulation of its mode of exercise." This was rendered in 1917.

The conclusion of the Court was: (1) "That Article 2 of Section 2 of the Constitution, in itself, defines the electorate which shall participate in every State, County, Township and local election of political officers," and (2) "That the General Assembly has no authority to extend the right of franchise to persons not included within that definition." The decision was rendered by Chief Justice John W. Spencer and concurred in by Justices B. Lairy and David A. Myers. Justice Lawson M. Harvey dissented.

In South Carolina in 1848, 1852, 1856, and 1860 the Presidential Electors were chosen by the Legislature; In 1864 the States of Tennessee and Louisiana also held elections and were carried for Lincoln; "but," says A. K. McClure, in his book, "Our Presidents," "their votes were not necessary to the election of the Republican ticket, and although Lincoln earnestly desired that these States should be recognized and the votes counted, Congress, by joint resolution, that Lincoln signed with great reluctance, declared that they should not be recognized, and they were omitted." Nor was there any count in Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, or Texas.

In 1868 the Florida electors were chosen by the Legislature. Under a joint resolution of Congress, Mississippi, Texas, and Virginia were excluded from voting because they had no representation in Congress under the Reconstruction laws. The other Southern States had representation in Congress, except Georgia. There was a dispute in both Senate and House over Georgia, but Mr. Wade, President of the Senate, decided that Georgia's vote be counted.

In 1876 the Colorado electors were chosen by the Legislature.

It was in the Presidential campaign of 1884 that the Rev. Dr. Burchard, heading a delegation of ministers who called on Mr. Blaine, at New York City, to congratulate him, made the much-lamented reference to "rum, Romanism, and rebellion," which was held largely responsible for Blaine's defeat. The defeat of Cleveland in 1888 was attributed by Democratic politicians to his message to Congress, delivered a year before, making the tariff and revenue question the sole issue before the country. In 1892 Simon Wing, the Socialist-Labor candidate, polled 21,164 votes, which is included in the total. Both Republicans and Democrats fused with the Weaver, or People's Party, in different States. This is why no votes were cast for Cleveland in Colorado, Kansas, North Dakota, and Wyoming; none for Harrison in Florida, and only a nominal vote in Alabama and Mississippi.

Bryan got the nomination in 1896 by his "crown of thorns" speech at the convention. Democrats and Silver Republicans fused in many States at the election; Democrats and Populists also fused. In 1904, in Illinois, the Continental Party cast 830 votes.

During the continuance of the war the White House and grounds will be closed to visitors.—JOSEPH P. TUMULTY, Secretary to the President.

FOREIGN DIPLOMATS DISMISSED FROM UNITED STATES.

THE recall of the French Minister, Marquis de Moustier, sent here by Louis XVI., was requested on November 25, 1788, because his conduct was considered objectionable by our Government. In 1789 President John Adams revoked all exequaturs of French Consuls in the United States.

CITIZEN GENET, sent here in 1793, after the execution of Louis XVI. by the French Committee of Safety, tried to commission privateers here to prey on British commerce, besides making inflammatory speeches. Thomas Jefferson asked for his recall.

The Marquis of Casa Yrujo, Spanish Minister in 1805, attempted to bribe a Philadelphia editor to favor Spain in a controversy with the United States. He was handed his passports.

F. J. Jackson, British Minister, was recalled because he tried to arouse feeling against the United States by circularizing British Consuls, in which he accused the American Government of bad faith in 1809.

In 1849 M. Poussin, French Minister, because of insolence to the American Secretary of State, was recalled.

José de Marcoleta, Minister from Nicaragua, was dismissed December 30, 1852, for meddling in the Interoceanic Isthmian canal controversy.

For enlisting soldiers for the Crimean War in 1855 British Minister Crampton was recalled and the exequaturs of three British Consuls were cancelled.

For refusing to appear as a witness in a trial in the United States for homicide the Dutch Minister, H. C. Du Bois, was recalled at Washington's request on November 18, 1856. In the same year the British Consul, Anthony Barclay, at New York, was sent home, as were the British Consuls at Philadelphia and Cincinnati.

Henry Segur, Minister from Salvador, was recalled on September 26, 1863, for having attempted to violate the neutrality laws of the United States.

In 1866 Esteban Rogers, Chilean Consul at New York, was sent home.

Constantine Catacazy, Russian Minister, interfered in the negotiations for the settlement of the Alabama Claims, and his recall was demanded, June 16, 1871, when he became abusive of the President and Cabinet.

In 1888 passports were handed Lord Sackville-West, who, in response to a decoy letter, advised Americans of British birth to vote for Grover Cleveland for President.

On February 21, 1895, the United States Government requested the recall of Lorin A. Thurston, Hawaiian Minister, for publishing an article reflecting upon the administration of President Cleveland.

The Spanish Minister, Dupuy de Lome, wrote disrespectfully of President McKinley to a friend in Cuba, for which he was dismissed in 1898.

During President Taft's term passports were handed to the Nicaraguan Chargé d'Affaires, Mr. Rodrigues, to protest against the judicial murder in Nicaragua of two Americans.

The Turkish Ambassador, Rustem Bey, whose criticisms of the United States aroused so much discussion in 1914, left this country in October of that year "on leave of absence."

Recall of Dr. Constantin Theodor Dumba, Austrian Ambassador, was requested by United States in September, 1915, as a result of his attempts to cripple American industries.

Formal announcement was made by Secretary of State Lansing on December 3, 1915, that Germany had been requested to immediately recall Captain Boy-Ed and Captain von Papen, the Naval and Military Attachés respectively, on account of what the United States Government considered improper activities in military and naval matters.

NATURALIZATION LAWS.

(Revised by the Commissioner of Naturalization, Department of Labor.)

THE following courts alone have the power to naturalize aliens: United States District Courts in the States and Territories; also all courts of record in any State or Territory having a seal, a clerk, and jurisdiction in actions at law or equity, or law and equity, in which the amount in controversy is unlimited.

The power to naturalize is limited to persons residing within the geographical limits of the respective courts.

Any alien, white, or of African nativity or descent, is required, if he desires to become naturalized, to file a declaration of intention in the clerk's office of a court having jurisdiction, and such declaration may not be filed until the alien has reached the age of eighteen. This declaration must contain information as to the name, age, occupation, time and place of arrival in the United States, and must further show that it is the declarant's bona fide intention to become a citizen of the United States and to renounce forever all allegiance and fidelity to any foreign prince, potentate, state or sovereignty, and particularly to the one of which he may be at the time a citizen or subject.

The widow, and children who are under age at the time that an alien who has made his declaration of intention has died, without having secured a certificate of naturalization, are exempted from the necessity of filing a declaration of intention.

PETITIONS FOR NATURALIZATION.

Not less than two years after an alien has filed his declaration of intention, and after not less than five years' continuous residence in the United States, he may file a petition for citizenship in any one of the courts which has jurisdiction over the place in which he resides, provided he has lived at least one year continuously, immediately prior to the filing of such petition, in the State or Territory in which such place is located. This petition must be signed by the petitioner in his own handwriting and shall give his full name, place of residence, occupation, place of birth and the date thereof, the place from which he emigrated, and the date and place of his arrival in the United States. If such arrival occurred subsequent to the passage of the act of June 29, 1906, he must secure a certificate from the Department of Labor showing the fact of such arrival and the date and place thereof, for filing with the clerk of the court to be attached to his petition. If he is married he must state the name of his wife and, if possible, the country of her nativity and her place of residence at the time of the filing of his petition, and, if he has children, the name, date and place of birth and present place of residence of each living child. The petition must set forth that he is not a disbeliever in or opposed to organized government, or a member of or affiliated with any organization or body of persons teaching disbelief in or opposition to organized government; that he is not a polygamist or a believer in the practice of polygamy, and that he absolutely and forever renounces all allegiance and fidelity to any foreign country of which he may, at the time of filing such petition, be a citizen or subject. This petition must be verified at the time it is filed by the affidavit of two credible witnesses, who are citizens of the United States and who shall state that they have known the petitioner during his entire residence (not exceeding five years) in the State in which the petition is filed, which must be not less than one year, and that they have known him to be a resident of the United States continuously during the five years immediately preceding the filing of the petition; that during such time he acted as a man of good moral character, attached to the principles of the Constitution of the United States and well disposed to the good order and happiness of the same. If a portion of the five years has been passed by the petitioner in some other State than that in which he resides at the time of filing his petition the affidavit of the witnesses may verify so much of the petitioner's residence as has been passed in the State (not less than one year), and the portion of said five years' residence out of the State may be shown by depositions at the time of hearing on the petition.

No petition may be heard until the expiration of at least ninety days after it is filed nor within thirty days preceding a general election. At the hearing upon a petition, which shall be at a date fixed by order of the court, the witnesses are required to again attend and testify in open court so that the Judge or Judges thereof may be satisfied that the petitioner is qualified and that he has complied with all the requirements of the law.

MILITARY SERVICE A SHORT-CUT TO UNITED STATES NATURALIZATION.

(Amendment to Naturalization Laws, passed by Congress and approved by the President, May 9, 1918.)

Any native Filipino who has declared his intention to be a citizen may become one after three years' service in the United States Navy, Marine Corps, or Naval Auxiliary Service. Any alien or Porto Rican not a United States citizen, desiring to be a citizen, may have three years' service with the United States military or naval forces taken as a substitute for five years of continuous residence and may become a citizen upon presentation of the required declaration of intention. The Philippine Islands, Panama Canal Zone, and places of United States military or naval service are, for purpose of naturalization, accepted as places of United States residence. Any alien serving in the military or naval service of the United States during the oresent war may file a petition for naturalization without preliminary declaration and without proof of five years' residence. Any alien, if applying while still in the service, or within six months after honorable discharge or separation therefrom, may become a citizen after three years of service with United States military or naval forces, or the National Guard or Naval Militia of any State without filing preliminary declaration or proving five years' residence.

In cases of applicants in military or naval service petitions may be filed in the most convenient court without proof of residence within its jurisdiction. Honorable discharges or certificates of service are deemed prima facie proof as to residence and character, and the petition of a person in actual service may be heard immediately even though within thirty days of an election. Aliens in the military or naval service of the United States abroad (i. e., "not within the jurisdiction of any court authorized to naturalize aliens" —wording of statute), may file petitions without appearing in person, and may take the oath of allegiance by written verification. Service by aliens on vessels of other than American registry is not accepted as residence within the United States.

Alien seamen who have sailed three years on United States merchant or fishing vessels are protected as American citizens after declaring intention of becoming such. (This means that aliens who have sailed three years or more on American vessels may claim protection as American citizens by simply asking for it and, at the same time, declaring their intention of becoming citizens.) Aliens honorably discharged on account of disability in performance of duty while in military or naval service during the war or at its termination, may be relieved of the necessity of proving continuous five years' residence. Citizens having lost citizenship by entering the service of the Allies may resume citizenship by taking the oath of allegiance

An alien who is a native, citizen, subject, or denizen of any country with which the United States is at war, shall not be admitted to citizenship unless he had made his declaration of intention not less than two nor more than seven years prior to the entrance of the United States into the war—with certain exceptions. The wording of the statute as to these exceptions is elaborate and confusing, but the substance is to permit of applications for citizenship by those serving the United States in a military or naval capacity who might otherwise be excluded, certain safeguards being provided of notice to the Government Bureau of Naturalization, and giving the Government authority to hold up the granting of naturalization indefinitely, and further giving the President discretion, upon investigation and report by the Department of Justice establishing loyalty, to grant the privilege of applying for naturalization. The law prohibits any alien from making a declaration of intention within thirty days of any election.

IMMIGRATION 1820-60 BY COUNTRIES.

THE United States Census Bureau estimated in 1860 that 3,250,000 natives of Great Britain and Ireland had settled in the United States since 1814, of whom 55,000 came between 1815 and 1819. From 1776 to 1820 the total immigration is now estimated at 250,000. Thousands, in former days, entered the United States by way of Canada, and so were not included in the custom-house returns. The official returns in 1860 were as follows:

THE SINGLE TAX.

THE following is from a statement of the single tax principle, by Henry George.

We assert as our fundamental principle the self-evident truth enunciated in the Declaration of American Independence, that all men are created equal and are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights. We hold that all men are equally entitled to the use and enjoyment of what God has created and of what is gained by the general growth and improvement of the community of which they are a part. Therefore, no one should be permitted to hold natural opportunities without a fair return to all for any special privilege thus accorded to him, and that value which the growth and improvement of the community attaches to land should be taken for the use of the community; that each is entitled to all that his labor produces; therefore, no tax should be levied on the products of labor.

To carry out these principles, we are in favor of raising all public revenues for national, State, county, and municipal purposes by a single tax upon land values, irrespective of improvements.

In assessments under the single tax all values created by individual use or improvement would be excluded, and the only value taken into consideration would be the value attaching to the bare land by reason of neighborhood, etc., to be determined by impartial periodical assessments. Thus the farmer would have no more taxes to pay than the speculator who held a similar piece of land idle, and the man who on a city lot erected a valuable building would be taxed no more than the man who held a similar lot vacant. The single tax in short would call upon men to contribute to the public revenues not in proportion to what they produce or accumulate, but in proportion to the value of the natural opportunities they hold. It would compel them to pay just as much for holding land idle as for putting it to its fullest use. The single tax, therefore, would—

1st. Take the weight of taxation off the agricultural districts, where land has little or no value, irrespective of improvements, and put it on towns and cities, where bare land rises to a value of millions of dollars per acre.

2d. Dispense with a multiplicity of taxes and a horde of tax-gatherers, simplify government, and greatly reduce its cost.

3d. Do away with the fraud, corruption, and gross inequality inseparable from our present methods of taxation, which allow the rich to escape while they grind the poor. Land cannot be hid or carried off, and its value can be ascertained with greater ease and certainty than any other.

4th. Give us with all the world as perfect freedom of trade as now exists between the States of the Union, thus enabling our people to share through free exchanges in all the advantages which nature has given to other countries, or which the peculiar skill of other peoples has enabled them to attain. It would destroy the trusts, monopolies, and corruptions which are the outgrowths of the tariff. It would do away with the fines and penalties now levied on any one who improves a farm, erects a house, builds a machine, or in any way adds to the general stock of wealth. It would leave every one free to apply labor or expend capital in production or exchange without fine or restriction.

5th. It would, on the other hand, by taking for public use that value which attaches to land by reason of the growth and improvement of the community, make the holding of land unprofitable to the mere owner and profitable only to the user. It would thus make it impossible for speculators and monopolists to hold natural opportunities unused or only half used, and would throw open to labor the illimitable field of employment which the earth offers to man. It would thus solve the labor problem, do away with involuntary poverty, raise wages in all occupations to the full earnings of labor, make overproduction impossible until all human wants are satisfied, render labor-saving inventions a blessing to all, and cause such an enormous production and such an equitable distribution of wealth as would give to all comfort, leisure, and participation in the advantages of an advancing civilization, in securing to each individual equal right to the use of the earth. It is also a proper function of society to maintain and control all public ways for the transportation of persons and property, and the transmission of intelligence; and also to maintain and control all public ways in cities for furnishing water, gas, and all other things that necessarily require use of common ways.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The Government of the District of Columbia is a municipality whose principal administrative agency is a board of three Commissioners, two of whom are appointed from civil life by the President of the United States and must be citizens of the District of Columbia and have resided there for three years immediately preceding their appointment as such, and during that period have claimed residence nowhere else. Their appointments must be confirmed by the Senate. The other Commissioner is an officer of the Corps of Engineers of the United States Army whose lineal rank is senior to that of Captain, or who is a Captain who has served at least fifteen years in the Corps of Engineers of the army. He is detailed for duty as such.

UNITED STATES MILITARY ACADEMY AT WEST POINT.

EACH Senator, Congressional district and Territory, including Porto Rico, Alaska and Hawaii, is entitled to have two cadets at the academy; the District of Columbia, four cadets. There are also eighty-two appointments at large, two of whom are appointed upon the recommendation of the Vice-President, specially conferred by the President of the United States. The law (act of May 4, 1916) authorizes the President to appoint cadets to the United States Military Academy from among enlisted men in the Regular Army and National Guard, the total number not to exceed one hundred and eighty at any one time.

Appointments are usually made one year in advance of date of admission, by the Secretary of War, upon the nomination of the Senator or Representative. These nominations may either be made after competitive examination or given direct, at the option of the Representative. The Representative may nominate two legally qualified second candidates, to be designated first and second alternates. The alternates will receive from the War Department a letter of appointment, and will be examined with the regular appointee, and the better qualified will be admitted to the academy in the event of the failure of the principal to pass the prescribed preliminary examinations. Appointees to the Military Academy must be between seventeen and twenty-two years of age, free from any infirmity which may render them unfit for military service, and able to pass, unless a satisfactory certificate is submitted, a careful examination in English grammar, English composition, English literature, algebra through quadratic equations, plane geometry, descriptive geography and the elements of physical geography, especially the geography of the United States, United States history, the outlines of general history. The Secretary of War is authorized to permit not exceeding four Filipinos to be designated, one for each class, by the Governor-General of the Philippine Islands, to receive instruction at the United States Military Academy at West Point; Provided, That the Filipinos undergoing instruction shall receive the same pay, allowances and emoluments as are authorized by law for cadets at the Military Academy appointed from the United States, to be paid out of the same appropriations; And provided further, That said Filipinos undergoing instruction, on graduation shall be eligible only to commissions in the Philippine Scouts; serve for eight years, unless sooner discharged.

The course of instruction, which is quite thorough, requires four years, and is largely mathematical and professional. The principal subjects taught are mathematics, English, French, drawing, drill regulations of all arms of the service, natural and experimental philosophy, chemistry, chemical physics, mineralogy, geology, electricity, history, international, constitutional and military law, Spanish, civil and military engineering, art and science of war, and ordnance and gunnery.

From about the middle of June to the end of August cadets live in camp, engaged only in military duties and receiving practical military instruction. Cadets are allowed but one leave of absence during the four years' course, and this is granted at the expiration of the first two years. The pay of a cadet is $848.20 per year and with proper economy is sufficient for his support.

Upon graduating, cadets are commissioned as Second Lieutenants in the United States Army. The whole number of cadets graduated from 1802 to 1918, inclusive, has been 6,028. It is virtually absolutely necessary for a person seeking an appointment to apply to his Senator or Member of Congress. The Superintendent is Col. Samuel E. Tillman, U. S. A., and the military and academic staff consists of 126 persons. Number of cadets, 927.

UNITED STATES NAVAL ACADEMY AT ANNAPOLIS.

THE students of the Naval Academy are styled midshipmen. Five midshipmen are allowed for each Senator, Representative and Delegate in Congress, two for the District of Columbia, and fifteen appointed each year from the United States at large. The appointments from the District of Columbia and fifteen each year at large are made by the President. It is the custom of Presidents to give the appointments of midshipmen at large to the sons of officers of the army and navy, for the reason that officers, owing to the nature of their duties, are usually not in a position to establish permanent residence.

The selection of candidates, by competitive examination or otherwise, for nomination for vacancies in the quota of Senators, Representatives and Delegates in Congress is entirely in the hands of each Senator, Representative, and Delegate in Congress having a vacancy; and all applications for appointments or inquiries relative to competitive examinations should be addressed accordingly.

The law authorizes the appointment of one hundred enlisted men each year to be selected as a result of a competitive examination of enlisted men of the regular navy and Marine Corps, who must be not more than twenty years of age on April 1 of the year they enter, and who will have been in the service at least one year by August 15 of that year. The mental and physical requirements, as well as the amount of money to be deposited upon admission are the same for these candidates as for other candidates for midshipmen.

The competitive examination of these enlisted men is held on the third Tuesday in April of each year and is the regular examination given to candidates nominated for vacancies for midshipmen.

The course for midshipmen is four years. Examinations on the ground covered are held at the end of each academic term. During the summer, midshipmen of the first, second and third classes go to sea for about three months. Midshipmen after graduation are commissioned as Ensigns in the navy, and occasionally to fill vacancies in the Marine Corps and in certain of the staff corps of the navy. The act of June 29, 1906, prescribes that the Secretary of the Navy shall, as soon as possible after the first day of June of each year preceding the graduation of midshipmen in the succeeding year, notify in writing each Senator, Representative and Delegate in Congress of any vacancy that will exist at the Naval Academy because of such graduation, or that may occur for other reasons, and which he shall be entitled to fill by nomination of a candidate and one or more alternates therefor. The nomination of a candidate and alternate or alternates to fill said vacancy shall be made upon the recommendation of the Senator, Representative or Delegate, if said recommendation is made by the fourth day of March of the year following that in which said notice in writing is given, but if it is not made by that time the Secretary of the Navy shall fill the vacancy by appointment of an actual resident of the State, Congressional district or Territory, as the case may be, in which the vacancy will exist, who shall have been for at least two years immediately preceding the date of his appointment an actual and bona fide resident of the State, Congressional district or Territory.

The height of candidates for admission shall not be less than five feet two inches between the ages of sixteen and eighteen years, and not less than five feet four inches between the ages of eighteen and twenty years; and the minimum weight at sixteen years shall be one hundred and eleven pounds, with an increase of not less than three pounds for each additional year, or fraction of a year over one-half. Any marked deviation in the height and weight relative to the age of a candidate will add materially to the consideration for rejection. Candidates must be unmarried, and any midshipman who shall marry, or who shall be found to be married before his final graduation, shall be dismissed from the service. Each candidate who has passed the required examinations must, before being admitted as a midshipman, deposit the sum of $350 to cover the cost of his initial outfit—clothing, uniforms, text books and equipment.

Each candidate before admission will be required to sign articles by which he binds himself to serve in the United States Navy during the pleasure of the President of the United States (including his time of probation at the Naval Academy), unless sooner discharged. The pay of a midshipman is $600 a year, commencing at the date of his admission, and is sufficient to meet all his expenses while at the Naval Academy.

UNITED STATES COAST GUARD.

HEADQUARTERS, NAVY DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, D. C.

THE United States Coast Guard, at the present time a part of the Navy, was created by an act of January 28, 1915, and succeeded the U. S. Revenue Cutter Service. The original Revenue Cutter Service was organized by act of Congress approved August 4, 1790. The Life-Saving Service was originally operated under the Revenue Cutter Service, but on June 20, 1874, Congress created it a separate service to operate under the Treasury Department. The officers of the Coast Guard are on the same footing in rank and pay as officers of the Army and Navy. Appointments to cadetships are made after competitive examinations conducted by boards of commissioned officers of the Coast Guard. The cadets are educated at the Coast Guard Academy at New London, Ct. The course covers three years and embraces professional and academic subjects. Candidates for cadetships must not be less than 18 nor more than 24 years old, citizens of the United States, and unmarried. A class of cadets is appointed each year. Appointments as Cadet Engineers are made after competitive examinations conducted by boards of engineer officers of the Coast Guard. Candidates for Cadet Engineers must not be less than 20½ years of age and serve a probationary term of not less than one year before being commissioned Third Lieutenants of Engineers. No person can be commissioned Third Lieutenant of Engineers who is less than 21 or more than 26 years of age.

This branch of the Government is under the charge of Captain Commandant E. P. Bertholf; Senior Captain D. P. Foley is the Chief Inspector; Senior Captain H. M. Broadbent is the Superintendent of Construction and Repair; Charles A. McAllister is Engineer-in-Chief; G. H. Slaybaugh, Chief of Division of Material, and O. M. Maxam, Chief of Division of Operations.

The authorized personnel is 227 commissioned officers and 6,544 warrant officers, petty officers and enlisted men.

The Coast Guard stations are divided into thirteen districts, embracing the Atlantic, Gulf, Great Lakes, and Pacific Coasts, including Alaska. There are 270 Coast Guard stations and houses of refuge. One station is at the Falls of the Ohio, near Louisville, Ky.

THE CITY ART MUSEUM OF ST. LOUIS.

The City Art Museum of St. Louis was established in 1879, and became a municipal institution in 1907. The building is in Forest Park, 160x350 feet, with 44 galleries on three floors. The collections include paintings, prints, sculpture, textiles, ceramics, metal work, furniture and other objects. The modern paintings are comprehensive, by artists of America, France, Holland, Spain, England, Russia, Sweden, Belgium and other countries. There is a small group of Old Masters. In the print department are etchings, engravings and woodcuts by old and modern masters. The sculptures are chiefly examples by American artists, supplemented by collections of casts from the antique and from masterpieces of the Renaissance. Among the Chinese ceramics are specimens from the Han Dynasty downward, and examples of the Sung, Ming, and K'ang-Hsi periods. There are also groups of Chinese bronzes, jades and other carved stones, lacquer, glass, textiles, &c., as well as objects illustrative of the decorative arts of ancient Greece and Egypt, and of Japan, Korea and Persia. The number of visitors in a year is 226,000 The museum is open daily, except Christmas and New Year's days, 10 A. M. to 5 P. M. Admission free.

THE UNITED STATES CENSUS.

The Constitution requires a census of the United States decennially. The first was in 1790 under the supervision of the President; subsequent censuses, to and including that of 1840, were under the Secretary of State. In 1849 the census work was transferred to the newly organized Department of the Interior, where it remained until the passage, in 1903, of the act creating the Department of Commerce and Labor, by which the Census Bureau was transferred to the new department. Meanwhile Congress, March 6, 1902, had made the Census Office a permanent bureau. Since March 4, 1913, when the Department of Commerce and the Department of Labor were separately organized, the Bureau of the Census has been attached to the former. The work is divided into two branches, the decennial census and special statistical inquiries, the latter mostly made between the decennial censuses. The thirteenth decennial census was taken as of date April 15, 1910. It covered: (1) population, (2) agriculture, (3) manufactures, and (4) mines, quarries, and oil and gas wells. The cost of the census of 1910 was about $14,290,000, in addition to which $1,675,000 was spent in carrying on the annual investigations of the permanent bureau during the census period. Of this amount $7,200,000 represents the cost of collecting the data through over 70,000 paid enumerators, besides supervisors, clerks, and special agents.

The permanent work of the bureau is provided for by the act of Congress approved March 6, 1902, and amendments, and includes gathering and publishing facts about the defective and delinquent classes, vital statistics, social and financial activities of cities, States, and religious bodies; imports and exports; figures on public utilities, crops; and a census on manufactures halfway between the ten-year censuses. The Director of the Census is appointed by the President and receives $6,000 per annum. The director is Samuel L. Rogers of North Carolina. The permanent office organization includes a chief clerk, Thomas J. Fitzgerald; five chief statisticians—for Population, William C. Hunt; for Manufactures, Eugene F. Hartley; for Statistics of States and Cities, Starke M. Grogan; for Agriculture, Cotton and Tobacco, William L. Austin, and for Vital Statistics, William H. Davis; a geographer, Charles S. Sloane, and nine chiefs of division. The number of employés in the bureau at Washington is 650; in addition there are 750 special agents employed intermittently in the South for cotton statistics.

HORSE-POWER ENERGY OF FALLING WATER.

Two cubic feet of water, which weigh 125 pounds, by falling 6 feet produce 1 horse-power of energy. Falling water in early days was used to turn water-wheels to operate chiefly flour mills. Now the falling water is guided by concrete penstocks to turbines, which whirl electric generators, and the horse-power thus developed in electric current is transmitted hundreds of miles over copper wires to cities and towns to operate manufacturing plants and street railways, and furnish light and heat. They are known as hydro-electric plants. It was the introduction of the turbine water wheel in about 1835 that started the utilization of the flow of streams for mechanical purposes. But not until the alternating current system for the transmission of electrical energy was introduced in the early nineties, and the discovery of electrical transmission of power over long distances, did the development of water power become one of the great factors in industrial life. There is estimated to be, by Government and other authorities, 30,000,000 to 54,000,000 potential horse-power in the streams on the United States public domain. Figures taken from the Geological Survey show that 77 per cent. of the total potential water horse-power of the United States is so located as to require Federal permits; of the 46,913,200 water horse-power in the country requiring Federal permits, 3.9 is developed, while of the 13,800,000 not requiring Federal permits 25.2 per cent. is developed.

THE BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA.

THE Boy Scouts of America form part of the world brotherhood of scouts several million strong. On July 1, 1918, there were 348,874 scouts properly registered in 15,701 troops, with 89,221 men council members and troop committeemen and scout masters. The organization is growing at the rate of 1,200 registrations a day. The ideals of the movement are efficient citizenship, service and character building. "The Boy Scouts of America," the name under which the movement in the United States was incorporated on February 8, 1910, has as its Honorary President Woodrow Wilson and as Honorary Vice-Presidents William H. Taft and Theodore Roosevelt. The Active President is Colin H. Livingstone; the National Scout Commissioner, Daniel C. Beard; the Treasurer, George D. Pratt; the Chief Scout Executive, James E. West.

The scouts are organized in patrols and troops. Eight boys constitute a patrol, one being chosen as the patrol leader. Three or four patrols make up a troop. The scout master is the adult leader of the troop. Any boy of any class or creed, over 12 years of age, is eligible to become a scout.

In the United States the scouts have assisted in Liberty Loan and War Savings Stamp sales, in gardening and in food conservation, as despatch bearers for the Government in distributing pamphlets for the Committee on Public Information, have successfully conducted a country-wide census of black walnut timber for the War Department to make gun stocks and airplane propellers, and have aided in the Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A. and other war service campaigns. In the first Liberty loan there were 139,645 subscriptions, for $23,238,250; in the second, 533,820, for $102,084,100, while in the third, with the boys limited to small amounts in the last week of the campaign, in line with the President's request that they act as "gleaners after the reapers," they brought in $60,934,800 from 534,349 people.

PAN-AMERICAN UNION.

THE Pan-American Union is the international organization and office maintained in Washington, D. C., by the twenty-one American republics, as follows: Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Guatemala, Hayti, Honduras, Mexico, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Salvador, United States, Uruguay, and Venezuela. It is devoted to the development and advancement of commerce, friendly intercourse, and good understanding among these countries. It is supported by quotas contributed by each country, based upon the population. Its affairs are administered by a Director-General and Assistant Director, elected by and responsible to a Governing Board, which is composed of the Secretary of State of the United States and the diplomatic representatives in Washington of the other American governments. These two executive officers are assisted by a staff of experts, statisticians, commercial specialists, editors, translators, compilers, librarians, clerks and stenographers. The Union publishes a monthly bulletin in English, Spanish, Portuguese and French, which is a record of Pan-American progress. It also publishes numerous special reports and pamphlets on various subjects of practical information. Its library, the Columbus Memorial Library, contains 4,000 volumes, 20,000 photographs, 140,000 index cards, and a large collection of maps. The Union is housed in a building erected through the gifts of Andrew Carnegie and the contributions of the American republics.

Director General—John Barrett; Assistant Director—Francisco J. Yanes; Chief Clerk and Editor, Franklin Adams; Chief Statistican—W. C. Wells.

EXAMINATIONS FOR CONSULAR SERVICE.

(Rules Adopted by the Board of Examiners.)

Oral, to determine business ability, alertness, general contemporary information and natural fitness for service. Written, include French, German or Spanish, United States natural, industrial and commercial resources (with special reference to increasing foreign trade), political economy, international, commercial and maritime law, American history and institutions, political and commercial geography, arithmetic (statistics, tariff, exchange, accounts, etc.), modern history (since 1850) of Europe, Latin America and Far East. Average of 80% to pass. Oral and written counting equally. Names of candidates holding subordinate positions in consular service remain on eligible list while in service; others for two years. Candidates for positions as student interpreters must be unmarried and from nineteen to twenty-six.

KNOWLEDGE OF CONSULAR LAW NEEDED IN TRADE WITH FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

(A summary of the provisions of the Department of Commerce.)

An understanding of United States customs and consular regulations affecting imports and exports will enable American exporter to regard foreign rules from a foreign viewpoint and avoid the tendency to consider foreign consular regulations as unnecessary red tape and imposition. More details are frequently required in the filling out of American consular invoices than are required in those of foreign countries. The bulk of the regulations are made and enforced to carry out import customs requirements of countries of destination. Fees for consular certification are for upkeep of consulates and for remuneration of consular officers. For imports of over $100 consular invoices must be taken out usually in triplicate—one retained by consul for his files, duplicate given to exporter, triplicate forwarded by consul to collector of customs at port of consignment; sometimes a quadruplicate is given to shipper as extra file copy. All around export man should know regulations in republics of Central and South America. In order to grasp foreign or domestic rules and regulations student should analyze the purpose for which they are promulgated.

UNITED STATES SECRET SERVICE.

THE Secret Service Division of the Treasury Department is under the direction of W. H. Moran, chief of the division. The service is principally engaged in detecting and prosecuting makers and dealers in counterfeit paper money and coin, investigating frauds arising in connection with the Federal Farm Loan Act, and making confidential investigations for the State Department. Details are also furnished for the protection of the President of the United States.

The arrests of counterfeiters number about 400 annually; other arrests are for bribery, impersonating United States Government officers, perjury, and violating sections of the United States Revised Statutes relating to foreign and domestic obligations and coins.

THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE.

IN this establishment practically all the printing for the United States Government is done except the manufacture of paper money and postage stamps. The Public Printer is the executive head of the Government Printing Office. Directly or through his principal officers he purchases all materials and machinery subject to the provisions of law, disburses all money, appoints all officers and employés, and exercises general supervision over the affairs of the office. The Superintendent of Documents has general supervision over the distribution of all public documents, excepting those printed for the use of the two Houses of Congress and for the Executive Departments. He is required to prepare a comprehensive index of public documents and consolidated index of Congressional documents, and is authorized to sell at cost any public document in his charge, the distribution of which is not specifically directed.

The present Government Printing Office was purchased by the Government in 1861 from John Defrees, who at that time was one of the printers for Congress and doing work on a contract basis. In the same year Mr. Defrees was appointed as the first Public Printer by President Lincoln. The amount of matter turned out by this office in one year averages as follows: Printed pages of bookwork, 2,490,000,000; copies of pamphlets and books, 150,000,000; copies of circulars, letter heads, blanks, etc., 2,100,000,000.

UNITED STATES BOARD OF MEDIATION AND CONCILIATION.

(Created by act of Congress, Approved July 15, 1913.)

Commissstoner—William L. Chambers. Assistant Commissioner—G. W. W. Hanger. Members of Board—Chairman, Martin A. Knapp, William L. Chambers, and G. W. W. Hanger. Secretary—Wm. H. Smith.

The purpose for which the board was established is to settle by mediation, conciliation and arbitration all controversies concerning wages, hours of labor, or conditions of employment that may arise between any common carrier or carriers engaged in the transportation of passengers or property wholly by railroad, or partly by railroad and partly by water, for a continuous carriage or shipment from one State or Territory of the United States or the District of Columbia to any other State or Territory of the United States or the District of Columbia, or from any place in the United States to an adjacent foreign country, or from any place in the United States through a foreign country to any other place in the United States, and their employés, which includes all persons actually engaged in any capacity in train operation or train service of any description, whether the cars upon or in which they are employed are owned or held and operated by the carrier under lease or other contract.

The Commissioner is appointed by the President for a term of seven years, salary $7,500, and is the executive officer of the board, which consists of the Commissioner and not more than two other officials of the Government, who are designated by the President. The Assistant Commissioner is appointed by the President, salary $5,000 per annum.

Since the organization of the board and up to June 30, 1918, 90 controversies between railroads and their employés engaged in train operation have reached the stage where an appeal for the services of the Board of Mediation and Conciliation was made. Of these cases an adjustment of the controversy was secured by the board through mediation alone in 66 cases; by mediation and arbitration in 12 cases; by arbitration in 8 cases; by the parties after mediation had begun in 2 cases. 1 case was settled by Federal legislation and 1 case is pending.

Gold and silver cannot be stated separately prior to 1876. From 1862 to 1875, inclusive, gold and silver were not in circulation except on the Pacific Coast, where it is estimated that the average specie circulation was about $25,000,000, and this estimate is continued for the three following years under the head of gold. After that period gold was available for circulation. As the result of special investigation by the Director of the Mint a reduction of $135,000,000 was made in the estimate of gold coin in circulation on July 1, 1907, as compared with the basis of previous years, and on Sept. 1, 1910, a reduction of $9,700,000 was made in the estimate of silver coin.

UNITED STATES COAST AND GEODETIC SURVEY.

THE Coast and Geodetic Survey of the Department of Commerce is charged with the survey of the coasts of the United States and coasts under the jurisdiction thereof, and the publication of charts covering said coasts. This includes base measure, triangulation, topography and hydrography along said coasts; the survey of rivers to the head of tide water or ship navigation, deep sea soundings, temperature and current observations along said coasts and throughout the Gulf and Japan Streams, magnetic observations and researches and the publication of maps showing the variations of terrestrial magnetism; gravity research, determination of heights by precise leveling, the determination of geographic positions by astronomic observations for latitude, longitude and azimuth, and by triangulation to furnish reference points for State surveys and to co-ordinate governmental surveys, the determination of the shape and size of the earth and researches in isostasy, whereby information is obtained regarding variations from normal densities in the outer portions of the earth.

The results obtained are published in annual reports and in special publications; charts upon various scales, including sailing charts, general charts of the coast and harbor charts; tide tables issued annually in advance; coast pilots with sailing directions covering the navigable waters; notice to mariners issued weekly as a joint publication of the Coast and Geodetic Survey and the Bureau of Lighthouses, and containing current information necessary for safe navigation; catalogues of charts and publications, and such other publications as may be required to carry out the organic law governing the survey.

The Act of Congress, approved May 22, 1917, provides for commissions for the normal field force of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, and the President is authorized to transfer to the service and jurisdiction of the War Department or Navy Department in time of national emergency personnel, vessels and equipment of the Coast and Geodetic Survey. Under this authority more than half of the normal field force of the bureau has been transferred to the commissioned personnel in the army or navy. Also five vessels of the bureau with their crews have been transferred to the Navy Department. Besides members of the normal field force, many other employees of the bureau have gone into the army or navy as commissioned officers or privates. The demands of the Navy Department and other branches of the Government service for nautical charts published by the bureau have been far above the normal, and the Navy Department and War Department have called upon the bureau for prompt hydrographic and geodetic surveys to meet military requirements.

UNITED STATES BUREAU OF FISHERIES—DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE.

The work of the Bureau of Fisheries comprises (1) the propagation of useful food fishes, including lobsters, oysters, and other shellfish, and their distribution to suitable waters; (2) the inquiry into the causes of decrease of food fishes in the lakes, rivers and coast waters of the United States, the study of the waters of the coast and interior in the interest of fish culture, and the investigation of the fishing grounds of the Atlantic, Gulf, and Pacific Coasts, with the view of determining their food resources and the development of the commercial fisheries; (3) the collection and compilation of the statistics of the fisheries and the study of methods of capture; apparatus and boats employed, of the methods of preservation of fishery products and the development of uses for the little used or neglected products. The bureau also has jurisdiction over the fur-seal herds and the salmon fisheries of Alaska. Office, Sixth and B Streets, Washington, D. C. The official force of the bureau is as follows: Commissioner—Hugh M. Smith. Deputy Commissioner—Henry F. Moore. Chief Clerk—I. H. Dunlap. Assistants in charge of division: Inquiry Respecting Food Fishes—Robert E. Coker. Fish Culture—Glen C. Leach. Statistics and Methods—Lewis Radcliffe. Architect and Engineer—Henry von Bayer.

CIVIL EMPLOYEES OF UNITED STATES ENTITLED TO COMPENSATION PAY WHEN INJURED.

(Announced in April, 1918, by the U. S. Employés' Compensation Commission.)

An act passed by Congress and approved September 7, 1916, provides for the compensation of civil employees of the United States when they sustain injuries while in the performance of duty. If the injuries need medical or surgical attention the employees are entitled to treatment at United States hospitals and by United States medical officers; or, if these are not available, treatment may be obtained of physicians or hospitals designated for the purpose. If more than three days are lost from work because of the injury, the employee is entitled to compensation for the time lost in excess of three days. The amount of the compensation is two-thirds of his salary, but in no case more than $66.67 a month. Special provisions are made for compensation in case of death.

To carry out the provisions of the act a commission was provided for by the law and appointed by the President. This commission is known as the United States Employees' Compensation Commission, and has offices in the Union Trust Building in Washington. The members of the commission are Mrs. Frances G. Axtell, R. M. Little, and John J. Keegan. The secretary of the commission is Arthur H. Delbert. At arsenals and navy yards and similar establishments of the Army and Navy, where large numbers of civilians are employed, medical officers of the Army and Navy have been detailed to treat injuries of the employees. Throughout the country treatment may be obtained from the medical officers and hospitals of the United States Public Health Service. In all the more important cities where there are no hospitals or medical officers of the Public Health Service arrangements have been made with local hospitals or physicians which have been designated for the care of beneficiaries of the compensation act. Arrangements with hospitals and physicians will be made in all localities where there are sufficient numbers of Government employees to warrant such action. When an employee is injured and desires medical or surgical advice or treatment he should be given by his official superior a letter addressed to the proper hospital or medical officer requesting treatment and reciting the facts that the bearer (giving the name) is an employee of the United States, employed at (giving the name of the office or establishment), that he was injured in the performance of duty on (giving the date), and that treatment is requested for the results of said injury pursuant to the provisions of section 9 of the Federal Compensation Act.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION.

Ex-Officio Presiding Officer of the Institution—Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States. Chancellor of the Institution—Edward Douglass White, Chief Justice of the United States. Secretary of the Institution—Charles D. Walcott. Assistant Secretary in Charge of United States National Museum—Richard Rathbun. Board of Regents—Edward Douglass White, Chief Justice of the United States, Chancellor; Thomas R. Marshall, Vice-President of the United States; Henry Cabot Lodge, Member of the Senate; Henry F. Hollis, Member of the Senate; Charles S. Thomas, Member of the Senate; Scott Ferris, Member of the House of Representatives; Lemuel P. Padgett, Member of the House of Representatives; Frank L. Greene, Member of the House of Representatives; Alexander Graham Bell, citizen of Washington, D. C.; Charles F. Choate, Jr., citizen of Massachusetts; George Gray, citizen of Delaware; John B. Henderson, Jr., citizen of Washington, D. C.; Henry White, citizen of Maryland.

The Institution at Washington, D. C., was established by statute in 1846, under the terms of the will of James Smithson, who bequeathed his fortune in 1826 to the United States to found an institution for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge among men." From the income of the fund a building, known as the Smithsonian Building, was erected on land given by the United States. The Institution is legally an establishment having as its members the President of the United States, the Vice-President, the Chief Justice, and the President's Cabinet. It is governed by a Board of Regents, consisting of the Vice-President, the Chief Justice, three members of the United States Senate, three members of the House of Representatives, and six citizens of the United States appointed by joint resolution of Congress. It is under the immediate direction of the Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, who is the executive officer of the board and the director of the Institution's activities. The Institution maintains a library, numbering about 300,000 volumes, which is deposited in the Library of Congress and which consists mainly of the transactions of learned societies, and scientific periodicals. While the body of the library is deposited in the Library of Congress and accessible to all its readers, a working library is maintained at the Institution. The Regents are empowered to accept gifts without action of Congress, in furtherance of the purposes of the Institution, and to administer trusts in accord therewith.

The Institution has charge of the National Museum, the National Gallery of Art, the International Exchange Service, the Bureau of American Ethnology, the National Zoological Park, the Astrophysical Observatory, and the United States Regional Bureau for the International Catalogue of Scientific Literature.

THE UNITED STATES NATIONAL MUSEUM is the depository of the national collections. It is rich in the natural history, geology, paleontology, archæology and ethnology of America, and has collections of American history, as well as many series relating to fine arts and the industrial arts. It is an educational and a research museum, and issues scientific publications. The National Gallery of Art consists of the collections of etchings and engravings of George P. Marsh, the collections of Charles L. Freer, containing paintings and etchings by Whistler, and examples of Oriental art; the Harriet Lane Johnston collection, including works of a number of the greatest English portrait painters, and the collection of William T. Evans, of one hundred and fifty-one paintings, representing one hundred and six American artists. The National Museum occupies two special structures, built in 1881 and 1911, containing 650,000 square feet of floor space. There are 6,274 articles in the Freer collection. The amount of the annual appropriations made by Congress for the support of the museum for the fiscal year 1918 was $383,500 for the preservation and maintenance of the collections, the necessary exhibitions, storage and office furniture, heating and lighting the building, and repairs to same. In addition to this there was appropriated for publications, binding of books, etc., $37,500, to be expended under the direction of the Public Printer. The buildings are opened to the public 9 A. M. to 4.30 P. M. weekdays, and in addition the new building at the foot of Tenth Street is opened Sundays, 1.30 P. M. to 4.30 P. M.

THE BUREAU OF AMERICAN ETHNOLOGY, for the study of the American Indian; THE ASTROPHYSICAL OBSERVATORY, for the investigation of solar phenomena; THE NATIONAL ZOOLOGICAL PARK at Washington, containing about 1,400 animals; and the Regional Bureau of the INTERNATIONAL CATALOGUE OF SCIENTIFIC LITERATURE, for the preparation of a classified index to the current scientific literature of the United States, are also branches of the Institution.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION.

(Headquarters, Washington, D. C.)

THE Federal Trade Commission is appointed by the President. Not more than three of the Commissioners can be members of the same political party. No Commissioner shall engage in any other business, vocation, or employment. A vacancy in the commission does not impair the right of the remaining Commissioners to exercise all the powers of the commission. The Commissioners receive a salary of $10,000 a year and the Secretary $5,000. The principal office of the commission is in Washington, but it may meet and exercise all its powers at any other place. The commission may, by one or more of its members or by such examiners as it may designate, prosecute any inquiry necessary to its duties in any part of the United States under a clause in the act creating that body which provides that unfair methods of competition in commerce are declared unlawful. The commission is empowered and directed to prevent persons, partnerships, or corporations, except banks, and common carriers subject to the acts to regulate commerce, from using unfair methods of competition in commerce. Whenever the commission shall have reason to believe that any such person, partnership, or corporation has been or is using any unfair method of competition in commerce, and if it shall appear to the commission that a proceeding by it in respect thereof would be to the interest of the public, it has the duty of making an inquiry, taking testimony, etc. The defendant may appeal to the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals if disposed not to submit to investigation. The commission has authority to compile information concerning, and to investigate the business and practices of, corporations engaged in interstate commerce, and to require by its order sworn reports from them on their own business and their relation to other corporations; to classify corporations; to investigate and report on violations of the anti-trust acts; to investigate trade conditions in and with foreign countries and report to Congress thereon, with advisable recommendations. The commission proceeds in ordinary anti-trust inquiries under the Sherman law as amended by the Clayton act. The four amendments of the Clayton act, approved respectively May 15, 1916, August 31, 1916, March 4, 1917, and January 12, 1918, simply extend to January 1, 1919, the operations of Section 10 (forbidding any common carrier from buying more than $50,000 in supplies in a year from any concern in which any officer or purchasing agent of the common carrier is interested) and therefore do not touch upon the powers or duties of the Federal Trade Commission. By executive order of October 12, 1917, the President vested in the Federal Trade Commission the power and authority to administer Sections 17, 18, 19, 20 and 21 of "An Act to define, regulate and punish trading with the enemy," approved October 6, 1917. The commission is also charged with enforcement of the provisions of "An Act to promote export trade and for other purposes," approved April 10, 1918, and for that purpose has all the powers, so far as applicable, given in its organic act. By the terms of "An Act to provide further for the national security and defense by encouraging the production, conserving the supply, and controlling the distribution of food products and fuel," the President is authorized to, and he has exercised through the agency of the Federal Trade Commission, certain functions with reference to the determination of costs, etc., in the coal and coal industry.

In July, 1917, President Wilson designated the Federal Trade Commission as the official cost finding agency for the Government, and since this designation the commission has been particularly engaged during 1918 in ascertaining the cost of production of a great variety of materials essential to the conduct of the war. The commission has been called upon by the President, the War Industries Board, and the war-making agencies to determine the cost both of raw materials and finished products in many branches of industry, including coal and coke, steel, copper, oil, lumber, iron ore, food products, etc. This cost work is the principal war work of the commission. The commission has also continued during the year the general food investigation under authority of the President's directions "to investigate and report the facts relating to the production, ownership, manufacture, storage and distribution of foodstuffs and the products or by-products arising from or in connection with their preparation and manufacture; to ascertain the facts bearing on alleged violations of the anti-trust acts, and particularly upon the question whether there are manipulations, controls, trusts, combinations, conspiracies, or restraints of trade out of harmony with the law or the public interest." Reports on canned foods, flour milling and jobbing and the meat packing industry have been submitted to the President.

A recent special investigation is that undertaken in response to Senate resolutions of May 13, 1918, directing the commission "to investigate and report to the Senate the cause or causes for the high prices of the articles hereinafter mentioned required to be bought and used by the farmers of the country on the farms, and to investigate and report the facts relative to the existence of any unfair methods of trade or competition by manufacturers and dealers in any of the articles hereinafter mentioned in respect to any act, combination, agreement, or conspiracy to restrict, depress, or control the prices, production, or supply of any of the articles enumerated as follows, to wit: Agricultural implements and machinery of every kind and description."

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC SOCIETY.

FOUNDED in 1889, "for the increase and diffusion of geographic knowledge," the society has now more than 650,000 members. In the promotion of its purpose to increase geographic knowledge, its expeditions have unearthed Machu Picchu, the holy city of the Incas, and the staircase farms of the ancients in America, which far eclipse the hanging gardens of Babylon; have studied the problems of vulcanism and earthquakes in the West Indies, Alaska, and the Mediterranean; have made the most exhaustive study of glacial action ever undertaken, and accomplished other important investigations and discoveries. In the work of diffusing geographic knowledge, it publishes a magazine which reaches more than 650,000 homes, conducts a bureau of information which furnishes daily statements without charge to the press of the United States concerning places and matters of geographic interest in the public eye, publishes books, maps, and monographs, and otherwise cultivates a national interest in the broader phases of non-technical as well as technical geography. The society last year contributed out of its reserve funds the money necessary to purchase—to preserve from destruction—the privately-owned big trees of the Sequoia National Park region of California, and deeded them to the Federal Government to be held in perpetuity for the benefit of posterity.

In 1916 its expedition under Prof. Robert F. Griggs climbed Mount Katmai, in whose crater Vesuvius could be buried, and discovered the "Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes," the most remarkable volcanic region in the world. In 1917 a second expedition to this valley showed its area and the character of the phenomena observed to surpass anything hinted at in the reports of the previous expedition. Last year the society sent a fourth expedition to Alaska to prepare bases and make observations in preparation for a large expedition to be despatched this year. In 1917 and 1918 the principal undertaking of the society has been that of co-operating with the United States Government in the prosecution of the war. Its large mailing organization has been in constant use by the War and Treasury Departments without charge; its map department, in addition to issuing maps of the theatres of war, prepares the maps used by the Red Cross in prison camp work and by the Committee on Public Information in keeping the country advised on the drift of the battle lines; its research staff has been co-operating with the War Savings and Liberty Loan Committees in the preparation of data for the school; and its membership at large is supporting several wards at American Hospital No. 1, at Neuilly, a suburb of Paris. The officers are: President—O. H. Tittmann. Vice-President—John E. Pillsbury. Secretary—O. P. Austin. Director and Editor—Gilbert H. Grosvenor. Associated Editor—John Oliver La Gorce. Assistant Editors—Wm. J. Showalter and Ralph A. Graves. Headquarters, Washington, D. C.

THE SHERMAN LAW.

THE following is the text concerning Trusts:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled:

SEC. 1. Every contract, combination in the form of trust or otherwise, or conspiracy, in restraint of trade or commerce among the several States, or with foreign nations, is hereby declared to be illegal. Every person who shall make any such contract, or engage in any such combination or conspiracy, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, on conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $5,000, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by both said punishments in the discretion of the Court.

SEC. 2. Every person who shall monopolize, or attempt to monopolize, or combine or conspire with any other person or persons to monopolize any part of the trade or commerce among the several States, or with foreign nations, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $5,000, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by both said punishments, in the discretion of the Court.

SEC. 3. Every contract, combination in form or trust or otherwise, or conspiracy, in restraint of trade or commerce in any Territory of the United States, or the District of Columbia, or in restraint of trade or commerce between any such Territory and another, or between any such Territory or Territories and State or States or the District of Columbia, or with foreign nations, or between the District of Columbia and any State or States or foreign nations, is hereby declared illegal. Every person who shall make any such contract, or engage in any such combination or conspiracy, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $5,000, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by both said punishments in the discretion of the Court.

SEC. 4. The several Circuit Courts of the United States are hereby invested with jurisdiction to prevent and restrain violations of this act; and it shall be the duty of the several District-Attorneys of the United States, in their respective districts, under the direction of the Attorney-General, to institute proceedings in equity to prevent and restrain such violations. Such proceedings may be by way of petition setting forth the case and praying that such violation shall be enjoined or otherwise prohibited. When the parties complained of shall have been duly notified of such petition the Court shall proceed, as soon as may be, to the hearing and determination of the case; and pending such petition and before final decree, the Court may at any time make such temporary restraining order or prohibition as shall be deemed just in the premises.

SEC. 5. Whenever it shall appear to the Court before which any proceeding under sec. 4 of this act may be pending that the ends of justice require that other parties should be brought before the Court, the Court may cause them to be summoned, whether they reside in the district in which the Court is held or not; and subpoenas to that end may be served in any district by the marshal thereof.

SEC. 6. Any property owned under any contract or by any combination, or pursuant to any conspiracy (and being the subject thereof) mentioned in Section 1 of this act, and being in the course of transportation from one State to another, or to a foreign country, shall be forfeited to the United States, and may be seized and condemned by like proceedings as those provided by law for the forfeiture, seizure and condemnation of property imported into the United States contrary to law.

SEC. 7. Any person who shall be injured in his business or property by any other person or corporation by reason of anything forbidden or declared to be unlawful by this act may sue therefor in any Circuit Court of the United States in the district in which the defendant resides or is found, without respect to the amount in controversy, and shall recover threefold the damages by him sustained, and the costs of suit, including a reasonable attorney's fee.

SEC. 8. That the word "person" or "persons" wherever used in this act shall be deemed to include corporations and associations existing under or authorized by the laws of either the United States, the laws of any of the Territories, the laws of any State or the laws of any foreign country.

Approved July 2, 1890.

CLAYTON ACT AMENDMENTS TO SHERMAN LAW.

Suits and proceedings against a corporation may be brought in any district wherein found or transacting business. Subpoenaes may run into any district, except that in civil cases permission of court must be had to bring witness more than 100 miles. Violations by corporations deemed also that of individual directors, officers or agents authorizing, or doing any of acts constituting violation in whole or in part. Injunctive relief against threatened loss provided for, and temporary injunctions without notice under stringent safeguards (giving security, prompt and early hearing, etc.). Special provisions enacted to cover disputes between employers and employees. In general so-called "strikes" and "striking" by laboring men and unions where peaceable means and methods alone are employed, cannot be enjoined. Persons or corporations wilfully disobeying orders, decrees, etc., issued under the Sherman law may, in certain cases, be proceeded against as for criminal contempt. In such cases defendant may demand jury trial. Punishment for contempt is not to exceed $1,000 fine, nor six months imprisonment. These provisions do not apply to contempts committed in presence of the court, or so near thereto as to obstruct the administration of justice.

The Supreme Court of the United States has held that violations of Federal Anti-Trust Act could not be remedied by an injunction on suit of private person in proceeding brought by certain lumber companies against a carpenters' union and other labor organizations.

LICENSE RULES OF THE FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION.

Under the Trading With the Enemy Act and the Executive Order of October 12, 1917, the commission was authorized to handle three general subjects: (1) Licensing the filing and prosecution or the payment of taxes with respect to patent, trade-mark, etc., applications in enemy countries. (2) Licensing citizens and corporations organized within the United States under patents, trade-marks, etc., owned or controlled by an enemy or ally of enemy. (3) The issuance of orders of secrecy regarding inventions the publication of which by the granting of a patent may be detrimental to the public safety or defense, etc. On April 11, 1918, the President issued an Executive Order revoking the authority of the Trade Commission under Section 17 of the Executive Order of October 12, 1917, and providing that no such licenses should be issued until further order. No license to file and prosecute or to pay fees with respect to applications in enemy countries were thereafter issued by any bureau of the Government.

UNITED STATES PATENT OFFICE PROCEDURE.

(Revised by the Patent Office at Washington.)

Patents are issued in the name of the United States, and under the seal of the Patent Office, to any person who has invented or discovered any new and useful art, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter or any new and useful improvement thereof, or any new, original and ornamental design for an article of manufacture, not known or used by others in this country before his invention or discovery thereof, and not patented or described in any printed publication in this or any foreign country, before his invention or discovery thereof or more than two years prior to his application, and not in public use or on sale in the United States for more than two years prior to his application, unless the same is proved to have been abandoned; upon payment of the fees required by law and other due proceedings had.

Every patent contains a grant to the patentee, his heirs or assigns, for the term of seventeen years, except in the case of design patents, of the exclusive right to make, use, and vend the invention or discovery throughout the United States and the Territories, referring to the specifications for the particulars thereof.

If it appear that the inventor, at the time of making his application, believed himself to be the first inventor or discoverer, a patent will not be refused on account of the invention or discovery, or any part thereof, having been known or used in any foreign country before his invention or discovery thereof, if it had not been before patented or described in any printed publication.

Joint inventors are entitled to a joint patent; neither can claim one separately. Independent inventors of distinct and independent improvements in the same machine cannot obtain a joint patent for their separate inventions; nor does the fact that one furnishes the capital and another makes the invention entitle them to make application as joint inventors; but in such case they may become joint patentees by means of a deed of assignment.

No person otherwise entitled thereto will be debarred from receiving a patent for his invention or discovery, by reason of its having been first patented or caused to be patented by the inventor or his legal representatives or assigns in a foreign country, unless the application for said foreign patent was filed more than twelve months prior to the filing of the application in this country, and four months in cases of designs, in which case no patent shall be granted in this country.

If an inventor wishes to file an application for patent, a copy of the Rules of Practice, containing forms and instructions, will be sent upon request. It is advisable, however, in every case, that the services of a competent registered patent attorney be secured, as the value of patents depends largely upon the skilful preparation of the specification and claims. The Patent Office cannot recommend any particular attorney or firm, but advises applicants to avoid doing business with those who advertise the possession of unusual facilities for obtaining patents.

Applications for patents must be made in writing to the Commissioner of Patents. The applicant must file in the Patent Office a written description of the invention or discovery, and of the manner and process of making, constructing, compounding, and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art or science to which it appertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make, construct, compound, and use the same; and in case of a machine, he must explain the principle thereof, and the best mode in which he has contemplated applying that principle, so as to distinguish it from other inventions, and particularly point out and distinctly claim the part, improvement, or combination which he claims as his invention or discovery. The specification and claim must be signed by the inventor.

When the nature of the invention admits of drawings, the applicant must furnish a drawing of the required size, signed by the inventor or his attorney in fact. The applicant, if required by the Patent Office, shall furnish a model of convenient size to exhibit advantageously the several parts of his invention or discovery, but a model should not be sent unless first called for by the Patent Office.

The applicant shall make oath that he verily believes himself to be the original and first inventor or discoverer of the art, machine, manufacture, composition, or improvement for which he solicits a patent; that he does not know and does not believe that the same was ever before known or used, and shall state of what country he is a citizen and where he resides, and whether he is the sole or joint inventor of the invention claimed in his application. In every original application the applicant must distinctly state under oath that the invention has not been patented to himself or to others with his knowledge or consent in this or any foreign country for more than two years prior to his application, or on an application for a patent filed in any foreign country by himself or his legal representatives or assigns more that twelve months prior to his application in this country, or four months in cases of designs. If any application for patent has been filed in any foreign country by the applicant in this country or by his legal representatives or assigns, prior to his application in this country, he shall state the country or countries in which such application has been filed, giving the date of such application, and shall also state that no application has been filed in any other country or countries than those mentioned; that to the best of his knowledge and belief the invention has not been in public use or on sale in the United States nor described in any printed publication or patent in this or any foreign country for more than two years prior to his application in this country. Such oath may be made before any person within the United States authorized by law to administer oaths, or, when the applicant resides in a foreign country, before any Minister, Chargé d'Affaires, Consul, or commercial agent holding commission under the Government of the United States, or before any notary public, Judge or Magistrate having an official seal and authorized to administer oaths in that country whose authority shall be proved by a certificate of a diplomatic or consular officer of the United States, except that no acknowledgment may be taken by any attorney appearing in the case.

On the filing of such application and the payment of the fees required by law, if, on examination, it appears that the applicant is justly entitled to a patent under the law, and that the invention is sufficiently useful and important, the Commissioner will issue a patent therefor.

Every patent or any interest therein shall be assignable in law by an instrument in writing; and the patentee or his assigns or legal representatives may, in like manner, grant and convey an exclusive right under his patent to the whole or any specified part of the United States.

A reissue is granted to the original patentee, his legal representatives, or the assignees of the entire interest when, by reason of a defective or insufficient specification, or by reason of the patentee claiming as his invention or discovery more that he had a right to claim as new, the original patent is inoperative or invalid, provided the error has arisen from inadvertence, accident, or mistake, and without any fraudulent or deceptive intention. Reissue applications must be made and the specifications sworn to by the inventors, if they be living.

Fees must be paid in advance, and are as follows: On filing each original application for a patent, $15. On issuing each original patent, $20. In design cases: For three years and six months, $10; for seven years, $15; for fourteen years, $30. On every application for the reissue of a patent, $30. On filing each disclaimer, $10. For certified copies of patents and other papers in manuscript, ten cents per hundred words and twenty-five cents for the certificate; for certified copies of printed patents, eighty cents. For uncertified printed copies of specifications and drawings of patents, five cents each. For recording every assignment, agreement, power of attorney, or other paper, of three hundred words or under, $1; or over three hundred and under one thousand words, $2; for each additional thousand words, or fraction thereof, $1. For copies of drawings, the reasonable cost of making them. The Patent Office is prepared to furnish positive photographic copies of the drawings of pending, patented or abandoned cases, in sizes and at rates as follows: Large size, 10x15 inches, twenty-five cents; medium size, 8x12½ inches, fifteen cents. Negative photographic copies of specifications and drawings of foreign patents, or of any page or part of page of any printed publication in the possession of the office, will be furnished on paper 7x11 inches for fifteen cents per sheet. Stamps cannot be accepted by the Patent Office in payment of fees. Stamps and stamped envelopes should not be sent to the office for replies to letters, as stamps are not required on mail matter emanating from the Patent Office.

The most important changes in Patent Office practice put in effect in the past year are as follows:

In Rule 93. "An interference is a proceeding instituted for the purpose of determining the question of priority of invention between two or more parties claiming substantially the same patentable invention. In order to ascertain whether any question of priority arises the Commissioner may call upon any junior applicant to state in writing the date when he conceived the invention under consideration. All statements filed in compliance with this rule will be returned to the parties filing them. In case the applicant makes no reply within the time specified, not less than ten days, the Commissioner will proceed upon the assumption that the said date is the date of the oath attached to the application. The fact that one of the parties has already obtained a patent will not prevent an interference, for, although the Commissioner has no power to cancel a patent, he may grant another patent for the same invention to a person who proves to be the prior inventor."

In Rule 77. "If an applicant neglect to prosecute his application for one year after the date when the last-official notice of any action by the office was mailed to him, the application will be held to be abandoned, as set forth in Rule 171.

REGISTRATION OF TRADE-MARKS IN THE UNITED STATES.

THE following are extracts from the new "Act to authorize the registration of trade-marks used in commerce with foreign nations, or among the several States or Indian tribes, and to protect the same," approved February 20, 1905, and later amendatory acts.

"The owner of a trade-mark used in commerce with foreign nations, or among the several States, or with Indian tribes, provided such owner shall be domiciled within the territory of the United States, or resides in or is located in any foreign country, which, by treaty, convention, or law, affords similar privileges to the citizens of the United States, may obtain registration for such trade-mark by complying with the following requirements: First, by filing in the Patent Office an application therefor, in writing, addressed to the Commissioner of Patents, signed by the applicant, specifying his name, domicile, location, and citizenship; the class of merchandise and the particular description of goods comprised in such class to which the trade-mark is appropriated; a statement of the mode in which the same is applied and affixed to goods and the length of time during which the trade-mark has been used; a description of the trade-mark itself shall be included, if desired by the applicant or required by the Commissioner, provided such description is of a character to meet the approval of the Commissioner. With this statement shall be filed a drawing of the trade-mark, signed by the applicant, or his attorney, and such number of specimens of the trade-mark, as actually used, as may be required by the Commissioner of Patents. Second, by paying into the Treasury of the United States the sum of ten dollars, and otherwise complying with the requirements of this act and such regulations as may be prescribed by the Commissioner of Patents.

"A certificate of registration shall remain in force for twenty years, except that in the case of trademarks previously registered in a foreign country such certificates shall cease to be in force on the day on which the trade-mark ceases to be protected in such foreign country, and shall in no case remain in force more than twenty years, unless renewed. Certificates of registration may be, from time to time, renewed for like periods on payments of the renewal fees required by this act, upon request by the registrant, his legal representatives, or transferees of record in the Patent Office, and such request may be made at any time not more than six months prior to the expiration of the period for which the certificates of registration were issued or renewed. Certificates of registration in force at the date at which this act takes effect shall remain in force for the period for which they were issued, but shall be renewable on the same conditions and for the same periods as certificates issued under the provisions of this act, and when so renewed shall have the same force and effect as certificates issued under this act.

"The registration of a trade-mark under the provisions of this act shall be prima facie evidence of ownership. Any person who shall, without the consent of the owner thereof, reproduce, counterfeit, copy, or colorably imitate any such trade-mark and affix the same to merchandise of substantially the same descriptive properties as those set forth in the registration, or to labels, signs, prints, packages, wrappers, or receptacles intended to be used upon or in connection with the sale of merchandise of substantially the same descriptive properties as those set forth in such registration, and shall use, or shall have used, such reproduction, counterfeit, copy, or colorable imitation in commerce among the several States, or with a foreign nation, or with the Indian tribes, shall be liable to an action for damages therefor at the suit of the owner thereof; and whenever in any such action a verdict is rendered for the plaintiff, the court may enter judgment therein for any sum above the amount found by the verdict as the actual damages, according to the circumstances of the case, not exceeding three times the amount of such verdict, together with the costs."

No trade-mark will be registered which consists of or comprises immoral or scandalous matter, or which consists of or comprises the flag or coat of arms or other insignia of the United States, or any simulation thereof, or of any State or municipality, or of any foreign nation, or which consists of or comprises any design or picture that has been adopted by any fraternal society as its emblem, or of any name, distinguishing mark, character, emblem, colors, flag, or banner adopted by any institution, organization, club, or society which was incorporated in any State in the United States prior to the date of the adoption and use by the applicant; Provided, That said name, distinguishing mark, character, emblem, colors, flag, or banner was adopted and publicly used by said institution, organization, club, or society prior to the date of adoption and use by the applicant; unless it shall be shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioner of Patents that the mark was adopted and used as a trade-mark by the applicant or applicant's predecessors, from whom title is derived, at a date prior to the date of its adoption by such fraternal society as its emblem, or which trade-mark is identical with a registered or known trade-mark owned and in use by another, and appropriated to merchandise of the same descriptive properties, or which so nearly resembles a registered or known trade-mark owned and in use by another, and appropriated to merchandise of the same descriptive properties as to be likely to cause confusion or mistake in the minds of the public, or to deceive purchasers; or which consists merely in the name of an individual, firm, corporation, or association, not written, printed, impressed, or woven in some particular or distinctive manner or in association with a portrait of the individual, or merely in words or devices which are descriptive of the goods with which they are used, or of the character or quality of such goods, or merely a geographical name or term; no portrait of a living individual will be registered as a trade-mark, except by the consent of such individual evidenced by an instrument in writing; and no trade-mark will be registered which is used in unlawful business, or upon any article injurious in itself, or which has been used with the design of deceiving the public in the purchase of merchandise, or which has been abandoned.

Any mark, used in commerce with foreign nations or among the several States or with Indian tribes, may be registered if it has been in actual and exclusive use as a trade-mark of the applicant, or his predecessors from whom he derived title, for ten years next preceding the passage of the act of February 20, 1905.

By Act of Congress approved February 18, 1909, the second section of the trades-mark act was amended so as to read as follows:

"The application prescribed in the foregoing section, in order to create any right whatever in favor of the party filing it, must be accompanied by a written declaration verified by the applicant, or by a member of the firm or an officer of the corporation or association applying, to the effect that the applicant believes himself or the firm, corporation, or association in whose behalf he makes the application to be the owner of the trade-mark sought to be registered, and that no other person, firm, corporation, or association, to the best of the applicant's knowledge and belief, has the right to use such trade-mark in the United States, either in the identical form or in such near resemblance thereto as might be calculated to deceive; that such trade-mark is used in commerce among the several States, or with foreign nations, or with Indian tribes, and that the description and drawing presented truly represent the trade-mark sought to be registered. If the applicant resides or is located in a foreign country, the statement required shall, in addition to the foregoing, set forth that the trade-mark has been registered by the applicant, or that an application for the registration thereof has been filed by him in the foreign country in which he resides or is located, and shall give the date of such registration, or the application therefor, as the case may be, except that in the application in such cases it shall not be necessary to state that the mark has been used in commerce with the United States or among the States thereof. The verification required by this section may be made before any person within the United States authorized by law to administer oaths, or, when the applicant resides in a foreign country, before any Minister, Charge d'Affaires, Consul, or commercial agent holding commission under the Government of the United States, or before any notary public, Judge, or Magistrate having an official seal and authorized to administer oaths in the foreign country in which the applicant may be whose authority shall be proved by a certificate of a diplomatic or consular officer of the United States."

A fee of $10.00 is required by law to be paid with each application for the registration of a trade-mark, and this fee will include the certificate of registration, if the trade-mark be determined to be registrable.

COPYRIGHT LAW OF THE UNITED STATES.

(Revised by Thorvald Solberg, Register of Copyrights.)

THE copyright law approved March 4, 1909, which took effect on July 1, 1909, provides that the application for registration of any work "shall specify to which of the following classes the work in which copyright is claimed belongs":

(a) Books, including composite and cyclopedic works, directories, gazetteers and other compilations; (b) periodicals, including newspapers; (c) lectures, sermons, addresses, prepared for oral delivery; (d) dramatic or dramatico-musical compositions; (e) musical compositions; (f) maps; (g) works of art, models or designs for works of art; (h) reproductions of a work of art; (i) drawings or plastic works of a scientific or technical character; (j) photographs; (k) prints and pictorial illustrations. The amendment of August 24, 1912, adds: (l) motion picture photo-plays; (m) motion pictures other than photo-plays.

The application for registration of any article should distinctly specify to which one of these classes the work belongs. An article is not entitled to registration unless it is reasonably possible to class it under one or the other of the designations named in the statute.

For works reproduced in copies for sale or public distribution: 1. Publish the work with the copyright notice. The notice may be in the form "Copyright, 19....(year date of publication) by.....(name of copyright proprietor), or in case of works specified above (f) to (k) the notice may consist of the letter C enclosed in a circle (C) accompanied by the initials, monogram, mark or symbol of the proprietor—provided that his name shall appear on some accessible part of the copies." 2. Promptly after publication send to the Copyright Office, Library of Congress, Washington, D. C., two copies (or if the work is by a foreign citizen and is first published in a foreign country, one copy only) of the best edition of the work, with an application for registration. In the case of motion picture photo-plays and of motion pictures other than photo-plays a description of the work must be filed, together with copies of the reels, and a money order payable to the Register of Copyrights for the statutory registration fee of $1.

In the case of books by American authors, or permanent residents of the United States, the copies deposited must be accompanied by an affidavit, under the official seal of an officer authorized to administer oaths, stating that the typesetting, printing and binding of the book have been performed within the United States. Affidavit and application forms will be supplied by the Copyright Office on request.

Books of foreign origin in a language or languages other than English are not required to be manufactured in the United States. In the case of a book in the English language published abroad before publication in this country, an ad interim copyright for 30 days from the day of the deposit of the foreign copy may be secured by depositing in the Copyright Office one complete copy of the foreign edition within 30 days after its publication abroad. If two copies of such book manufactured in this country are deposited with application for registration and fee ($1) published during the ad interim term, the copyright shall be extended for the full term of 28 years.

For works not reproduced in copies for sale: Copyright may also be had of certain classes of works (see a, b, c, below) of which copies are not reproduced for sale, by filing in the Copyright Office an application for registration, with the statutory fee of $1, sending therewith: (a) In the case of lectures or other oral addresses or of dramatic or musical compositions, one complete manuscript or typewritten copy of the work. This privilege of registration, however, does not exempt the copyright proprietor from the deposit of printed copies of a dramatic or musical composition or lecture where the work is later reproduced in copies for sale. A new application must be made in such cases and another fee of $1 paid. (b) In the case of photographs not intended for general circulation, one photographic print. (c) In the case of works of art (paintings, drawings, sculpture); or of drawings or plastic works of a scientific or technical character, one photograph or other identifying production of the work. In the case of a motion picture photo-play a title and description and one print taken from each scene or act. In case of a motion picture other than a photo-play, a title and description with not less than two prints to be taken from different sections of a complete motion picture. In all these cases, if the work is later reproduced in copies for sale, two copies must then be deposited.

For registration of any work subject to copyright, $1, which sum is to include a certificate of registration under seal. But only one registration at one fee is required in the case of several volumes of the same book deposited in the Copyright Office at the same time. For every additional certificate of registration, or copy of record under seal, 50 cents. In the case of photographs the fee shall be 50 cents where a certificate is not requested. For recording and certifying an assignment of copyright, or for a certified copy of an assignment, $1, if the instrument is not over three hundred words in length; if more than three hundred and less than one thousand words in length, $2; if more than one thousand words in length, $1 additional for each additional one thousand words or fraction thereof over three hundred words. For comparing a copy of an assignment with the record of such document in the Copyright Office and certifying the same under seal, $1. For recording the transfer of the proprietorship of copyright articles, 10 cents for each title of a book or other article, in addition to the fee prescribed for recording the instrument of assignment. For recording an extension or renewal of copyright, 50 cents. Remittances should be made by money order payable to the Register of Copyrights. Forms for application for copyright registration will be furnished on request.

The original term of copyright runs for twenty-eight years. Within one year prior to the expiration of the original term, the author, if living, or the widow or widower of the author, or the children of the author if he be not living; or if none of these be living then the author's executors, or in the absence of a will, the author's next of kin may secure a renewal for a further term of twenty-eight years, making fifty-six years in all. In case of composite works, if the proprietor secured the original copyrights, he may also secure the renewal.

Copyrights are assignable by any instruments of writing. Every assignment of copyright must be recorded in the Copyright Office within three calendar months after its execution in the United States or within six calendar months after its execution without the limits of the United States. "In default of which it shall be void as against any subsequent purchaser or mortgagee for a valuable consideration, without notice, whose assignment has been duly recorded." Every assignment of copyright executed in a foreign country must be acknowledged by the assignor before a consular officer or secretary of legation of the United States authorized by law to administer oaths or perform notarial acts. The certificate of such acknowledgment under the hand and official seal of such Consular Officer or Secretary of Legation is prima facie evidence of the execution of the instrument.

INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT RELATIONS.

Copyright is not secured in foreign countries by action in the Copyright Office, but only by complying with the legislation of such countries.

Copyright relations have been established with the following foreign countries by proclamation of the President: Austria, Belgium, Chile, Costa Rica, Cuba, Denmark, France, Germany, Great Britain and the British possessions, Italy, Luxemburg, Mexico, Netherlands and possessions, Norway, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Tunis.

Copyright proclamations have been issued under Sec. 1 (e) of the act of 1909, securing copyright control of mechanical musical reproduction in the U. S. to citizens or subjects of Australia, Belgium, Cuba, France, Germany, Great Britain, Italy, Luxemburg, New Zealand and Norway. The convention with Hungary includes such protection.

Copyright treaties have also been entered into with China, Japan and Hungary (the latter in effect on October 16, 1912). The Copyright Convention of Mexico of 1902 has been ratified by the United States and is effective from July 1, 1908, as between the United States and Costa Rica, Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua and Salvador. The Pan-American Copyright Convention signed at Buenos Ayres in 1910 was proclaimed July 13, 1914, and is effective as between the United States and Bolivia, Brazil, Costa Rica, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Guatemala Honduras, Nicaragua, Panama and Salvador.

UNITED STATES RECLAMATION SERVICE.

(By the Official Staff.)

Arthur P. Davis, Director and Chief Engineer; Will R. King, Chief Counsel. Main office: Eighth and E Streets, N. W., Washington, D. C. Employés: Washington office, 100; West, 6,500 (varies). Expenditures per year about $8,000,000.

The Reclamation Service, organized in July, 1902, under the Reclamation Act of June 17, 1902, is engaged in the investigation, construction, and operation of thirty irrigation projects aggregating 3,000,000 acres located in the seventeen arid and semi-arid States of the Far West, including Ariz., Cal., Col., Idaho, Kan., Mont., Neb., Nev., N. M., N. Dak., Okla., Ore., S. Dak., Utah, Wash., Wyo., and Tex. The funds for this work come largely from the sale of public lands; and the money expended is returned to the fund by easy payments of settlers, usually in twenty annual instalments without interest in accordance with the Reclamation Extension Act of August 13, 1914. A Western executive office is maintained at Denver. The Chief Counsel has an office in Washington and field offices in Denver and other points. The Supervisor of Irrigation has his office at Billings, Mont. The Service has built on the thirty projects over 11,000 miles of canals, ditches and drains, including 80,000 canal structures and involving the excavation of 150,000,000 cubic yards of materials. In connection with this work there have been constructed 100 storage and diversion dams, including the Arrowrock Dam, 349 feet high, the highest in the world, the Elephant Butte Dam on the Rio Grande forming the largest irrigation reservoir in the United States, of 2,600,000 acre-feet capacity, and the longest roller crest dam in the world, located on the Grand River in Colorado. The Service has built 94 tunnels, 900 miles of road, 83 miles of railroad, 2,800 miles of telephone line, a dozen power plants and 450 miles of transmission lines; and is also mining coal and has manufactured 1,500,000 barrels of cement and sand-cement. The total expenditures to date are about $125,000,000.

Over 100,000 persons are living on the 25,000 farms irrigated by the Service, and the value of the crops in 1917 on the 1,100,000 acres cropped was about $50,000,000. About 3,000,000 acres of land (60,000 farms) will be irrigated on the completion of these projects and the annual value of the crops will be approximately $100,000,000. Information in regard to farms open to settlement may be obtained by addressing Statistician, U. S. Reclamation Service, Washington, D. C. There are many farms of from 40 to 80 acres on these public lands open to settlement, the cost of which, including perpetual water right, ranges from $30 to $60 per acre, and a farmer has twenty years to make the payments without interest.

The largest irrigbale area is that of the Boise project, in Idaho, 277,366 acres; gross cost of construction, $12,487,390. The next is the North Platte, in Nebraska-Wyoming, 229,891 acres; gross cost, $8,069,893. During construction, the irrigative projects have produced $6,534,184, reducing the net cost of construction to $115,164,177.

UNITED STATES STEAMBOAT INSPECTION SERVICE.

(By George Uhler, Supervising Inspector General of that Bureau of United States Department Commerce.)

THE Steamboat Inspection Service by act of Congress approved February 14, 1903, was transferred from the Treasury Department to the Department of Commerce. The transfer went into effect July 1, 1903. The Supervising Inspector General of the Steamboat Inspection Service, George Uhler, reported to the Secretary of Commerce for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1916: Number of annual certificates of inspection issued to domestic steam, motor vessels and barges, 6,788; number of certificates issued to foreign steamers, 227; total number of annual certificates of inspection issued to domestic and foreign, 7,015. Increase in number of certificates to domestic vessels from previous year, 12; increase in number of certificates to foreign vessels from previous year, 19; increase in number of certificates of all kinds of vessels from previous year, 31. Gross tonnage of domestic vessels, all kinds inspected, 6,846,356; increase over previous year, 886,046. Gross tonnage of foreign steamers inspected, 1,618,340; increase from previous year, 329,061. Number of officers' licenses issued, 32,058. Increase in number of officers' licenses issued from previous year, 5,494. Number of new life preservers inspected, 319,259, of which number 5,474 were rejected. Increase in number of new life preservers inspected over previous year, 116,676. Increase in number of life preservers rejected over previous year, 4,115. Number of marine boiler plates inspected at the mills by assistant inspectors, 9,605.

CAUSES.	Lives Lost.	CAUSES.	Lives Lost.

Number of accidents resulting in loss of life, 217, a decrease of 40 over previous year. Decrease in number of lives lost over previous year, 92. During the year 335,141,118 passengers were carried on steam vessels that are required by law to report the number of passengers carried. Dividing this number by 77, the total number of passengers lost shows that 4,352,462 passengers were carried for each passenger lost. Number of lives directly saved by means of life-saving appliances required by law, 1,356.

LIFEBOAT REQUIREMENTS.

(By the Steamboat Inspection Service of the Department of Commerce.)

Every inspected steam vessel and motor vessel navigating the ocean, Great Lakes, lakes, bays, or sounds, except ferry-boats, are required to be provided with sufficient lifeboat and lifecraft capacity to carry every person on board, except that in the case of steamers navigating coastwise, the Great Lakes, lakes, bays and sounds the required capacity is reduced on steamers navigating shallow waters near land and in the warm season of the year. Ferry-boats, barges, and steam vessels navigating rivers are required to be provided with such boats and rafts as in the judgment of the inspectors may be necessary, a minimum lifeboat capacity being required for these classes of vessels.

LIFE-PRESERVER REQUIREMENTS.

Every inspected vessel, except ferry-boats navigating rivers, is required to be provided with a life preserver (or float on river steamers) for adults for every person carried, and on every vessel navigating the ocean, Great Lakes, lakes other than the Great Lakes, bays, or sounds, in addition thereto, a number of life preservers suitable for children equal to at least 10 per cent. of the total number of persons carried. Ferry-boats navigating rivers only are required to be provided with life preservers or wooden floats according to deck measurement.

NUMBER OF VESSELS INSPECTED.

During the year ended June 30, 1917, the Steamboat Inspection Service inspected 5,530 domestic steam vessels, 665 motor vessels of over 15 gross tons, 21 passenger barges, and 560 sea-going barges, or a total of 6,776 domestic vessels inspected: also inspected 208 foreign passenger steam vessels.

WHAT AMERICANS DRINK.

[SOURCE—The production of domestic wines has been estimated by the Department of Agriculture, by J. W. Schopp of Bonfortis Wine and Spirit Circular (Inc.), New York, and others. The production of domestic spirituous and malt liquors has been derived from the reports of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. The table does not include for any year withdrawals of distilled spirits for scientific purposes and for use of the United States, or since 1906 withdrawals for denaturation, free of tax. For 1916 these amounts were 2,745,790 and 84,532,253 tax gallons, respectively.]

Consumption per capita in gallons: Distilled spirits (1850) 2.24; (1900) 1.28; (1917) 1.60. Wines, (1850) 0.27; (1900) 0.39; (1917) 0.41. Malt liquors (1850) 1.58; (1900) 16.09; (1917) 17.94. Total for all kinds (1850) 4.08; (1900) 17.76; (1917) 19.95.

According to Section 3,249, United States Revised Statutes, "proof spirits shall be held to be that alcoholic liquor which contains one-half its volume of alcohol of a specific gravity of 0.7939 at 60° Fahrenheit." The official gallon prescribed is one containing 231 cubic inches, or 58,372.2 grains, equal to 8.3389 pounds of distilled water at its maximum density, weighed in air of temperature of 62° Fahrenheit and barometric pressure of 30 inches. The taxable gallon differs from the proof gallon by reason of the fact that in computing taxable gallons under Section 3,251, Revised Statutes, all fractional parts of a gallon less than one-tenth are excluded.

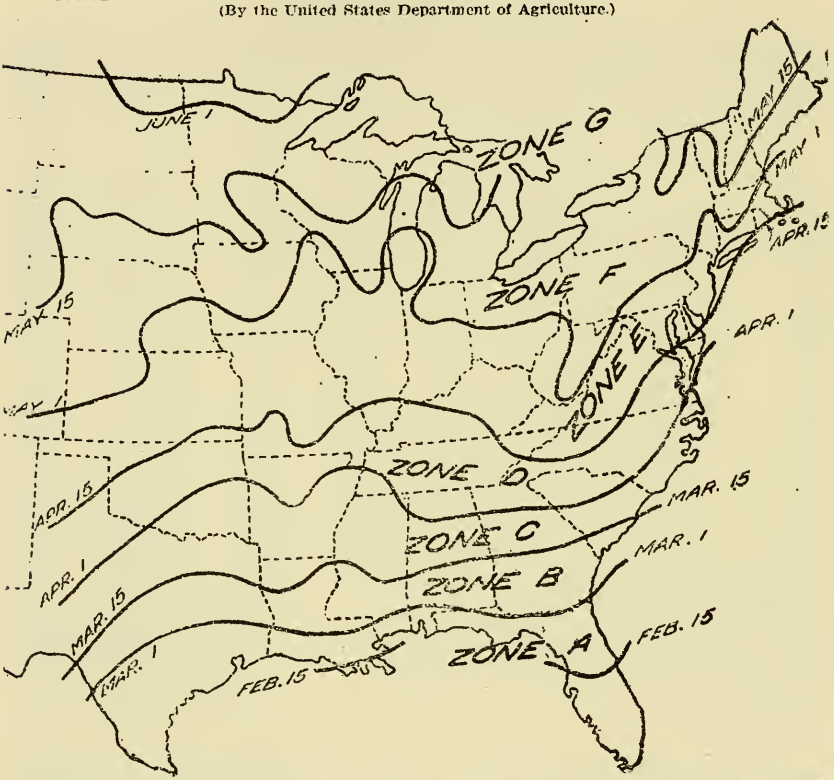
GARDEN PLANTING MAP FOR EASTERN UNITED STATES.

(By the United States Department of Agriculture.)



The dates given for planting in the seven zones into which the eastern part of the United States has been divided are considered to be the best for planting. Earlier and later plantings often can be made, however, with fair chances of success.

PLANTING DATES BY VEGETABLE GROUPS.

* For the crops grown. † Season too short for this group. Group 1 (may be planted two weeks before last killing frost).—Early cabbage plants from hot bed or seed box, radishes, collards, onion sets, early smooth peas, kale, early potatoes, turnips, and mustard. Group 2 (may be planted about the date of the last killing frost)—Beets, parsnips, carrots, lettuce, salsify, spinach, wrinkled peas, cauliflower plants, celery seed, onion seed, parsley, sweet corn, and Chinese cabbage. Group 3 (should be planted two weeks after last killing frost—Snap beans, okra, and tomato plants. Group 4 (cannot be planted until ground is well warmed up, about a month after last hard frosts)—Lima beans, pepper plants, eggplant, cucumbers, melons, squash, and sweet potatoes.

Because of the greatly varying altitudes in the Western States this portion of the country cannot be divided into definite zones. The best planting dates can be indicated only by the average date of the last killing frost in each section, as is done on the accompanying map. Planting of the vegetable groups given below should be governed by the frost dates indicated. Group 1 (may be planted two weeks before last killing frost)—Early cabbage plants from hot bed or seed box, radishes, collards, onion sets, early smooth peas, kale, early potatoes, turnips, and mustard. Group 2 (may be planted about the date of the last killing frost)—Beets, parsnips, carrots, lettuce, salsify, spinach, wrinkled peas, cauliflower plants, celery seed, onion seed, parsley, sweet corn, and Chinese cabbage. Group 3 (should be planted two weeks after last killing frost)—Snap beans, okra, and tomato plants. Group 4 (cannot be planted until ground is well warmed up, about a month after last hard frosts)—Lima beans, pepper plants, eggplant, cucumbers, melons, squash, and sweet potatoes.

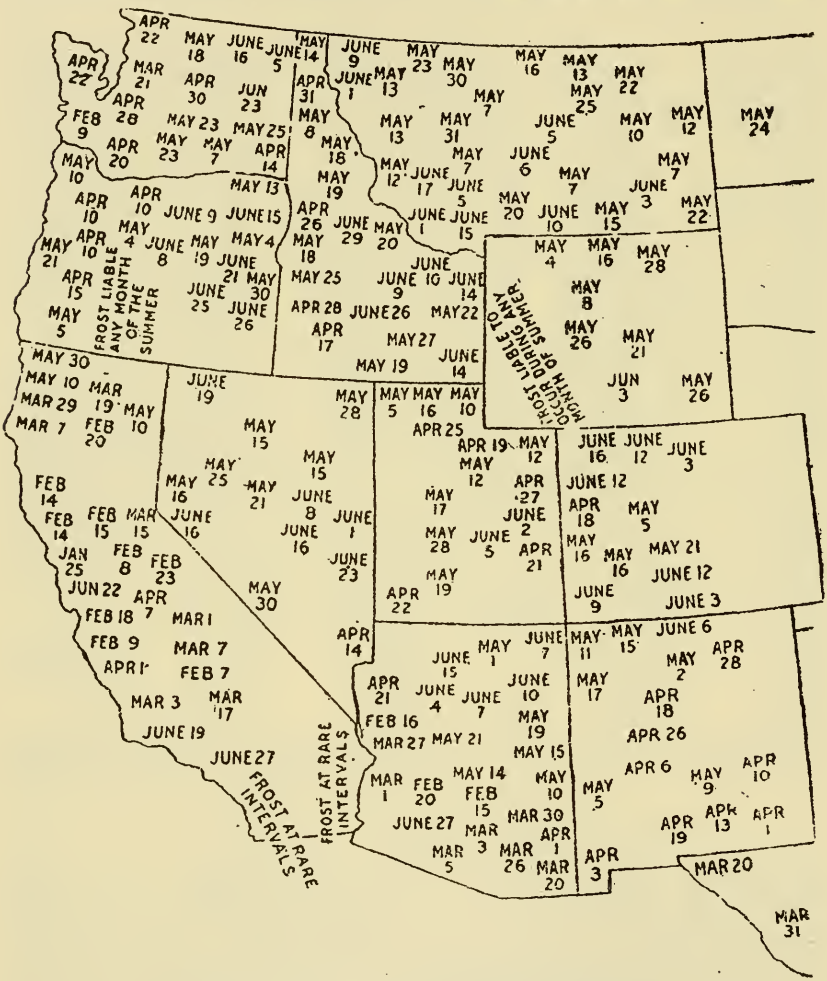
GARDEN PLANTING MAP FOR WESTERN UNITED STATES.

(By the United States Department of Agriculture. Based on average dates of last killing frost in spring.)



TOBACCO HINTS BY GOVERNMENT EXPERTS.

With respect to date of planting tobacco seed beds, April 1 is about right for New England, while the normal season extends through March and April in the Middle States and in the Central or Western States, while in the Southern States seed beds are planted in Florida in January and early February, seldom later than March 1 in South Carolina and continuing on through March in North Carolina. As regards fertilizing tobacco crops in New England as much as 20 tons of manure per acre is not unusual, but commercial fertilizers are of much more importance than manure in this section. In the Middle States manure is frequently more important than commercial fertilizer. In the Southern States manure is seldom used, except in Florida, whereas commercial fertilizers are very important, the average application being about 800 pounds per acre. If the time required for maturity is reckoned as beginning at the time of sowing the seed the period for New England is too short, the actual time being approximately 12 to 18 weeks. In the Southern States the minimum time for maturity is too high, the correct minimum being approximately 12 weeks. As regards tobacco varieties, those grown in New England are Broadleaf, Connecticut Havana and Cuban; in the Middle States the varieties are Seedleaf, Maryland and Oronoco; in the Southern States, Oronoco and Cuban. To the list given for the Central and Western States should be added Seedleaf.

Linters production, not included in above table, in running bales: (1917) 1,300,163.
The estimate for the 1918 calendar year for cotton production was 11,137,000 bales.
Exports and imports are by fiscal years.
Years specified represent commercial years instead of years of growth.
Production covers nearly as possible the crop grown during the preceding calendar year and picked mainly during the cotton year specified in the stub.
Value of exports of domestic cotton goods—(1913) $33,743,977; (1914) $31,467,233; (1915) $71,973,497; (1916) $112,053,235; (1917) $136,299,842; (1918) $169,398,420.

The American production is of the season preceding the fiscal year. The export figures relate to continental United States after 1900. The consumption figures are mainly in terms of raw sugar. The beet sugar production figures, 1865-1872 and 1875-1879, are averages.

Production of sugar in United States in pounds, prior to 1865—(1840) 120,851,074; (1850) 247,577,000; (1855) 414,725,000; (1860) 230,982,000; (1861) 274,724,000; (1862) 539,830,500; (1863) 103,040,000 (1864) 85,060,000.

Louisiana cane sugar production, included in above table, averaged a year, in pounds, for the following periods: (1852-1860) 313,341,526; (1861-1870) 126,548,173; (1871-1880) 159,125,435; (1881-1890) 267,329,637; (1891-1895) 527,569,180; (1896-1900) 547,151,486; (1901-1905) 661,464,036; (1906-1910) 707,840,000; (1911) 685,440,000; (1912) 705,747,849; (1913) 307,146,560; (1914) 585,394,880; (1915) 485,399,040; (1916) 275,000,320; (1917) 607,799,360.

Sugar imports, in pounds, prior to 1865—(1830) 86,490,113; (1840) 120,940,747; (1850) 218,430,764; (1855) 473,809,847; (1860) 694,838,197; (1861) 809,749,958; (1862) 557,738,382; (1863) 518,594,861; (1864) 632,230,247.

The imports from the colonies are included in previous table of "Sugar Statistics."

Dutiable sugar U. S. imports (included in imports above), in pounds—(1895) 1,127,279,779; (1900) 3,513,373,425; (1910) 3,918,676,197. Duty collected—(1895) $76,462,836; (1900) $100,250,974; (1910) $106,349,005. Figures in the two foregoing paragraphs do not include sugar or molasses shipped to the United States from Hawaii and Porto Rico after June 14, 1900, and May 1, 1900, respectively, but do include those articles imported from the Philippine Islands in each year.

Willett & Gray of New York estimate the raw sugar crops of the world, in recent years, as follows, in long tons of 2,240 pounds:—

All of the Cuban crop except 100,000 tons is exported yearly. Porto Rico exports all but 15,000 to 30,000 tons. The United States beet and Louisiana cane crops are consumed in the United States.

Other 1918-19 estimates (tons), by W. & G.: Porto Rico, 410,000; Hawaii, 550,000; total number American (including Mexico, Central America and West Indies), 6,202,635; Asia, 5,314,000; Australia and Polynesia, 356,000; Africa, 585,000; Europe (Spain), 6,000; total cane, 12,463,635. Europe (beet sugar), 3,704,000; United States (beet sugar, included in table above as to Continental United States), 635,000; Canada (beet sugar), 17,000; total cane and beet sugar, 16,819,635, a decrease of 294,751 tons from previous year's production.

Coffee consumption per capita per year expressed in pounds—(1830) 2.98; (1840) 5.06; (1850) 5.60; (1860) 5.79; (1870) 6.00; (1880) 8.78; (1890) 7.83; (1900) 9.81; (1910) 9.33; (1913) 8.85; (1914) 10.06; (1915) 10.52; (1916) 10.97; (1917) 12.22.

The coffee figures after 1900 include imports into continental United States and shipments thereto from non-contiguous customs districts. Coffee consumption per capita is based on net coffee coming to and remaining in continental United States.

The United States has exported Brazilian and other foreign coffees, in pounds, as follows—(1913) 7,134,641; (1914) 13,811,301; (1915) 70,952,754; (1916) 75,817,516; (1917) 57,502,893; (1918) 58,276,437. The value of the coffee exported in 1916 was $9,108,566; (1917) $7,936,082; (1918) $6,798,067.

United States imports of coffee in the year ended June 30, 1918, included 5,761,964 bags (743,960,000 pounds) from Brazil, as against 7,056,650 bags (907,200,000 pounds) in the year previous, and included, also, 166,293,000 pounds from Central America and 30,241,000 pounds from the West Indies.

The world's visible supply of coffee, September 1, 1918, was nearly 12,000,000 bags of 132 pounds each, as against 9,251,942 bags on September 1, 1917. Of this, 2,239,380 bags were at New York City.

PACIFIC COD FISHERIES—1863-1917.

(By the United States Bureau of Fisheries.)

THE following table gives a complete summary of all the codfish secured in the vessel and shore fisheries from the inception of the industry and carried to the home ports in Washington and California. No effort has been made to include the cod consumed locally in Alaska, which, in the aggregate, amounts to considerable, as it forms the principal article of diet along a considerable stretch of Alaska's coast line.

NOTE—The basis of this table is the number of head slaughtered in inspected houses. From this is estimated the total number slaughtered by applying the percentage of total slaughtered in inspected houses in 1909, as shown below. The number of pounds is found by multiplying the number of head by average dressed weights of carcasses, also shown below. "Other edible portions" include such things as hearts, livers, edible fats, etc., the number of pounds of which per head is shown in following statement:

	Pct. of Total in Inspected Houses.	Average Weight Dressed.	Oth. Edible Port'ns Per Animal.		Pct. of Total in Inspected Houses.	Average Weight Dressed.	Oth. Edible Port'ns Per Animal.
		Pounds.	Pounds.			Pounds.	Pounds.
Cattle	56.39	543	98.	Sheep	76.95	41	2.
Calves	35.46	105	8.7	Hogs	58.86	154	25.

Using the figures of total meat production in this table and the census figures of population, the per capita production of meats for each year from 1909 to 1916 was as follows:

YEAR.	Pounds.	YEAR.	Pounds.	YEAR.	Pounds.	YEAR.	Pounds.
1909	217.2	1911	219.1	1913	206.5	1915	210.0
1910	197.7	1912	208.2	1914	191.9	1916	238.7

The prices of meat animals—hogs, cattle, sheep, and chickens—to producers of the United States increased 2 per cent. from August 15, 1918, to September 15, 1918; in the last eight years prices increased in like period 2.7 per cent. On September 15, 1918, the index figure of prices for these meat animals was about 13.3 per cent. higher than a year ago; 73 per cent. higher than two years ago, and 86.4 per cent. higher than the average of the last eight years on September 15, 1918.

Number of farms, 850; number of cows, 15,000; number of quarts milk, 40,325,587. The above figures represent costs at the country railroad station. 1—Based on grain at $56 per ton, the average New England retail price as obtained from 60 retail dealers in New England for kinds of feed approximating a balanced ration. Labor charge not increased above those of Summer, 1917. 2—Grain cost based on price for feeds approximating a balanced ration as shown by quotations of December 15. Average $60 per ton. The cost of labor was based on the prevailing wage, as shown by telegrams received from the agricultural colleges of each State, December 15. The above costs are figured on the basis of year-round costs which included summer pasture. The cost of producing milk from cattle is, therefore, increased or decreased depending whether or not pasturage is available.

The number not on farms, i. e., in cities and villages, is not estimated yearly, but their number in 1910 as reported by the Census was: Horses, 3,183,000; mules, 270,000; cattle, 1,879,000; sheep, 391,000; swine, 1,288,000. The Census of 1910 also reported 106,000 asses and burros on farms and 17,000 not on farms; 2,915,000 goats on farms and 115,000 not on farms.

According to Kimball's Dairy Farmer, a cow named Lutsche Vale Cornucopia, of the Holstein breed, has produced 31,239 pounds of milk in a year. A Jersey cow, Lass 66th, produced 17,793 pounds of milk in a year. A Guernsey cow, Murue Cowan, gave 24,008 pounds; an Ayrshire, Garclaugh May Mischief, produced 25,328 pounds; and a Brown Swiss, College Bravura 2d, produced 19,460 pounds in the same yearly period.

NOTE—The Danish Islands in 1917 came under possession, by purchase for $25,000,000, of the United States and have been renamed the Virgin Islands. The population of Continental United States does not include Alaska, the Canal Zone, or any of the colonies, nor 45,123 credited by the Census to "military and naval" forces in 1910. The area of Continental United States, as given, does not include Alaska, Hawaii, the Canal Zone, or any of the colonies, for which separate totals appear.

The so-called independent Russian Governments set up by Germany and Austria-Hungary as buffer states on their eastern borders are not separately enumerated in the above table because of their indefinite boundaries, and the vague estimates as to their actual area and population. They include Courland, Finland, New Poland, Esthonia, Livonia, Ukrainia, etc.

NEWFOUNDLAND SEAL FISHERY IN 1918.

THE total catch of seals amounted to 151,431, weighing 3,867 tons 10 hundredweight net, valued at $863,552. This makes a decrease of 44,797 in number over that of 1917, but an increase in weight of 608 tons 15 hundredweight and an increase in value of $346,836. Owing to the great demand for all kinds of oils, the price paid for seals has been the highest on record—$12 per hundredweight for young seals, $9.40 for bedlamers, and $9 for old seals. About 2,000 seals were taken by landsmen in 1918, and they were found between Cape Spear and Cape Bonavista.

TERRITORIAL EXPANSION OF THE UNITED STATES.

Mexican cession....	1848	529,189	Samoa.....	1899	77	Total United States including original 13 States,		3,743,448

Payments for above were made by the United States as follows: Louisiana purchase, $15,440,000; Gadsden purchase, $10,000,000; Alaska, $7,200,000; Florida, $5,000,000; Hawaiian Islands, public debt assumed to the amount of $4,000,000, Mexican cession, $8,250,000

The Treaty of Paris, of December 10, 1898 terminating the Spanish-American War, provided for a money payment to Spain (for relinquishing claim to Porto Rico, Guam, and Philippine Islands) of $20,000,000, and a subsequent treaty of November 7, 1900, provided for a further payment of $100.000 for other Philippine Islands.

By the first treaty the Philippine Islands were ceded to the United States, and the later treaty of November 7, 1900, ceded certain outlying islands of the Philippines not included in the first cession.

The United States did not acquire by the Isthmian Canal Convention of November 18, 1903, any title to territory in the Republic of Panama, but merely a perpetual right of occupation, use, and control of and over a zone of land ten miles in width For this privilege it paid to the Republic of Panama the sum of $10,000,000 and undertook to pay the sum of $250 000 annually so long as such occupancy continued such payments beginning on February 26, 1913.

For the Danish West Indies, consisting of the islands of St Croix, St. Thomas and St John, the United States paid $25,000,000, and took possession on March 31, 1917. They then had 32 000 population

No money payments were made upon the acquisition of the other Territories mentioned in the list.

PROGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES.

Per capita estimates are got by dividing the item in question by the United States population. All the figures in 1918 column are somewhat preliminary. Population is continental. Gold and silver cannot be stated separately prior to 1876. Net ordinary receipts and disbursements do not include loans, Treasury notes, or Postal expenses or revenues. 1918 commercial failures cover first six months. On July 1, 1907, there was an arbitrary reduction of $135,000,000 in circulation of money. Before 1900 the value of farm buildings, over $6,000,000, was not considered. Metallic production is 1917.

In the 1916 column, the figures of the State censuses of 1915 are used for Florida, Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Rhode Island, South Dakota, and Wyoming. The population of Oklahoma includes, in 1890 and 1900, the population of the Indian Territory, which was in 1890—180,182, and in 1900—392,060. The total for those in the Military and Naval service includes 5,318 in 1830 and 6,100 in 1840. They were on public ships in the service of the United States and were not accredited to any State. The total for 1890 includes the population (325,462), of Indian Territory and Indian Reservations especially enumerated in 1890 but not included in the general report on population.
